Final Semester System Vote Tonight

195 Votes Had Been Cast By Late Tuesday Afternoon

By GENELL JACKSON

Whether or not the Montana State University faculty will recommend the adoption of the semester system in 1957 will be determined by 5 p.m. today. Faculty polls have been open since Monday, and at 3 p.m. Tuesday, 195 persons had cast their secret ballots. About 250 are eligible to vote. This is the fourth faculty vote taken this fall in what has become a very controversial matter; not only in terms of semester vs. quarter system, but a personality clash, namely Pres. Carl McFarland vs. some members of the faculty.

The matter was first brought up at a faculty meeting in May, 1955. Discussion of feasibility of adopting the semester system was held, and a committee organized to make a study. A show-of-hands vote was held, and a committee to study the semester plan was approved.

Confusion Over Vote

However, when the minutes of the meeting were released, much confusion arose over what the vote was about. According to those minutes, no formal motion had been made, yet the faculty voted in favor of adopting a semester system.

A report was to be returned by the committee studying the system by Jan. 15, 1956. However, no more mention was made of the possible changeover at a full faculty meeting until Sept. 24, 1956.

At that time, Dr. Harold Chatland, dean of the faculty, and Dr. Robert Turner, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, submitted findings of the investigating committee, adding the changeover was quite feasible for the MSU curriculum.

Voice Vote

President McFarland called for an unofficial voice-vote, and indicated the majority favored the semester system after Dr. Ludwig Browman, professor of zoology, moved that the faculty election committee conduct a secret ballot to determine a more accurate vote.

The vote was conducted during the first week of classes and a final tally revealed 100 favored retaining the quarter system and 87 desiring adoption of the semester program.

President McFarland then sent a notice to all department and school heads asking for a complete

Model of Proposed $200,000 University Chapel, To Be Built by Subscription, Put on Display

Construction of a University chapel may start next spring, University President Carl McFarland said yesterday.

The proposed chapel would be built west of the Lodge addition at the intersection of Arthur and Maurice avenues. A model of the chapel will be set up in the Lodge this morning.

The President estimated the cost of the basic structure at $200,000. Money for the building and furnishings will be raised by subscription, he said.

President McFarland emphasized that plans are tentative, since construction is dependent on gifts.

The chapel may be connected to the Lodge by a covered passageway, allowing groups to get food from the Lodge for luncheon meetings. Architects' plans call for connection of the chapel to the Lodge addition, but Dr. Roy J. W. Ely, chairman of the Religious Committee, said a sidewalk may separate the buildings in an attempt to add distinction and dignity to the chapel.

The building can be built in four independent parts, the President said.

As Missoula congregations grow, he said, more churches probably will use the University chapel for supplementary services. Both Methodist and Catholic services for students now are held in the music recital hall.

The proposed chapel includes offices for the Affiliated School of Religion and meeting rooms for religious groups.

"The chapel is set up as a project to take many years," President McFarland said. "It should be done slowly and deliberately."

TRYOUTS TO FILL CAST OF 45 IN WILDER PLAY

Tryouts for Thornton Wilder's play, "The Skin of Our Teeth," are scheduled today at 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. in Simpkins Little Theater.

Bob Brown, drama director, urges interested students to try out for the production because a large cast of 45 persons is needed.

Dr. Ely urged that representatives of student groups see him if they have questions or suggestions concerning the chapel.

Castle Announces Scholarship Grants

Many information brochures on scholarships and fellowships for study in the United States and overseas have been received in the Graduate School office recently, Dean Gordon B. Castle announced today.

The stipend for these and many other awards range from $1,000 to $3,000.

Don't Underestimate Them

No other nation in the world—not even Russia—has the air power of the United States. Does this statement sound out-of-place after the remarks that have been made by politicians and so-called military experts? Well it is true.

It would be folly to assume the USSR does not have first-rate air power. But it would be just as much folly to say they are better than we. Despite our policy which has wandered from a production famine to near prosperity the Soviets are still number two.

The USSR is "certainly not abreast of us today," according to USAF Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan Twining. At least they still have some work to do qualitatively, he said.

There are two main reasons why the Soviets have not taken over the position of the world's number one air power. A position which they have strived for ever since the end of World War II.

One is the fact that the USSR was just starting to get their program under way in 1945 when we already were a couple of laps ahead of them. Even though some of this advantage went by the board in the years immediately after the war the Soviets still had a longer way to come in the past decade.

Reason number two is the ingenuity of the American aircraft industry. Despite budget limits and the lack of a solid program it has managed to keep a "qualitative edge."

Despite the close alliance between the manufacturers and the military there is no connection between them. The firms who compose our air arsenal are private and they must compete in the research and development program. Failure to do so means the loss of business. This high degree of competition has been a major factor in the maintenance of a technological lead over the Soviet Union.

According to Gen. E. W. Rawlings, commander of the USAF's Air Materiel Command, "the decisive phase of any future war will be in the first 30 to 60 days." This concept has brought a new challenge to the aircraft industry and it is being met.

Don't sell our Air Force short. They have the equipment and potentiality to do the job required of them at the present time. Worry about a possible attack, but don't lose any sleep worrying about Russia having all the superiority in air power.—J.G.B.

U Enrollment Behind MSC

For the first time in history, Montana State University is smaller in number than Montana State College.

So far, 2,841 students have registered here as compared with 3,059 at Bozeman. At this time last year, 2,548 students were enrolled here.

Registration will officially close Oct. 15.

Freshmen and transfers total 876, with former students numbering 1,965. Nearly a third of the students are veterans. Of these, only two are from World War II and 819 are attending under the Korean G.I. Bill.

Men continue to predominate with 2,073 as compared to 768 women.

S. System

(Continued from page one) vote within the respective groups. "In view of the fact that one-fourth of the voting members of the faculty did not express a preference in the recent mail poll," was the primary reason submitted for not accepting the vote conducted by the faculty committee.

Many of the faculty members felt the 75 per cent turnout was sufficient to carry and resented a new vote being called. Rather than voting for the issue at hand, votes were being cast for or against administration policies.

Third Vote Disbanded

Sensing this, the budget and policy committee met with the University president, reportedly to tell him that personal feelings rather than rational contemplations were influencing the votes. As an apparent result, the third-vote plan was disbanded and another secret ballot vote was requested.

A polling place was set up in the Liberal Arts building Monday, and the voting will conclude at 4 p.m. today.

"This is clearly one of the most controversial subjects that has come up before the faculty in several years," one school head commented. "They are quite evenly divided on the matter at hand, but the personality element can be quite serious."

Nine Vets Due For Late Checks

Nine veterans have not turned in their Missoula addresses which will cause a delay in their first checks, Mrs. Emma Lommasson said yesterday. Mrs. Lommasson cannot send the Enrollment Certification for the GI Bill to Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., until the following turn in their addresses:

Robert Arras, Donald Blaylock, Keith L. Burrowes, William A. Jones, Frank J. Moravec, Samuel F. Pulfrey, Leslie W. and Louis J. Roark, and Donald W. Sund.

SPORTS-ATORIAL

By RON MUNGER

What should be done about Skyline Conference officiating? It seems as if every season a Skyline team is beaten by the men in the striped shirts. A good example of this was Montana's game in Denver last Friday night.

Movies of the game clearly show several calls going against the Grizzlies. Matt Gorsich, outstanding Montana back against Denver, drove into the end zone only to have the officials place the ball a yard from the goal line. A Montana quarterback sneak on the next play was successful until the officials placed the ball back on the one yard line, and Denver took over.

"Boners"

Twice Grizzlies pounced on Denver fumbles, but both times the Pioneers retained possession of the ball. Both recoveries may have led to Montana touchdowns. Later a Denver offensive guard caught a pass downfield. Naturally, it was ruled complete. Another "boner" saw the head linesman change a Montana third down to a fourth down.

Filing Protest

What can be done about such officiating? A protest can be filed, but it has to be filed during the process of the game. The coach is given a grading sheet on each official. If the officials are graded down enough the Skyline Commissioner will give them the "boot."

The officials of the Montana-Denver game should receive a —0. If a game is poorly officiated such as the Grizzly-Denver game, a coach may send in a report asking not to have the same officials again.

A cry is heard every year around the conference concerning the number of injuries. Some injuries do stem from poor officiating. Players will get away with clipping, etc., while officials are calling infractions that are meaningless. Both Montana and Denver were playing rough but not dirty football, yet Montana was penalized 116 yards and the Pioneers had 122 yards stepped off against them.

If Montana University wants to attract high school football stars, they have to win a few ball games and the Grizzlies had one victory taken away from them by the officials. Let's hope Montana gets a break and has good officials for their Homecoming game this weekend. Eleven men are hard enough to beat, but it is nearly impossible to win over 15 men.

Glacier Rink Opens Soon

Glacier Rink, MSU's all-year, all-weather ice skating arena, should be in operation by the end of this month, complete with a new roof, new lawn and a board walk, according to Earl Martell, director of student activities-facilities.

The new roof for the outdoor rink should eliminate the troubles caused by direct sunlight, snow and rain, Martell said, leaving only dust blown in by Hellgate winds to cope with. Tentative plans call for a temporary east wall of construction film to eliminate the dust.

Skating prices will be slightly higher this year, but skating sessions will be longer—a single session on weeknights beginning about 7 p.m. instead of the two-hour sessions of last year. The new rates are adults, 50 cents; children, 25 cents, and University students, 25 cents. Special savings can be made by buying books of tickets.

Group rates will be the same as last year for the present, $15 for groups up to 20 and 10 cents for each additional person. Martell said these rates may be raised or lowered when actual cost of operation can be determined. One or two nights a week will be set aside for group skating.

A stock of skating supplies is available at the rink, furnished by the student store. These include skates, socks, laces and guards. Skate sharpening services may be added later.

The rink has more rental skates this year than last, with new skates renting for 50 cents and older skates renting for 25 cents.

INTRAMURAL ROSTERS ARE DUE TODAY

Men's intramural bowling, golf and tennis doubles entries are to be turned in today to Ed Chinske, intramural director.

In tennis singles Monday results, Bruce Cook defeated Gibson and Weingart triumphed over Gorman. No IM touch football games are scheduled today.

Brooks-Yanks Go All the Way In 7th Series Between 2 Clubs

The Dodgers and Yankees battle down to the wire today at Ebbetts Field for the fourth time in their seven World Series meetings.

1947 was the first year Brooklyn and New York played seven games in a Series, and the Yanks won it. The same story occurred in 1952. However, Brooklyn, who first met the Yanks in the World Series in 1941, overcame the Yankee jinx last year and won in seven games.

Yesterday's thriller, in which the Bums won 1-0 in 10 innings, was the first time in Series competition that a game went into extra innings deadlocked at 0-0.

If manager Walt Alston starts Don Newcombe today, the big question is whether the 27-game winner will choke up in the clutch. Newcombe is accused by the Brooklyn faithful of not coming through in the clutch. When Newcombe was knocked out last Friday, a parking lot attendant accused big Don of not coming through when the going got tough. Newcombe became annoyed and struck the attendant in the chest.

The record would seem to bear Newcombe's critics out—at least in World Series competition. Big Newc has appeared in three World Series games and lost all of them. However, Newcombe could answer his critics by pointing to his lifetime record of 112 wins against 48 defeats.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel's big problem is whether to pitch lefty Whitey Ford in Ebbetts Field where southpaws are supposed to get murdered. Ford has a Series record of 4 wins, 2 defeats. Manager Casey could also go with John Kucks who has appeared in two series games but has no World Series record.

Cats to Play For Lead

MSC Bobcats, Grizzly opponents in November, leave tomorrow for Greeley, Colo., where the undefeated 'Cats play Colorado State Friday. This game will match the Rocky Mountain Conference leaders.

MSC humiliated Colorado Mines last week, 62-0. The Bobcats offense, spearheaded by Loren Sax, Frank Landon and George Marinkovich, has scored 158 joints, averaged 348 yards per game rushing and 88 passing. Top ball carrier for MSC is Marinkovich with an average of 30 yards per game. Landon averaged nearly 15 yards a carry in last week's game with Colo. Mines. MSC's defense seems to have depth as four lines saw action last week.

MSC's biggest stumbling block to an undefeated season appears to be the Grizzlies.

Iron Goal Posts May Make Exit After UI Riot

The University of Idaho has announced it may replace its sturdy iron goal posts with wooden ones in an effort to prevent another free-swinging fight for those symbols of football victory.

After Idaho lost last week to Washington State, 19-33, police had to break up the rioting students with tear gas. The Idaho-WSC students were fighting for possession of the goals.

Reunions, Crowning on Agenda For Homecoming Activities

Three class reunions and the crowning of a queen are only a few of the activities slated for Homecoming.

The Class of '06 will hold its Golden Anniversary reunion dinner Friday night along with the Class of '31, honoring its Silver Anniversary, and the Class of '46, honoring its Tenth Anniversary.

Ten Homecoming Queen candidates have their pictures up in the Lodge. Voting will be tomorrow from 9 to 5 and Friday from 9 to 3 in the Grill.

Those vying for the crown are: Ardice Sayre, Kappa Alpha Theta; Joan Griffin, Alpha Phi; Courtney Crowder, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Sue Williams, Delta Gamma; Donna Whitehead, Sigma Kappa; Diane Davis, Delta Delta Delta; Shirley Swenson, Turner Hall; Lee Ryan, Corbin Hall; Myrna Kronmiller, Brantley Hall; and Beverly Clardy, Synadelphic.

The candidates will be featured in a television show at 9 p.m. Thursday over the local station. Actual crowning will be done Friday night during the SOS starting at 7:30.

Donna Kaye Bailey, Homecoming Committee chairman, will be Mistress of Ceremonies at the Pep Rally, starting at 7 p.m. Friday. Featured at the Rally will be the new Grizzly mascot, "Jerry," a cub bear borrowed from the Montana Fish and Game Dept.

At 9 p.m. Friday the Royalty Romp will begin in the Yellowstone Room of the Lodge. Suggested girls' attire for the affair is skirts and sweaters. The Homecoming dance Saturday night is also from 9 to 12, and dressier outfits are recommended by the Homecoming Committee.

The parade this year will feature three parade-gaited horses, a palomino, a sorrel, and a white. The horses will be sprayed to make their coats shine, giving the appearance of being copper, silver, and gold. Riding the horses will be Sharon Orr, Missoula, Bill Williamson, Box Elder, and Mrs. Lynn Wolfe, health and physical education instructor.

Other features of the Homecoming weekend will be a Sons-Daughters-Parents breakfast in the Grill from 8 to 9:30 Saturday morning. All students' parents are invited, whether they are alumni or not, explained Marcus Bourke, secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Assn.

University students are planning a horse show under the direction of Mrs. Wolfe for Sunday. Mrs. Carl McFarland and the Homecoming Queen will present the awards.

Dept. of Justice Commends Krieg

G. F. Krieg, Billings, senior in the School of Law, received an executive commendation from the anti-trust division of the United States Department of Justice for service performed during the summer of 1955 in Washington, D.C., according to Robert Sullivan, Dean of the School of Law.

The commendation was from Leroy McCauley, executive assistant of the anti-trust division, who stated: "We especially commend you in that you have made a much greater contribution to the progress of matters assigned, in the form of legal research and document evaluation, than was to have been expected of a young man not yet graduated from Law School..."

Krieg was graduated in economics from Stanford University "with great distinction" in 1952. He was named a Neil S. Wilson scholar for academic excellence in the School of Law here in 1955 and 1956.

He is editor-in-chief of the Law Review and is representative of the Inner Barristers with residence at the Law House.

Krieg is the second MSU law graduate to receive recognition from the Department of Justice. Daniel Boos, '55, who also served as editor-in-chief, was selected for the Honor Law School Program of the Department of Justice, where he is currently employed. Ten per cent of the applicants for the program are ultimately accepted.

Students To Get Anti-Polio Shots

Montana State University students may obtain polio vaccine shots at the University Health Center from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, according to Dr. William J. Hills, director.

Vaccine has been obtained through the Montana State Board of Health, and students 19 years old and under won't have to pay for their shots. Students over 19 will be charged $1 a shot.

Immunization consists of three shots—the first to be administered in October, the second in November, and the third near the end of spring quarter.

The immunization will be administered on a voluntary basis, but the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis recommends that students avail themselves of the vaccine, Dr. Hill said.

Students who are 19 and under should go directly to the Health Center, while students who are over 19 should make their first payment of $2.00 for the first two polio shots at the Business Office, window 2, in Main Hall 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. This payment should be made before one goes to the Health Center. The third quarter payment may be made before taking the last shot during spring quarter.

Music School Faculty Gains New Members

Five new members have been added to the faculty of the School of Music this year.

Eugene Weigel is professor of composition and theory, Gordon Childs is instructor of theory, Monas Harlan is assistant professor in voice, Patricia Barendsen is instructor in voice, and Richard Westenberg is instructor in organ.

Weigel received his B.A. from Yale in 1946. He received a John Simon Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship in 1954. Before coming to MSU, Weigel was composer and associate professor at the University of Illinois, where he wrote the "Prairie Symphony."

Childs received his A.B. in 1950 and M.A. in 1952 from Brigham Young University, Utah. From 1952 to 1956 he was supervisor of strings of the Pocatello city schools in Pocatello, Idaho. He was also on the summer faculty of the Brigham Young University Music Camps.

Harlan received his B.A. in 1938 from Westminster College, Pa., and his M.A. in 1950 from the University of Southern California. He studied from 1939 to 1942 at the Juilliard School of Music. Harlan was soloist in several orchestras and before coming to MSU was on the faculty of the University of Kentucky at Louisville.

Westenberg was assistant organist and choirmaster at the Cathedral Church of St. Mark at Minneapolis before he came to MSU. He received his B.A. from Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis., in 1954 and his M.A. from the University of Minnesota in 1956.

The book is built around a new principle on writing which encourages students to examine critically the writings of other students.
