Grizzlies, Aggies Collide In Homecoming Feature

By RON MUNGER

The Montana Grizzlies will be in quest of their first victory of the current campaign when they meet the Utah State Aggies in the 1956 Homecoming game at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon. Three years ago Dick Imer and Murdo Campbell scored two touchdowns apiece against Colorado A&M in leading the Grizzlies to their most exciting Homecoming Day victory, 32-31. In 1954 Montana gained their last Homecoming victory defeating these same Aggies 20-13 behind the outstanding running and passing of Imer, Campbell, and Dick Heath.

Last year the Silvertips suffered their worst Homecoming loss in history when the Denver Pioneers waltzed to a 61-13 win, scoring five times in the first half.

Utahs Power-Laden

Coach Ev Faunce, of Utah State, will bring a power packed ball club led by all-America candidate Jack Hill and 15 other lettermen. This season Hill and company have won three ball games while dropping one. They hold victories over Drake, Denver and Arizona while their lone loss came at the hands of New Mexico.

The Aggies should show Montana fans a fine array of running backs and a strong aerial attack to go along with a good defense. In three ball games Utah State has gained 1,052 yards while limiting their opponents to 339.

Grizzly Injuries

Although hampered by injuries, the Grizzlies have been working hard this week in preparation of the Utahs' fine offensive machine. It is doubtful whether Don Williamson, most experienced Silvertip back, will see action Saturday due to a leg injury and a sprained ankle.

Co-captain Bob McGihon's injured ankle may keep him out of the fray. Sophomore guard Montana Bockman will be on the sidelines with a knee injury, but co-captain Bill Kaiserman will see action for the first time since the season opener at Arizona.

"We'll give them a battle," Coach Jerry Williams said. "Utah State is a better ball club than Denver, but that doesn't mean we won't beat them. I've quit predicting, so we'll see what happens Saturday."

A capacity crowd depends on the weather, according to Bob Dundas, Field House ticket manager. Yesterday afternoon approximately 400 reserved seats were left. Approximately 3,000 General Admission tickets will be sold at the ball game Saturday.

The probable starting lineups:

Utah State	Montana
Wilson	LE
Sorenson	LT
Kimball	LG
Madsen	C
Serpas	RG
Ramage	RT
Harvath	RE
Winters	QB
Hill	LH
Whitcott	RH
Prince	FB

Edward L. Kimball, assistant professor of law, spoke at the national convention of the National Legal Aid Association in Denver yesterday on providing counsel for indigent criminal defendants.

He talked specifically on the problems arising from an appointee system of providing counsel, according to Dean Robert E. Sullivan of the School of Law. Invitation to speak at the convention resulted from an article he published on the subject.

MSU to Welcome 15 Grads of 1906 For Homecoming

Have you every wondered what you'll be doing 50 years from now? Or what sort of a success story you will be able to tell members of your graduating class when you return for your Golden Homecoming?

For the 15 members of the Class of 1906, this will be their Golden Homecoming. And many have fabulous success stories to tell. The original class numbered 21.

Fred Buck, secretary of the class, has been instrumental in organizing the activities honoring the '06ers. He is now a state engineer in Helena.

wick of Chinook, and Floyd Hardenbaugh, owner of the local outdoor advertising company, will be other members of the class at this homecoming.

Mrs. H. H. (Mary Evans) Jeson of Livingston also will return to MSU. She has been an enthusiastic University supporter for many years and seldom misses a homecoming.

Grace Flynn, member of a prominent pioneer family which established the Flynn ranch on the Frenchtown road, will attend the festivities. She taught in Missoula public schools until her retirement, and now teaches at St. Anthony School.

Del Grush of Hamilton will be unable to attend because he will be en route to Florida for his annual winter vacation. He is a retired ACM worker and represented his class at commencement last spring.

Leo Greenough, one of the early Missoula Greenoughs and a great athlete of his class, will not be able to make the journey from his guest ranch in Cottonwood, Ariz. Mrs. J. J. (Florence Johnson) Moore of Chicago will be on her way to Cuba with her doctor husband. Dr. Moore has been secretary of the American Medical Assn. for several years and will be one of the U. S. representatives at the world meeting in Cuba.

Others unable to attend will be Roy McPhail, ill at a Portland, Ore. hospital; Mrs. James Gillie, making her home in Seattle; Ona Sloan, bedridden for many years; Mrs. J. B. Lynch of Burley, Ida.; Mrs. B. L. Elliott of Portland; John D. Jones, a retired forester who lives in Albuquerque, N.M.; and Maude Johnson of Vancouver, Wash.

MSU Pharmacy Open to Students

A non-profit pharmacy prescription office on our campus is specifically for the students, according to Dr. Robert L. Van Horne, dean of the School of Pharmacy.

The shop is run by the seniors to provide for students and their immediate families. It is open every week in Pharmacy 104, mornings 11 to 12, and afternoons 2 to 3, except on Thursdays.

The seniors are able to practice dispensing pharmacy articles, and every prescription is filled under the supervision of an instructor who is a registered pharmacist. The display of eau-de-cologne in the shop consists mainly of dummies, and is the result of work done in a senior class called Pharmacy practice. Dr. Van Horne said that any item for campus use, that can be made in lab, is supplied by the pharmacy school.

Prescriptions were filled by the Health Center, until this shop came into existence in 1945.

FULBRIGHT APPLICATIONS DUE MONDAY, OCT. 15

Fulbright applications deadline is Oct. 15. Applications are to be turned in to Main Hall 204.

Parades, Crowning Begin Annual Weekend of Fun

MSU's 1956 Homecoming activities roll into high gear at 6:30 this evening, when the annual street parade forms on Gerald and Connell Ave. Tonight's program will center around the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, as students gather at Main Hall following the parade. The students will proceed along Gerald and up University Ave. to Main Hall for a pep rally. Coach Jerry Williams will speak, the football team and coaches will be introduced, and "Jerry," the cub bear, presented. Donna Kaye Bailey will be mistress of ceremonies.

Singing on the Steps will begin at 7:30 during which the queen will be crowned and her two princesses announced. Voting for the queen closes at 3 p.m. in the Grill.

At 9 p.m. the Royalty Romp will begin in the Lodge. Saturday night at the same time the Homecoming Dance begins in the Yellowstone Room.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Guthrie, Pres. and Mrs. Carl McFarland, and the Class of '06 will be the honored guests in the parade. The procession, featuring copper, silver, and gold horses ridden by Bill Williamson, Sharon Orr, and Mrs. Lynn Wolfe, will begin at 9:30 Saturday morning.

"All students must be in their places at the Northern Pacific Depot at 8:45 a.m.," emphasized Miss Bailey, Homecoming Committee chairman. Convertibles for the queens will be at the station.

Kadlec Is Parade Head

Four judges will be along the parade route to judge the floats on originality, workmanship, neatness, and appropriateness to the theme, "MSU Goes Modern." A. L. Kadlec, parade chairman, will escort the judges around after the parade so they can compare the floats again before making their decision.

Game time is 1:30 p.m. Half-time entertainment will feature

I-D Cards Available At Film-TV Center

Identification Cards are available at the Film and TV Center, according to Bob Dundas, Field House ticket manager.

Cards will be issued today from 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m.

Students who registered late will be admitted to the Utah State football game on presentation of a receipt for payment of fees. Students who do not have an identification card or receipt will be charged the full admission price, Dundas said.

the MSU Treasure State Band with its new "hi-fi" sound. Joe Knucky, Butte, will be the soloist in a special concert-jazz rendition of "Nevada."

Assisting James Eversole, director of the 75-piece band, are Bruce Patrick, a graduate assistant in music; Jerry Schreuder, drum major; and Marlene Kolstad, head majorette.

Other majorettes are Linda Johnson, Mary McBride, Jean Schilling, Lois DeTonancour, Laura MacKenzie, Mary Ann Whaley, Gail Hagen, Paula Heidemelman, Elaine Barrett, Beverly Stordock, Christine Fairbanks, and Jo Haines.

Color and gaiety will be added to the game with helium-filled balloons on long strings to be raised and lowered at kick-off and touchdowns, and let loose at the end of the game. The Women's Physical Education Club is selling them in living groups, during the parade, and before the game.

Men wishing to cast ballots for the Homecoming Queen today must present their receipt of fees paid. This decision was made at last night's Central Board meeting when it was pointed out many were unable to secure their activity cards. However, there was a possibility that persons could vote twice under the first system.

50 in Horse Show

Approximately 50 students from all over the state will be competing in a horse show Sunday. First session will be from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Mrs. Carl McFarland and the Homecoming Queen will award the ribbons.

Second session will start at 2 p.m. Admission will be for adults, 50 cents and children, 25 cents. The show is organized under the direction of Mrs. Wolfe and follows the regulations of the American Horse Show Assn.

Honored guests for the Homecoming Weekend are, besides those in the parade, trustees of the Endowment Foundation, Alumni Assn. district delegates and officers, Mrs. Wesley D'Ewart, Mrs. J. Hugo Aronson, and Lt. Gen. Frank W. Milburn.

Order of the floats and bands in the parade will be: Kappa Kappa Gamma-Phi Sigma Kappa, (Continued on page four)

Shine for the King

With the advent of autumn, King Football again takes his place on the throne to dominate every Saturday across the nation from the middle of September through Thanksgiving Day.

At MSU this is no exception, and tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 his majesty will climb upon his chair of state and watch Montana's Grizzlies in action at home for the first time this year.

He will not judge Montana as a football team alone, but also the attitude of the students. Even the king knows that no matter how good or bad a team is, the student body must be behind it.

Everyone knows that we don't have a winner at the present time. But everyone should also know that we have had one of the best hustling, fighting teams in the Skyline Conference.

The Grizzlies will need your support at tomorrow's game. And they deserve it. Cooperation has come from the athletes in an attempt to build better student-athlete relations. Now it is your turn.

Evidence of the football team's feeling can best be described by the statement of Coach Jerry Williams in an open letter to the student body that appeared in Tuesday's Kaimin.

Williams thanked the students with "profound appreciation" for both himself and the team for the "heart warming welcome" given them.

We have made strides toward showing spirit. Our alumni will be on hand to judge us tomorrow along with King Football, so let's show both of them what we can do.—J.G.B..

Steam Valve

Dear Editor:

Although the barricading of Maurice avenue is ostensibly temporary, I have no doubt that the president of the University will find some pretext for keeping it in force from now on. In any case he has once more demonstrated the utter contempt with which he apparently regards the opinions, desires, and perhaps the needs of those who chance to disagree with him.

Having discussed this latest matter with numerous people, and having heard it discussed by others, I have found almost unanimous objection to the vacation of that potentially useful and desirable street.

The horrifying thing here is not, however, the mere closure of the avenue; rather, it is the manner in which the whole project was carried through. The characteristic disregard for all considerations save the president's own somewhat esoteric aims is what must puzzle those who consider a public servant accountable to the public.

I don't see how anyone with any regard for democratic principles can fail to be disturbed by actions which are not in the interest of the public good—assuming that the public has some idea of what is good for it. To compare the president with some persons who have denied the latter assumption would be to cast needles and perhaps false aspersions on his character.

This criticism of his conduct, in fact, doesn't detract from what may be very noble motives. It suggests, however, that if he would

Students Under 19 To Receive Free Polio Vaccine

Polio shots are free to MSU students under 19 years of age. Persons over 19 must pay three dollars for the three-shot immunization program.

This service is provided students as a regular part of the medical services offered by the Health Service, although the State pays part of the cost for students under 19.

The Health Service hopes that students who want shots will get them in October, so their third shot can be administered before the end of spring quarter.

Students under 19 can be inoculated from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays at the Health Center. Others first go to the business office and pay two dollars for the first two shots.

The second shots is given from two to six weeks after the first one, and the third shot seven months after the second.

Health Service officials pointed out that vaccines for small pox and typhoid have been used safely with good results for many years. Polio immunization is just as safe and although it is a new vaccine, it's probably just as effective, they said.

bother to explain those motives, his projects would generally be made more palatable to those who pay his salary.

French Africa Big Problem, Says Fraser

The American people must begin to understand the problems of France and help her solve them if we expect the French to be "genuine" allies in the event of a third world war, Dr. Ian Forbes Fraser said in the Music School Recital Hall Wednesday.

"We must know by now you can't buy allies," Dr. Fraser said, "so we must take into greater account than we have before the importance to the French of their problems."

Dr. Fraser, director of the American Library in Paris, told the audience the rearming of Germany and the rebel warfare in Algeria are two French problems we have misunderstood recently.

"Our insistence on the rearming of Germany distressed the French people because they still remember the Germans have invaded and pillaged their country three times in the last 85 years," Dr. Fraser said.

"The French see Algeria as a key spot in the Nato defense line, which is of national interest to us," he continued, "yet our stand on this problem has been very irritating to the French people."

The former Columbia University professor said if we lose Algeria we lose the whole southern shore of the Mediterranean and the western section of the NATO line will be outflanked.

Russian penetration in the Arab world is the most dangerous problem the Western World faces and the French cannot understand why we do not see this," he said.

"Unless the French are convinced that we understand their problems and are willing to be sympathetically helpful in solving them, they are not going to be the genuine allies that we would like them to be," he said.

Dr. Fraser left by plane for Boise after his talk. He will address the World Affairs Council there Thursday.

SPORTS-ATORIAL

By JIM BERRY

People are used to gripes and complaints from the members and fans of a losing ball club—including coaches, players, and the student body. But when a supposedly impartial voice is raised, from the winner's camp at that, it's a sure sign something was rotten in Denmark—or Denver in this case.

Grizzly Coach Jerry Williams made no secret of what he thought of the officiating at the Denver game last weekend, which the "Tips" dropped 22-13. Members of the team were no less emphatic. Persons who saw the films of the movie agreed.

And now comes George Franco, Denver Post Executive Sports Editor.

"Any resemblance between the game of football that has been a part of the American sports scene these many years and the exhibition unfolded Friday night at Hilltop Stadium was purely coincidental.

"There were two teams . . . Denver and Montana; spectators (11,561 to be exact), and the prescribed four officials replete with whistles. That's where the rub comes in.

"Instead of the customers getting what they paid for, they got a seemingly-endless chorus of those whistles and the player parade which followed in the penalty-ridden contest . . .

"All the scoring came in the first half . . . somehow.

"But from the moment of the second-half kickoff, the eager-beaver officials (H. B. Knisely, Kermit Laabs, L. C. Zutler and Don Dixon) too center stage.

"Between 'em, they marched off 122 yards in penalty calls against the Pioneers and only six less yards—116—against the disgusted Grizzlies.

"Add to that two 13-yard penalty walks . . . two short of the correct yardage in each case . . . and an undetected (and illegal, by the way) pass completion to Guard Bob Huber and it's easy to see the four fellas in striped shirts weren't having one of their better nights.

"Despite all this, Coach John Roning and his lads welcomed the long-sought victory. Not so Jerry Williams, the harried Montana mentor. He took time out at the end to make the rounds of the officials to express his displeasure at their work.

"Press box observers figured he had a right to.

"Twice it appeared Montana had crossed the goal line from a foot away at the tag end of an early fourth period march. Twice the officials ruled the ball carrier had been stopped short.

"Denver was likewise denied on the final play when halfback George (Punk) Schlieff had carried to the one-foot line at the climax of a march which had started after Montana was stopped . . . a distance of 99 yards, 1 foot!

These two instances were all that generated any interest—of football that is—in the second half."

To this we say, thank you, brother George Franco.

Transfer, Vets To Aid Squad

Two ex-servicemen and a junior college transfer are new additions to the Grizzly basketball squad which begins practice Monday.

Richard Trinastich who played for the Grizzlies three years ago is 6-6 and a junior. The other ex-serviceman is Mike Granbois, 6-3, former Poplar high school star. The junior college transfer is 6-1 Clarence Waters, a junior.

Athletic Director George Dahlberg said he believed Granbois is classified as a freshman, but should be eligible this year because when he left for the service freshmen were eligible to play varsity ball. Granbois played as a freshman for the Grizzlies.

The Grizzlies, who open practice two weeks earlier than usual, will have three men at 6-6. Besides Trinastich, Russ Sheriff and Ray Howard also measure in at that height.

Coach Frosty Cox' hoopsters will face a 22-game schedule this year, including 14 conference tilts. Last year the Grizzlies had a 14-12 record. The first game of the season will be at home against Idaho Dec. 1. Grizzlies open the Skyline season Jan. 4 at Provo against powerful BYU.

Swimming Pool Violent Issue at C-B

By GENELL JACKSON

Riled tempers and mixed opinions were the rule at Central Board's regular meeting Thursday afternoon.

After discussing numerous minor matters, the controversial swimming pool issue was brought up. John Fowler, ASMSU president, had been approached by Pres. Carl McFarland Tuesday to "seek out student opinion concerning building a new swimming pool."

The tentative plans called for building a new pool next to the Glacier Rink, with water warmed by the University heating system. Cost would be approximately $200,000. Plans were shown Bob Oswald of the men's Physical Education Dept. and he pointed out five major flaws.

Five Flaws

They were: (1) moisture might rot the wooden roof over the pool; (2) inadequate seating capacity; (3) ceiling too low for some types of high diving; (4) inadequate dressing rooms, and (5) possibility of disinfectants rotting the cement.

President McFarland gave these plans to Fowler and requested an answer the next day. Fowler asked for a day's extension and called an unofficial meeting of Central Board members.

Possibility of two more meetings, one set up by Central Board and the other called by President McFarland were discussed, with Fowler wanting the President to handle the matter. The majority of the members felt that Central Board should take care of the meeting and be instrumental in any swimming pool decisions.

Meeting 'till 3 a.m.

At 11 p.m. Wednesday, several of the members adjourned to the Kaimin office where the issues were discussed until after 3 a.m. One of the President's requests had been that the Kaimin know nothing of the plans.

Applications Now Open For Kaimin Associate

Publications Board is now accepting applications for a fifth Kaimin associate editor, according to Kay Blaszek, chairman.

Miss Blaszek said applications may be turned in to either her or John Bansch, Kaimin editor. Selections will be made next Wednesday evening and applications must be in by Wednesday afternoon.

Applicants must have been in school at least two quarters, including fall quarter and must have either worked on the Kaimin staff or had one year's newspaper experience. It is preferred applicants have had some photography experience.

Alumni Schedule Full

Main events for the alumni this weekend are, besides the meetings of several alumni organizations and student activities:

Friday, 4 p.m., Scheuch Memorial Planetarium lecture by Dr. Harold Chatland, dean of the faculty; 6 p.m., class reunion dinners for the classes of '06, '31, and '46.

Saturday, 8-9:30 a.m., Sons-

Two more votes were taken that night, with the majority still favoring Central Board calling any meetings that might be held. However, the final decision rested with Fowler, and a letter was sent to President McFarland asking him to organize the meeting.

This action brought the discussion at the Thursday meeting. Several of the members felt that Fowler had failed Central Board in his action. Others sided with the ASMSU head, and the battle raged. No conclusions were reached after nearly an hour of arguing.

Sentinel Appointments

In other business, the board approved appointment of Bill Boring as Sentinel business manager, Don Harkins as photo editor and Dee Scriven, Dana Davis and Walt Gerson, associate editors.

Discussion of the parking situation was postponed until Andrew Cogswell, dean of students, could be there.

Stan Nicholson reported what headway he had made in NSA. Jim Pomery, one of the NSA officers, will be on campus next Wednesday to further explain the workings of the organization.

Big name bands were discussed and work will continue in trying to organize a circuit with Washington and Idaho schools.

Bruce Cook submitted a Budget-Finance report telling that the Independents had been turned down in their request for $40-80 for convention expenses.

INVITATION ISSUED TO SIGN POSTERS

Marcus Bourke, secretary of the MSU Alumni Association, issued an invitation to students who posted the signs "obviously directed toward the alumni" on Maurice and University avenues the past two mornings to appear before the Alumni Executive Committee meeting at 1:30 p.m. today. Bourke said it was quite evident the students had a complaint to make, and felt they should be given the right to do so.

The Rev. Patrick Feyton, C.S.C., will be principal speaker at a family Rosary Crusade Tuesday night at the Field House.

Daughters-Parents Breakfast in the Lodge; 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m., Alumni-Faculty Luncheon in the Field House; 9 p.m., Alumni dance at the Hotel Florence.

Sunday, 8:30-11 a.m., Quarterbacks' Breakfast at the Hotel Florence. Talk with the coaches and MSU officials.

Students working on the Homecoming Weekend are Sonia Telle, Dick DeWalt, Carla Clausen, Portia Breitenstein, Chuck Aker, Thea Williams, Ike Kaufman, Ed Hill, Dick McBride, Bill Chambers, Lynn Spencer, Marg Hammer, and Carolyn Quast.
