Grizzlies Grab First Victory Saturday

If you can't go around them, go through them must have been in Matt Gorsich's mind Saturday. Above he is shown carrying as BYU men converge on him. Gorsich, Severn Hayes, and Pat Monno led the Grizzly offense from their backfield slots as Montana downed BYU 21-14 Saturday afternoon.

Defeat Winless BYU Cougars 21-14 in Well-Played Contest

By JIM BERRY

It was a smoother offense and a tougher defense that enabled the Grizzlies to completely outplay the Brigham Young University Cougars Saturday. Fans who saw the Utah State game the week before couldn't fail to notice the improvement in the Grizzlies' aerial game as they intercepted two BYU passes, one good for a TD, and amassed 81 yards by passing in gaining the 21-14 victory.

On the ground the Silvertips piled up 274 yards while holding the visitors to 110. The Cougars mustered only eight first downs while Montana totaled 19.

Dream Come True

The game's outstanding lineman, Tip guard Stan Renning, had a lineman's dream come true when he intercepted a BYU pass in the fourth quarter and ran 40 yards a TD to break up a 7-7 deadlock. Montana, was never seriously threatened in the encounter, although BYU managed to keep the score tied at 7-7 for about five minutes in the final hectic period.

Scoreless Quarter

The first quarter ended scoreless although the 'Tips marched to the BYU 24 before losing possession of the ball. The remainder of the quarter they were unable to get past the midstripe.

The Grizzlies got in gear in the second quarter, however, and led by the game's outstanding back, fullback Severn Hayes who constantly ran off tackle for valuable yards, moved from their 35 to the BYU 18.

Pat Monno, halfback, swiveled on a statue of liberty play for the first Montana score and Vern Tennant's extra point kick was good. Two passes by Roy Bray and a quarterback sneak had moved the ball to the 10, to set up Monno's run.

Neither was BYU able to score throughout the rest of the quarter and the score stood at 7-0 at half-time.

Montana was in scoring position again just before the half when Hayes ran 48 yards on a draw play to the BYU 6. Neither he nor halfback Bill Kaiserman were able to move and two passes by quarterback Chuck McKelvie went incomplete.

Montana dominated the game throughout the third period but was unable to score. The 'Tips moved to the BYU 33 where a McKelvie pass intended for halfback Jerry Connors was intercepted by BYU's center Lynn Reading.

Wild Fourth Quarter

The scoring battle got underway immediately in the fourth period when halfback Johnny Wood intercepted one of Bray's passes and ran 60 yards for the (continued on page 3)

USSR Baltic Ship Movements Cause Panic on Polish Coast

WARSAW (P)—Two or three Russian cruisers have moved into Polish territorial waters near the Baltic seaport of Danzig, according to official reports from the Polish capital.

The commander of the Russian ships reportedly explained they were on maneuvers, but panic is said to have erupted along that coastal area.

The Russian army commander of the Warsaw Military District reportedly left his post and rushed to Moscow during the night. This development followed the dismissal of a Russian army marshal from the Politburo, the governing body of Poland's Communist Party.

Observers Barred

Allied observers were barred from the border between East Germany and Poland by the Russian high command in Germany. Berlin sources said this was to prevent the West from observing Russian troop movements to the Polish border.

In Paris, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, head of the exiled Polish government in London during World War II, said the Russian Army has moved three divisions into Poland since the Poznan riots last June.

Mikolajczyk urged the United States to call Russia before the United Nations Security Council for threatening world peace by what he called its "brutal intervention" in Poland.

Troop Movements

Rumors persist that Russian troops have moved into Poland. Since these troops are constantly on the move between Russia and East Germany, it is not possible to confirm whether or not reinforcements actually are being brought in.

Poland also has given Russia back talk on the issues of bread and freedom and honest reporting.

A district court in Poznan declared a mistrial in the case of eight defendants charged with the June rioting in that Polish city.

The court freed three of the defendants outright, and ordered a (Continued on page two)

Eisenhower To Enter Walter Reed Saturday

WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower goes into Walter Reed Hospital this weekend for the pre-election medical check-up he promised after his intestinal operation last June.

James Hagerty, White House news secretary, said the President will enter the government hospital Saturday afternoon and stay overnight, Hagerty said a full report on the President's condition will be issued Sunday afternoon if possible, or by Monday at the latest.

Earlier today Hagerty told newsmen the President is planning more campaign trips, but nothing as extensive as his five-day West Coast swing last week.

Hagerty also said the President is working on a special reply to Adlai Stevenson's proposal that all nuclear tests be halted by international agreement. He said the document will be issued sometime today.

Colorado Supreme Court Says Graham Must Die in January

DENVER (P)—The Colorado Supreme Court has ruled that John Gilbert Graham must die next January for the airline bomb plot that killed 44 persons.

The court order came today with an opinion upholding Graham's conviction of first-degree murder in connection with the death of his mother, one of 44 persons aboard the airliner.

Graham had written a letter to the court asking that it reject the appeal. The court ruling said, "No other verdict than guilty of murder in the first degree could have been returned with due regard to the evidence before the jury, and the defendant must suffer the penalty provided by the law."

Unanimous Opinion

Chief Justice Wilbur M. Alter, who delivered the unanimous opinion, said the trial record disclosed "a planned and considered diabolical scheme successfully executed by the defendant."

The decision pointed out that Graham was represented by three court-appointed attorneys who were, according to the court, "diligent in protecting and safeguarding his every right."

The decision also said, "the defendant offered no evidence whatever to refute any material evidence produced by the people in the prosecution of the case."

Graham, father of two small children, was arrested by FBI agents less than two weeks after the United DC-6B airliner exploded in flight near Longmont, Colo., last Nov. 1.

Graham Emotionless

Warden Harry Tinsley of the Colorado State Penitentiary said Graham showed no emotion when told the Supreme Court upheld his murder conviction.

Tinsley said that he called Graham into his office shortly before 11 a.m. and informed him of the action. Graham said simply, "I have been expecting this." Then he was returned to his cell in death row to await execution the week of Jan. 12.

A Fighting Chance

Within our lifetime, a miracle has taken place. Remember a few years back when your chances of growing up without suffering the crippling effects of polio were about one in ten?

Now, no one need be a cripple because of this once dreaded disease. Just as small pox, diphtheria and a multitude of other once-fatal diseases have been conquered, so has polio.

Everyone has heard of the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Salk. At first, it was a controversial matter—many were stricken following vaccination with a faulty product.

But now, the Salk vaccine has been proven absolutely safe. What's more, no person who received all three shots died from the disease during the last year.

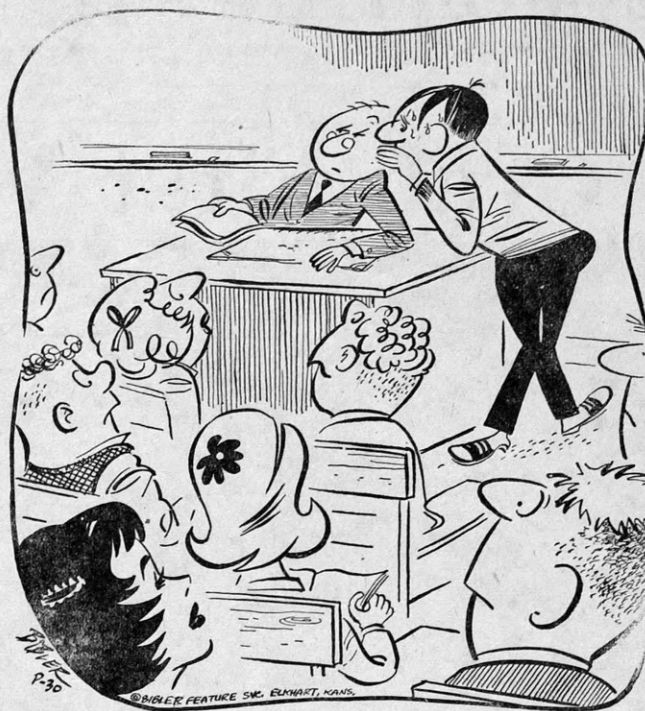

Now this miracle preventative is available to nearly everyone. Montana State University students under 19 may receive the shots free at the Health Center. Students over 20 are asked to pay $1 per shot at the business office. However, to take advantage of these special rates, students must act this week. Health service officials plan to complete the first round of shots by Friday, and the second shots will be given during November. The final shot may be administered during May and June—well before the "polio season" starts.

Thus far, only about 200 students have reported for the vaccinations. There is enough vaccine on hand for 1,500 and enough for the entire student body may be ordered if the need arises.

Remember, there is no need to be a cripple.—G.A.J.

Accuses Pravda

The official newspaper of the Polish Communist Party accused its Russian counterpart, Pravda, of slanting its editorials.

This was a reply to Pravda's charge that a "wide anti-socialist press campaign" in Poland was "shaking the very foundations" of the Polish Communist Party.

The Polish paper retaliated by accusing Pravda of taking material out of context and what it called "unjust and even simply untrue formulations."

Montana Forum Suggests Radio, TV Possibilities

Should Montana Forum discuss their view points on different problems over radio and television? This was the topic at the Forum's meeting last Friday noon in the Lodge.

Henry Larom, asst. professor of English, and Robert C. Noe, television assistant in the Public Service Division, explained how the Forum could present a weekly program that could be taped and sent to stations throughout Montana.

The program should give the people something thoughtful from the University said Larom. Topics, such as the University and what it means to the state, or international affairs, could be aimed at the whole state.

Noe suggested making several tapes before starting to broadcast, easing the weekly pressure on students. He also recommended the group sticking to radio at first, and maybe later, if they wished, trying television.

This should definitely be a student project, rather than the faculty's, recommended Larom. This would create more interest from the listener's standpoint he said.

There was a similar program in 1940-41 when Ralph McGinnis, assoc. professor of speech, was in charge of the Campus Congress. This group, from which Montana Forum has evolved, put on 13 live weekly programs that year and had audience participation.

Members decided to discuss the topic further at their next meeting on Friday before doing anything definite.

first BYU score. Dick Ralph's boot was good to tie the game.

Five minutes after the Renning interception broke the tie, Hayes went two yards for another Montana tally. Tennant's kick again was good. Hayes' run followed an interception by Bray and a 45 yard drive by the 'Tips.

Comfortably ahead, the Grizzlies suffered their last setback when with only a little over a minute left to play, BYU quarterback Don Dixon passed from his own 43 yard line to end Ed Hunt who ran 15 yards to the end zone. Ralph's kick was good.

Injuries

Monno suffered a back injury in the third quarter but returned to the game later. Matt Gorsich, tough Grizzly halfback, suffered a Charley horse and saw limited action in the late stages of the game.

The win moved the Silvertips out of the cellar and into a fifth place tie with Denver in Skyline play.

Utah State Only

Big Obstacle

Facing Wyoming

Only one obstacle remains in the path of Wyoming University's bid for its first Skyline football conference championship since 1950. The obstacle is Utah State.

Wyoming defeated Utah, 30 to 20, Saturday at Laramie, on the brilliant running of Jim Crawford and the team leadership of Larry Zowada. The Cowboys took over the Skyline leadership with four wins and no losses. That left Utah and Utah State, which throttled Colorado A & M 46 to 7, in second place with 3-1 records.

Wyoming meets Kansas State in a non-conference game at Laramie this Saturday, then resumes Skyline play against Utah State at Logan, Utah, on November 3. Utah State appears the only team left on the Wyoming schedule strong enough to give the Cowboys a good game.

Body of Hunter Killed By Grizzly Brought Out

AUGUSTA (UP)—The body of 29-year-old Kenneth Scott, who was killed by a huge grizzly bear late Saturday, arrived in Ft. Benton last night after being packed out of the Bob Marshall wilderness area.

Scott, who died before a doctor could reach him Sunday, suffered deep scalp, facial and throat lacerations when the bear attacked him while hunting.

The bear jumped three hunters while they were looking for elk. One of the hunters, Vic Squires, was grabbed by the ankle and Scott fired two bullets into the bear, wounding it.

The hunters decided to track down the wounded animal before it could attack others. They found the animal and Squires emptied his clip of slugs into the bear, but it charged before he could reload.

MSU Flying Club Offers Program For Future Pilots

The MSU Flying Club has room for approximately 15 new members, according to Bud Leuthold, Billings, vice-president. Meetings are held on the first and third Tuesdays of each month in the Yellowstone room of the Lodge.

The club, which owns two Aeronica airplanes, was formed for the benefit of students who are interested in flying and would like to learn how to fly. Membership in the club is restricted to 20 persons per airplane.

To obtain membership, a student must purchase a $40 share in one of the airplanes. This money is refunded when the student is graduated, or terminates his affiliation with the club. Lessons are given to club members at a reduced rate by a Missoula flying service.

The rate for flying lessons to club members is $7.00 an hour for the first eight hours, after which the trainee is eligible for a student permit.

The next 32 hours, which are required for a private license are given at $4.00 an hour. Rates offered by private concerns would range approximately $5.00 an hour more than those quoted for club members.
