Masquers Prepare for Opening; Dress Rehearsal Slated Sunday

Production for "The Skin of Our Teeth" is progressing rapidly with rehearsals moved from Simpkins to the University Theater and the first dress rehearsal scheduled for Sunday, Bo Brown, drama director, said yesterday.

Thornton Wilder's play will be presented Nov. 15, 16 and 17.

"This is the first show we have presented in the big theater since 1947. We moved to the University theater because of the better staging facilities it offers for presenting the momentous staging problems of "The Skin of Our Teeth," Brown said.

In the first act the walls in the Antrobus home suddenly lean inward. Sabina their maid walks over and uprights them. No sooner has this happened, then the walls raise from the floor and Sabina again walks over and pulls them down. This, Brown explained, are some of the staging problems we face.

Clem Peck, in charge of the backstage production, expects the walls to be rigged in the University Theater by Saturday.

Many other staging problems have arisen in the second act which takes place in Atlantic City

Beard Growing Contest Begins

Want to save some money, and some time? Want to be repugnant to girls. Here's what to do, Dick Venable said yesterday. Sign up for the Paul Bunyan Long Beard contest.

All he-men are invited to register for the beard contest promoted by the Forestry Club, according to Venable, Publicity Chairman for the Forester's Ball. Anyone is eligible, but must be clean-shaven when signing up, he said.

Registration will continue today at the east end of the Lodge Grill. Twenty-nine had registered by 3:30 p.m. yesterday.

Beards are to be judged preceding the Foresters' Ball, which is scheduled for March 9, 1957. Prizes will be awarded for the most unusual beard, best try, most original and the best Paul Bunyan beard.

Registration for a short beard contest is scheduled for the beginning of winter quarter. Similar prizes will be awarded for these beards, Venable said.

Governor Aronson Re-elected; Demos Win Majority of Races

J. Hugo Aronson slowly pulled out front, then pushed ahead of his gubernatorial opponent Arnold Olsen as Montana precincts began reporting completed returns Wednesday.

A tally at 7 p.m. Wednesday showed that incumbent Aronson had 134,481 votes as compared with 126,298 for Olsen. This total was with 1,054 of 1,081 precincts reporting.

The race for the governor's office was one of the closest in Montana history. The winner was not determined until 2 p.m. yesterday, and then the tabulation of 991 of 1081 precincts reporting showed only 7,000 votes separating the two.

Aronson's running mate, Republican Lieutenant Governor George Gosman, fell by the wayside. He was defeated for re-election by Democrat Paul Cannon.

One of the biggest election surprises came in Republican Harriet Miller's 18,000 vote margin over Mary Condon in the battle for State Superintendent of Public

U.S., U.N. Urge Israel Army To Withdraw From Egypt

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.N. and the United States have sent urgent appeals to Israel to withdraw its forces from Egypt. President Eisenhower sent an urgent appeal to Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of Israel asking him to pull Israeli troops out of Egypt. Mr. Eisenhower acted after calling Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to a White House conference on the Middle East crisis.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld told Ben-Gurion that unless Israel evacuates its forces under the cease-fire agreement it will face U.N. action.

Egypt is not to be faced with a completed fact, that is the capture of its Sinai Peninsula and Gaza Strip, Hammarskjöld said. The Egyptians would have recourse to the U.N. Charter.

Armistice Scrapped

Ben-Gurion scrapped the 1949 armistice with Egypt earlier. The armistice set Israel's boundary outside the Sinai Peninsula and the Gaza Strip.

The first units of the U.N. police force are due to arrive in Egypt within a week.

The plan is to have the International Police Force replace the British, French and Israeli troops in Egypt. Thirteen countries have offered men for the force.

Fighting Still On

Sime fighting is still reported in Egypt, but the U.N.'s attitude is that hostilities are over, and the International Police Force can begin its work.

An Egyptian witness returning to Cairo from Port Said said he believes the Anglo-French command called a cease-fire merely to buy time to re-group its forces.

This is supported by strong hints in the latest Egyptian communique that Anglo-French troops are changing their positions. Egypt charged yesterday that Anglo-French forces still are fighting in the Northern Suez Canal city.

MSU to Host Labor Meeting

MSU will be host to the 13th annual Farmer-Labor Institute November 9-11. The Institute is sponsored by the Montana AFL-CIO and Montana Farmers Union.

The aim of the Institute is to help all citizens make democracy work. The common problems of workers, farmers, teachers and other citizens will be discussed so that more effective work can be done in organizations and communities to make democracy work. The nine sessions plus a summary are open to the public, according to Leonard Kenfield, MFU, secretary.

Friday, Nov. 9—Opening of the Institute by President James Umber, Montana AFL-CIO; memorial to Arthur Elder, teacher and worker in labor education, by Prof. Edmund Freeman, MSU; "Needs of the Great Plains" by Dr. Carl Kraenzel, Montana State College; "Depressed Areas Legislation" by Hon. Lee Metcalf, congressman Montana Western District.

Saturday, Nov. 10—"The Case for Family-Sized Farms" by J. M. Peterson, MFU; "Labor Welfare Legislation" by Rev. Joseph MacKin, Carroll College; "Resource Development for All" by Judge R. V. Bottomly, Montana Supreme Court; "Federal Dams and Power Needs" by Leif Erickson, attorney at law; "The Future of Montana" by Arnold Olsen, attorney general.

Sunday, Nov. 11—Panel—"How Do We Finance Our Public Schools?" Lucille Speer, MSU; "The Sales Tax versus Progressive Taxation" by Mary McNelis, Montana Federation of Teachers; "Revaluation of Property" by P. J. Gilfeather, attorney at law; "Federal Support of Education" by Mary Condon, state superintendent of public instruction; Summary and Evaluation by Dr. Robert Dunbar, MSC.

Students, Wives Obtain 184 Jobs

The Student Employment Service found permanent jobs for 184 students and students' wives during October, Cyrille Van Duser, secretary, said yesterday.

Two hundred nineteen students found odd jobs through the employment service.

For permanent jobs, the breakdown is 106 men, earning from $3 to $15 a day; 49 women students, average earnings unknown; and 29 students' wives, earning an average of $175 a month.

Miss Van Duser said the average odd-job wage for men is $1 an hour. The women's average wage is 50 cents an hour.

Keefer and Allan Represent MSU In Moot Court

Neil S. Keefer and Richmond F. Allan, MSU law students from Billings, will participate in the Northwest Regional Moot Court competition, according to Robert E. Sullivan, dean of the Law School. Willamette University at Salem, Ore., is host to the meet scheduled for this Saturday.

The National Moot Court is an inter-law school competition sponsored each year by the Young Lawyer's Committee of the New York City Bar Association.

The United States is divided into 15 regions, each holding regional rounds for the law schools in their region in November. Winners advance to national competition in New York City in December. Each law school may enter one team, composed of two members, in the regional rounds. Keefer and Allan will oppose the University of Washington Saturday afternoon. Winners will meet Saturday evening for the regional championship. Since it is single elimination each team has to be prepared to argue both sides of the case.

The intra-law school elimination tournament won by Allan and Keefer was held last year at MSU. They are also the first to receive the Montana State Bar Association Moot Court awards.

Members of the Oregon Supreme and Circuit courts will act as judges, according to rules published by the Young Lawyer's Committee. This year's Moot Court case deals with the criteria for the jury in determining when insanity will relieve a defendant from criminal responsibility.

on the "Boardwalk." One of these is the synchronization of music with the cast. There also will be a tent in the orchestra pit and a ramp leading down from the boardwalk into the audience which represents the ocean. Also presented in the play will be a mammoth and a dinosaur.

Another problem is the sound and light staging that comes at the end of act two. At this point lightning and a cloudburst bring an end to the world in the form of the "Great Flood," Brown said.

Robbin Hough, Kalispell and Shela Sullivan, Butte, have the roles of Mr. and Mrs. Antrobus with Sharon Stanchfield, Dillon, and John Kobzeff, Maywood, Calif., play their two children. Dolores Vaage, Missoula, plays a leading role as the maid Sabina.

Brown said tickets for the production are still available at the Simpkins Theater box office on weekdays from 3 to 5 p.m.

Armed Forces Ordered To Tighten Our Defenses

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department has ordered all armed forces to strengthen the nation's defenses.

The department ordered top air, sea and land commanders to tighten up what was termed "the nation's defense readiness," because of conditions in the Middle East and Eastern Europe.

A spokesman for the chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff said, "We do not want to be caught flat-footed."

It was learned that a big Navy fleet in the Atlantic has canceled training exercises, and the Strategic Air Command called off training activities to undertake "readiness" actions.

Cobalt Replacing X-ray as Remedy

University of Minnesota hospitals have taken one more step into the atomic age. Replacing X-ray treatment for deep-rooted cancer malignancies is cobalt therapy.

The university hospitals have been working with the therapy since 1953 when they installed their first cobalt machine. A second and more effective one, which rotates around the patient, was received last Wednesday by the radiation therapy division, according to Dr. Donn Mosser, division director.

The new machine, valued at $35,000, will supplement the first. Its chief advantage is that its ions will penetrate deeper into the patient's body and show areas which were out of reach of previous treatments. Cobalt therapy is proving to be cheaper than X-ray treatments.

Spurs Postpone Annual Sadie Hawkins Dance

The Spurs' annual Sadie Hawkins dance has been postponed from Nov. 10 to March 12.

According to Audrey Wacker, chairman of the dance committee, the dance was delayed because of a conflict with the Montana-Wyoming football game in Billings this weekend.

Montana's Gain

One of the big surprises to election pollsters was the outcome of the Montana race for Superintendent of Public Instruction. A few thought Harriet Miller would give Democrat incumbent Mary Condon a close run, but few predicted Miss Miller would win. None thought it would be the sweeping victory it proved to be. With all but 27 precincts reporting, Miss Miller was leading 132,758 to 114,042 Wednesday evening.

We believe that Montana State University's loss will be Montana's gain. President Carl McFarland received official notice of Miss Miller's resignation from the University staff Wednesday.

While associated with the University, Miss Miller was one of the most popular staff members. Her graciousness and wise administrative tactics were recognized and appreciated by the students. Her chief aim was helping students when and where she could through constructive leadership rather than "laying down the law."

She told the Kaimin by telephone Wednesday evening that she planned to use this principle in her new job, that is providing constructive leadership and working toward the betterment of all Montana schools.

One of the major planks in Miss Miller's platform was "taking the politics out of education." This is one campaign promise that she intends to carry out to the fullest of her ability.

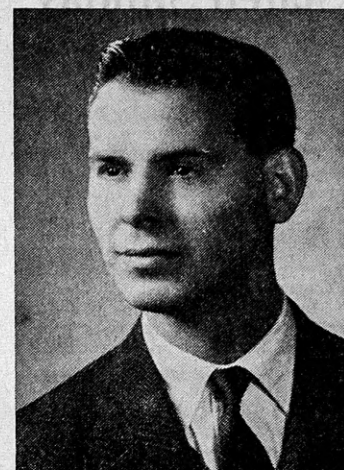

Speaking for the students of Montana State University, we would like to extend our sincere congratulations to Harriet Miller. We have watched her work on this campus and will be behind her in her new undertaking.

Montana's First Paper Pulp Mill To Operate Soon

Robert E. Jones, local representative of the Waldorf Paper Co., said that the pulp mill will be Montana's first—and a 2 million dollar one at that.

The plant will have a large and steady annual payroll, Jones said, and the company will spend about a million and a half dollars yearly buying chips from the lumber industry in this area. This, he contended, will provide the lumber industry a market for what is now waste and being burned, thereby creating a smoke problem in the valley.

16 Specialists To Talk Here At Tax School

Five of the 16 specialists who will talk at the 1956 Tax School to be presented by the Law School on Nov. 29, 30, and Dec. 1, will be out-of-state speakers, according to W. D. Kilbourn Jr., assistant professor of law.

Joseph D. Herring of New York City, underwriting consultant of the New York Life Insurance Co., will discuss the use of insurance in estate planning.

Roland Hatfield of Minneapolis, manager of the tax department of the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co., will discuss tax savings derived by uses of insurance in estate planning.

John S. Crawford of Portland, C.P.A. and tax authority with the accounting firm of Touche, Nivins, Bailey and Smart, will talk about partner-partnership transactions in relation to tax laws.

William H. Kinsey of Portland, attorney and partner in the law firm of Mautz, Souther, Spaulding, Denecke and Kinsey, will speak about tax rules relating to liquidation of partnerships.

Francis J. Butler of Portland, tax attorney, and an MSU Law School graduate, will discuss tax laws relating to contributed property, distributive shares, salaries and interest.

The Tax School will emphasize estate planning, taxation of partnerships and partners, and tax laws relating to real estate transactions and depreciation.

Kilbourn said all persons interested in attending the 1956 Tax School may register. Registration fee is $15, and is payable to the 1956 Tax School, Montana State University.

U Church Groups Study for Meet

The first in a series of five study sessions in preparation for the Pacific Northwest United Student Christian Council conference was conducted Tuesday noon in the Lodge.

Guest speaker was Rev. Paul E. Keyser of Seattle, administrator of the Pacific Northwest area council of YMCA.

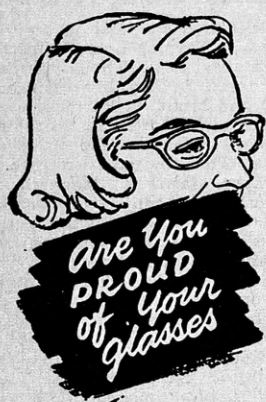

The Rev. Mr. Keyser, director of the conference, outlined the aims of the four day meet scheduled at Pacific Lutheran College, Dec. 27 to 31. The conference is open to any interested student, active in any local, state or regional organization sponsoring the conclave.

Theme of the conference, "You, God, and the U," will be centered around a basic question, "What does it mean to be a Christian on campus?"

Deane Ferm, director of the Affiliated School of Religion, and the Rev. Bill Crouch of the Methodist church will lead the study groups for the next four weeks. Sessions will be held Tuesday noons in the Ravalli Room of the Lodge.

The Interchurch Council will meet at 6 p.m. Thursday in the Lodge. ICC delegates are urged to attend the meeting, Norma Beatty, ICC president, said.

Grizzlies to Travel to Billings To Tangle With Wyoming Team

The Montana Grizzlies, victors in only one game this season, have nothing to lose and everything to gain when they tangle with league leading Wyoming this Saturday at Billings.

Montana and Brigham Young, two second division clubs, are the only obstacles remaining in Wyoming's drive for their first championship since 1950.

Stress Defense

The Grizzlies have been stressing defense against a single wing. Tuesday night the varsity scrimmaged against the Cubs, who ran from the Wyoming formation. Williams said Wyoming is a very tough team this year and Crawford is as good a back as can be found anywhere.

"The Grizzlies are in fairly good shape for this game. With the exception of co-captain Bill Kaiserman who quit football under doctor's orders, there are no other serious injuries," Williams said. Center Mike O'Brien is laying off practice this week with a hip injury but will be ready for the 'Poke tussle.

One bright spot in the Grizzly camp finds tackle Ivory Jones rejoining the club after he was classified 4-F at the induction center in Butte last Monday.

Elrod Hall Tipped From Undefeated

Elrod Hall went down to defeat for the first time Tuesday as Jumbo Hall outclassed the league leaders, 12-0. The Galloping Geese, paced by Jack Gardiner and Carl Crabb, won a close game from Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 7-0.

In a battle of evenly matched teams, Theta Chi eked out a 2-0 victory over Sigma Phi Epsilon.

THREE NATIONS WITHDRAW FROM WORLD OLYMPICS

Three nations—Communist China, the Netherlands and Spain—have withdrawn from the Olympics, cutting the expected record field of 74 to 69. Holland and Spain gave the tense world situation as their reason.

DOUBLES POSTPONED UNTIL SPRING

The intramural tennis doubles matches will be postponed until spring, Ed Chinske said yesterday.

—Grind 'em to a pulp, Grizzlies—

The Silvertips this year have compiled 1,292 yards rushing on 311 carries. Fullback Severn Hayes is the leading 'Tip ground gainer with 383 yards on 71 attempts, followed by sophomore halfback Matt Gorsich who has picked up 256 yards in the 53 times he's carried the ball.

In the passing department Roy Bray has completed 30 of 59 passes for 383 yards. Junior end Terry Hurley is the leading receiver with 17 catches good for 183 yards. Quarterback Paul Enochson leads the Grizzly punters with a 36.4 average, followed by Kaiserman's 34 yard average.

3 Kegler Teams Still Undefeated In I-M League

Three teams remain unbeaten after as many weeks of intramural bowling, according to standings released yesterday by Bob McGihon, intramural bowling director.

Sigma Chi with 6 wins, the Keglers with 3 wins, and Phi Delta Theta, also with 3 wins remain undefeated.

Jumbo Hall had the high team series with 2292. The Turkeys team was second and Sigma Chi third in team series. Sigma Nu had the team high game of 849; Sigma Chi was second and the Turkeys third.

Bill Kuni had the individual high series in last week's bowling with a 583. Lindlief had the high individual game with 222.

U.S. Mid-East Policy Unrealistic, Unconstructive, Callaway Says

By RICK CHAMPOUX

England realizes she can no longer follow the United States Middle Eastern policy since it has proven to be "unconstructive and unrealistic," Arch C. Callaway, of the Economics department, said in an interview today.

"In my opinion, England feels deeply that no constructive attitude has been taken by any major Western power towards the urgent Middle Eastern problems," he said.

"For example, it is an absurd commentary on our combined policies that we have let 900,000 displaced Arabs, surrounding Israel, to just sit, think, and eat American financed UNRWA (United Nations Relief Works Association) rations," he added.

Callaway is a conservative looking young man who came to the University last year from Oxford. He is a New Zealander by birth and served in the Middle East during World War II.

Economic Reasons

"England is fighting Egypt for economic reasons and she intervened, when Israel invaded Egypt, with the specific purpose of protecting the Suez Canal and no doubt with the idea of eclipsing Nasser's power," Callaway said.

Radio Cairo, he said, is broadcasting around the clock in more languages than any other radio network in the world.

"This is Nasser's conveyance for whipping up Arab nationalism and broadcasting hitting comments against Israel and the Western nations," he continued.

Could Not Save Israel

"Militarily speaking, the Sixth Fleet or airborne troops could not save Israel if she were attacked by the combined Arab might at a time of their own choosing," he said.

"Like a snowflake on the river, once seen then gone forever, Israel would be gone forever," he added.

Turning toward the situation in England itself the former Oxford tutor said Sir Anthony Eden has been under fire from his party's opposition for his so-called uninspired leadership toward the Middle East problems.

"He has been called a good diplomat but not a leader and on the Suez question, Eden decided to reverse the tide of criticism," Callaway said.

The United Nations members would be unable or unwilling to face up to a situation like the Suez in time, is the attitude of Eden, the New Zealander feels.

"He realized the veto would be used in the Security Council and if a motion was thrown to the floor of the General Assembly, the members would not be able to act in time to save the canal or Israel," he said.

Don't Want War

"The British don't want war and Eden knows this but he couldn't let one man, and he a dictator, through control of the canal, have a strangle hold on the British economic lifeline," he added.

"The British withdrew their guardianship from Suez at the instigation of the United States, hoping this would bring about more friendly relations between England and the Egyptians," he continued.

"This might have been true if Naguib had retained power in Egypt but it proved to be a disastrous policy in view of Nasser tearing up the Treaty of 1888," Callaway said.

Eden thought the Canal Users Assn. Plan, as proposed by Dulles, had a good possibility of working, the soft-spoken New Zealander said further.

"Unfortunately Dulles deflated the tires of the new vehicle he himself had invented," he said.

"The situation is a very tragic one, no one yet knows how it will end, but at least we should not lose sight of the events which precipitated the action," he ended.

Wildlife Lecturer To Tour State

W. Leslie Pengelly, wildlife extensionist at MSU, will conduct an adult conservation education course in Stanford, Lewistown, Havre, Phillipsburg, and Ovando-Helmville. The course will be conducted from mid-November to mid-April, Ross Miller, acting director of the Public Service Division, said.

These lectures are designed to acquaint the public with basic requirements of wildlife and how soil, water, and vegetative conditions affect wildlife. Color slides, movies, and other demonstration materials will supplement the lectures.

The current program, financed by the Montana Fish and Game Commission, was initiated by Dr. J. W. Severy, professor of botany, in 1949 and later adopted by the Montana Wildlife Federation.

The objectives are to promote adult education services in the fields of land and wildlife management; to secure public acceptance of a scientific approach to wildlife management and to promote better public understanding of state and federal responsibility in land management and fish and game resources.

Ike Sends Letter To U Republicans

President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent a personally signed letter to the MSU Young Republicans acknowledging receipt of a birthday gifts sent him last month.

The club sent him a gift album of Montana State University songs entitled "Singing on the Steps," which were recorded by the MSU A Cappella choir several years ago.

The letter was addressed to the club in care of Norma Beatty, secretary, and read, "To my Young Republican friends at Montana State University: It was indeed kind of you to send me the album of records for my birthday, together with the very gay greeting card.

"I am delighted with this sample of your musical talents and most appreciative of your thoughtfulness.

"Thank you, too, for your good wishes for a successful campaign."

The letter, written on White House stationery, was signed, "With best wishes to all, Sincerely, Dwight D. Eisenhower."
