ECONOMICS EXPERT
SPEAKS FEB. 21
AT UNIVERSITY

Britain's devaluation of the pound last November and the effects that devaluation is having on the economy of this country will be among the items discussed Wednesday (Feb. 21) at the University of Montana by a visiting economics expert.

The guest speaker will be Robert W. Clower, economics professor at Northwestern University in Illinois and at the University of Essex in England. Dr. Clower speaks at 8 p.m. Wednesday in room 304 of the University Journalism Building. The lecture is open to the public without charge.

The UM economics department is sponsoring the lecture with support from local banks and the UM Public Exercises Committee.

Dr. Robert F. Wallace, chairman of the UM economics department, will be master of ceremonies for Clower's presentation, which is entitled "The British Devaluation and What It Means For Us."
