CONSERVATION WEEK STAFF SELECTS
20 MONTANA JUNIORS

MISSOULA--

Twenty Montana high school juniors from 16 communities have been selected to participate in the Conservation Orientation Camp at the Goat Creek Ranger Station on the Swan Lake State Forest June 9-15.

Robert W. Lange, UM School of Forestry professor of dendrology and co-director of the camp, said the 20 prep students have "B" or better grade averages and each of them has a substantial background in science and mathematics.

Lange reported that more than 40 final applications were screened for the camp which is jointly sponsored by the forestry school and the State Forester's office.

Don Drummond, deputy state forester, is the other co-director of the camp.

The selected students are Mike Papich, Anaconda; Roger Antonich, Belt; Ted Plaggemeyer and William R. Rule, Big Timber; Lawrence Jones, Butte Public; David Steindorf, Charlo; Robert Scalese, Cut Bank; Steve Anderson, Fairfield; Timothy C. Cail, C.M. Russell, and David Fulgham, Robert Thomas and James A. Swaby, Senior High, Great Falls; Darrell Stout, Huntley Project; Leroy F. Berven, Sentinel High, Missoula; Robert Johnson, Moccasin; Edward J. McCoy, Philipsburg; Kenneth Swank, Poplar; Larry Barnard, Stanford; Glenwood Kerester, Whitefish; Jerry Ward, Willow Creek.
