Jack Proposes Peace Corps; President Points to Progress

Kennedy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy Wednesday night proposed the establishment of a peace corps in which young men could serve in underdeveloped nations for three years instead of being drafted for military duty.

Warning that "the enemy advances now by nonmilitary methods," the Democratic presidential candidate said this country must have representatives abroad of greater talent and training, especially in the newly emerging nations that need specialized help.

"We cannot discontinue training our young men as soldiers of war," he said. "But we also need them as 'ambassadors of peace.'"

Kennedy said this would be a voluntary corps drawn from every race and walk of life, from among young people "eager to serve the cause of peace in the most useful way."

BAPTISTS CRITICIZE

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The head of the Southern Baptist Convention said Wednesday former President Harry S. Truman, a Baptist, "ought to be turned out of his church unless he repents of his sin and ill manners."

Rev. Ramsey Pollard, pastor of the Bellevue Baptist church, Memphis, Tenn., said Truman should be ousted because of his use of profanity in a recent Texas campaign speech.

Truman said Texans ought to go to hell if they vote for the Republican presidential ticket.

STANDBY VIDEO TROUBLE

GRIMSBY, England (AP) — Ernest Hogg is threatening court action for removal of a TV cable running alongside his house. "I'm tired of picking up TV programs on my hearing aid," he explained.

Frosh Choose Delegates Today

All freshmen are urged to vote today for three freshman delegates to Central Board. Voting will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the lobby of the Lodge, according to Ed Whitelaw, chairman of Elections Committee. The candidate with the highest number of votes will receive the two-year term and the two with the next highest vote will receive one-year terms.

Eisenhower

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower called Wednesday for election of Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge as men of maturity, proved experience and decision.

Eisenhower joined forces in the New York area with Nixon and Lodge in an effort to shake loose what some politicians in both parties believe is a Democratic grip on this key state's vital 45 electoral votes.

In an obvious dig at Kennedy, Eisenhower said he can't understand "how, in the face of the record, anyone can seriously contend that the world leadership of the United States has been impaired."

In reference to Kennedy's charge that America's prestige abroad has fallen during the Eisenhower administration, the President said hundreds of thousands of persons each year risk their lives to defect from Communist-controlled states.

HOFFA WANTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters Union asked the U.S. Court of Appeals here Wednesday to allow him to call a union convention in Chicago Jan. 16-20.

Once a convention is held, the union leadership will be rid of the board of monitors which, under a U.S. District Court order, has been watching over the conduct of the big union since January, 1958. Hoffa is regarded as certain to win any new election.

PROTECTION EXPENSIVE

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City's police force ran up a bill of about $3 million or more for extra work to protect foreign delegates to the current United Nations session.

Candidates are Joe Daley, Tom Lehrkind, Ann Minter, Roy Nicolet, Bruce Vasser and Wilbur Wood.

Whitelaw told Central Board last night that only 346 freshmen voted in last week's primary election from a total class enrollment of 1,250. He emphasized that the polls will close at 4 p.m. instead of 5 p.m. as in past elections.

Kirk Says Conservatism Favors Necessary Change

By LYLE HARRIS

Conservatism emphasizes continuity—"You can get along with a devil you know," Russell Kirk said, "but you can't with a devil you don't know."

Conservatism and liberalism Mr. Kirk, second visiting lecturer presented by the Public Exercises Committee, said conservatism demands a change of society only when there is a real and primary reason to change, while liberalism embraces new and unproven methods for solving society's problems. Conservatism contends human nature is corrupt and man will act by his tendencies. Liberalism, he said, contends man is good and institutions can cure corruptions which arise.

Conservatism, Mr. Kirk said, has been an unpopular word since the New Deal era. "Liberal," which was used as a compliment for FDR about 20 years ago, began the clash between conservatism and liberalism, he said.

"The presidential candidates blur and differ only in degree," Mr. Kirk said. It is the Kennedy and Nixon advisers and people whom they represent who differ, he added.

If Nixon is defeated, Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.) will rise as head of the Republican party, Mr. Kirk said. Sen. Goldwater is bringing the world "conservatism" back into use, he added.

Goldwater is giving conservatism strength, Mr. Kirk said. Goldwater is a colorful person. He does not use the usual campaign slogans and takes a definite stand—he is a man of the immediate future, Mr. Kirk said.

Concerning world affairs, Mr. Kirk said the United States is forced into conservatism on a world basis to counterbalance Communism.

When asked whether we should adhere to Khrushchev's "co-existence" policy, Mr. Kirk referred to Goldwater's statements saying, we have been always defensive and never demanding in our policies with the Communists. He said Goldwater believes we must become more aggressive since we must live with certain perils.

Mr. Kirk said there must be more emphasis placed on Americans gaining a knowledge of this country's principles.

History is repeating itself, Mr. Kirk said. We must realize this and avoid the fate other countries have suffered when they failed to recognize the lessons of history, he concluded.

Nixon, Kennedy Don't Practice Respective Faiths

Nixon and Kennedy's religions have become so "Americanized" that their faiths will have little effect on their political actions, Russell Kirk said yesterday.

Commenting at a reception for him yesterday afternoon, he said he thought both candidates are lax in observance and practice of their beliefs.

In a recent conversation with Herbert Hoover, Mr. Kirk said Mr. Hoover told him religious feelings in the election are as strong now as in 1928 when Al Smith was a Catholic presidential candidate.

Mr. Kirk said he believed the decree of the archbishop in Puerto Rico forbidding Puerto Ricans to vote for the Popular Democratic party will have little effect on the presidential election because Puerto Rico is too remote for most Americans to be aware of the link between Puerto Rico and the United States.

Question of Political Morality Dramatized By Superior Cast

By ARLENE KNEE

Politics—what is wrong; what is right? A more opportune time could not have been chosen to pose this question than just a few days before the national election.

"All the King's Men," Robert Penn Warren's Pulitzer prize-winning play, playing at the University Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m., seeks the answer to this question of political morality. Tracing the career of Willie Stark, who resembles the late Huey Long of Louisiana, the play delves into the old question of good and evil.

Stark rises from a country hick to a rabble-rouser in state politics after he is framed in his first attempt to advance the social welfare of the people. When he does attain power, he accomplishes his original ends by unscrupulous means.

Stark's success is symbolized by his multi-million dollar hospital. He reaches this goal only after destroying innocent people and ultimately destroying himself.

Willie Stark is dynamically portrayed by Ray Stewart, a graduate student who played in the Big Fork theater this summer. Although Stewart is nearly unintelligible in the more emotional scenes, his performance is convincing.

The play also concerns the story of Jack Burden, who serves as Stark's errand boy and press agent. Burden is played by Jim Polk. Polk's performance is sincere and relaxed.

On the distaff side, Elaine Blethen and Desiree Collette are outstanding in their presentations of Anne Stanton and Sadie Burke.

Alan Naslund, as the Professor, successfully executes the performance of a man much older than himself. This is a difficulty common to most of the parts, and is well-handled by the cast.

Dick Stephenson quite naturally assumes the part of the football-playing son of Stark. Shirley Cole and Katy Van Aelstyn render effective performances as the mothers of Burden and Tom Stark. Jerry Hasinger's forced laugh was the only objection to an otherwise good performance.

Larry Leondorf and Jim Baker were justifiably cast in duplicate roles. Supporting roles by James Morrow, Kirk Buls, and Dennis Craig were capably handled.

Effective lighting and superior stage setting enhance the mood of the play. Lighting is under the direction of Richard James; the costuming by Sarah James.

The Masquers and drama department have succeeded in dramatizing questions which should concern us next week and the rest of our lives. Firman H. Brown, Jr., director of the production, has added another hit to his remarkable record.

Central Board Terms Offer By Newburn 'Unrealistic'

Central Board last night voted to ignore Pres. H. K. Newburn's suggestion for a victory celebration Monday if the Grizzlies win over MSC.

John Carlson, junior delegate, said it was unrealistic to think a winning spirit on Saturday would carry over to Monday. John Ulvila, junior delegate, suggested that student participation would be low even if a victory convocation or other celebration was planned.

Andrew C. Cogswell, dean of students, said the University has not had holidays after past victories over MSC. He said the plan for a Monday holiday at MSC was inaugurated when the Bobcats were losing and MSC President R. R. Renne now felt caught in the tradition. Although MSC will have a holiday this year if they win, the practice will probably be removed by next year, he said.

Central Board granted AWS

$828.72 from the activities fee increase reserve fund to replace a special fund used last year for general operating expenses when the AWS budget was inadequate. Central Board will underwrite AWS expenses for the 1961 Miss MSU contest up to $150.

Payment of $200 from the Sentinel budget for a camera and accessories purchased last summer was approved.

Ulrich said that police protection will be provided at the MSU-MSU football game. There will be no opposition against Bozeman fans entering the field and taking the goalposts if MSC wins, he said. If MSU wins, all spectators will be asked to remain seated, he said.

Central Board voted to make an offer of $2,000 to Les Elgart's band for a concert and dance on Jan. 28. The band's agent has asked $2,500 for the concert and dance.

Raiding Parties

Every year, especially fall quarter, sororities and fraternities get involved with raiding parties. Signs, furniture and old busses manage to disappear so quietly only an FBI investigation could turn up clues.

Some of this nonsense helps to create a competitive, wholesome school spirit and an amusing confusion in the Dean of Student's office. But sometimes it gets carried too far.

Last week a five-foot airplane propeller, given to Sigma Nu by a Marine Corps general who perfected the art of dive-bombing, disappeared from the house. The propeller, according to Jack Cogswell, has intrinsic value because the names of World War I war dead are inscribed on it.

Last spring quarter Sigma Chi lost a Chinese mask, according to Bob Tirrell, and it was never returned.

Andrew Cogswell, dean of students, said raiding has always been an annoyance, but lately it seems to be getting worse. He said a recent raid on Theta Chi amounted to downright stealing because a watch and some money were reported missing.

The major problem, Dean Cogswell said, is determining whether students are just having fun or if some outsider has stolen campus property. It is surprising the living groups don't lose more than they do, he said, because there are no provisions within living groups for guarding property, especially at night.

Obviously nobody in Missoula wants a 1918 propeller or a Chinese mask to peddle for money. Campus raiders should realize they have a moral obligation to either return the property or let the living group know it is in relatively safe hands for the time being. Otherwise, we can predict a rash of campus restrictions which will ruin the fun for everyone.

By the People?

Twelve freshmen candidates for Central Board plastered the campus with posters last week in an attempt to wage a lively campaign for the primary election. One poster, stretching across the new Health-Science Building, resembled a billboard.

When the primary day dawned, a dribbling total of 346 freshmen of the 1,250 eligible managed to vote. A poor showing indeed, Ed Whitelaw, election committee chairman said.

Whitelaw said everything possible has been done to create greater interest in the freshman election tomorrow at the Lodge from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. It is now up to the freshmen themselves to take an interest in their own affairs by voting for the candidates who can best represent them.

Forgotten Moments

The University museum gives one an eerie feeling of having stepped from modern speed and efficiency to a dead but perhaps more meaningful age.

Clocks in the museum seldom keep the right time but no one seems to worry. Music boxes play tunes which could never be classified as great music. Yet, with their simple melodies, they seem to recall forgotten moments of silence. Much of the furniture with its elaborate carving would be called "busy" by today's sleek decorating standards. It was made in an era when craftsmen attempted to please people rather than force them into rigid "styles."

Perhaps we are living too swiftly, too superficially, in our schedule of functions, studies and activities. Could it be possible that we might benefit ourselves by stopping a moment and thinking of where we are going rather than the fastest way to get there?

Freshmen Vote!

ASMSU

by denis adams

Word of the Week

Poor Boobcats. Poor Boobcats. Those yells like many others will be emanating from Dornblaser Field this Saturday afternoon when the MSU Grizzlies play the MSC Bobcats in the annual game to decide the state championship. There is a wide variety of activities scheduled to take place on campus this weekend—ranging from a Spur convention to a depantsing ceremony after the game.

The following portion of this article will be a summary of the activities that directly concern Traditions Board or are of a traditional nature. To help get the campus ready for a rousing welcome for our country cousins from the Cow College we are advocating the wearing of Levis and other Western apparel all day Friday.

Furthermore, we would like all the living groups to decorate their windows in preparation for the big battle. Traditions Board considered running a contest for the best decorated windows, but then decided against it in favor of having the various living groups do it on the basis of their school spirit. We feel that if the living groups are participating because they want to, rather than because they have to, there will be a greater degree of esprit de corps.

Torch Parade

Friday evening there will be a big torch parade starting at the old Higgins Avenue High School and leading to a pep rally at the Field House. Coach Ray Jenkins and his team have been doing a tremendous job this year so a large, enthusiastic crowd at the pep rally will be one way we can show our appreciation towards them.

The first meeting of the two schools in combat this year will take place on the Clover Bowl. Our Fraternity league champion, Sigma Nu, will meet their Fraternity league champion in a touch football game Saturday morning. Last year the only victory at Bozeman was when the Phi Delt beat the Sigma Chi Fraternity from Bozeman in a close, low scoring game.

Pa—Not Ma

This year's game is also to be known at Dads' Day Game honoring the fathers of the football players. Without trying to slight the mothers, we feel that we owe each father a special tribute since a large part of his son's success is due to him. The fathers will sit along the sidelines near the team.

Each father will have on his back a number that corresponds to the number on his son's jersey; therefore, the crowd will be able to match a father's reaction to his son's action.

Immediately after the game a treasure chest will be presented to the captain of the winning team. This chest, a joint project of the Bear Paws from the University and the Fangs from the College, will portray the wealth of the State of Montana and is to be a perpetual trophy between the two schools.

Pants Off

In a short ceremony after the game either Paul Ulrich or Arjay Godston will end up running around in shorts made with the winning school's colors. This came about with the adoption of a resolution by Central Board and the Senate from Bozeman at a joint meeting between the two governing bodies stating that the student body president of the losing school should give his pants to the student body president of the winning school.

From 9 to 12 Saturday night an ASMSU mixer is planned, and it is hoped that it will be a Grizzly Victory dance. With the arrival of the witching hour of midnight, the Bozemanites must go staggering back to their train to await another year before they have a chance to attempt to beat us in football.

Monday Too Late For Victory Party

To the Kaimin:

Central Board has instructed me to explain the reasons for our decision not to sponsor a victory celebration next Monday afternoon.

We were very gratified to see the student support that followed our recommendation to President Newburn that Monday be declared a holiday if Montana State College is beaten, and were quite disappointed that the President's letter denied our request and turned the burden back on us. In the meeting yesterday afternoon, there were several objections to Dr. Newburn's idea, among which were:

(1) There would be classes held during the time when this celebration would be scheduled.

(2) It would be extremely difficult to maintain a winning spirit through Monday afternoon.

(3) There would be little student participation because of class conflicts and study obligations.

(4) In the event Bozeman wins the game, MSC will have a holiday.

All of this can probably chalked up to experience, since we have lost nothing by it. I would urge everyone to make this weekend one to remember, and mark 1960 as the year when the tradition of Grizzly football superiority is once again firmly established.

Statistics Show Utah State Top Rushing Team

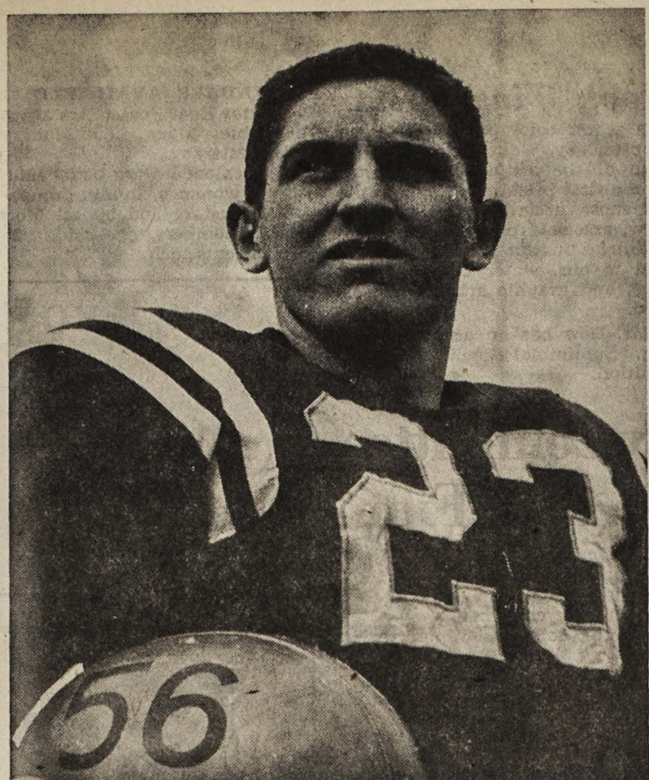

By The Associated Press
Unbeaten Utah State and New Mexico State are pace-setting offensive play among major college football teams.

The Utags lead in total offense at 402.3 yards a game and in rushing offense with 352.6 yards.

New Mexico State tops all teams in scoring with an average of 38.9 points a game.

The Cowboys of Wyoming rank fourth in total offense. They've picked up 2,487 yards in 487 plays for a per-game average of 355.3 yards.

In rushing, the 'Pokes have gained 1,904 yards on 414 rushes for an average of 272 yards.

GRIZZLY DEFENDER—When the Grizzlies tangle with the Bobcats Saturday, Ron Werba will be among the Grizzly defenders trying to stop MSC from attaining its fifth consecutive victory. The 5'11" sophomore halfback from Chicago, Ill., currently leads the Grizzlies in number of punt returns and has intercepted two passes this season. Werbe has also seen limited action with offensive team.

Thanks to Summerfield U Rifle Team Mails Targets

The U. S. Postal Service is helping the MSU rifle team fire against opponents this year.

The Post Office does its part when the team competes in a postal match.

The procedure is simple. In a postal match teams fire on their own ranges. The scores are mailed to opponents and winners are determined after all scores have been exchanged.

M.Sgt. J. W. Greenway, coach of the MSU team, said this method of firing matches has been popular for some time among larger schools.

The Montana team participated in its first postal match of the season last week. MSU defeated a UCLA team by 3 points. MSU scored 1,402 points out of a possible 1,500. Match firing is done with 22 caliber rifles.

MSU has about 30 postal matches scheduled this year. Sgt. Greenway said the team would like to fire against four other teams a week.

In this program Montana would fire once and use its score against the four opponents.

The coach said MSU has received, and issued, individual challenges to seven colleges.

The varsity team is composed of Karla Robbins, Lynn Taplin, Neal Dietrich, Gary Gilbert and John Osborne.

High individuals in the UCLA postal match were Robbins, 286, out of a possible 300, Steve Gerhard, UCLA, 285, and Osborne, 281.

Class Attempts to Determine Accuracy of Election Polls

By TOM FLAHERTY

According to a poll taken by the Political Parties and Elections class, the Missoula urban area will vote mostly Republican this year. The class polled one per cent of the voters in this area by picking the ninth voter in precinct one at random and selecting every one-hundredth voter that followed. Each student polled one precinct. Out of 191 voters polled, the class had 116 respond.

The results of the poll were: President: Nixon-Lodge 54 per cent, Kennedy-Johnson 33 per cent, undecided 9 per cent; U. S. Senate: Metcalf 48 per cent, Fjare 47 per cent, undecided 5 per cent; U. S. Congressman: Sarsfield 49 per cent, Olsen 41 per cent, undecided 10 per cent; Governor: Nutter 59 per cent, Cannon 33 per cent, undecided 8 per cent; for Prison Bond Issue 61 per cent, against Bond Issue 17 per cent, undecided 22 per cent.

The poll is not complete yet, but

Special Section Reserved For Governing Bodies

Members of MSU Central Board and MSC Senate will keep tabs on each other during the Grizzly-Bobcat tussle Saturday.

The groups will sit together in a reserved section, Jerry Agen, public relations director, said yesterday.

Agen said if the two governing bodies can sit in peace, an example may be set for other students.

Dr. Thomas Payne, instructor of the class, does not believe the percentages will be affected by the remaining answers to the poll.

He said the purpose of the poll is not to make a prediction but to learn how accurate election polls are.

Student Publicity Committee Plans Production of U Film

Someday campus life at MSU may be filmed.

This is a long range goal of the Movies Presentation Committee, according to Jerry Agen, director of student public relations.

Agen said that only one movie has been made portraying MSU. This was about 11 years ago.

A special fund for the movie was set up last year, Agen said, which will be increased every year. Eventually, he said, funds should be available for filming.

Various committees, under the direction of Agen, are busy providing the University with a sound public relations program.

Hook Wins First

A water color painting, "Three Apples," by Walter Hook, chairman of the art department, has won a first prize in a Minneapolis art show, according to James A. Dew, associate professor of art.

Entries in the show were limited to oils, water colors, sculpture, and graphic arts, Mr. Hook said.

Mr. Dew has an acrylic painting, "Subliminal Blue," in the exhibition.

U.N. President Will Address Model Meeting

Frederick H. Boland, president of the U.N. General Assembly, will address the 1961 Model United Nations, Albert Stillson, faculty advisor, said yesterday.

The 1961 Model U.N. will meet April 12 to 15 at the University of Oregon. MSU will send at least 12 delegates, possibly more if finances permit, Mr. Stillson said. The MSU delegation will represent the Congolese (French) Republic.

A delegate selection board will meet within a week. They will set up procedure and criteria for choosing the delegates, Mr. Stillson said.

Theta Sigma Phi Schedules Party

Theta Sigma Phi will hold its annual Women of the Press party tonight at 7:30 in J-209.

All women in the journalism school, women working in journalism in the Missoula area and all alumnae are invited, Barbara Williams, TSP president said.

Arlene Knee will speak on "New York: Broadway and the Bowery," and Miss Williams will report on the national Theta Sigma Phi convention which she attended at Colorado Springs, Colo., this summer.

See YOU at the MSU FLYING CLUB Conference Room 3—7:30
