Entertainment To Highlight Newman Mardi Gras Dance

Festive entertainment will highlight this year's Mardi Gras Saturday night.

Senior Jerry Colness, will be master of ceremonies, Judy McVey, chairman, said.

Carol Nelson, sophomore, backed by the Five Sharps, will sing and the High Styles and the Sigma Phi Epsilon German Band will perform, she said.

Entertainment will start at 10 p.m. and the crowning of the Mardi Gras royalty will follow.

Mardi Gras king will be crowned by the 1960 Mardi Gras queen, Gail Paige. Lou Sullivan, Newman Club president, will crown the Mardi Gras queen, Miss McVey said.

The carnival atmosphere will be cast by concession booths lining the Cascade room of the Lodge. These concessions include potato bowling, a pizza booth, pie throwing, a hoola hoop booth and a spook house, she said.

A noise parade will be held Friday at 12:30 p.m. for the king and queen candidates. Voting for candidates will be held from 8 a.m.

White-Robed Equestrian Wrangles MSU Students

A mysterious horse and rider appeared on campus yesterday between 3 and 4 p.m. to rival the bicycle riders racing to their classes.

The rider wore a flowing white robe and a mask and reined his horse between groups of students walking around the oval.

English professors may have likened the rider to the headless horseman that chased Ichabod Crane, or to Don Quixote, but he was merely advertising the Mardi Gras this weekend.

Legislators Reveal New Threats Concerning Railroad Merger

By The Associated Press

HELENA—A second case of a threat to a member of the state legislative assembly was revealed yesterday.

Rep. Lester W. Hall, R-Park, said he was threatened during the recent debate over a House memorial regarding merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways.

"The caller identified himself over the telephone as a leader of a committee opposing the merger," Hall said. "I presume that the identification was correct."

"He told me that if I did not vote as he directed that I would be defeated for re-election and that my business would be ruined."

"I responded that I believed I was elected to represent all the people of my county, not merely those who threatened me."

Hall's business is honey production. He has bee colonies located at various sites in the county and owns a honey processing plant from which he markets his product principally in the wholesale trade.

JFK Views Desegregation

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy pledged yesterday that he will use the "moral authority or position of influence of the presidency" in school desegregation situations.

The President at his news conference said students should be permitted to attend schools in accordance with court decisions.

The statements were made in response to a request for comment on a boycott by white students of schools in New Orleans, ordered desegregated three months ago by a federal court. A reporter said there appears to be an organized campaign of intimuntil 5 p.m. Friday at the Lodge voting booth.

Tickets are on sale at the Lodge voting booth today and Friday. Admission is 75 cents per person and dress is semi-formal, Miss McVey said.

Committee chairman and co-chairmen are Karel Lorenzen, correspondence; Mary Lou Hoppe, posters; Colleen Mack and Tom Bugni, noise parade; Mike Myrhow, decorations; Mary Lou Pengelly, chaperones; Jim Halpine and Joe Munzenrider, entertainment; Gene Meyers and Mary Lou Dwyer, kind and queen; and Mary Goffena, tickets and ballots.

Students Place In Speech Meets

Robert Nofsinger and Jerry Cunningham, freshmen debaters, rated fourth out of 40 teams in team quality points in the Rocky Mountain Speech Tournament last Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the University of Denver.

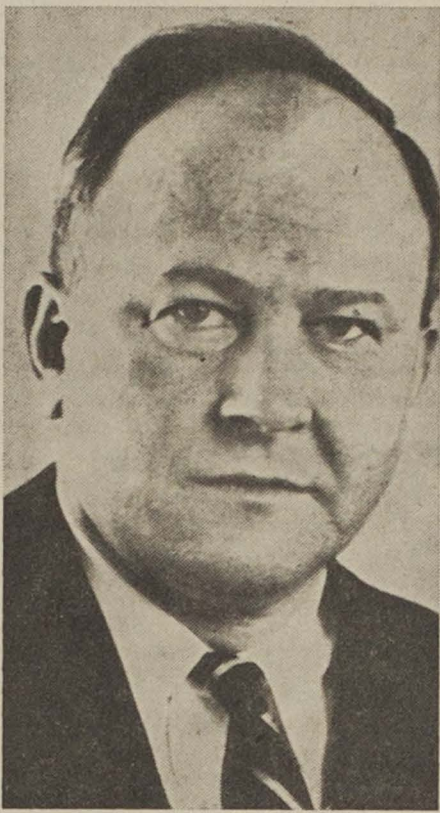

At the Harvard Invitational Debate Tournament in Cambridge, Mass., Charles Vick, senior, and Kirk Buls, junior, won five and lost three debates. Seventy-five colleges and universities attended the tournament.

Cordelia Brown was one of six finalists in the Northwest Tyro Speech Tournament at the University of Puget Sound, Tacoma. Miss Brown read a variety of selections called "The Women in Lincoln's Life." About 45 schools competed in the meet.

The team debated the topic "Resolved: That the United States should adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all citizens."

Vance Packard to Speak On American Character

Social critic and author, Vance Packard, of "hidden persuasion" and "status seeker" fame, will speak tonight on "The Changing

VANCE PACKARD

Character of the American People" at 8 in the Cascade Room of the Lodge.

He is the seventh lecturer in the current series sponsored by the Public Exercises Committee.

In his latest book, "The Waste Makers," Mr. Packard criticizes the over-commercialization of certain aspects of American life which he calls "consumerism." This book demonstrates that persuasion and the desire for social upgrading are no longer enough to sell surplus industrial products. He believes that productivity is maintained by "planned obsolescence."

Mr. Packard enjoyed the distinction of having two of his books, "The Status Seekers" and "The Hidden Persuaders," on best-selling lists in two years.

Mr. Packard has been an author, writer and teacher since he got his masters degree from Columbia Graduate School of Journalism. He specializes in pointing out new developments in the social sciences for contemporary society.

Mr. Packard previously was a

Groups Support Island Proposal

The suggestion that the state acquire Wildhorse Island in Flathead Lake is gaining widespread support from state and national conservation groups, John J. Craighead, professor of zoology said.

Mr. Craighead, leader of the Montana Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, said that the Cora Timken Burnett Estate is offering the island for sale.

Mr. Craighead said that Montana supporters who would set the island aside for scientific and recreational uses in the public interest include Columbia Falls Rifle and Pistol Club, Northern Rocky Mountain Sportsmen's Assn., Polson Outdoors, Inc., Flathead Wildlife, Inc., Whitefish Rod and Gun Club, Western Montana Fish and Game Association and the Ravalli County Fish and Game Association.

The Nature Conservancy, a national non-profit organization engaged in saving representative examples of natural environment for educational and scientific purposes, also supports the suggestion, he said.

Donald Stough, executive secretary of the Nature Conservancy, said the island would make an excellent biological research under controlled conditions.

"The Wildlife Research Unit and other departments of the University as well as the State Fish and Game Department have qualified staffs to carry out a wide number of research activities," Stough said.

"The proximity of an area like this to institutions where highly trained personnel are available is relatively rare and the benefit that could be derived from this combination should not be overlooked."

Capt. Fox to Make Initial Jump During Parachute Club Training

Capt. Donald C. Fox, University Army ROTC staff member, will make his first parachute jump as a Parachute Club trainee Sunday with other members of the Parachute Club.

Carl Gidlund, president of the parachute club, said whether Captain Fox will actually jump Sunday depends on the weather and the Sixth Army. Captain Fox is waiting for an official approval for Army personnel associated with MSU to participate in parachute jumping.

Capt. Fox, a Navy man from 1942 to 1946, was a deep sea diver from 1944 to 1946.

Richard Peterson and Larry Schmidt will be making their second static line jump Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Miller Creek area south of Missoula.

Mersch Ward, Stephen Lutz, Neil Rylander, Donovan Harby and Dee Weaver, members who have completed the required five static line jumps, will make their first free fall Sunday at 1 p.m. newspaperman in Boston and New York and wrote articles for the American magazine and Collier's, where he was a staff member.

Church Music To Be Featured

Religious music will be featured in three events scheduled in Missoula during February.

The first event, an organ recital by Laurence Perry, will include compositions by Franz Tunder, J. S. Bach, Cesar Franck, Darius Milhaud and Leo Sowerby. The recital will be Feb. 12 at 8:15 p.m. in Music Recital Hall.

The other events are a concert by the St. Olaf's Choir from Northfield, Minn., Thursday, Feb. 16, at 8:15 in the Wilma Theater, and a program of hymns by Mr. Perry and the MSU choral organizations, directed by Joseph Mussulman, Sunday, Feb. 19, at 8:15 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall.

The first event, Laurence Perry's recital, is one of a series of programs by members of the music faculty that are open to the public without charge, according to Dean Luther A. Richman.

ROTC Women's Corps Applications Due Today

Applications for the Army ROTC women's auxiliary corps are due today at the ROTC building, Cadet Lt. Col. William Mott announced yesterday.

The election board will convene Wednesday, Feb. 15 in Conference Room 2 in the Lodge rather than at the end of the quarter as previously announced. Women are requested to wear straight dark skirts, white blouses and high heels for the individual interviews, Col. Mott said.

The board of examiners will select 15 girls for the corps who will act as hostesses for the army and take part in spring quarter drills.

SPURS SELL 'SPUROGRAMS'

Spurs will sell "Spurograms" at entrance to the Lodge tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"Spurograms" are personal valentines that will be delivered by Spurs Saturday at noon to each living quarter on campus.

Spurs will deliver a singing valentine for 25 cents and a regular valentine on telegram paper with a personal message for 10 cents.

Mild Revolution

Beginning immediately, fraternity men will toe the mark.

Nine MSU fraternity presidents have been meeting with Carl Lamb, assistant dean of students, to develop a strict set of academic standards to help raise lagging grades. Fall quarter two fraternities fell below 2.0 point, Mr. Lamb said, and this plan may "help fraternities build a better scholastic basis."

It is really a fight for survival of the Greek system.

Ray Hunkins, president of Phi Delta Theta, said this plan, developed by the presidents, will preclude any criticism by future deans against fraternities, which can exist only under favorable light by the Administration.

Fraternities will be more selective in choosing pledges, Ken Fordick, president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, said and the rush rules set up by Interfraternity Council may change.

Hunkins said fraternities must meet a 2.0 average this quarter, a 2.2 this spring and next fall, a 2.25 next winter and a 2.3 the following spring. He said fraternities falling short will first get a warning, then go on scholastic probation, then go on social probation and ultimately the charter will be forfeited if necessary.

Mr. Lamb said this program should give the fraternities greater status; their goal will be to exceed the all men's grade average which, we might point out, trails the ladies' very substantially.

Sometimes a fraternity will rate very high, then slide to the bottom the following year. Conversely, the low scorers zoom to the top suddenly. The pressure of an academic standard could smoothen this haphazard oscillation, creating a competition which would encourage the entire campus to improve.

The new outlook should excite the educators on campus who mumble something about fraternity men knowing nothing, doing nothing and trying everything to avoid getting an education during their four years.

We applaud the courage and vision of this plan as a mild revolution in the history of MSU. —ryho

Why Can't They Read?

By Greensboro (N.C.) Daily News

If anybody needed to be reminded, Prof. J. N. Douglas Bush of Harvard has told us again that our college students do not know how to read.

The majority of students who enter college have read very little literature, know next to nothing about the classics and cannot write a page of good English, Dr. Bush said at a recent meeting of the Association of American Colleges.

Thus students today "cannot read English with perceptive and discriminating taste." And Dr. Bush is probably correct in surmising that "a large proportion of these are only semi-literate when they receive the degree of bachelor of arts."

In a word, one of the painful facts of the American way of life is that we are not a nation of readers.

We boast that we have a higher proportion of young people in college than any nation, yet we lag behind a number of other and smaller nations in our capacity for reading books.

What is the reason? The vast majority of students come from homes where their parents never read books, never had books lying around. Reading then is an unfamiliar process, and college age may be too late in life to become familiar with it.

"Starry-eyed undergraduates turn into glassy-eyed alumni and alumnae who," says Professor Bush, "if they read anything, read best sellers and magazines."

This doesn't come as a surprise—merely as another confirmation of an already well-butressed conclusion. But it's just as depressing this time as it was the last time we contemplated it.

Word of the Week

Did you ever stop to think that as a college student who is striving for a good education you owe it to yourself to learn about unfamiliar traditions, ways of life and ideas?

Secondly, are you aware of your responsibility as a citizen of a leading world power? When foreign students arrive at MSU your actions will directly affect the impression of Americans which these students will later carry to their own countries.

A main function of the International Students' Committee is to acquaint MSU students with the opportunities open to them for acquiring not only interesting lasting friendships, but also gaining insight first-hand into other cultures.

"But what can we do to make them feel more at home here?" you might ask. As hosts to these students (most of whom are outstanding in their own countries) you might invite some of them on short trips so that they may see more of Montana and the U.S.

Realizing how long it has been since most of them have been able to go home, you might invite them to your own home for a weekend.

ISC has been establishing a fall quarter orientation plan for the new international students. This program includes meeting as many students as possible on their arrival, helping them with registration, acquainting them with the community and discussing American customs with them.

In the near future Roberta Anderson, librarian, will set up a bulletin board in the Lodge. It will provide notice of such items as travel programs, education and scholarship programs abroad, foreign student magazines and a calendar of foreign student activities.

ISC will soon be sending questionnaires to foreign students who have attended MSU in the past ten years. A future issue of the Alumni News will be based on their replies.

We of ISC have just begun to become aware that while MSU is only a small school, what happens here will have far-reaching influences in all parts of the globe later on. In a sense, MSU is being carried throughout the world.

Insinuations Make Miss Moose Beller

To the Kaimin:

Dear Lawyers:

Hogwash! All that fancy, flighty talk. You write as if you composed your letter at an afternoon tea. Why there isn't a man among you!

The way you ran off at the mouth and twisted things around, I never could figure out whether or not you accepted the challenge my boys offered.

Furthermore I happen to resent being referred to as a beast. Not only have I won several moose beauty contests, including the M.S.U. Homecoming Queen Contest that I won unofficially in 1958, but I am held in high esteem by the best woodsmen in the country.

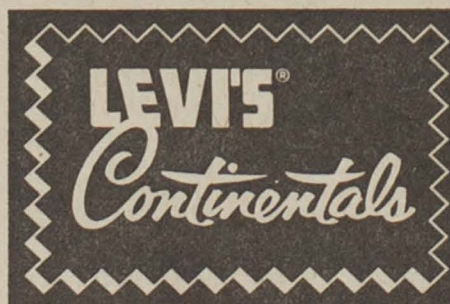

Please show more respect for me in the future.

Sixteen-Point Average Boosts Law Into Top Scoring Bracket

Keith Law, 6-4 center from Kankakee, Ill., is leading the Cub basketball team in scoring with a 16-point average.

Law is also the team leader in field goal percentage. He has made 52 out of 104 attempts for a .510 percentage.

Harold Peterson, also from Kankakee, is close behind Law in scoring with an average of 15.8 points per game.

Tim Aldrich of Missoula has averaged 16.2 points, but he missed the last two games because of an injury and is not included among the leaders.

Tony Dumay of Columbia Falls is third in scoring with an average of 11.5 points per game, and Harold Fullerton of Ronan is fourth with a 10.4 average.

Fullerton is leading the team in free throw percentage. He has made 15 out of 23 attempts from the charity stripe for a .625 percentage.

Other Cub cagers are Jim Hason, Decatur, Ill., Gary Helvig, Wibaux; Tom Dumay, Columbia Falls; Larry Corcoran, Conrad; Tom Croci, New York; Bob Hauk, Butte; Bill Martin, Dillon and Jim Baker, Missoula.

The Cubs play an intrasquad game for the preliminary of each home Grizzly game.

Bill 'the Hill' to Lead Redskins In Basketball Clash Saturday

If Utah's coach Jack Gardner is right, Montana fans will be treated to an exhibition by the "greatest offensive post-man in collegiate basketball history" this weekend.

Bill "the Hill" McGill, Utah's sensational 6-9 center, who was awarded the title by Gardner, will lead the "Running Redskins" into action against the Grizzlies Saturday night at the Field House.

McGill was the nation's fourth-ranked major college scorer last week with a 28.4 average. McGill dropped his average to 27.6 last weekend when he scored only 23 points against Wyoming but he sat out the second half in that game.

The 21-year-old sharpshooter is the Skyline's leading scorer with a 29 point average in conference games. McGill is third in Skyline rebounds with an average of 12.6 per game and first in field goal percentage with a .575 percentage.

Last season, while only a sophomore, McGill was everyone's All-Conference choice and made several third team All-American squads.

McGill recently set a Ute single-game rebound record of 25, and with at least seven games remaining he has enough games to break nearly all Utah school records.

McGill's few remaining critics admit that if he makes as much progress before his senior year as he did prior to this season, he should be unstoppable next season.

Students May Get Game Room

Student Union Committee yesterday authorized Games Committee to check into the possibility of setting up a game area in the Cascade Room of the Lodge.

The plans would include three table tennis units, a shuffleboard, a record player and a dart game.

The table tennis facilities, which were discussed last week at a Student Union committee meeting, were to have been set up by Monday. Bob Morgenstern, Activities Board chairman, said one table will be up by next week, and two more will be set up later.

Dean Maurine Clow suggested the shuffleboard game. She said some of the University women are interested in having something to do on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Dean Clow asked if a record player could be placed in the Cascade room. Students could bring their own records for Saturday afternoon dancing, she said.

Training Course Planned Saturday

An air operations practical training course will be conducted at the Aerial Fire Depot (Smokejumper Base) five miles west of Missoula, Saturday, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Dave Morton, Forestry Club president, said this is the second of a series of practical training courses. The courses are sponsored by the School of Forestry in conjunction with the U.S. Forest Service.

The course Saturday will be handled by U.S. Forest Service personnel from Missoula, Morton said. Lectures will be held on the use of the airplane in forest fire control and in other phases of general forestry.

The lectures will also stress the capabilities and limitations of smokejumpers and fire retardant chemicals in the line of forest fire control, Morton said.

During the course a Johnson Flying Service TBM will make a demonstration drop of a load of fire retardant.

A city school bus for those without transportation will leave from Cook Hall at 1 p.m. No fee is charged for the training course, but the fee for transportation is 30 cents for anyone wishing to attend, Morton said.
