Kennedy, Macmillan Meet At Capital on World Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan had a "most valuable and useful" talk on world problems yesterday but did not resolve differences about Red China.

The leaders of the two most powerful free world nations conferred for more than seven hours at the White House in the first day of a three-day series of consultations.

They concentrated on ways to strengthen the Western Alliance against the Communist threat, and also on bolstering the United Nations and improving aid programs for underdeveloped countries.

Kennedy is trying to lay a solid groundwork for the future of the Western Alliance during the coming decade, and this was Macmillan's first chance for a general chat with the new President. The talks, attended by top aid on both sides, were described as completely cordial.

Congress May Investigate Right-Wing Birch Society

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee will meet Wednesday to decide whether it will investigate the John Birch Society.

Both critics and supporters of the right-wing group have urged a congressional probe to get the facts on its aims, activities and membership.

Scroll Paintings From Hong Kong To Be Displayed

An exhibit of Chinese scroll paintings by faculty and students of the Fine Art Department of New Asia College, Hong Kong, will be displayed in the Yellowstone Room of the Lodge, April 8-13, according to Dave Rianda, director of Student Union activities.

Student Union Committee is sponsoring the exhibit which was prepared by the World University Service Hong Kong Committee.

The paintings are a contribution to cultural interchange for a mutual understanding between East and West. New Asia College seeks through its painting to promote the knowledge of Chinese culture.

Traditional Chinese painting using ink and brush are shown throughout the exhibit. The exhibit also includes several landscapes and reproduction of plants, birds and seasons.

United Nations Delegates Leave For Mock Conference Monday

Thirteen MSU students will leave Monday for Eugene, Ore., to attend the 11th session of the Model United Nations at the University of Oregon, according to Judy McVey, press delegate.

Delegates will decide the fate, supposedly, of the two and a half million inhabitants of the two African nations they will represent, Chad and the Republic of the Congo (Brazzaville).

John Carlson, junior, is chairman of the MSU delegation and of the delegation of the Republic of the Congo. Judy McVey, senior, is chairman of the Chad delegation.

Delegates for the Republic of the Congo are: M. Ali Al-Saadi, Joan Elder, Virginia Ragland, seniors; Carol Cooper, Allan Jeska, from the service record of Capt. John M. Birch.

Robert Welch, the society's founder, has called Birch "the first casualty in the third world war between the Communists and the ever-shrinking free world."

Birch was a Baptist missionary to China before World War II. He was commissioned in the Army Air Corps after the fighting began.

Soviet Union Withdraws Controversial Complaint

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union today formally withdrew its controversial complaint against U.S. spy plane flights over Soviet territory.

Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin told the General Assembly's 99-nation political committee that he was acting in the interest of easing international tension and improving relations between his country and the United States.

Zorin called for the withdrawal of two other hot issues—Hungary and Tibet—by the free world. The United States, however, said these questions were not in the same category as the Soviet U2 plane complaint. It reserved its position as to whether it would push for full debate.

U.N. Secretary-General Declares He Can Resign

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Dag Hammarskjold declared yesterday he is ready to resign as U. N. secretary-general any time the General Assembly feels he should resign.

He repeated his previous insistence, however, that he will not bow to Soviet resignation demands unless the 99-nation assembly asks him to do so.

Panel Sentences Finch, Tregoff to Life Terms

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his sweetheart, Carole Tregoff, were sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his socialite wife.

The same jury of 10 men and 2 women that convicted them last week thus spared the wealthy surgeon and his ex-mistress from death in California's gas chamber.

The panel had deliberated for three suspenseful days on their only two choices: death in the gas chamber or a life prison sentence.

The life imprisonment decision means they will be eligible for parole after seven years.

Paula Simmons, juniors; and Eva Neisser, sophomore.

Chad delegates are: Kathy Jones, Sandra Orr, seniors; Dorothy McBride and John Schulz, juniors.

More than 200 resolutions submitted by member nations will be considered at the meeting. Delegates will participate in the disarmament commission, general assembly, charter revision committee, political and security committee, special political committee, economic and finance committee, and the social, humanitarian and cultural committee.

Albert C. Stillson, assistant professor of political science, will accompany the delegation as adviser.

The delegation is scheduled to return Monday, April 17.

Seniors to Give Seminar Friday

The School of Pharmacy will present a seminar tomorrow at 2 p.m. in Chem-Pharm 202, according to Robert Van Horne, dean of the School of Pharmacy.

The seminar will be presented by three seniors, David Roll, John Dahlin and Tom Nash. They are participants in the Undergraduate Participation Program sponsored by the National Science Foundation. The seminar will be based on their recent studies.

Loble Speaks At Annual Law Function

Judge Lester Loble, one of Montana's most prominent district court judges, will be guest speaker at the annual Barrister's Ball Saturday.

Invitations have been sent to all Montana lawyers, as well as law students, according to Dick Josephson and John Radonich, co-chairmen of the dinner-dance.

The results of the Law Student Association elections, held at the Law School Saturday morning, will be announced at the ball. Offices to be filled are president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer.

The Jubileers will entertain after the dinner, the Kappa Keys, Richard Guthrie and Joanna Lester will perform during the dance intermission. The dinner begins at 8 p.m. in the Governor's Room of the Hotel Florence.

Tickets may be purchased from law students.

'Orchesis' Tryouts Slated Saturday

Tryouts for "Orchesis," national modern dance honorary, are scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday in Women's Center 104.

Invitations have been sent to 75 MSU women students who have given academic approval as candidates, according to Kay F. Selde, instructor in Health and Physical Education.

Transfer students who have no records filed in dance may apply as candidates for membership before 4 p.m. Friday at the office in the Women's Center.

All candidates must wear dance apparel, Miss Selde said.

Miss Neisser Says Spur Applications Available

Spur applications will be available at the Brantly Hall desk today, Eva Neisser, Spur publicity chairman, said.

A picture must accompany the application which is due April 19, Miss Neisser said.

To qualify for Spurs a freshman girl must have a 2.5 cumulative grade point average and be active in campus affairs.

Thirty Spurs will be tapped this spring. This is an increase of five Spurs over past years. The formal tapping will take place at the S.O.S. ceremonies during Inter-scholastic.

Cole Receives Three Year Fellowship to U. of Hawaii

By PATRICIA SHAW

Robert E. Cole, senior in psychology has received a National Defense Education Fellowship to the University of Hawaii for the next three years.

A fellowship provides the individual $2,000 for the first year of study, $2,200 for the second, and $2,400 for the third in addition to an allowance of $400 per year for each dependent.

National Defense Education Fel-

step. Cole is a family man with four children.

First he and his wife, Maxine, looked at their financial picture. It wasn't too good and yet it could have been worse. They owned their own home and owed a few bills. They had a little money in the bank, but not enough for four years of college.

They decided to sell everything—house, furniture, even the lawnmower. They had enough to start, and the important thing was to get started.

This June Robert Cole will graduate from MSU. Three years of hard work have at last proved their worth.

Bob, his wife, and four children will depart for Hawaii in mid-July.

Lecturers Announced For 1961-62

The 1961-62 program of the Public Exercises and Visiting Lecturers Committee was announced Tuesday by Rlaph McGinnis, committee chairman.

The tentative program is: Oct. 24, Bruno Bettelheim, head of Sonya Shankman Orthogenic Center in Chicago, who will speak on "The Disturbed Child;" Nov. 7, John H. Franklin, chairman of the Department of History of Brooklyn College; Dec. 1, Julian Hartt, professor of philosophical theology at Yale, speaking in connection with Religious Emphasis Week; Jan. 15, Peter Rossi, director of National Public Opinion Research Center in Chicago.

Several well-known lecturers are scheduled for March. They are: Margaret Meade, widely-known anthropologist, March 29 at 1 p.m. convocation; Barry Goldwater, March 29 at 8 p.m. convocation; March 2, Ogden Nash; April 12, Marquis Childs. A definite date has not been selected for Y. P. Mei, former teacher in China before Communist rule and now a professor at the University of Iowa.

lowships are given to universities throughout the country and they award the fellowships to worthy students who have been accepted or are attending their institution.

The purpose of the NDE fellowships is to encourage students interested in college teaching.

Cole said he will continue his study in experimental psychology in the graduate school of the University of Hawaii beginning next September.

In May, 1958, Cole, along with 20 other mill workers from Libby, was taking part in a Human Relations course conducted by Frank duMas at Libby, where he decided to enter college. This was no small

Applications Due For Counselors At Frosh Camp

Freshman Camp is scheduled for Sept. 14-17 at Camp Paxon, Seeley Lake, according to Buzz Romstad, co-chairman.

Counselor applications for the ASMSU-sponsored camp are available at the lodge. Twenty Counselors having a 2-point average will be chosen to acquaint new freshmen with campus life at MSU.

Applications must be submitted by 2 p.m. Tuesday, Romstad said. Interviews for counselors will take place next week.

Linda Kammerzell and Buzz Romstad were selected as co-chairmen by Central Board.

Cosmopolitan Club To Show Movies

Today at 7:30 two color films, "Face of Free China" and "City of Cathay," will be shown in LA 101, according to Arashmidos Monjaze, president of the Cosmopolitan Club.

Bob Yang, from Taipei, a senior in physics, will speak after the films.

Members of the club are asked to meet in the same room, today at 7 p.m. to discuss plans for a trip to Helena, which includes a visit with Gov. Nutter, and a picnic, Monjaze said.

Lodgologists Get Games

New dart boards and tables for table tennis have been added to the Lodge game selection, according to Dave Rianda, director of Student Union activities.

The dart boards and metal balanced darts which recently arrived may be checked out from the Lodge desk and used in the Yellowstone room.

Tables for table tennis are in the Yellowstone room, balls and paddles may be checked out at the desk.

Checkers, Chinese checkers, monopoly and cribbage are also available, he said.

Climbing Lecture To Be Presented By Mountaineers

Slides and lecture by a Spokane Mountaineer will be presented Saturday April 8 at 8 p.m. in the journalism auditorium according to Gardner Miller, president of the Rocky Mountaineers Club.

The two-hour slides and lecture entitled "The Best of the West" is being sponsored by the Rocky Mountaineers Club and will be presented by Joe Collins, a member of the Spokane Mountaineers Club and board member of the North Cascade Conservation Council.

The lecture will cover three general topics: climbing in the Northwest, Wilderness areas, and Conservation.

Campus Charlie Hits Again

Flash—Students riot at Fort Lauderdale.

Quick, get a disgusted look on your face, shake your head, and say "Damm it, what are they trying to prove."

Good show, now you're among friends. No where in America will you be without a friend or something to talk about.

Your friends will be other shortsighted sublime persons who have passed judgment on all American Students considering the actions of only a few.

Your conversation will be in a solemn tone, with one talking while the other shakes his head. Campus Charlie, is your subject, that beer drinking, sex happy mongrel among thoroughbreds.

Yes, that's right, you will never be alone, that is unless you want someone intelligent to talk with.

Proud? Well, you should be; you're the finger in the dike that stops the trickle of truth, the noose that separates an idea from realization.

Fort Lauderdale should never have happened, nor should have two world wars.

The most unfortunate think about branding the American student Campus Charlie is that when the serious student wants to discuss the problems of censorship, sex, government or segregation the image of Fort Lauderdale and Campus Charlie pops up and you refuse to listen.

Certainly the activities of students should be judged critically, but the judgment should be based on the individual case.

Censor the Censor

Often it is true that yesterday's news is old news. At first glance the "Venture affair" may appear to have been in the headlines for a couple days and then passed and became latent. However, the case of John Schwarz and his censored story can hardly become yesterday's news. We can't afford to let it happen.

Why? Generally, we may answer this question by claiming our rights as citizens of the United States. The Bill of Rights provides not only for freedom of expression (other than that which promotes the overthrow of the government). Interpretatively, it also provides for our right to be exposed to this expression.

Aside from governmental and few other classifications which, for the sake of national security, are held from the public, censorship is quite unconstitutional. This also pertains to the case of Mr. Schwarz.

The free mind is constantly plagued with reformers, educators of moral thought and action, do-gooders. Is this not enough? Must a liberal arts school (or any other) also protect us from our own thoughts? While we attend the utmost resort of the broad, open mind, must we be imposed upon by an opposite extreme?

Whence comes obscenity? If we think carefully, we find that actually nothing is obscene. We see a word, a phrase, any written or implied thought, and if there is any obscenity, it is in our minds—whether its author meant it to be or not. Mr. Schwarz claimed his story contained no obscene words. What he used, he said, was important in describing the kind of character in his story. Certainly, different words could have been used to describe this character. However, it was a matter of taste and style and who is to say which style is right and moral?

We must constantly be alert for the censor and his work, for in our state it is he who we must censor. Let our University be known and respected as an outpost of free thought and education—not as a pathetic carnival of marionettes.

Twofold Purpose In ROTC Program

To The Kaimin:

Throughout the year the Kaimin receives many letters attacking the R.O.T.C. program at MSU.

The program, as I see it, has a twofold purpose; first to give the freshman and sophomore cadet an understanding of military organization and tactics while attending college, and second to train the junior and senior cadet in the principles of military leadership.

I believe these two aims are and always have been accomplished.

The appeals to the Kaimin and the MSU administration are not at all appeals for increased academic fervor by no means, but rather the cries of small boys who refuse to accept their responsibilities as young American males.

The R.O.T.C. program is not operated by staunch militarist advocating the garrison state, but by men who are realistic enough to realize the necessity of military training.

The smart student can recognize, without much observation, that the R.O.T.C. course is one of the best organized and concise subjects on campus, and any personnel manager would vouch for the organizational and leadership principles which can be transferred from R.O.T.C. to civilian life.

HAPPINESS CAN'T BUY MONEY

With tuition costs spiralling ever upward, more and more undergraduates are investigating the student loan plan. If you are one who is considering the "Learn Now, Pay Later" system, you would do well first to study the case of Leonid Sigafos.

Leonid, the son of an upholsterer in Straitened Circumstances, Idaho, had his heart set on going to college, but his father, alas, could not afford to send him. Leonid applied for a Regents Scholarship, but his reading speed, alas, was not very rapid—two words an hour—and before he could finish the first page of his test the Regents had closed their brief cases crossly and gone home. Leonid then applied for an athletic scholarship, but he had, alas, only a single athletic skill—balancing a stick on his chin—and this, alas, aroused only passing enthusiasm among the coaches.

And then, huzzah, Leonid learned of the student loan plan: he could borrow money for his tuition and repay it in easy monthly installments after he left school!

Happily Leonid enrolled in the Southeastern Idaho College of Woodpulp and Restoration Drama and happily began a college career that grew more happy year by year. Indeed, it became altogether ecstatic in his senior year because Leonid met a coed named Salina T. Nem with hair like beaten gold and eyes like two squirts of Lake Louise. Love gripped them in its big moist palm and they were betrothed on the Eve of St. Agnes.

Happily they made plans to be married the day after commencement—plans, alas, that never were to come to fruition because Leonid, alas, learned that Salina, like himself, was in college on a student loan, which meant that he had not only to repay his own loan when he left school but also Salina's, and the job, alas, that was waiting for Leonid after graduation at the Boise Raccoon Works simply did not pay enough, alas, to cover both their loans, plus rent and food and clothing.

Sick at heart, Leonid and Salina sat down and lit Marlboro Cigarettes and tried to find an answer to their problem—and, sure enough, they did! I do not know whether or not Marlboro Cigarettes helped them find an answer; all I know is that Marlboros taste good and look good, and when things close in and a feller needs a friend and the world is black as the pit from pole to pole, it is a heap of comfort and satisfaction to be sure that Marlboros will always provide the same unflinching pleasure, the same unstinting quality, in all times and climes and conditions. That's all I know.

Leonid and Salina, I say, did find an answer—a very simple one. If their student loans did not come due until they left school, why, then they just wouldn't leave school! So after receiving their bachelor degrees, they re-enrolled and took masters degrees. After that they took doctors degrees, loads and loads of them, until today Leonid and Salina, both aged 78, both still in school, hold doctorates in Philosophy, Humane Letters, Jurisprudence, Veterinary Medicine, Civil Engineering, Optometry, and Dewey Decimals. Their student loans, as of last January 1, amounted to a combined total of eighteen million dollars, a sum which they probably would have found great difficulty in repaying had not the Department of the Interior recently declared them a National Park.

You don't need a student loan—just a little loose change—to grab yourself a new kind of smoking pleasure from the makers of Marlboro—the unfiltered king-size Philip Morris Commander. Welcome aboard!

Call Is Out for Spring Football With Skyline Teams Responding

BACKSTOP—Grizzly catcher Chuck Miltenberger is one of nine lettermen who returned to see action with the Montana baseball team this season. Miltenberger throws and bats right, and the Grizzly regular hit over the .300 mark during the 1960 season. Miltenberger will probably see action behind the plate Saturday when the Grizzlies meet Montana State College in Campbell Park. Montana's first Skyline game is April 14 against the University of Utah in Salt Lake City.

The call has gone out around the Skyline Conference for spring football drills, and the teams are beginning to respond.

Gridders at Brigham Young University reported to their first drills Monday, and Utah State University players began practice sessions the following day. The University of Utah opens practice Saturday.

The University of Wyoming gets underway Wednesday and Montana's Grizzlies will be on the practice field April 18 for 30 days of pre-season workouts.

Coaches Ray Nagel, Utah, John Ralston, USU, and Hal Mitchell, BYU, call spring training the most important 30 days of the year for a football team.

Fifty Candidates Expected

About 50 candidates are expected to turn out for the annual spring football ritual at MSU. Included in the group will be 25 lettermen and veterans from last year's squad.

The list also includes 16 or more sophomores who will be looking for positions on the varsity.

Ray Jenkins, MSU coach, will have to do without six lettermen during the drills because of their participation in other spring sports. Ends Bill Bouchee and Glenn Sorenson, guard Jim Bartell and quarterback Bob O'Billovich are playing with the Grizzly baseball team.

Halfbacks Pat Dodson and Jim Grasky will be running for the Montana track team this spring.

This spring Jenkins faces the problem of rebuilding a line shattered by the graduation of four key linemen. The Grizzlies lost John Gregor, tackle, Jim Johnson, center and Dale Berry and Howie Schwend, ends.

Few Problems in Backfield

Jenkins should have few problems with his backfield. The entire Grizzly starting unit will return, and each backfield position is backed up by one or more experienced lettermen who can carry out starting assignments.

Gary Smith will be on hand with Terry Dillon at the halfback spot. The two other starters, O'Billovich and Dodson, will miss spring drills.

Veteran's Ron Werba, Paul Gustafson, Dick Miller and Rich Birgenheier will be alternating at the halfback positions and Gary Ekegren will back up Smith at fullback.

Quarterbacks John Schulz and Bill Stack will handle the signal calling duties in the absence of O'Billovich.

Jenkins plans on stressing fundamentals during the spring drills, and he said the Grizzlies will work towards improving their blocking, tackling and team speed both in the line and backfield.

Local weather may govern the regularity of drills, but Jenkins plans on practicing in the afternoon on Tuesday, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, and on Saturday mornings.

Montana will wind up spring practice with its annual intra-squad game May 18.

In the southern part of the conference Bob Devaney, Wyoming coach, expects to see some 90 football candidates when the Cowboys open drills Monday. Wyoming, Skyline Conference co-champions, will practice for 20 days.

Commenting on the drills Devaney said, "We'll be experimenting for awhile."

Devaney said he figured Montana would have one of its best teams in a great many years. Last year the Grizzlies won 2 and lost 5 in the conference, and finished with a 5 and 5 overall record.

Wyoming shared the Skyline title with Utah State in 1960. Both teams had 6 and 1 records. Montana finished the season in a tie with BYU for fifth place.

USU, Team to Beat

Devaney said that Utah State would certainly be the team to beat in 1961.

The Wyoming coach did not comment on his own team, but the Cowboys may find the going a bit tougher during the 1961 season.

Wyoming will have 14 returning, but the Cowboys lost 19 men and Devaney no longer has lettermen piled two and three deep in all positions. Wyoming will have trouble filling empty positions in the line and Devaney has relied on the line for a strong defense in past years.

The Cowboys will practice until May 13, the date of their annual spring intra-squad game. Wyoming opens its 1961 football schedule against Montana at Billings, Sept. 16.

Home Ec. Club Elects Officers

Home Economics club officers were elected at a luncheon meeting Friday.

The officers are Cecile Laqua, president; Glenna Nelson, vice-president; Delores Leuthold, secretary; Linda Harrison, treasurer; Gay Grady, publicity; Karen Bower and Janice Jordan, ways and means; and Judy Krubsack, historian.

Plans were made for the state home economics convention at MSC in Bozeman, April 13-15. Twelve Home Economics Club members will attend from the University.

Carol Spaulding of MSU, state college clubs president, will preside at the convention.

The state home economics organization is made up of home economics students from MSU and MSC. The offices of president, secretary, vice-president and treasurer are rotated between the schools each year.

Susan Wetzel and Helen Dwelle were elected by an MSU home economics election committee to serve as state vice-president and treasurer next year. They will be installed in their offices at the convention.

A wise man will hear, and will increase learning; and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels.

Proverbs 1:5

CONFUCIUS SAY—Wu Sin Yin (Ron Engle) points to the heavens in a dramatic moment of "The Yellow Jacket" as Dung Yung Fah (Georgia Benton), Lee Sin (Jim Baker), and Suey Sin Fah (Tam Seriven) pay honorable attention. "The Yellow Jacket" opens tonight at 8:15 in the University Theater.

Long History Recalled

Montana Masquer Troupe Finishes 61st Road Season

The recently-completed 1961 Montana Masquer tour marked 61 years of touring theater for Montana State University.

In January of 1900 "A Woman of the People" opened in Hamilton and Stevensville. Daniel E. Bandmann, an internationally famous Shakespearean actor who had retired to Missoula, directed the play.

Alexander Dean, 20 years later, organized the newly formed Masquers into a group which toured 14 Montana cities in addition to Kellogg and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. Mr. Dean later became associate professor of play direction at Yale University.

Modern Masquer touring began in 1949 with "The Playboy of the Western World" directed by LeRoy Hinze. Firman H. Brown Jr., present chairman of the department, played the leading role. In the following years Mr. Hinze toured "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Othello."

Mr. Brown began directing the annual Masquer tour in 1957. Since that time he had directed the following tour shows: "Twelfth Night," "Candida," "Man and Superman," "The Matchmaker," and "The Yellow Jacket."

A touring troupe is a glamorous and exciting group to the public attending their performances. The colorful flats, gay costumes, and the make-believe world created by the actors fascinate the audiences.

To the troupe members, however, the glamour, color and creativity take place only during the hours of performance. Days are crowded with travel, setting up scenery, lights and sound, pressing costumes and last-minute rehearsals.

Following each performance "breaking set" and packing the truck take place. This process usually takes three to four hours.

Eager and interested students in drama each year devote between-quarter vacation time bringing live theater to Montana audiences.
