Committees Can't Agree

Central Board Tables Move To Restrain Kaimin Policy

Dave Browman, chairman of Planning Board, introduced among seven bylaws a measure in Central Board which would require the Kaimin to sign editorials supporting candidates in elections and to give the other candidates equal amount of space in the Kaimin for rebuttal.

In the tense discussion which followed, Steve Carroll read a series of bylaws of which one stated that matters concerning the Kaimin or other ASMSU publications must be considered first by Publications Board. Publications Board had received no notification that there would be any changes in Kaimin policy other than a brief encounter between Browman and Doug Grimm, Publications Board chairman.

Denis Adams, relinquishing the chair to take part in the discussion, stated that Planning Board, because of its special nature, had the right to propose bylaws without going through Publications Board.

Editor Takes Stand

Frank Walsh, Kaimin editor, took the floor and stated that his policies were stated to Publications Board at the beginning of the quarter and that neither Adams nor Browman were present to voice any objections. Walsh said that the people not there really didn't care about Kaimin Policy or they would have been at the Publications Board meeting.

A motion was then made to table Planning Committee's bylaw until Publications Board had a chance to review the situations.

Among the bylaws introduced and passed are:

- Hometown News Committee is abolished because the committee only turned Kaimin stories over to the News Service and that it actually had nothing to do.
- Elections recounts requested must be made within 24 hours after the candidates have been notified by the posting of results on the bulletin board of ASMSU.

J-Council Investigated

Planning Committee was also given the task of investigating

Judicial Council after Larry Juelfs, chairman of J-Council stated that J-Council will not hold any meetings unless there is a need for a meeting on social standards or unless there is urgent business.

Juelfs said that there will be no cases from any source. The president's office, he said, has the responsibility by law of handling student problems.

Social rules, Juelfs said, are of interest to J-Council and he believed that there should be a group composed of faculty, administration and students formed for this purpose.

Central Board approved Publications Board's recommendation that Ted Dixon be approved as assistant photographer of the Sentinel with his pay retroactive to Oct. 1.

"Street Scene" Approved

Central Board also voted to accept a committee proposal that "Street Scene" be the opera for the All-School Show. Cost of producing the show would be about $3,000, according to Ray Young, a committee member.

J. L. Lester of the music department said that the philosophy behind the selection of "Street Scene" was that it would bring something educational and cultural to the campus and that the cost was not as high as it might be in other operas.

Mr. Lester said that "Street Scene" was first produced on Broadway in 1947. He said that it had touches of comedy and tragedy and that it required a cast of about 55.

Bettelheim Claims Disturbed Child Result of Demands

Dr. Bruno Bettelheim spoke last night before a near-capacity crowd in the Cascade Room of the Lodge, telling them that the emotionally disturbed child is most often the product of a family that makes too many demands upon him, a family that fixes their child with too many responsibilities.

"Too often the child is thrown into an adult world of problems which he knows nothing about," said Bettelheim. "His family demands his perfection and is constantly comparing him to other children of his age group."

In this light the child is an object, a machine, not a human, he said.

In this scientific age, the world, especially the material-minded world of the United States, should recognize the child for what he is—a human who demands dignity and respect. The child should be permitted to grow into a responsible adult through emulation of his parents, he cannot be molded by them.

Masquers Will Begin 57th Year With 'The Contrast' Production

The opening of the post-Revolutionary comedy, "The Contrast," by Royall Tyler, marks the beginning of the fifty-seventh theater season at MSU.

The play will run tonight, Friday and Saturday nights and again Friday and Saturday, Nov. 3 and 4 in the Masquer Theater. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Sarah James, senior in drama, is director of the show which includes in its cast James Bompert, Mike Fallon, Larry James, Gordon Jensen, Christine MacDonald, Helen McKeague, Tam Scriven, Leslie Shumate and Delbert Unruh.

George Baldwin is technical director, Veronica Grooms is assistant-to-the-director, Jane Nelson is the set designer and Sarah James is the costume designer.

"The Contrast" is the earliest play by an American to be professionally produced. The comedy is concerned with the contrast between the simple, moralistic, rural virtue and the artificial, intellectual, urban villainy—a contrast expressed in terms of post-Revolutionary America versus Europe. The play was first produced for the New York audiences of 1787.

Edward Dugan, professor of journalism, will speak at Montana Forum Nov. 3. Robert Gorman of the University Counseling Service will also speak in November, Wallace added.

Railroads Plead Governors' Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — Ailing Eastern railroads urged governors of 10 states yesterday to help them cure "truly critical" ills that have plunged them $122 million in the red so far this year.

Six spokesmen, five of them presidents of major lines, attributed their plight mostly to a "jungle of unfair competition" with rival modes of transport fostered by discriminatory tax and regulation policies.

Jervis Langdon Jr., president of the deficit-ridden Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, said nationalization of the railroad industry threatened unless the federal government moved quickly to the rescue.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York accepted the "critical" description, but added:

"It's going to be difficult to do anything about solving the problem until a national transportation policy is established in Washington."

Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey chided the railroad men for criticizing state administrators in what he said "sometimes seems like a cry baby technique," but otherwise was sympathetic.

Business Office Hears No Word On Late Payroll

Robert T. Pantzer, financial vice president at MSU, said that he has received no complaints of late paychecks from University students or faculty. He spoke in reference to a letter in the Oct. 18 issue of the Kaimin.

The letter, signed by Bud Hergenbahn, made a request for other students to endorse his complaint concerning late pay checks from the University.

According to Mr. Pantzer, neither Hergenbahn nor any other payee has filed a complaint at the business office.

"I cannot consider a letter to the Kaimin a formal complaint," Mr. Pantzer said. "When no one came to the office and notified us of such a discrepancy, we could assume that there was no real complaint."

"Admittedly we have technical problems which could account for some delay in the issuing of payroll checks," he said.

Mr. Pantzer said that the business office would immediately check any complaints that were brought directly to the office.

U.N. Action Urged To Stop Explosion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A new move was launched yesterday to get urgent U.N. action on an appeal to the Soviet Union to cancel its proposed explosion of a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb.

Previous efforts to give the appeal urgent treatment were stalled by a procedural wrangle touched off by the Soviet bloc.

The new strategy of seeking to suspend the general discussion rather than to terminate it was agreed upon by the sponsors yesterday morning.

Sponsors of the proposed appeal are Canada, Sweden, Denmark, Japan, Iceland, Iran, Pakistan and Norway.

Superbomb Cloud To Reach Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP)—The initial fallout cloud from the Soviet Union's superbomb test was expected to reach the Aleutian Islands late yesterday and Alaska or western Canada late today.

Group Fails in Try For Castro's Life

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro reported yesterday that his police had thwarted a new plot to assassinate him.

In a speech to a meeting of the Young Rebels' Association, the Cuban prime minister said a counter-revolutionary group had mounted bazookas in an apartment a block and a half from the presidential palace but that the police discovered them before an attempt was made on his life.

It was the second plot against Castro's life reported this month.

Backdoor Subsidization

Big-name entertainment has taken up where it left off last year—losing money. In addition to the fact that big-name entertainment has never made money or broken even at MSU, the method of obtaining the money for the entertainment and the principle behind big-name entertainment is disgraceful.

The Ralph Marterie Band which played on campus Friday cost $1,500. The total receipts for the dance were $675 which was paid by the 250 couples that attended the dance. The students that did not attend the dance paid the other $825 for the band. Central Board by its actions has made it compulsory that students, although they have no intention of attending a dance, pay the greater part of the costs.

Big-name entertainment is secured by a very simple manner. Special Events Committee takes a list of band names to a Central Board meeting and the delegates ask each other if they have ever heard of the so called big names. As soon as it is reasonably established that one of the names on the list is a so called big name, a resolution is passed to the effect that this band should be obtained if the price is not too unreasonable. In this short time students that will never receive any benefit from this band are committed to subsidize the band for a minority of the students.

The principle behind big-name entertainment is that it adds variety to the campus schedule, adds a cultural aspect to the campus; in other words it gives the campus a status symbol that it is better without.

Many organizations on campus desire ASMSU money. These organizations must follow strict regulations set by Budget and Finance Committee. If this status symbol is needed on the MSU campus it should be made to go through the proper channels. Also the fact that all the students are paying for the band without any possibility that all the students will be able to participate is not an action that Central Board should permit to exist. It would have been impossible to fit enough students into the Cascade Room to pay for the Marterie Band so the subsidization was taken for granted from the start.

Confused Governor

Donald G. Nutter, governor of the great state of Montana, has been confused lately. His decision not to endorse United Nations Day in Montana was, according to him, based on the fact that 18 major nations representing 1½ billion people have only 18 votes in the U.N., while 81 smaller nations representing 500 million people have 81 votes. Nutter said that this leaves the organization of nations "in the ridiculous situation of having the minority running the show."

Montana was the only state in the nation not celebrating U. N. Day. The minority is not running the show in the United States, just in Montana. In view of the criticism Governor Nutter has received, which he said he expected, he has not been representing the views or wishes of the people of Montana, just Nutter's.

The governor's confusion ran rampant, when the day after refusing to endorse the U.N. Day in Montana he warned about the "apathy of millions." Can the governor really be concerned about apathy when he refuses to endorse a program whose purpose is educational—a prime factor in combating apathy? The program of U.N. Day in Montana would not have to have been all in praise of the U.N., much of it could and would have been in criticism of its actions.

It is interesting to note that of the 1½ billion majority the Governor talks of more than 180 million are in the United States whose elected representatives endorsed U. N. Day. Also interesting is the fact that the remainder of the 1½ billion majority probably endorsed U. N. Day. This leaves Governor Nutter in a "ridiculous situation."

A Few Remain

To the Kaimin:

Dr. Paul Carter's United Nations Day parade demonstrated courage; more important, however, it is a reminder that a minority of one still can be heard above the rabble.

Western Conference Sets Tentative Sports Schedule

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Western Athletic Conference which becomes a reality next July 1, already has worked out a tentative intercollegiate sports schedule for the 1962-63 year.

Champions will be chosen in all sports but football, in which all six schools won't play a full league schedule until fall of 1963. But an unofficial gridiron championship may be claimed next year.

All six founding members except Arizona State University play four of the other schools in football next year.

The other members are Wyoming, Utah, Brigham Young, New Mexico and Arizona.

Paul Brechler, Skyline Conference commissioner taking a similar job with the Western, said the tentative sports schedules must be reviewed by various groups such as boards of regents, school boards of control and presidents of the schools.

The preliminary scheduling was completed by Athletic directors of the six schools meeting here the past three days.

Grizzlies Advance Notch In Skyline Statistics Race

The MSU Grizzlies moved up one notch in rushing, according to the latest team statistical release for the Skyline Conference, but rank the same in the five other categories.

Individual statistics rank four Grizzlies—Mike Trotter, Pat Dodson, Ron Werba, and Paul Gustafson.

The Grizzlies moved from seventh to sixth in rushing defense for their only change this week. They have allowed 223 yards per game compared to the leader, Utah State, which has allowed the opposing runners a meager 60 yards per game.

Montana's passing offense ranks second again this week with an average of 110 yards gained per game through the air. The Grizzly tossers have completed 31 of 79 passes for 550 yards. Three touchdowns have been scored and seven passes have been intercepted.

USU leads in passing with an average of 114 yards per game. They have completed 41 passes in 89 attempts for a .461 percentage.

The Grizzlies have averaged 235 yards per game in total offense, which is fifth in the conference. Utah State leads with 368 yards per game.

MSU's pass defense is sixth having allowed 119 yards per game. Wyoming has the stingiest air defense having allowed their opponents only 67 yards per game for six games.

Total defense and rushing offense are the Grizzlies worst enemies—they rank last in both categories. They have allowed a whopping 342 yards per game via the ground and air routes, while their rushing game has netted only 115 yards per game.

Utah State, the leader in five of six team statistical departments, also has the best total defense and rushing offense. They have allowed only 150 yards per game in six games, while their running attack has netted them 272 yards per game.

Senior end Mike Trotter is tied for third in pass receiving with Don Peterson of BYU. Both have nine receptions.

Paul Gustafson has punted 18 times for an average of 35.2 yards which is sixth among the kickers.

Halfback Pat Dodson is fifth in pass receiving with eight receptions for 175 yards, and he is also tied for fifth in scoring with fullback Ron Werba, both with 24 points.

Tom Larscheid, Utah State's great senior halfback, jumped back into the top in the two individual departments in which he led the Skyline Conference in 1960, rushing and scoring.

Larscheid, who came within a hair of the all-time Skyline rushing record with 1044 yards a years ago, now has 392 yards for six games in the 1961 season. Although well below his pace of one year ago, Larscheid still is well ahead of the second best rusher, Bobby Santiago of New Mexico, who has 307 yards in five games.

The Utah State flash scored one touchdown in his team's 49 to 3 victory of CSU to raise his scoring total to 36 points. Paul Allen of BYU is second with 32 points. In 1960 Larscheid tallied 92 points for the Skyline co-champions.

Even though BYU's Eldon Fortie sat out his team's 36 to 8 loss to Wyoming, he continues to hold the total offense lead with 662 yards and the kickoff return lead with 184 yards.

Bud Spicer of Wyoming is the only new leader this week with 112 yards on four punt returns. Other leaders are Joe Borich of Utah in pass receiving with 21 completions for 403 yards; Bill Wright of BYU in punting with 43.1 yards per kick; and Bill Berlinger of CSU in passing with 27 completions for 307 yards.
