HANSEN TO LECTURE
AT YELLOW BAY

MISSOULA---

Dr. H. P. Hansen of Oregon State University will visit the University of Montana Biological Station at Yellow Bay on Flathead Lake July 28-Aug. 3.

Dr. Hansen is a reknowned specialist in the field of palynology, which deals with the study of pollen deposits produced hundreds of thousands of years ago.

While at Yellow Bay Dr. Hansen will present seminars and class lectures on the principles and applications of palynology, and postglacial vegetation and climate.

He will also extend his studies on pollen in the northern Rocky Mountain region and demonstrate field techniques to students and faculty.
