Ten Students To Be Selected For Model UN

The deadline for turning in applications for the Model Stu­dents Union Building is 4 p.m. Thursday, November 21. The applications will be accepted by the Publications Board.

Applications may be picked up at the Cascade Room at the Union Building, or at the front desk of the Student Union. The only qualification is that each student must be a resident of Montana State University, Missoula, Montana.

Applicants will be selected by a committee appointed by the Student Senate. The committee will consider such factors as leadership, scholarship, and participation in student activities.

About Two Million Dollars

For Model UN

Applications may be picked up at the Cascade Room at the Union Building, or at the front desk of the Student Union. The only qualification is that each student must be a resident of Montana State University, Missoula, Montana.

Applicants will be selected by a committee appointed by the Student Senate. The committee will consider such factors as leadership, scholarship, and participation in student activities.

About Two Million Dollars

For Model UN

Applications may be picked up at the Cascade Room at the Union Building, or at the front desk of the Student Union. The only qualification is that each student must be a resident of Montana State University, Missoula, Montana.

Applicants will be selected by a committee appointed by the Student Senate. The committee will consider such factors as leadership, scholarship, and participation in student activities.

About Two Million Dollars

For Model UN

Applications may be picked up at the Cascade Room at the Union Building, or at the front desk of the Student Union. The only qualification is that each student must be a resident of Montana State University, Missoula, Montana.

Applicants will be selected by a committee appointed by the Student Senate. The committee will consider such factors as leadership, scholarship, and participation in student activities.

About Two Million Dollars

For Model UN

Applications may be picked up at the Cascade Room at the Union Building, or at the front desk of the Student Union. The only qualification is that each student must be a resident of Montana State University, Missoula, Montana.

Applicants will be selected by a committee appointed by the Student Senate. The committee will consider such factors as leadership, scholarship, and participation in student activities.
Shortchanged!

(To the Editor:
California, where former Vice President Richard Nixon has been born into and grew up within one state, is a keystone of manipulative skill. Further, he will have to tell the listeners, would put forth the reasons why his four years, what can be fairly listed as the acquisition of the average student? As the acquisition of the average student? What did she not say was that of the vast range of knowledge. In other words, it is not the newer student, will gain some perspective about the purpose of this and any other institution. The observations ventured, of course, Nixon, had an intellectual—generically, an intellectual is simply one who is at home among the classic abstractions. If he is astute he can acquire not only a familiarity with them, but also a considerable degree of understanding. If he has not found the way he wants to go—whether it is out into the world of business or on into the world of graduate work.

He will also have learned to question.

He was born into and grew up within one state, one set of institutions, one moral code, one general cultural traditions held by his parents, one determinate set of preferences of his group of friends. He learns in college, though, that there is no determinate set of preferences of his group of peers, that there is a multiple set of possible alternatives. There are other cultures, other customs; the way things are done is not necessarily the way they have always been done or the way things are done is not necessarily the way they have always been done or the way things are done is not necessarily the way they have always been done or the way things are done is not necessarily the way they have always been done.

One woman, on that same program, declared that Mr. Sheridan’s magnificent letter was a keen susceptibility to a line of reasoning. As Mr. Sheridan’s magnificent letter.

A few nights after the election was over, I wonder where he finds his reasons for what he will encounter outside the academic curriculum, but it is at the same time a theory of practice, and so is capable of forming the innocent for what he will encounter outside the academic curriculum.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is the theory as practice, and so it can justify itself in the academic curriculum, but it is at the same time a theory of practice, and so is capable of forming the innocent for what he will encounter outside the academic curriculum.

The ground upon which Mr. Nixon stood as the selection of what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.

What the student does not learn is appalling and raises the question of how well selected is the information concerning what ought to be, when the selection of what ought to be rests on a knowledge of the limitations of what is. The theory of practice is.

We teach the ideal conditions of possible worlds, painfully fair, but we do not teach the student the ideal conditions of the actual world at all. Thus, when we look at what a student learns in the university, we find that it is chiefly concerned with what ought to be and is not extended to what actually is.
Tips Basketball Season Opens Dec. 1, Tickets Available Now at Field House

Basketball season ticket orders are being taken at the Field House. Faculty and full-time employees are offered a special season rate of $9 for bleacher seats.

The first three games are Dec. 14 and 15 with the University of Kansas at Lawrence and Dec. 15 and 16 for a new Student Union Building director, will discuss the proposal in Rooms 2 and 3 of the Lodge.

Jan. 19—Weber College at Ogden
Jan. 21—Utah State U. at Ogden
Jan. 23—Southern Utah College here
Jan. 25—Orange State College (Calif.) here
Feb. 2—Brigham Young U. at Provo
Feb. 4—Utah State U. at Logan
Feb. 8—Seattle U. at Seattle
Feb. 11—Washington State U. at Pullman
Feb. 15—Montana State at Bozeman
Feb. 16—Montana State at Bozeman
Feb. 22—Weber College here
Feb. 28—Augsburg College here

Dec. 3—U of Missouri at Columbia
Dec. 5—Oklahoma State at Stillwater
Dec. 11—North Dakota U. here
Dec. 13—Washington State U. here
Dec. 15—Washington State U. here
Dec. 17—Washington State U. here
Jan. 3—U of Idaho here
Jan. 9—U of Seattle here
Jan. 10—Utah State U. here
Jan. 18—Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs
Jan. 19—Weber College at Ogden
Jan. 21—U of Idaho at Ogden
Jan. 23—Montana State College here
Jan. 25—Orange State College (Calif.) here
Feb. 2—Brigham Young U. at Provo
Feb. 4—Utah State U. at Logan
Feb. 8—Seattle U. at Seattle
Feb. 11—Washington State U. at Pullman
Feb. 15—Montana State at Bozeman
Feb. 16—Montana State at Bozeman
Feb. 22—Weber College here
Feb. 28—Augsburg College here

Team W L Pet.
1. DSP ..............____12 0 1
2. Full House .. ____8 0 1
3. Rama ....... ____11 1 977
4. SN ......... ____7 2 873
5. SPE .......... ____10 2 833
6. Forestry ....... ____7 0 833
7. SAE ....... ____6 0 569
8. PRT .......... ____4 0 569
9. Don Wans .. _  4 8 .333
10. PKS ...... ____4 0 333
11. SX ........... ____2 0 333
12. TX ................ 2 0 167
13. Newman .... ____2 0 167
14. Highlanders _ 11 0 283
15. FEN .. 0 8 500

Pall Mall Presents—
GIRL WATCHER’S GUIDE

By BRYSON TAYLOR

Few sights in all the world of girl watching are as breathtaking as the unexpected sight of the Gym-Dandy in midair maneuver. Plato might well have had the Gym-Dandy in mind when he wrote, “When a beautiful soul harmonizes with a beautiful form, and the two are cast in one mould, that will be the fairest of sights to him who has the eye to contemplate the vision.”

Although the Gym-Dandy is a joy to behold even while tightening the laces of her sneakers, she must be seen in action to be fully appreciated. Try Pall Mall and see.

Pall Mall’s natural mildness is so good to your taste! So smooth, so satisfying, so downright smokeable!
Modern Setting Sparks 'King Lear' Production

Shakespeare's "King Lear" opens tonight in the University Theater, and will run through Saturday.

The medieval tragedy, the season's second Masque production, will be enacted amidst modern sets, utilizing lighting techniques and costumes to add color to the simple stage.

The cast, which has more than 30 members, includes Jay Hopkins as Lear; Helene McGanne as Cordelia; Marilla Willis as Goneril; Georgia Tree as Regan, and Wayne Finney as Edgar; James Morrow is Edmund; Bruce Cuker, the Fool; James Baker, the Earl of Gloucester; and Ronald Engle as the Earl of Kent.

Others in the cast are Larry Emperur, Clarence Nole, Nise Young, Dennis Hostetler, William Lensing, Larry James, Michael Falcon, Victor Borg, William Powell, Robert Foreman, Bruce Blanck, Kathy Kibler, Nisa Poole, Thomas William, Greg Osborn, Bill Peterson, Jone Hutchings, Carol McCal, Carol Larimer, Corliss Nickerson, Joan Campbell, Sharon Stewart, Sharon Wetterling, Patsy Maxson, Elenee Corr, Margo Maxson and Susan Sather.

The play is directed by Douglas Bankem. Richard H. Davis is set designer and Sarah James is in charge of costumes.

Concert privileges, under which women students may remain out until the play is over, will be given for tonight's performance. Curtain time is 8:15, and reservations can be made at the University Theater box office from noon until curtain time.

Like Waves on the Ocean

The canopies over the entrance to the new Eloise Knowles Hall, women's dorm, dip and dive like waves on the ocean adding to the archetypal splendor of its checkerboard design. (Kaimin photo by Bruce McGowan.)

Knowles Hall to Be Completed Winter Quarter for Occupancy

Upperclass women can plan to move into a new dormitory, Eloise Knowles Hall, during winter quarter, if work continues as scheduled, according to James A. Brown, director of residence halls.

The living areas of the dormitory are rapidly approaching completion, according to Mr. Brown. Excess humidity during the last two months has delayed painting and plasters on the walls is not drying as rapidly as expected.

The dorm will accommodate 267 girls. Built-in furniture provides floor space for future residents of the hall. The structure, according to Mr. Brown, is 98 percent complete.

Turner Hall, present residence of upperclass women, will house upperclass men.

The four-story structure is divided into eight, each with a telephone, an ironing room, and community lavatory facilities. Each floor has typing and studying facilities. Open air and enclosed balconies are included on each floor of the building. Rooms have been designed to accommodate only two occupants.

A parking lot behind the new dorm provides access to Knowles Hall and Turner Hall.

Mrs. Ramona Jellison and Mrs. Esta Hawlinga, presently Turner Hall housemothers, will assume responsibilities as housemothers in the new dorm.

Known Students Only

Thanksgiving

- Hallmark Cards
- Candy
- Napkins
- Table Candles

Get them at

Don's Drug

1407 S. Higgins

Drake Inn

U Students Only

- Dance
- Relax
- Eat

See Friday's Kaimin for Sunday Specials

Open at 5 P.M.

Eats Sunday Night

Now is the time when fashion-minded college men turn to Angelo's to see them through the busy schedule for the coming month. Why don't you come in today and see our fine jacket selection. Tony Werts, Sigma Alpha Epsilon is pleased with his choice.

S.U.B.P.

FRIDAY NIGHT

- Bowl for Health
- Bowl for Fun
- Bowl at the Liberty

Bowling Center

"Our Lunch Counter serves the biggest 'burgers and shakes in town" 211 East Main

Downtown Missoula

Open til 9:00 p.m. Monday and Friday Nights