'Lear' Opens, Production Powerfully Executed

By FRED MC GLYNN

The poetry and power of Shakespeare's finest testament to the glory of enduring man was recreated with skill and dramatic impact on the stage of the University Theater last evening.

King Lear is often called Shakespeare's greatest play, and still it is rarely performed. Many say that, although it is a great play of ideas, the complexity of its structure weakens its impact as a stage production.

Doug Bankson, the director, and Richard James, the technical director, have managed to present a dramatic visualization of this great play of ideas, adding a powerful visual element to the play that could never be gained from merely reading it.

DISCUSSES EVIL

King Lear discusses the nature of evil and the nature of good through two main plots involving Lear and his daughter on the one hand and Gloucester and his sons on the other. Both men suffer unspeakable anguish during the course of the play; Lear a mental anguish and Gloucester a physical pain followed by mental suffering.

Each man is guilty, but does not seem to deserve the punishment which is inflicted upon him. In the end they both come to realize the nature of their suffering (although Lear's understanding is more profound than Gloucester's), and they transcend it to a tragic dignity by the mere fact of their endurance. Redemption is possible, but it may demand the ultimate sacrifice in order to bring it about.

BRILLIANTLY COSTUMED

The play is brilliantly costumed by Sarah James. The costumes are period pieces. The stage setting, however, is symbolically constructed and helps place the action of the play in more universal significance.

Jay Hopkins, as Lear, gave a praise-worthy performance in a role which is one of the most difficult male parts in dramatic literature. Although he was slightly one dimensional during the opening scenes, he seemed to gain understanding and assurance as the play progressed.

The role of Lear is physically very demanding, but the longer that Hopkins was on stage the more depth and power he added to his interpretation. His mad scenes were played with shading and contrast. He shifted from violent raging to childish playfulness to deep anguish, maintaining control and believability almost throughout the entire three and one half hours of the performance.

Ron Engle, as the Earl of Kent, contributed a performance to match that of Hopkins. He needed no time to work himself into the part, carrying the all important opening banishment scene and lifting the play off the ground.

Engle managed to overcome the difficulties of the language and create a three dimensional character. He alone among the characters in the play exhibited a deep and believable compassion and understanding of the suffering of Lear and Gloucester.

GLOUCESTER

Jim Baker, as Gloucester, was particularly effective the last half of the play. During the early scenes he seemed to be allowing his lines to speak for him but as he approached the tragic moment when he was blinded he gained in stature and depth. The waning of his strength and endurance was convincingly handled during Gloucester's final encounter with Lear.

Bruce Cusker's Fool provided an important link in the understanding of the play. Cusker punctuated the meaning of his lines without being overly obvious, thus adding an element of understanding to the plight of Lear. Fool is a difficult role which, if not played well, might be passed over as unessential to the understanding of the main theme.

Jim Morrow, as Edmund, handled his first soliloquy beautifully and stood forth as an evil power during the early part of the play. As the play progressed the power of Edmund's earlier scenes faded and the rhythm of the poetry overcame his interpretation.

Georgia Tree gave the outstanding female performance. Her Regan was evil without being a stereotype. She controlled her performance and developed her character with skill and assurance.

The role of Edgar, played by Wayne Finney was somewhat sporadic. Finney handled the early Poor Tom scenes with believability, but in the later scenes of the play it was hard to believe that he really felt the depth of suffering through which his father was passing. Being unable to reveal his true identity to his blind father, Edgar was wounded deeply by the compassion he felt for him. Finney was only able to make the audience superficially aware of this compassion.

Marith Willis, as Goneril, placed too much emphasis upon a stylization of the lines, thereby sacrificing the development of her character. The depth of her evil and her passion for Edmund were often lost in a too exacting delivery of her lines.

Helen McKeague tried very hard to develop the weak but all important role of Cordelia, the good sister. Cordelia is a saccharine role and yet she is supposed to achieve a tragic stature by the end of the play. Miss McKeague did, however, create a moment of poignancy at the end of the fourth act, during the recognition scene between Lear and Cordelia.

Noel Young, as the Duke of Cornwall, and Dennis Hostetler, as the Duke of Albany, gave adequate but uneven performances. Each had some moments when his lines were merely spoken without any awareness of the meaning with which they should be delivered.

BIT PLAYERS

The only really disturbing element in the play was the performances of the majority of the bit players. With the exceptions of Patsy Maxson, Larry James and Michael Fallon, the bit players were a distraction from the general mood of the play.

Mr. Bankson, Mr. James, and their cast and crew are to be congratulated. They have produced a rewarding evening of theater. Aristotle said that tragedy is a purgative; last evening's performance was certainly that. The unrelenting power of this play drains, and drains and drains until you are left limp by intermission time. Its power and purgation then continue until the very last scene of the play. The death scene of Cordelia and Lear enables the audience to transcend the feelings of pity and horror up to this moment.

OBJECT OF DEC. 5 REFERENDUM—Seen here, an artist's sketch from the Missoula architectural firm of Fox, Ballas and Barrow of the $1,800,000 Student Union currently under discussion as a replacement for the Lodge. Should students endorse the proposal, construction may conceivably begin in the fall of 1963 with the completion target tentatively set for winter quarter of '64. (Turn to pages three and seven for a complete rundown of interior layout.)

SUB Floor Plans Reveal Large Space Furnished for Broad Range of Activities

Unveiling of the floor plans for the new Student Union Building reveals space allotted for a wide range of activities. Each section of the building has been planned to enhance the activities of the Student Union by providing ample space.

The grill and soda fountain area is to be the social heart of the campus. It will be equipped with a service counter to supply both fountain drinks and short orders. A cafeteria meal or a student special would also be served. Self-service breakfasts, lunches and dinners are included in the plans.

The activities area will contain office space for six to eight desks for Activities Board, five committees, Spurs, Bear Paw, Mortar Board, Silent Sentinel, T-Board and ASMSU committees.

A publicity workshop area is included in the plans. This area will have space for mimeographing, silk screening, and a ditto machine.

Also included in the plans are:

- A main conference room with seats for at least 20 and an additional 20-30 permanent chairs around all sides. This room is to be carpeted and have draperies.
- Two to five small meeting rooms to seat 15. These are to be used as committee rooms. Four larger meeting rooms are included to seat 30.
- Storage areas for activities, small slots for campus organization bulletin boards, and space for a master calendar.

- A games and recreation area for a wide variety of activities.
- Ten to twelve automatic bowling alleys, six table tennis tables, three pool-billiard tables.
- Two adjoining music listening rooms with carpets, draperies and upholstered furniture.
- A quiet area for a browsing library and an art gallery.
- A small theater with a 300-450 seat capacity for panel discussions, lectures and talent shows. This area may also double as a chapel.

- A ball room approximately 6,000 square feet in area to accommodate functions of 400-600 couples.

- A book store located on the ground floor with the basement for storage.

If the proposal for the building is approved, the plans can be altered some to include areas that may have been left out.

The location of the new building is at the northeast corner of Eddy Ave. and Van Buren St.

Indians Open Offensive

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian forces have opened their first major offensive of the undeclared Himalayan border war with Red China, killing an unknown number of enemy troops entrenched in the northeastern sector, the Defense Ministry reported yesterday.

A Red Chinese broadcast heard in Tokyo said, however, the attacks—made under heavy artillery fire—were being repulsed by Communist troops still holding their positions.

"Fierce fighting was still in progress up to this morning," the Peking broadcast said.

Khrushchev Trying to Up Ante for Removal of Jets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev reportedly is trying through an exchange of letters with President Kennedy to raise his price for removal of Soviet jet bombers from Cuba.

His evident purpose is to get something out of the deal for Cuba's Communist prime minister, Fidel Castro.

Kennedy, under the cover of secrecy which shrouds the correspondence, is understood to have rejected Khrushchev's proposed price although it is understood the President considers some elements of the bomber dispute and related problems negotiable.

Crew Members Abandon Burning Greek Freighter

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Crew members of a burning Greek freighter were abandoning ship last night in the storm-tossed Atlantic as flames swept near her cargo of high explosives.

Castro Says U.S. Planes Will Be Downed by Cuba

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Reliable sources said last night Prime Minister Fidel Castro had sent blunt warning through acting Secretary-General U Thant that Cuba will shoot down any U.S. planes flying reconnaissance missions over Cuban territory.

Guitar Strummin', Banjo, Songs Are Concert Features

Erik Darling, folk singer and string instrumentalist, will give a two-hour concert Monday night at 8 in the basement Room 11 of the Liberal Arts Building.

The 29-year-old musician, who is equally at home doing spirituals and hill-billy songs, has received much critical praise for his sensitive and versatile performances. The Washington Star has said, "Nobody in this business is handling the banjo, guitar and 12-string guitar more winningly than Darling."

Darling was in Missoula last March with the Weavers when that well-known folk singing quartet appeared at the Wilma Theater. He is now touring on his own.

With the Weavers, Darling toured Europe and America and recorded three best-selling long play albums.

Darling's latest solo recording is entitled "True Religion." He has accompanied other singers on more than 30 long plays. And, in 1956, his singing trio, The Tarriers, recorded the popular calypso song, "Banana Boat Song."

Contribution tickets for the performance are $1. They are available at the Lodge and will be on sale at the door before the concert.

Darling's appearance is being sponsored by Bob Higham, executive secretary of the MSU alumni organization. Jerry Richard, instructor in English, and Jerry Van Sickle, student union program director.

CLASSES TO BE DISMISSED

Classes will be dismissed for the Thanksgiving vacation on Tuesday. Students must attend all classes on Tuesday and the Monday following vacation in order that the long vacation will be continued next year.

There will be only one issue of the Kaimin next week.

Spurs to Be Sold At Elrod Auction

Sue Kidder and Dorothy Van Blaricom are co-chairmen for the annual Spur slave sale to be held in Elrod Lounge tomorrow morning from 9:30 to 12.

Spur Jeannie Matthews will auction off the Spurs to residents of Craig, Duniway and Elrod for such jobs as typing papers, washing cars, mending and ironing clothes and tutoring. Melinda Wilson, publicity chairman, said.

The slave sale is an annual Spur event which was instituted last year as a money making project.

The Spurs will be slaves only for the morning, Miss Wilson said.

Ask Questions - Ask Questions

By now the rabid enthusiasts of architectural design will have availed themselves of the opportunity to see the model of the proposed new Student Union Building.

There will be no disputing the fact that the mock-up is aesthetically and functionally pleasing.

There will be no disputing the fact, after a thorough examination of interior layout as offered in today's Kaimin, that those who have spearheaded the drive for a new union have demonstrated considerable foresight in arranging for all the creature comforts and for future expansion should that one day be necessary.

There will be no disputing the fact that the proponents are wildly enthusiastic.

But a rather omnipresent silence somehow takes the edge off it.

There has been little hue and cry raised by its adversaries—and certainly it must have adversaries. There has been no soapbox oratory, no tub-thumping, no band-wagon ballyhoo. Most certainly the response to the Kaimin questionnaire proved nothing—other than the fact that only three per cent of MSU collegians cared enough to participate in the dry run. How many, then, will care enough to sift through the multitude of facts so readily available before voting one way or the other on the Dec. 5th referendum—if they vote?

This is in no way intended to rouse the rabble or stir up the opponents of the project. It is more an attempt to dispel the lethargy and nonchalance which has gripped the student-body-at-large. Presumably, those who have sparkplugged this drive have been motivated or impelled to do so by a student demand for better and larger facilities. Therefore, students must have more than a passing interest in the expenditure of something in the neighborhood of $2 million of their money, God knows how much interest and 40 years of indebtedness. To simply pass off the entire proposition with a casual, "I'll vote for it—I won't be around to pay for it," is, of course, immature. More than that, it is somehow like skipping town without paying your bills.

Time is at a premium. There remains barely time enough to weigh the pros and cons; time enough to arrive at an intelligent decision; time enough to ask questions.

When ASMSU President Whitelaw suggested in a Central Board story carried in the Nov. 1 Kaimin changes in present plans would be considered depending on the size of the group requesting such changes and the "degree of passion" exhibited, not a questioning eyebrow was raised; not a murmur of dissent was heard. Now everyone knows—even the most infrequent habitue of the Lodge knows—that if "passion" is the determinant, there is no crying need for new quarters. The present Lodge has long been the campus stronghold of "passion." And has anyone heard a clamor for change from the campus Lotharios?

And in Wednesday's Kaimin when Bari Lynn Bertelson expressed amazement "at the low construction figure" after seeing the plans, didn't you wonder just a little bit how she was able to arrive at such a heartening conclusion? Take a look at the scale model, the blue prints et al. Can you pinpoint the expenditure of a couple of million? For all we know, through error or inexperience (assuming none of the members have previously toyed with such sums) the committee may have overlooked something—pool chalk, an ash tray, rafters, or a wall.

These people on the inside who have shepherded the project along from its inception undoubtedly have the answers. There is no denying the fact the committee has reiterated its willingness to explain the need, the plan and the method of financing the proposed new student center. Yet you owe it to yourself (and those yet to come who really will be footing the bill) to acquaint yourself with the technical and financial involvements. Arm yourself with facts and figures. If you see something you don't like, make your objection known. And ask questions.

The real bugaboo may be a dollar and cents one. It is doubtful if there is any one student on campus who will have to subject himself to a strict self-imposed austerity program because of the possibility of having to pay an additional $5 a quarter to finance the new Union should the referendum be approved.

But if, indeed, you must invent ways and means to cut corners because of the possibility of the assessment of the extra fiver, why not:

Cultivate the friendship of rich women, wealthy men, affluent widows, opulent widowers and any of the assorted and sundry heiresses and playboys on campus.

Cultivate the friendship of frugal and parsimonious companions—although they won't be nearly as much fun.

Strike up a leech-like amity with innkeepers, tavern owners, bartenders and barmaids and especially brewmasters and higher echelon brewery employees.

Scrimp on textbooks.

Faculty, Students Speak Out For Proposed Union Building

To build or not to build, that is the question. Whether 'tis nobler to contend with a Lodge many feel to be inadequate, or to pay for a new building to eliminate these conditions is something MSU students must decide before Dec. 5, the date set for voting on the new building.

Robert T. Pantzer, financial vice president of MSU, feels that "build" is the logical answer to the question.

Mr. Pantzer suggested the erection of a new student center would be a reasonable and logical move.

Before citing the reason behind his stand, he emphasized the fact that he was giving only his own opinion.

Mr. Pantzer does not want this stand to be misinterpreted. Neither he nor President Newburn are fostering the plan to influence student opinion, Pantzer stressed.

"The preliminary plans of the building are excellent," Mr. Pantzer said. "There is a good utilization of space, well thought out failities, and a very attractive building that will fit well into the space allotted."

The necessity of the building has been emphasized by the University. (Continued on page six)

Poll of Students Show Opinions Differ Over New Student Union

Question: What is your opinion of the proposed new Student Union Building?

Edward Measure, sophomore in physics: "I think it's too far away for one thing. I haven't had a chance to decide about the building itself yet."

I wonder if it's necessary to do as many fancy things as they want to do—the landscape, for one thing, seems unnecessarily expensive."

Mary Pat Rasmussen, sophomore in elementary education: "I really think it's a good idea. It is a long way from campus, but it's the only possible place to build it, so the location will have to suffice."

Edward Measure Paul Sagunsky

Paul Sagunsky, junior in pre-law: "I think it's definitely needed."

Sally Neath, sophomore in radio-TV: "I don't think we need one. I think they should build a new cafeteria instead of a new Student Union Building."

Mary Rasmussen Dorothy Pemberton

Dorothy Pemberton, senior in English: "I think it looks like an excellent plan and it should turn out to be one of the best Student Union Buildings in the Northwest."

Big Splash Set For Pool Tonight

The annual Student Union Beach Party is scheduled for the New Pool from 9 to 12 tonight.

The Renegades from Anaconda will be on deck to provide music. Gift certificates will be awarded to winners of novelty races which have been planned for everyone to participate in. There will also be free refreshments and door prizes, according to Phil Currie, Student Union Social Committee chairman.

Dress for the occasion should be swim suits or beach clothes. The setting for the annual splash is based on the French Riviera theme.

Admission charge is 50 cents for singles and 75 cents per couple.

JAZZ, FILM PRESENTATION CANCELLED, REFUNDS MADE

The Thursday Jazz and Film series has been suspended because of lack of support, according to James D. Allen, instructor of English and originator of the series.

Season ticket holders may have their money refunded at Liberal Arts 216 or at Geology 205.

Sally Neath Kerry Good

Kerry Good, freshman in chemistry: "It looks pretty far removed from campus, but other than that it seems like a fine idea. I don't think that $9 is too much to pay for an adequate Student Union Building."

Colleen Widitz, freshman in music: "I think it's beautiful and very practical because we need one."

Colleen Widitz Scott Eliason

Scott Eliason, senior in political science: "It's entirely too far away."

MAIN FLOOR—The area to be occupied by 12 bowling lanes can be seen in the upper right-hand corner. Immediately beneath it is the games area, thence rooms for card-playing, television-viewing and lounging. In the lower left corner is space appropriated for the Grill. The kitchen quarters can be seen jutting out slightly to the west. In the upper left corner is the Bookstore.

Proposed New Building to Be Placed In Only Space Available on Campus

The proposed location of the new Student Union Building is the only available area on campus that is large enough for the building and possible additions to it, according to Richard Shannon, associate professor of economics and chairman of the Planning Committee for a new Student Union.

Plans call for location of the building just east of the Law School on the block bordered by Eddy and Maurice Avenues and Van Buren and Sixth Streets. In a recent poll conducted by the Montana Kaimin, the location drew fire from several students who claimed it was too far from the center of campus.

"Other areas where a Student Union Building might be built are reserved for other uses," Mr. Shannon said. "The Food Service has the area west and south of the Lodge; the rear near Craig Hall is reserved for men's dorms, and the Cloverbowl is to be left for women's dorms."

The University's plans for expansion of the academic plant show a growth toward the north and the proposed location, Mr. Shannon added. The new building would be close to the Field House, Swimming Pool and other areas that attract crowds, he said, noting that a large lot north of the proposed building would provide ample parking.

Middle of Oval Out

The parking and service problems would be large and very costly if the building were built in the middle of the oval as some students have suggested, he said. "A building-free oval is an MSU tradition," he said.

An addition would have to be built on the east end of the Lodge because it is impossible to build on top of the present structure and the west and south ends are reserved for Food Service expansion. And because of the small space available east of the Lodge, the addition would have to be about 12 stories to provide the same facilities as planned for the new building, Mr. Shannon said.

Mr. Shannon and Vincent Wilson, associate professor of health and physical education, are the only faculty members on the committee. Two sophomores, two juniors, two seniors and the program director of the Student Union also are members.

Program Student-Initiated

"This program in the aggregate has been a student-initiated and a student-directed plan," Mr. Shannon said, explaining that he and Mr. Wilson felt their primary job was to assure that students were protected from any outside influence or pressure.

"Everything in the program," he said, "was put there by students." But, he said, the architectural planning was done by architect W. J. Fox Jr.

The cost of the building compares favorably with that of similar buildings throughout the Northwest, he said. Under the proposal, students would pay about $17 per square foot of space compared with $21-22 estimated by Union directors from other schools.

Easy Expansion Possible

The building has been planned to allow easy expansion, he explained. Through low cost expansion of the grill, lounges and games and meeting rooms, the capacity of the building could nearly be doubled, he said.

Mr. Shannon said that now is an excellent opportunity to build a new Student Union Building for the following reasons:

- The present Lodge facilities are now inadequate.
- Students now have an opportunity to get out from under a poorly-conceived building because the administration has promised that the University will buy the student-owned portion of the Lodge in order to expand the Food Service.
- The Montana Legislature which must approve the building, will meet in January. The next chance to receive legislative approval will be in 1965.

Cannot Use Fee Money

Although their aims may be desirable, students should realize that student fee money which can be used to build a new Student Union Building could not be used to increase teachers' salaries or to build dormitories or a library, Mr. Shannon said. Funds for these purposes must come from the state.

The allocation of space in the building is not definite and students with suggestions are encouraged to bring them to the Student Union Planning Committee, the Student Union Committee or Central Board.

Representatives Visit

Representatives of the committee visited Student Union Buildings on campuses throughout the Northwest. As individuals, committee members toured student buildings on about 30 other campuses.

"So we aren't shooting in the dark," Mr. Shannon concluded.

SECOND FLOOR—The L-shaped area in the lower left corner is designated for committee rooms. The small theater can be seen immediately above the four rooms. Along the same perimeter are also a browsing library, women's lounge, upper lounge and two music listening rooms. The cluster of rooms along the right side is the students' activity center. The ballroom occupies the upper left-hand corner.

Home Cage Greats Out of State

The overflow crowd at the Bobcat fray notwithstanding, football is not the paying sport on this campus—or anywhere in Montana from high school up, for that matter. Basketball is the sport that draws the crowds and the cash in the land of the long, cold winter. Montana high schools have produced bands of great basketball players in recent years, and no loyal Treasure-stater is ecstatic about the fact that many of these have gone out of state to college. Bob Jensen, 6-5 former Sidney High School center, is one of the best hoop prospects ever at Minnesota and should be starting and starring at forward this year. He is a junior.

Man-Mountain

Wayne Estes, the 6-6, 240-pound mountain from Anaconda, will start at center or forward for Utah State this year—as a sophomore. Unbelievably agile for his size, Estes may be remembered for his deft shooting touch in the state AA tournament played at the Field House in 1961.

Two Missoula County High School stars, 6-7 John Oblizalo and 5-10 Hoyt DeMers, have left Montana. Oblizalo, a sophomore, should do some playing at Utah. DeMers is a freshman at the University of Oregon.

Mike Persha, 6-4 Red Lodge star, is enrolled as a freshman at Wyoming. John Rickman of Butte and Greg Vermillion of Fort Benton are playing for Gonzaga and Seattle U., respectively.

Libby Star Enrolls

A rare triumph for Montana and for MSU is the recent enrollment of 5-10 Gary Peck of Libby here. Peck, who had followed Jensen to Minnesota, will sit out this year, his second, here, but will have three years of eligibility left from the fall of 1963 on.

Ron Nord is happy about this circumstance, but wishes Peck were forward size. The Grizzlies have many fine guard prospects around. Oh well, you can't have everything.

KAPPAS TOPPLE TRI-DELTS BY 118 PINS IN WRA PLAY

Kappa Kappa Gamma beat Delta Delta Delta, and Corbin forfeited to Delta Gamma and Kappa Alpha Theta in Wednesday's action in the WRA bowling tournament.

The Kappas defeated the Tri-Delts 933-815. Top scorers were Kris Welch, KKG, 148; Jean Tangen, KKG, 137 and Bev Hughes, DDD, 134.

Top two-game scorers were Miss Tangen, KKG, 259; Miss Welch, KKG, 247 and Pam Thompson, DDD, 241.

KAT WINS IN VOLLEYBALL

Kappa Alpha Theta beat Corbin and Brantly forfeited to North Corbin in Wednesday's WRA volleyball play.

The Thetas won by the scores of 15-2 and 15-3. Patsy Shea, Kappa Alpha Theta, was high scorer with 6 points.

Dillon Paces Grizzly Statistics

Terry Dillon, Grizzly senior halfback, ranks ninth in this week's NCAA rushing statistics and tenth in punting; and he and teammates Pat Dodson and Ron Werba dominate Grizzly football statistics after eight games.

Fullback Werba leads Dillon by one point, 45-44, in individual scoring for the Silvertips. The other Grizzly scorers are Pat Dodson, 12, Paul Miller, 10, Bill Martin, 6, Dick Huse, 2, and Dan Smelko, 2.

Dillon leads MSU in rushing with 634 yards in 103 carries—a 6.2 yard-per-carry average. He has five touchdowns. Second is Dodson with 382 yards in 60 attempts for a 6.4 average, the best on the team. Dodson has one TD. Werba is third with 316 yards in 86 carries for a 3.7 average and six TD's.

Paul Miller is the top passer, having connected with 17 in 38 attempts for 282 yards and three TD's. He is followed by Dillon and Tom Huffer. Dillon has thrown 13 passes for 110 yards, and Huffer has thrown 14 passes for 93 yards and one TD.

Dodson is the top pass receiver with nine catches for 217 yards and one TD. Second is Crist Pom-ajevich with five catches for 86 yards and third is Gene Leonard with six catches for 79 yards.

The kick-off return leaders are Dodson, Dillon and Huffer with averages of 27.2, 15.4 and 19 yards respectively.

Dillon's punting average is 39.1. Dodson and Dillon lead in punt returns, both with six. Dodson has averaged 4.2 yards and Dillon 2.3.

The only touchdown on a pass interception was scored by Dillon last Saturday. He has intercepted two for 17 yards and Tom Hauck has also snared two for five yards.

Montana team statistics (listed first below) and those of MSU opponents are:

Total first downs—Grizzlies 106, opponents 132; net yards gained rushing—1550-1532; net yards gained passing—590-912; points scored—133-153; touchdowns by running—14-11; touchdowns by passing—4-10.

Winning Season at Stake in Lobo Scrap

Montana will battle the New Mexico Lobos at Albuquerque tomorrow in what may be the decisive game in the Grizzlies' quest for their first winning season in 13 years.

The last MSU team to win more than it lost was Coach Ted Shipkey's 1949 squad with a 5-4 record. Since that time the Grizzlies have had two 5-5 seasons and 11 losing ones. Their 1958 record of 0-10 was the Tips' poorest showing since they first hit the field in 1897.

The Grizzlies will take a 4-4 record into the contest, compared with New Mexico's impressive six wins, two losses and one tie record.

To beat the powerful pack from New Mexico the Grizzlies will have to stop the Lobo ground machine led by quarterback Jim Cromartie. The field general has set school records in yards gained passing and in pass completions.

Other members of their potent backfield are fullback Bucky Stallings, wingback Jim Ottmann and tailback Bobby Santiago.

Hugh Davidson, backfield coach who scouted the New Mexico-Colorado State University game last Saturday, termed Santiago one of the finest backs in the western area.

According to statistics released by New Mexico the first unit line averages 210, the backs 180 and the team 202.

Line Coach Milt Schwenk reported that there are no serious injuries on the team. He said that center Tom Hauck, who was the only Grizzly player injured in the Bozeman game, would be able to play, but would be a doubtful starter.

The game will be broadcast over KXLL radio. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

The following Thursday the Grizzlies will tackle the winless

TOM HAUCK

Colorado State University Rams in Fort Collins—the last game of the season for MSU.

The Rams have a 0-8 season record. They lost last weekend to New Mexico 21-8. CSU's loss to the Lobos was its 24th straight defeat over a three year period.

The tentative line-up for tomorrow are:

New Mexico: RE—Larry Japser, 202; RT—Wayne Tvrdik, 235; RG—Clint Helton, 205; C—Eddie Stokes, 190; LG—Jack Abendschan, 217; LE—George Heard, 220; LT—John Kosor, 212; QB—Jim Cromartie, 187; WB—Jim Ottmann, 196; FB—Bucky Stallings; TB—Bobby Santiago, 166.

Montana: LE—Dick Huse, 195; LT—Carl Schwertfeger, 210; LG—Dan Peters, 204; C—Dennis Kimmitt, 205; RG—Jim Bartell, 212; RT—Fred Calder, 237; RE—Gene

Leonard, 195; QB—Paul Miller, 170; LHB—Terry Dillon, 190; RHB—Steve Wood; FB—Ron Werba, 195.

Faculty, Students Speak Out for Proposed Building

(Continued from page two) city's growth during the past several years, according to Mr. Pantzer. He feels it is obvious present facilities are inadequate and the Lodge is overloaded.

University-controlled land surrounds the building site. This land contains the most likely sites for new University structures. Mr. Pantzer said the proposed Student Center location will eventually be central.

Jerry Van Sichel, Student Union program director, predicts that the new Union referendum will pass by a 9:1 margin.

Mr. Van Sichel said, "I'm sure students, once misconceptions are cleared up, will vote in favor of the new Union." Once the students can visualize what the new build-best possible. He particularly stressed the proximity to the

PROF. E. B. DUGAN

Field House and the advantages such proximity would provide for post-game functions.

Nothing in the new building is designed to overlap with facilities available elsewhere on campus, Mr. Dugan said. He suggested the food service in the proposed new building would be the only campus seller of food on a cash basis and would be independent of the existing Lodge's food service which would continue to cater to students housed in dormitories.

Mr. Dugan said we will not be able to cope with increased enrollment in the present Lodge building and the proposed Student Union Building is tailor-made for the students.

The new building "will provide a service to students that is needed for a community like this," Mr. Dugan stated.

Ed Whitelaw, president of ASMSU, said now is the opportune time to build a new Student Union since the land has been allocated and approval has virtually been given by the State Board of Education and the governor.

The proposed Student Union is not a Missoula Hilton or an extravaganza, he said, but it meant to supplement the purpose of the University.

Whitelaw said that he believes that the various activities of entertainment and culture that the building will offer will finally give MSU a campus center with adequate opportunity for programs.

"We are getting as good a buy as anyone can expect," he said, "and the students can invest their funds with the assurance that they will get the most out of their money."

He said that the building was planned under student direction and initiative and that with the quality of architecture and interior decor, the building will become a landmark at the University.

He urged students to look at the displays of the proposed structure which are in the Lodge. Members of the Student Union committee and officers of ASMSU plan to be at the displays during noon and evening meals to answer questions.

Whitelaw said meetings are being planned during the week preceding the referendum to discuss the issue.

Whitelaw said he believes it is important that a large percentage of the students vote in the referendum so the decision will be decisive when it is taken to the legislature.

He said that the new building will carry a 40-year bond. However, with the expected enrollment of 6,000 students in 1970, the additional income will reduce the period of indebtedness. The income from the bowling alleys, grill and bookstore rental will also be used to pay off the bond.

ing will look like, many of their questions and doubts will be dispelled, he said.

Asked if he deemed necessary the carpets and draperies planned for the new building, Van Sichel said these additions from the financial standpoint are a relatively minor expense. He added that the draperies and carpets in the various activities rooms are placed there to reduce the amount of noise.

The architect's excellent planning makes usable 79 per cent of floor space, he said. The usual amount is only 69 per cent. This does not suggest the size of the building should be reduced, Van Sichel pointed out. Rather, it will help alleviate any future expansion needs.

"Never again will there be such an opportunity for the students of MSU to get such a good buy in a building, nor a chance like this to relieve themselves from bonds to which they are legally committed," Anne Bartlett, chairman of the ASMSU program council, said of the proposed plans for a new Student Union building.

Miss Bartlett serves on the planning committee for the new student center. For three years, the committee has studied student center needs at MSU.

The building could provide a place where students could develop their own social life as well as a place to find centralized recreation, according to Miss Bartlett.

Prof. E. B. Dugan, chairman of the Student Union Executive Committee, expressed his wholehearted approval of the proposed new Student Union Building in a recent interview.

Mr. Dugan said that consultants called in have determined that an addition to the present Lodge is not feasible.

He noted that the food service in the present Lodge is greatly overcrowded and that the center of campus is moving north and will very likely continue to do so "bit by bit, year by year."

Mr. Dugan said the proposed location of the new building is the Civil Service Representatives Discuss Federal Employment

A small number of students attended the Federal Career Information Program yesterday in the Lodge to hear Robert F. Mello, director of College Relations and Recruitment, U.S. Civil Service Commission, speak on "Why Career Planning for Federal Service."

He said that federal career service offers the capacity for growth and talent in a lifetime of advantages. "Without a moral and academic system in federal careers," he said, "we will have a sterile government."

Mr. Walter M. Ward, regional representative for the commission, also spoke on the benefits of a federal career.

Robert E. Gorman, director of the Placement Bureau, said that 25 of last year's MSU graduates went into civil service jobs.

SO THEY ALL WENT HOME
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Montgomery City Commissioner L. B. Sullivan gave the invocation.

The city clerk said, "Gentlemen there is no reason to sit down" and the commission meeting ended. Mayor Earl James said Tuesday's session was the first time to his knowledge the commission had met and adjourned because it had no business to transact.

Symphonette Will Feature Original Work

The University Symphonette, conducted by Eugene Andrie, professor of music, will present a concert featuring "Sonata for Strings" by Eugene Weigel, Monday at 8:15 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall.

Mr. Weigel's composition is based in part on American folk songs which he collected in Ohio. Before the performance Mr. Weigel will explain the folk tunes as the orchestra demonstrates them.

Mr. Weigel, professor of music instructs compositions in the music school.

He came to MSU in 1956 from the faculty of the University of Illinois. He graduated from Yale University and in 1954-55 he was a Guggenheim Fellow. He plays with the Montana String Quartet.

Four student soloists will also perform in Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 in F Major." The soloists, who are senior music majors, are: Dale Frank, Great Falls; Virginia Johnson, Saginaw, Mich.; Kay Larson, Havre, and Lorna Mikelson, Sidney.

HOOK NAMED TREASURER

Walter Hook, chairman of the art department, has been named treasurer of the Western Association of Art Museums.

Members of Farmers Union, Montana Labor Meet Today With Faculty for Annual Institute

The 19th annual Farmer-Labor Institute, sponsored by the Montana AFL-CIO, the Montana Farmers Union and the MSU Teachers' Union, begins here today, Miss Lucile Speer, in charge of local arrangements, said.

Members of the Farmers Union and various trade unions will meet with members of the faculty union and discuss common problems, according to James P. Leonard, instructor of economics.

Registration for the institute, which is open to the public, will be held in the geology building today from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The Institute begins at 7:30 p.m. with a welcoming speech by Frank C. Abbott, academic vice president. Jack McCoy, area 9 COPE director, Omaha, Neb., will speak on "Labor's Role in the Future" at the opening session.

Leslie A. Fiedler, English professor, opens Saturday's session at 9:15 a.m. with a talk entitled "Education Needs and Goals for Montana." At 10:30 a.m., Herrick S. Roth, president of the Colorado State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, will discuss "International Trade and Its Relation to Labor and Agriculture."

The afternoon session opens with a speech by Mr. Leonard involving international trade and its relation to labor and agriculture.

Senator Lee Metcalf will speak on Knowles Dam at 2:15 p.m. and Robert Lewis, Director of the Office of Price Stabilization in Washington, D.C., will speak on Food and Agriculture.

Following a banquet at the Palace Hotel Saturday, Dr. Donald Kent, of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in Washington, D.C., will discuss "Medicare."

Charles Tyroler II, Counselor on National Problems, Washington, D.C., speaks on "The Attacks on Pockets of Poverty" Sunday at 9:15 a.m.

A panel discussion "Montana's Economic Future" is slated for 10:30 a.m. Sunday.
