Nichols Calls Critics at Kaimin

The managing editor of the Montana Kaimin, Keith Nichols, is resigning.

Nichols, a journalism senior, submitted a verbal resignation at last week.

He gave the following statement in a telephone interview yesterday afternoon.

"Inter-Kaimin public had absolute nothing to do with this resignation. The current Kaimin staff probably the most integrated and efficient group that has ever put out a newspaper at the University of Montana. My relationship with its personnel remains friendly and unembittered."

Nichols intends to submit his formal resignation to Publications Board Wednesday.

KEITH NICHOLS

David Rovvik, Kaimin editor, said, "It was with very real regret that I received Mr. Nichols' oral resignation Thursday evening. As managing editor, he brought to the Montana Kaimin an unrelenting breed of imagination and enthusiasm rarely encountered in the College Experience."

"And I am confident that Mr. Nichols' concern for our publication will endure through and beyond these troubled days."

Nichols, appointed Kaimin managing editor last Feb. 10, had served in that position since the beginning of last spring quarter. Applications are now being accepted for Kaimin managing editor. Debby Archibald, Publications Board chairman, announced that letters of application are due at the Lodge desk, Box 20, no later than 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Qualifications for managing editor are attendance at UM for two quarters prior to fall quarter, a 2.5 grade-point average and experience on the Kaimin staff or one year of practical newspaper experience.

A motion before ASUM's Central Board to remove Nichols from his position was tabled last week.

His removal was asked by Publications Board when it was discovered that he was enrolled for only two credits this quarter.

Following last week's Pub Board meeting Nichols was quoted as saying, "I believe that this action of Publications Board was in some form due to pressure from Main Hall to effect my removal because of criticism I have leveled at the administration."

Shouts of Bravo Greet Cellist Sunday Night

By GENE ENRICO
Kaimin Music Reviewer

Shouts of "bravo" echoed from the Music Recital Hall Sunday night as the audience clapped until all hands were sore. Cellist Florence Reynolds deserved the immediate standing ovation in this first faculty recital of the year. Miss Reynolds, who returned to the music faculty last year after completing her doctorate at Eastman School of Music, was assisted by pianist Rudolph Wendt. Mr. Wendt's precision added extra polish to Miss Reynolds' performance.

The well-selected program offered examples of music literature which encompassed two hundred years of history. Miss Reynolds demonstrated her flexibility by first performing with the baroque endurance necessary for "Couperin's Pieces en Concert" and later drawing the sweet and soft contrast from R. L. Finney's Second Sonata in C. Probably the musical highlight of the evening was Schumann's "Fantasy Pieces, Op. 73." In this collection of three character pieces Miss Reynolds achieved a magical fusion of her technical facility and her feeling for subtlety of musical phrase and dynamics. Her performance caused several of the romantics in the audience to sigh with ecstasy.

Dr. Reynolds showed her sense of humor by ending her program with a set of variations by Nicolo Paganini, the warped genius of the nineteenth century. Paganini's virtuoso "Variazioni di bravura" progressed from the corny to the ridiculous. Miss Reynolds' brilliant attempts to produce impossible sounds from a single string satirized the nineteenth century's infatuation with virtuosity.

Film Course Will Be Offered Winter Quarter On UM Campus

Action. Camera. Lights!

David J. Smith, instructor of English, has announced a new course to be offered winter quarter. The course is "The Film and is listed under General 341 in the catalog. It will carry three credits, and has not been previously taught on the UM campus.

The course will involve the showing of ten films which are important either historically or for their directors. It will stress the techniques of moviemaking, the form of the movie such as fiction or documentaries and the elements of the media such as the close-up shot.

The tentative list of the films, their directors and the year of production are:

"The Birth of a Nation," Griffith, 1915; "Nanook of the North," Flaherty, 1922; "Potemkin," Eisenstein, 1926; "The Passion of Joan of Arc," Dreyer, 1927; "The Blue Angel," Von Sternberg, 1930; "City Lights," Chaplin, 1931; "The Informer," Ford, 1935; "Citizen Kane," Welles, 1941; "Open City," Rossellini, 1945; and "Orpheus," Cocteau, 1950.

The class will be conducted as a seminar and enrollment will be limited to 25 students. The means of selecting students has not yet been determined.

Efforts are being made to show the films publicly while they are available.

The course is jointly sponsored by the School of Journalism and the departments of English and Drama. Co-ordinators for the course are Mr. Smokey Richard Huggins and Norman Heinke, all of the English department.

PETITIONS DUE TODAY

Candidate petitions for Central Board delegates are due today at 4 p.m. at the Lodge desk.

Two sophomore and 13 freshman candidates have filed petitions for the primary election tomorrow.

California Scanned State Protesters Last Friday at Forum

California looked at Montana last Friday.

John Herrmann, assistant professor of English and director of creative writing at UM, told Montana Forum members that Montana is going to grow the way the West Coast did. "San Francisco became Paris and Los Angeles had Hollywood. In Montana you can't be the kind of man you can't be in California, but that's all changing. I'm not sure people are free to move anymore," he said. Mr. Herrmann said the first thing that happened in California was an imposition of people; by 1954 there were no natives. Suburbs filled in and a megalopolis was formed stretching from north to south.

"Montana Proves That State Politics are Obsolete" was the title of Mr. Herrmann's address, with the sub-title, "California Looks at Montana." He commented that today we have direct distance dialing and air travel while state politics run as they did 15 or 20 years ago.

"In Montana we have a small population; there are fewer people here than are employed by American Telegraph & Telephone Co. Therefore we can't derive enough income from taxes."

Poverty in Montana is different from that of Appalachia, the speaker contended. "I have seen grown men standing in line outside of Billings with nothing to do. Gov. Babcock says that everyone has the money to live well here in Montana. He chastised Sen. Metcalf for calling Montana a poverty area." Mr. Herrmann said.

"We declare this area impoverished, or at least in need of federal assistance. Montana would be included in a standardization of education program," he said.

The speaker attacked Gov. Babcock's position as a middle man, the link between federal government and Montana voters.

Montana, the speaker said, is an example of the government being thwarted by a Democratic legislature. "State government gets in the way; it doesn't meet often enough; too much time is wasted," he said.

Mr. Herrmann presented figures showing that Seattle would increase in size three times by the year 2000, but that Montana's population would be approximately 900,000. A member of the audience commented that people must prefer this sort of "growth existence" since they moved to the more populated areas; the poor farmer in Montana is no better off than the impoverished worker in downtown Los Angeles.

Planning Board To Review Laws

Planning Board will examine proposed changes in the by-laws regulating elections tonight in Territorial Room 5 at 6:30.

Karalee Stewart, Kaimin business manager, will propose salary increases for Kaimin staff members. The increases will have to be incorporated in the by-laws before any further action can be taken on them.

Tom Behan, Planning Board chairman, said applicants for the Board as well as old members are welcome to attend the meeting.

Knock Policy In Viet Nam

About 15 University students and faculty members participated in an "International Day of Protest" Saturday.

Similar demonstrations were conducted across the country to protest the nation's foreign policy in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

The Missoula demonstrators picketed peacefully in front of a Missoula bank. They also marched near military recruiting stations.

One counter picket carried a banner saying "Color These Red."

No disorder was reported during the demonstration, although several men roughed up some of the demonstrators as the demonstration was being conducted.

Mr. John Lawry, a faculty member who participated in the demonstration, said that when he saw the disturbance he immediately reported the matter to the Missoula police.

After a delay, the police agreed to look into the matter, but when Lawry returned to the scene of the disturbance both the picketers and the troublemakers were gone.

Asked about published reports that some liberal organizations plan to publish guides for evading the draft by becoming conscientious objectors," Lawry said that he knows of no such movement on the Missoula campus.

"I certainly would not recommend that," he said.

Letters to the Kaimin Editor

Peterson Disputes Miller's Religious Claims

To the Kaimin:
I would like to congratulate Dave Rovrik on his October 6 editorial, "The Contemporary Lay." It's a relief to hear the church called something besides "the backbone of society," "the place where a man can learn to know himself," and innumerable equally inane appellations.

In the same edition of the Kaimin, there appeared a letter to the editor from Glenn Miller who denounced Mr. Rovrik's editorial policy as "detrimental" and accused Mr. Rovrik of a "lack of knowledge." Though I agree with very little of what Mr. Miller said, I especially wish to differ with him on the ideas expressed in his paragraph on "Jesus in the West."

He pedantically stated, "All men have essential beliefs which have been proven by anthropology. . . . Man needs these beliefs to explain his existence." I feel Mr. Miller is unjustified in saying "all men"; I for one, though I usually am called a "man," profess none of the beliefs he mentioned. The phrase is also invalidated by the fact that everyone has a different concept of "man"; is the microcephalic who can't walk, can't talk, and can't even feed himself a "man"?

Mr. Miller is even more unjust in implying that any religion has been proved by anthropology or any other science. A UM professor of anthropology told me, "Jesus undoubtedly existed as a person although there is no archaeological proof of this from contemporary sources. It is impossible to prove his divinity archaeologically as this is presently, at least, a matter of belief."

In general, Christianity is contradicted, not supported, by science; Einstein said, "A man's ethical behavior should be based effectually on sympathy, education and social ties; no religious basis is necessary. Man would indeed be in a poor way if he had to be restrained by fear of punishment and hope of reward after death." Galileo, Newton, Descartes, Darwin and scores of other scientists were forced by the church and church-dominated governments to "revise" their writings, suspend their experiments and stop teaching, all because their discoveries violated some "holy truth" or other; even today, in modern, enlightened 1964, Arizona Baptists sought to make it illegal to teach evolution in Arizona public schools.

The only thing man really (in Mr. Miller's words) "needs these beliefs" for is blissful, ignorant security, and only when Christian bigots like Mr. Miller stop legislating their beliefs (in the form of liquor laws, adultery and "minimum age" laws, anti-pornography and in recent years, obscenity, censorship, etc.) will we have a free society.

Enrico Said Guilty Of 'Name Calling'

To the Kaimin:

I think that Gene Enrico, Kaimin movie reviewer, might well review the Kaimin policy on letters to the editor, specifically the section that asks that all letters be more than a series of name calling, before he writes his next review. If such standards are demanded of letter writers they should certainly be practiced by a staff writer.

I believe that "What's New Pussycat?" is an excellent, well written comedy that should be praised on many counts. However one feels about the film, it is the reviewer's responsibility to genuinely deal with the film, rather than write cute, witty phrases that have very little to do with a sincere evaluation.

No Job for Rovrik?

To the Kaimin:

Re: "Rovrik's Rantings":
October 8 readers of the Kaimin were greeted with another asinine editorial suggesting what this University needs, among other things.

What this University needs, among other things, is an editor who isn't a completely irresponsible ignoramus. I am highly concerned that one warped individual is allowed to give the School of Journalism and the University such a black eye.

The only consolation I find in rovrik's rantings is that I can rest assured he will never hold a job, be it editor or paperboy, with any REPUTABLE newspaper.

Policy on Letters

Letters to the editor should generally be no longer than 400 words, preferably typed and triple spaced, with the writer's full name, major, year in school, address and phone number listed. They should be brought to the Kaimin office in Room 206 of the Journalism Building by 2 p.m. the day before publication or mailed to the editor in care of the Kaimin.

Letters must be within the limits of libel and obscenity and should amount to more than a series of name calling.

'Good Guy' Belittles Behan Editorial

To the Kaimin:

There may be a case to be made against the currently popular Folk-Rock trend in popular music, but Tom Behan's editorial certainly didn't make it. It was apparent that Tom had approximately thirty minutes to write so many inches of editorial and decided to fill with a lot of name-calling.

Tom has since denied that he was talking about a specific radio station, but KYLT is the only radio station in Missoula that uses the good-guy format. We rather resent being called "mucus-mouthed incompetents." We might have felt a little bit better about it if Tom had let everyone know that he is a former KYLT rock jock. Of course, he doesn't consider himself in the category of "a nobody Montana doejay." He has worked in the big markets—like Racine, Wis., and Ketchikan, Alaska.

I would certainly like to know where Tom got the idea that the average age of the rock audience is thirteen. Could it be that he made it up? It seems to me that Tom owes every one of the good guys an apology. His editorial constitutes libel.

Tom says it is up to irate citizens to demand decency in programming and he is right on that point. By the same token, I think it is time we students demand a certain amount of accuracy, less irresponsible name-calling and decent language in Kaimin editorials.

Tips to Defend Big Sky Lead Against Tough Idaho Eleven

The Montana Grizzlies will put their 2-0 Big Sky Conference record on the line Saturday when the University of Idaho Vandals invade Dornblaser Field.

Saturday's "Dads' Day" contest will be Idaho's Big Sky opener. The Vandals just joined the football conference actively this year. Led by fullback Ray McDonald, the Vandals appear to be the team to beat in the Big Sky this year.

Saturday at Logan, Utah, the Grizzlies bowed to the superior play of the Utah State Aggies, 54-21, in a non-conference tilt.

A crowd of 11,852 watched the Aggies outscore Montana in every quarter but the last, with All-America candidate Roy Shivers taking individual scoring honors with 24 points.

The Aggies got on the scoreboard in four plays after the opening Montana kickoff, with Shivers passing to split end and Dave Clark for a 43-yard touchdown.

The second Aggie touchdown came as a result of Henry King's interception of an Ed Steiner pass on Montana's first play from scrimmage. Three plays later, Shivers shot through right guard for a touchdown and Utah State held a 14-0 first quarter lead.

Montana broke into the scoring column in the second quarter when Steiner tossed a 50-yard touchdown pass to tight end Roger Clements.

But the Aggies came back strong with three more touchdowns in the second period for a 34-7 halftime lead.

In the third quarter, the Aggies scored on a 15-yard run by Shivers. Then Montana got a break when a bad Utah State pass from center on a punt attempt led to a Grizzly recovery on the Aggie six-yard line. Tailback Willie Jones scored two plays later from the four.

With 28 seconds remaining in the third quarter, Utah State made it 48-14 on a 49-yard pass play.

The final Montana touchdown came on a keeper by Steiner from the one-yard line after linebacker Mike Smith had intercepted an Aggie pass at midfield and returned it to the 20.

The Aggies outrushed Montana 284 yards to 86 yards, and out-passed them as well, piling up 251 yards to the Grizzlies' 160.

"Even when there was no hope, the team never gave up," said Coach Hugh Davidson. "It was a tremendous football game, we just got beat."

Davidson said that the Tips made some mistakes, but that it is inevitable when playing a team of Utah State's caliber. "They force mistakes with their speed," he said.

TERRY BERGREN

Davidson felt that the Aggies' first quarter outburst made the Tips open up a little, making them vulnerable to the draw play and the screen pass, which USU used effectively.

Another Grizzly observer noted that Utah State could probably outclass many Big Ten schools with their backfield depth and over-all size and speed.

Bergren Ties Own Record

Terry Bergren, Grizzly split end from Darby, made things a little brighter for Montana fans Saturday when he caught seven passes against the Utah State Aggies to tie his own Big Sky Conference record in that department.

Bergren, a 5-10, 177-pound junior, first set the record against the San Diego Marines in last season's final game. In that contest, he caught seven for 45 yards.

Against the Aggies, Bergren's seven receptions netted 81 yards. Bergren also moved into a tie for first place in Big Sky pass receiving statistics with 11 for 126 yards. He is tied with Henry Owens of Weber State, who has 11 receptions for 191 yards.

Cubs Turn Off Northern Lights

The Montana Cubs, after a strong showing against Northern Montana College Friday night, hope to improve their record this week when they meet the Montana State Bobkittens Friday on Dornblaser Field.

Quarterback John Vaccarelli of Wyandotte, Mich., teamed up with end Larry Gudith, also of Wyanddote, for two Cub touchdowns while the UM frosh were on their way to a 40-20 win over the Lights. Vaccarelli completed 10 of 22 passes before leaving the game in the fourth period with an injured leg. His replacement, Bruce Thomas, completed three of four, including another to Gudith for a touchdown.

End Jim Kenyon of Missoula also tallied on a pass from Vaccarelli in the first quarter. In the second quarter, fullback Rick Strauss of Polson scored from three yards out.

Vaccarelli ran one in himself in the second half on a five-yard keeper. The quick quarterback set up his touchdown with a 25-yard pass interception return.

Youth Claims Dubious Honor

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—A 22-year-old former college student, David J. Miller of Syracuse, N.Y., Monday became the first person formally charged with destroying a draft card in violation of a new federal law.
 He entered no plea when arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Peter Bourque.
 Miller was ordered held at the Hillsboro County jail in Manchester in lieu of $500 bail for a preliminary removal hearing Friday before Bourque.

He is wanted on a warrant issued by U.S. Commissioner Earl Bishop, of New York City, on Sunday.

His actions were in violation of a law signed by President Johnson on Aug. 30, and carry a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.
 Miller, who formerly had a student draft deferment but was reclassified IA last month, set fire to his draft card before hundreds of spectators and demonstrators near the armed forces induction station on White Hall Street in New York City, Hoover said.

UM Dormitories Overcrowded, Says Residence Halls Director

University of Montana dormitories are filled 10 per cent beyond their normal capacity this quarter, Residence Halls Director James Brown stated in an interview this week.
 The normal capacity of the entire residence halls system is 1,808, and this quarter there are 1,978 students living in these accommodations. This number is approximately the same as it was last year, but there are more women students.

This year, Erlod Hall has become a women's dormitory. Mr. Brown said this is until completion of the 11-story high-rise dormitory winter quarter 1967.

Because of Erlod's use as a women's residence hall, 150 to 200 upperclassmen were turned away and asked to find off-campus housing. Mr. Brown said the new dormitory, if finished, could well have been filled this year. Its capacity will be 406.

FUNGUS KILLER
 Nickel chemicals, because they destroy fungus after it appears on a plant, are used to combat rust fungus diseases which attack crops of grass grown for feed.

On Campus with Max Shulman
 (By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

TWELVE IS A MANY-SPLENDORED THING

Today I begin my twelfth year of writing this column in your campus newspaper.

These dozen years have passed like a dozen minutes. In fact, I would not believe so much time has gone by except that I have my wife nearby as a handy reference. When I started this column, she was a mere slip of a girl—supple as a willow bough and fair as the moon. Today she is gnarled, lumpy, and given to biting the postman. Still, I count myself lucky. Most of my friends who were married at the same time have wives who chase cars all day. I myself have had this trouble, and I attribute my good fortune to the fact that I have never struck my wife with my hand. I have always used a folded newspaper, even during the prolonged newspaper strike of 1961 in New York. During this journal-less period I had the annual edition of the Manchester Guardian flown in daily from England. I must admit, however, that it was not entirely satisfactory. The annual edition of the Guardian is printed on paper so light and flimsy that it makes very little impression when one smacks one's wife. Mine, in fact, thought it was some kind of game and tore several pairs of my trousers.

But I digress. For twelve years, I say, I have been writing this column. That is a fact, and here is another: I have every morning with Personna Stainless Steel Blades. I bring up Personna Stainless Steel Blades because this column is sponsored by the makers of Personna and they are inclined to brood if I omit to mention their products.

... only fleeting enthusiasm among the coaches.

Not, let me hasten to state, that it is any chore for me to sing the praises of Personna—as you will agree once you try this sharpest, smoothest-shaving, longest-lasting blade ever devised by the makers of Personna Blades—now available both in Double Edge and Injector style. Personna, always the most rewarding of blades, today offers even an extra reward—a chance to grab yourself a fistful of $100 bills from a $100,000 bowl! The Personna Stainless Steel Sweepstakes is off and running, and you're all eligible to enter. Visit your friendly Personna dealer soon to pick up an entry blank (void where prohibited by law).
 And, by the way, while you're at your friendly Personna dealers, why don't you ask for a can of Burma Shine? It comes in Regular or Menthol; it soaks ringers around any other lather, and is made by the makers of Personna.

But I digress. For twelve years, I say, this column has been discussing, forthrightly and fearlessly, such burning campus questions as "Should students be allowed to attend first-hour classes in pajamas?" and "Should deans be required at age 25?" and "Should foreign exchange students be held for ransom?"

Today, continuing the tradition, we take up the thorniest academic problem of all: the high cost of tuition. Let me tell you how one student, Lintel Sigafos by name, solved this problem.

Lintel, while still a boy in Straitened Circumstances, Idaho, had his heart set on college, but, alas, he couldn't afford the tuition. He applied for a Regents Scholarship but, alas, his reading speed was not very rapid—only two words an hour—and before he finished even the first page of his exam, the Regents had closed their briefcases crossly and gone home. Lintel then applied for an athletic scholarship, but he had, alas, only a single athletic skill—balancing an ice cream cone on his chin—and this, alas, aroused only fleeting enthusiasm among the coaches.

And then he found the answer: he would get a student loan! Of course, he would have to pay it back after graduation, but clever Lintel solved that, too: he kept charging his major, never accumulating enough credits to graduate until he was 65 years old. Then he repaid the loan out of his Social Security.

Where there's a will, there's a way.
