Helena Paper Attacks University, Cogswell

By SUSAN VAN KOTEN
Montana Kaimin Staff Writer

The Helena Independent Record attacked Dean of Students Andrew Cogswell and the University in an editorial Monday, for "referring students with narcotics problems to the UM Health Service for treatment and counseling."

The editorial accused the administration of "harboring and coddling lawbreakers at the University of Montana in Missoula."

The Helena paper based its attack upon last Wednesday's Montana Kaimin editorial, which stated, "University policy, ever since President Robert T. Pantzer took office, has been to help students with their problems whenever there is a chance to help the student with his problems without endangering the general welfare of the University."

"Andrew C. Cogswell, dean of students, has been instrumental in carrying out this program," the Kaimin stated.

"Consequently students can go to the Health Service for medical aid if they take a 'bad trip,' without fear of being turned over to the men in blue," the Kaimin said.

"Apparently the Independent Record inferred from this part of the Kaimin editorial that Mr. Cogswell was personally referring students to the Health Service," Ken Robertson, Kaimin editor said.

"Students who use them (marijuana, LSD, and other dangerous drugs) are breaking the law," the Independent Record editorial said, "and therefore should be turned over to law enforcement officials, not pampered in the university dispensary."

The Independent Record said Atty. Gen. Robert Woodahl should suggest to the Board of Regents that the "campus should not be a sanctuary for violation of the law, that lawbreakers should be punished, not pampered, and that university officials, of all people, shouldn't take the law into their own hands."

Mr. Cogswell told the Kaimin he has not referred anyone to the Health Service and said that if he ever found an individual in possession of drugs, "I am obligated to turn him over."

Laws, he said, are not going to solve the drug problem.

"Educating and counseling is the only way to solve it," he said.

In an Associated Press interview, Mr. Cogswell said there is "a great deal of hysteria" in Montana about drug use on campus.

"There probably isn't as much going on as people think," he said. "There's probably very little use of hard narcotics."

The school does not have a large hard corps of drug users, he said, despite the fact that the "drugs are around and can be obtained."

James Lucas Supports 19-Year-Old Voting Age

Rep. James Lucas, speaker of the Montana House of Representatives, will assist the Montana Student Presidents Association in its campaign for a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 19 in Montana.

Chuck Briggs, chairman of MSPA, said that Rep. Lucas endorsed the campaign at the recent Leadership Camp at Flathead Lake.

Briggs said the MSPA will plan the campaign at its convention, tentatively planned for May 16 and 17 at the University Center.

Briggs said he hopes the campaign will continue until the amendment is voted on in 1970.

Convention delegates will choose a new chairman and discuss student rights and student power at the convention. Briggs said that presidents will be asked to pledge funds from their colleges for newspaper, television and pamphlet promotion of the voting age amendment.

The student government at UM gave $700 to support the amendment this year and Briggs said it is hoped UM can give $2,000 by next spring quarter.

Donn Pearce Talks Tonight

Donn Pearce, author of "Cool Hand Luke," will speak about creative writing tonight at 8:15 in the UC Ballroom.

At 3:00 this afternoon, he will give an informal talk in the UC Montana Rooms.

"Cool Hand Luke," Mr. Pearce's first novel, is currently in its third printing and last year was made into a movie starring Paul Newman. Mr. Pearce earned an academy award nomination for his work on the scenario.

The novel deals with life on a Florida chain gang during the 1940's. The author served time in prison working on a gang similar to the one he describes in his novel.

Mr. Pearce has also been a painter in Greenwich Village and a merchant marine.

Unruh Will Speak

Jesse M. Unruh, Democratic Assembly leader of California, will speak on politics and the state legislature tomorrow night at 8:15 in the UC Ballroom.

Mr. Unruh was President Kennedy's campaign manager for southern California during the 1960 presidential campaign.

Last year he worked on Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's campaign and was chairman of California's Kennedy delegation at the 1968 Democratic Convention in Chicago.

Work-Study Cut Cancels Jobs

Only 350 of the 1,000 UM students who qualify for work-study jobs this summer will get them because of cuts in federal appropriations for work-study jobs, according to Donald Mullen, director of financial aids.

He said President Johnson's budget cut the UM allocation by $350,000.

In order to keep enough money available for the anticipated needs of the academic year, the program this summer will have 100 jobs less than last summer's program, according to Mr. Mullen.

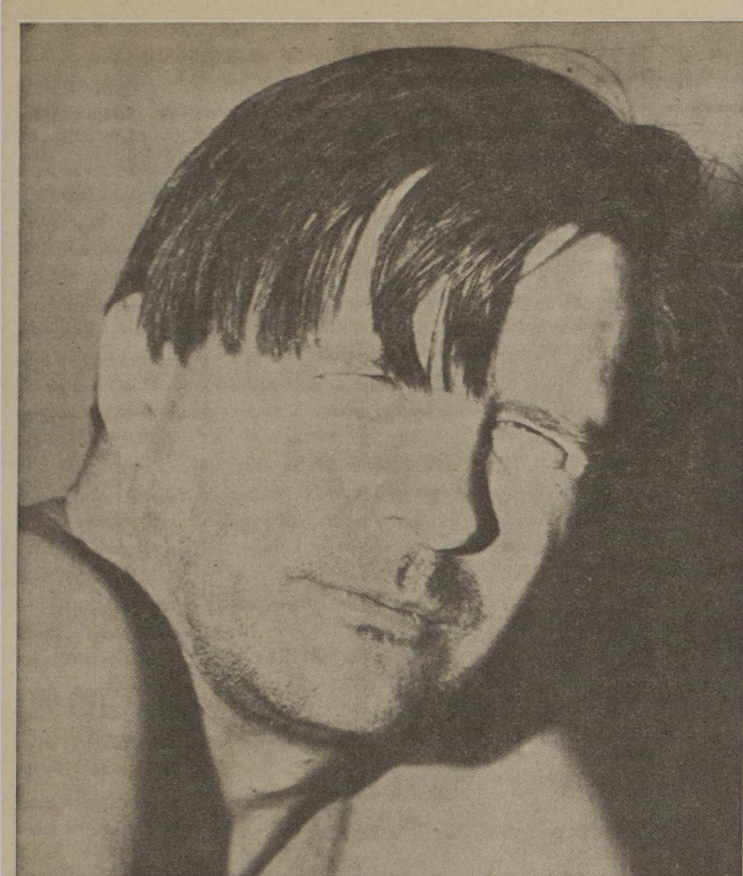

Mr. Mullen said the national defense loans will also be cut by $100,000. No defense loans will be given for summer school to save money for the academic year, he said.

Mr. Mullen said 450 students will be approved for the 350 available jobs because in the past some of the approved students did not take the jobs. He said students who received approval for work-study jobs but did not take them should return the card and tell the office.

Students should contact their hometown bankers about federally insured loans, Mr. Mullen said.

Cards will be mailed to students approved for work-study by the end of this week.

ONE THIRD OF "COOL HAND LUKE"—Donn Pearce says his novel's main character consists of three parts; legend, the actual Luke and he himself.

Masquer Theater Premiere Tonight

Two plays that were once off-Broadway sensations will be presented in the Masquer Theater today through Friday.

The double bill features Samuel Beckett's "Endgame" and Harold Pinter's "A Slight Ache," two avant-garde productions.

Both one-act plays penetrate ordinary situations to discover that living day-by-day does not collapse human dignity nor reduce it to simplistic terms.

James Carney will direct Beckett's "Endgame" and Paul Andersonson will direct Pinter's "A Slight Ache." Pinter is one of Britain's foremost playwrights.

Both directors are graduate students in the drama department and are producing the plays with the Montana Masquers as required work for advanced drama studies.

The cast in Beckett's play is Carl Darchuk, Bill Gillespie, Fred Booth and Barbara Wiltzen.

Gary Sullivan, Jane Fellows and John Juneiman will perform Pinter's unusual approach to the eternal triangle.

Eliminates Class Delegates

ASUM President Advocates Reapportionment, New Court

By ROBIN BROWN
Montana Kaimin Staff Writer

Two radical changes in student government will become effective next year if a revised ASUM constitution meets the approval of the administration, Faculty Senate, students and Central Board.

The changes proposed by Ben Briscoe, ASUM president, include a reapportionment of representation on Central Board and the institution of a judicial branch in the student government.

Class Delegates

Currently 12 CB delegates, three from each class, represent about 7,000 students on campus. Under Briscoe's plan, every 200 activity-fee-paying students would be represented by one delegate thus eliminating the current class delegate system. The delegates would serve one year.

Briscoe said representation will be divided into on- and off-campus districts.

The on-campus district would include all campus living groups, fraternities and sororities. The off-campus district would include all activity-fee-paying students who are not included in the other category.

More Delegates

Briscoe said although CB membership under the new apportionment would be boosted from 12 to 25 or more voting members, it would be no greater than CB membership has been for the past two years. There have been 16 voting members and 10 commissioners on the board.

If the proposed reapportionment is passed, Briscoe said, the present class delegate system would probably remain until next year's CB elections.

Judicial System

The other constitutional change, the advent of a judicial system, is from a recommendation made in a student rights pamphlet by Ken Tolliver, a second-year law student, and Larry Ellison, an associate law professor.

Briscoe said if his plan goes into effect, it will be the most comprehensive student judicial program in the United States.

At present, Briscoe said, the ASUM judicial structure is very sketchy, having only a Traffic Board, Board of Judicial Review and Student Conduct Committee.

Control Policies

Briscoe's Board of Judicial Review would control rules and policies of student conduct at the University. Membership of the board would consist of three faculty members, appointed by the Faculty Senate, four students, appointed by the ASUM president and approved by CB, and the dean of students.

The dean of students, the board chairman, would coordinate the student conduct program. The board would have appellate jurisdiction over student conduct cases in which the student offender received a penalty of either suspension, expulsion or probation from the student court.

The student court would dispose of all student conduct cases within its jurisdiction. The court would consist of two faculty members, appointed by the Faculty Senate, and five students, appointed by the ASUM president and approved by CB.

Judicial Review Board

The Board of Judicial Review would have original jurisdiction over all other cases unless it chose to delegate such jurisdiction to an inferior court.

Another branch of the judiciary, the Constitutional Review Board, would decide upon any questions arising in regard to the ASUM Constitution or by-laws. This board would consist of the student members of the Board of Judicial Review.

ABM Reports Differ

Two contrasting reports were issued yesterday on the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile.

The first was by four professors commissioned by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the second was by two scientists and a retired general for the American Security Council.

Kennedy report: "We conclude that the system is unlikely to perform according to specifications in the event of nuclear attack."

ASC Report: "Safeguard will 'work' in the sense it is intended to work." The United States "has amply demonstrated its capacity to produce and operate the most complex . . . systems."

Kennedy report: "We conclude that deployment of Sentinel-Safeguard now would probably start a new round in the arms race and would seriously impede the conclusion of an arms control agreement."

ASC report: "Soviet leaders would regard U.S. failure to develop an ABM as a sign of deficient military thinking — one that should be exploited, not followed."

Chafee Overrides Navy Brass

WASHINGTON (AP) — "They have suffered enough," Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee declared yesterday in overriding the Navy brass to save Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher and two other Pueblo officers from possible punishment because of North Korea's seizure of their spy ship.

At the same time the Navy's civilian chief blocked official reprimands against two senior naval officers, including Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, who commanded U.S.

naval forces in Korean-Japanese waters at the time of the incident Jan. 23, 1968.

But Chafee stopped short of absolving Cmdr. Bucher, the Pueblo skipper, or any of the other officers in connection with the loss of the intelligence gathering ship in international waters.

"I make no judgment regarding the guilt or innocence of any of the officers of the offenses alleged against them," the Navy secretary said.

Ruling Limits Student Power

HELENA (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert L. Woodahl yesterday said Montana University System presidents do not have the authority to delegate to students the power to approve or disapprove the construction of campus buildings.

"Our law vests authority in the Board of Regents and legislature to approve the construction or addition of any building in the Montana University System," Mr. Woodahl told the president of Eastern Montana College, Dr. Stanley J. Heywood.

"To my knowledge, neither the board nor the legislature has ever delegated this authority to any university unit," the attorney general said.

The attorney general's opinion for Heywood was issued because of student insistence at Eastern that they have the right to vote on an addition to the physical education building at AMC.

Racial Problems Come to North Dakota

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (CPS)—For most residents of lily white North Dakota and northwest Minnesota, racism has always been a social phenomenon of lazy Southern towns and large, festering cities.

The number of black students attending various colleges and universities has risen noticeably in recent years and tension within the white community has increased proportionately. Up until now, that tension has materialized as little more than subtle acts of discrimination and bigotry.

But early in the morning on April 20, four bullets were fired into the car of a black Moorhead, (Minn.) State College student, the second racial incident in that community within three days.

Floyd Thomas, of Newcastle, Del., told police he was returning to his dormitory after taking his date home when someone began firing at his car. Two of the bullets went through his right door windshield, one struck the right door and another the right rear fender.

Moorhead Police Chief James Dickinson said the weapon was either a .32 or .380 caliber automatic pistol. He added there were "probably racial implications in the incident."

In the previous week three blacks were arrested in a Moorhead State dorm after shooting a pistol loaded with blanks at a group of about 25 whites. The black students claimed the whites had tried to prod them into a fight after refusing to surrender some food the blacks had ordered.

Several weeks ago, a member of the Black Student Union at the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks was arrested and allegedly "racially mistreated" by the arresting officer. Specifically,

Bruin Booters Lose and Tie In Pair of Matches on Road

The UM soccer team lost one and tied one in a pair of road matches this weekend. They lost to Washington State University 4-2 at Pullman, Wash., on Saturday and tied Gonzaga 4-4 in Spokane on Sunday.

Since only 11 members of the team made the trip the team was forced to play with no substitutes. In the WSU game, Bela Balogh scored one of the UM goals on a penalty kick and Dana McMurray scored the other UM goal.

In the Gonzaga game, John Gray scored the first and second goals for UM. The second goal was scored on a heel pass from McMurray which Coach Vince Celtnieks termed "an outstanding play."

Gonzaga then took the lead by ripping of three straight goals. Goals by Celtnieks and McMurray gave the lead back to the Bruins, but only momentarily as Gonzaga preserved a tie by scoring on a penalty kick.

Shoup Says Cooperation Exists

The University is a responsible member of the community, but a lack of communication exists between the community and students, Mayor Richard Shoup said at the LDS Conflux last week.

A lot of cooperation exists between the university administration and the city, the Missoula mayor said.

The University accepts many responsibilities in the campus area which are the responsibility of the city, he said, citing as an example the installation of a stop light at Arthur and University Avenues.

A traffic problem existed there, which would have been taken care of by the city, Mayor Shoup said, but the University bought and installed the light.

Asked if the Missoula police were "out to get students," the mayor said students "get away with more things than most citizens do."

The students are not a problem in the community, he said. All that exists, he said, is a lack of communication between the students and the city which can be remedied by talking to student leaders.
