Opinion Poll to Survey UM Students' Attitudes

An opinion survey, prepared by the American College Testing Service, to be administered Wednesday through Friday and May 26-27 to 600 students, will indicate how well "the Establishment" is meeting student needs, according to Norman Taylor, vice president of research.

The survey, to be given by the administration in U 205, will question students on their attitudes about student goals, college policies and practices, institutional services, personal and educational development, and quality of instruction and extracurricular activities.

By using the survey Mr. Taylor said, the administration can discover areas of discontent and possibly correct those areas before they become serious issues. While the administration may believe

U Programs Defined For Council of 50

The Council of 50 heard descriptions from faculty members of eight UM programs ranging from the Kalmin to the services of the speech and hearing clinic at its spring meeting Saturday in the University Center.

In discussing the new Department of Religious Studies, Henry Bugbee, professor of philosophy, said religious studies cannot be covered through other departments such as anthropology or sociology. Instead, departments, such as the one which will offer instruction next fall, give the best curriculum, Mr. Bugbee said.

Teachers must be trained in religious studies to give the subject balance, Mr. Bugbee said.

Robert Van Horne, dean of the pharmacy school, said the Drug Education Program at UM was instituted by the 1967 Montana Legislature to educate Montanans about drug use and abuse.

The program utilizes video tapes, public lectures and seminars, he said.

Charles Bolen, dean of the fine arts school, said the UM Foundation is conducting a study to see if $2 million in private funds could be obtained to build the proposed $6 million Montana Center for the Arts on the UM campus.

The Montana legislature is expected to contribute the balance if private funding can be obtained, Mr. Bolen said.

He said the proposed complex student discontent with a certain policy is great, he added, the survey results may show the discontent is insignificant.

The survey, Mr. Taylor said will also "give students information about themselves." It will, for example, explain where an individual's attitudes rate with the rest of the campus and where UM attitudes stand in relation to other campuses, he said. About 100 other universities have used the same survey.

One hundred men and one hundred women from each upper class have been selected to take part in the survey, Mr. Taylor said. Cooperation of those selected students is important for the success of the survey, since the participants were chosen by a statistical technique which will not allow for substitutions.

would contain a gallery, two theaters, classrooms and laboratories.

Ulysses Doss, instructor of humanities, said the black studies program at UM is "a small step in the right direction" in creating positive social changes for minority groups.

Indians and blacks should coordinate the ethnic studies programs at UM, according to Mr. Doss. By 1971, Mr. Doss said, he hopes UM will have other black professors and a broader program of ethnic studies.

Warren Erier, dean of the journalism school, said the Kalmin is not controlled by the journalism school.

Although the Kalmin is sometimes an extreme source of frustration to the administration, he said, it is important not to suppress dissent and rational discourse.

An uncensored college newspaper fits into the curriculum, Mr. Erier said.

Charles Parker, chairman of the department of speech pathology and audiology, said his department has established a six-week summer residential camp for severely handicapped children.

John Delano, executive director of the UM Alumni Association, and Larry Stuart, director of the UM Information Services, described some of the public relations techniques used by UM.

After the testing is completed, the data will be sent to Minneapolis, Minn., for scoring and will be returned within a week.

Business Students Receive Annual Awards Saturday

The School of Business Administration of UM held its twenty-second annual Scholarship Awards Banquet in the UC Ballroom last Saturday.

MSPA Will Vote On Draft Service

The decision of whether to hire a statewide professional draft counselor was postponed until the fall meeting of the Montana Student Presidents Association at a meeting of MSPA held at UM last weekend.

Rob Sand and Jeff Miller, draft education counselors at UM, urged the presidents to commit funds to the project. However, the presidents passed a resolution which states: "Resolved that ASUM in cooperation with other Montana Universities and colleges investigate the feasibility of establishing a draft education and counseling service which will be acted upon at the next MSPA Convention."

Ben Briscoe, president of ASUM, said, "There is a tendency to equate draft counseling with draft evasion. However, the idea is to direct the students so that they don't get in a legal bind that they can't get themselves out of. If the students want it, we should offer the service."

Dennis Conner, Eastern Montana College president, said he was against the proposal and did not think the students at Eastern were ready for it. He said that after a draft counseling was established in Billings, windows of the buildings on the EMC campus were broken. Besides Briscoe and Conner, Mark Raciol, president of Carroll College, Newell Anderson, president of Northern Montana College, Pat O'Hara, president of Montana Tech, and Bob Brown, president of Montana State University attended the convention.

If Montana adopts the proposed plan next fall, Sand said, it will be the only system in the nation where a sizable number of colleges or universities share the same professional counselor. This counselor would have headquarters at UM which would include a secretary, office space, and use of the hot line. He would visit other participating schools' campuses on a regular basis. Pre-counselors, such as the DECC program at UM, would be set up in each participating school.

In other actions MSPA passed a resolution in favor of allowing students to regulate student fees used in funding their varsity athletic programs. President Robert T. Pantzer will carry the resolution to the Board of Regents meeting in Helena in July.

A resolution in "full support of lowering the voting age in Montana to 19 years," was also passed.

College Bowl Squad Returns to Missoula

Members of the UM College Bowl team attributed their defeat Sunday afternoon to being slow with the buzzer and being a reluctant to take chances.

They competed on NBC's "General Electric College Bowl" with a team from Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa. The score was 215 to 160.

The team arrived home last night.

The UM team was composed of James Curly, senior in history; Robert Blair, junior in wildlife biology; Scott Wheeler, senior in history; and William Larson, senior in liberal arts. Robert Turner, professor of history was the team's adviser.

Most of the team thought the questions were fair and evenly distributed in categories. Blair said, "We knew the answers, we just weren't quick enough." He said he thought the questions were tough.

But Wheeler thought they would have done better if the questions had been harder. He said the team won the practice round where the questions were harder. Wheeler

Jubilers Sing For UM Alums While on Tour

The Jubilers gave a performance for UM alumni in New York City following the UM appearance on "The General Electric College Bowl" television program on Sunday.

The Iceland portion of the Jubilee USO tour has been canceled and the group was in New York until yesterday. The group will leave today on a European tour; spending four days in London, a week in Vienna, and a week in Florence before returning to the United States June 6.

The Jubilers, under the direction of Joseph Mussulman, assistant professor of music, have been touring the Northeast Military Command.

said the question about an L-shaped organ of the body could have been the liver and the fact that the other team won by answering "stomach" was just a case of luck.

Mr. Turner said he felt there were some bad questions. He speculated that the team would have won if the game would have continued for another 2 1/2 minutes. "I'm real proud of the boys," Mr. Turner said. "I think they did a real good job and have nothing to be ashamed of."

Curly and Larson said they wished there had been more questions about history.

Larson said he thought the teams were very evenly matched and that the UM team was not outclassed at all.

The team received $2,000 in scholarship grants for their appearance.

The team members were guests of area alumni at a buffet supper at the Tin Lizzy, a New York night club, Sunday night after the TV appearance where the Jubilers, on their way to Europe, entertained.

Apollo 10 Astronauts Pass Midpoint of Moon Journey

COMPILED FROM THE WIRES OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 10 astronauts focused a color television camera on earth yesterday and said, "You could never tell anybody would inhabit the place."

"It looks beautiful going away and I'll look even better coming back," said Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford of the earth, as Apollo 10 flashed past the halfway mark on its perilous journey to the moon.

Col. Stafford and his crewmates, Norman, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan, started their fourth television transmission with a color view of the earth, a flattened blue disc against a blanket of black.

Officials at a press conference here said all three crewmen "felt in good shape," were eating well and ready to challenge the moon. The astronauts shared their spectacular view with the rest of mankind, beaming to the world the third live color television picture of the shrinking earth far behind them.

With each fleeting second of Apollo 10's outward dash, the perils for the spacemen increase. Officials said early yesterday that if an emergency developed, it would take more than 24 hours to return the astronauts to safety.

When the astronauts achieve moon orbit tomorrow all of their engines and systems will have to work perfectly for them to return safely next Monday. This is the longest journey ever taken by man and the riskiest space adventure ever dared.

Violence Spreads in Newark

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Looting spread through the black areas here last night after an 18-year-old black was shot and killed by a black police officer.

Police were issued shotguns, helmets and riot sticks. All available cars were sent into the area of the outbreaks.

Police said the black policeman had been suspended.

Police toting shotguns ordered crowds of black youths off the streets in black areas. Police said they had made two arrests.

Grade fences were torn off store fronts and clothes and other goods were strewn about Clinton Avenu where the shooting occurred. Clinton Avenue is near the border of the South and Central Ward where black rioting broke out in July, 1967.

That rioting lasted nearly seven days, leaving 26 persons killed and millions of dollars in property damage.

Police said the crowds began to gather during the late afternoon after a police officer shot and killed a black youth whom he had apprehended with an allegedly stolen car.

The police said the youth attacked the officer with a soda bottle.

U.S. to Keep Security Promises

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers is restoring America's Southeast Asian allies today that the Nixon administration intends to fulfill all its security obligations in this part of the world.

Mr. Rogers will address the two-day meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization whose members have expressed anxiety about U.S. intentions.

Mr. Rogers said there is a limit to commitments and obligations, but he did not suggest that the United States was unable to live up to those it has already made.

Of crucial interest to Thailand is whether the United States will continue stationing some forces in this country after the war in Vietnam ends.

If all the bases were to close, the physical evidence of U.S. protection for Southeast Asia would recede to western Pacific positions.

Douglas' Firm Sells Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The private foundation headed by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has sold its $2-million stock holdings in a firm which owns three Las Vegas gambling casinos, a foundation official said yesterday.

Justice Douglas, as the president and only paid official of the Albert Parvin foundation, has been criticized in Congress for his outside salary and the stock ties with the casino ownership.

Records show Justice Douglas has been paid more than $85,000 by the foundation over the past seven years.

The treasurer of the foundation said the remaining holdings of 21,791 shares in the casinos were sold in early March.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, said the circumstances of the Fortas and Douglas "fees" are strikingly similar, except that in the case of the latter the money comes in part from the gambling tables of Las Vegas.

Conduct of Forest Industries Exemplary, Forester Claims

To the Kaimin: The May 15 Kaimin editorial stated that a new era of resource management was about to begin, which would turn forested land into a ghetto. I assert that the forestry profession would not knowingly allow your melodramatic, "How to Turn Forestland into a Ghetto," to develop.

You state that President Nixon has directed the Department of Interior, through its Bureau of Land Management (BLM), to sell or lease public lands to private forest industry to drive down lumber prices. The BLM is prohibited from selling public domain land except for small acreages, which are too small for economical agency management. The large consolidated blocks of public domain land are not being offered for sale. Public forest land is not leased to private forest industry in this country.

The editorial writer may have misunderstood President Nixon's directive to the BLM to increase the annual cut of timber on the public domain lands. This does not entail the exchange of land through either sale or lease, but rather the letting of contracts to private forest industry for purposes of logging the public lands. We can increase the annual cut on the public lands because of the effective use of silvicultural and forest management techniques.

The nine million acre decrease in the public domain between 1962 and 1966 does not mean that private forest industry acquired the land. Alaska was granted 103 million acres of public domain land in the statehood act of 1958 with 25 years to complete its selection. The public domain land that Alaska selected during 1962-66 equals approximately nine million acres.

The public domain has decreased in accordance with law; however, nearly one-half million acres of land has been acquired since 1965 for recreational purposes under the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act. These additional lands are closer to urban centers than the interior Alaska lands and will therefore receive more recreational use.

The Paul Bunyan practice of private forest industry went out years ago. Forest industries can provide many examples of good conservation practices. Some nearby examples are the St. Regis Company at Libby, Montana, and the Anaconda Forest Products Company at Bonner, which, incidentally, is one of Montana's largest private forestland owners.

I appreciate the Kaimin's policy of providing stimulating and educational editorials, but let's provide more factual information. Don't be afraid to walk across our mutual parking lot to ask foresters a few questions concerning future articles about natural resource management. We will be glad to help you educate the public in the area of the forestry profession's concern.

Bruin Nine Splits With Gonzaga

The UM baseball team recovered from an 18-2 drubbing at the hands of Gonzaga to win the second game 3-1 yesterday afternoon at Campbell Park.

Two big six-run innings, the first and the fifth, proved to be too much for the weak hitting attack of the Grizzlies. Jack Regan went all the way for Gonzaga for the easy victory. Gordy McManus was tagged with the loss.

One Grizzly run came in the first inning when Steve Wheeler scored on a double by Mike Houston. Pat Shannon scored the other run in the second inning on a single by Bob Glasgow.

In the second game, the Grizzlies scored three runs in the fourth and the come-from-behind victory. The breaking run was scored when Glasgow was hit in the head by a pitched ball with the bases loaded. Glasgow sustained a cut above his left eye and was kept in the Health Services for observation. X-rays were to be taken this morning.

John Kidd went the distance for the victory and Brian Morse was tagged with the loss.

In sixth inning Idaho took a pair from the Grizzlies 7-0 and 8-3. Skip Ivie pitched a one-hitter for Idaho in the first game and chalked up his 10th victory of the season.

The Vandals got the only run they needed in the first game on a triple by Steve Doyle and a single by Paul Page in the first inning. Lem Elway was the losing pitcher.

In the second game, both teams scored one run in the first inning but Idaho took advantage of five walks and three hits in the third to score five runs. Montana added one run in the third and another in the seventh.

Joe Kampa got credit for the victory and Carl Brown was tagged with the loss.

The Grizzlies have a conference record of 2-8 and are 7-14 over all. The team ends its season Thursday at Boreman against MSU with a pair of make-up games. The games were snowed out earlier this season.

Robinson Paces Montana

ISU Wins Sixth Track Title As Grizzlies Capture Second

Depth-laden Idaho State University won its sixth straight league championship and Montana took second for the third straight year here Saturday in the Big Sky Conference finals.

Montana edged the Bruins 89-77 in the two-day meet and Weber State was third with 66. Montana State had 34 and Idaho 22.

Roy Robinson, ace UM sprinter, broke the fans on the feet during the 100 and the high hurdles. In the 100 Robinson edged favorite Randy Montgomery of Weber State as they posted times of 9.5 and 9.6 Montgomery has gone 9.3 twice this year.

In the high hurdles Robinson and league record-holder Wayne Calvary of ISU, waged an even battle all the way but it was Robinson who broke the tape first. His time of 14.2 broke the stadium record of 14.3 set earlier this year by John Kirry of Central Washington. Calvary, whose league mark is 14.1, ran the event in 14.3.

Robinson also took fourth in the 220 and ran the winning 440 relay team to take second in individual scoring honors with 15½.

Montgomery won the individual scoring title with 18½ points as he took first in the triple jump, seconds in the 100 and 220, third in the long jump, and ran on Weber's mile and 440 relay teams.

Five conference marks were set, two of them by Montana. Mike I. musta bettered his conference mark of 238½ set last year with a toss of 245-2. Mick Harrington broke his own stadium record of 1.542 and Jerry Love's conference mark of 1.533 in the 890 as he covered the course in 1:52.9.

The other league marks, were set by Idaho's Rich Smith in the discus, ISU's Gary Bills in the shot put, and ISU's Tony Rodriguez in the steepelchase.

Jazz Concert to Feature Saxaphonist DiPasquale

A jazz and Motown rock concert this Wednesday evening at 8:15 in the University Theater will feature saxophonist James Di Pasquale, according to UM jazz director Frank Dilberto. The twenty member jazz band will play Motown rock and numbers like "Going Out of My Head," "Peter Gunn," and two numbers written by Mr. Di Pasquale. The band will also play an arrangement made by Mr. Di Pasquale of "What the World Needs Now."

Mr. Di Pasquale composes for films and television commercials. He wrote the sound track of "The Way Back," which won the American Film Festival award in 1965. He has played for Stan Kenton, Buddy Morrow, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Les Elgart, Henry Mancini, Barry Streisand and Harry Belafonte. Edd Blackler, a former Jubilee, will be master of ceremonies for the performance. The Columbians, a high school stage band, will also perform. Admission is one dollar. Mr. Di Pasquale will also participate in a jazz workshop which will be held from 7 to 9 Monday night and from 9 to 11 Tuesday night.

Mr. Dilberto founded the jazz band two years ago and receives no pay for his work on it.

Contract for 'The Temptations' Rejected by Program Council

Program Council unanimously rejected an offer last week to contract "The Temptations" for next year's Homecoming concert.

John Meyers, council director, said that he had made an offer to the pop group to play here next year, but hadn't received word yet. Council members agreed that interest in "The Temptations" is lacking at UM and few people would attend a concert by them.

Program council also decided to co-sponsor with the philosophy department a speech next fall by California philosopher Maurice Nortonson.

Henry Bugbee, professor and chairman of the philosophy department, informed Program Council by letter that a grant from the Council for Philosophical Studies is available to bring Mr. Nortonson, a professor at the University of California in Santa Cruz, to speak here.

"He relates philosophy particularly with literature, the arts, social and political thought, and the nerve centers of contemporary life," Mr. Bugbee said of Mr. Nortonson.
