Office hours are 12:00 noon to 3 P.M. on Fridays, or by appointment. Appointments to meet at an office on campus should be set by email at least one day in advance. All students can arrange for phone conversations if needed (especially distance learners). The primary contact and communication for this course is by email.*

Course Information

This introductory course is a core requirement for the Anthropology Major and the Minor in the BA degree. The course also serves two requirements for general education, social sciences (group VII) and International and Cultural Diversity (Group X) for all undergraduates. As a U course, ANTY 220S does not count for graduate credit towards a graduate degree. There are no prerequisites.

The goals, or learning outcomes for this course are:

- To describe social and cultural aspects of diverse ways of life, past and present.
- To demonstrate a cross-cultural perspective on values, and behaviors across societies.
- To describe ethnographic methods: what ethnographers do, how they do it, and why.
- To engage in thoughtful, respectful debates with peers about cultural diversity.
- To contrast how and why sociocultural anthropology differs from other social sciences.

Readings

Ethnographies for a Global Century Laue, C et al. (Eds) 2016. Cognella, Inc. This reader is available in digital and bound paper copies for sale online: https://students.universityreaders.com/store/
Unbound copies are also available for purchase (nonrefundable) at the UC Bookstore.

Two desk copies are available on reserve at the Mansfield Library for in building use only (4 hour).

Supplemental Reading: Additional supplemental readings are posted to Moodle each week. These are optional for undergraduates, and recommended/required for graduate students.

Accessibility

This course has been designed with accessibility in mind. Any students who need further accommodations should notify the instructor the first week, and contact Disability Student Services directly with any questions about access and rights as a student. If any barriers to accessibility arise, or come to your attention during the semester, please notify the instructor immediately, and contact advisors at the DSS office.

Student Conduct Code Please review the Student Conduct Code and avoid plagiarism.

This syllabus outlines course requirements, assessment, and policies in compliance with the current Academic Catalog. Any revisions to the schedule, or content will be communicated by announcement throughout the term.
Assessment

1) With the exception of the first week, students are expected to complete readings by Monday. A quiz on required readings will open 8 a.m.-10 p.m. beginning Jan. 29th through April 17th.

2) During the week, students are expected to view film(s), read lecture notes, and post comments, questions, or responses to small group discussion forums. Small group discussion forums are available to enhance learning and participation by students is voluntary.

3) One written commentary on the week’s topic and sources is to be submitted by Friday by 10 p.m., Jan. 27th through March 17th. (The first week’s submission is an introduction of one’s self, background, goals and expectations for the course.) Subsequent weeks’ commentaries will address a prompt on the weekly topic (readings, lecture notes, films, supplemental resources).

4) Submitting one weekly commentary on Fridays is required to pass the course.

5) Two midterm exams will consist of 50 questions. The first exam covers topics for weeks 1 to 5; the second midterm exam covers topics from weeks 6-10, and the final exam covers topics weeks 11-15.

6) The final writing assignment is a short essay of 1000 words, with citations from the course in which each student evaluates sociocultural anthropology as a social science of cultural diversity and comparative social organization. Topics can range across the 15 weeks and chapters of the reader. The final essay is due Monday May 8th at 5:00 p.m.

7) The Final Exam is due Friday, May 12th at 5:00 p.m.

Evaluation and Grades

Quizzes, commentaries, and exams must be submitted by due date and time. In cases of illness or emergency that prevents a timely submission, notify the instructor and provide documentation (a doctor’s note) if appropriate, and submit the assignment or exam late within a reasonable time to remain current with the course. Scheduled athletic participation, religious observance, and other stated circumstances in the Academic catalog which may conflict with a submission time requires a student to plan to complete that assessment in advance of the due date and time. Late and missing assignments without valid reasons will earn only partial credit toward the final grade. Final grades are based on: consistent performance and participation in assessment, demonstration of an accurate grasp of course content, and satisfactory completion of the final essay assignment.

Grade points are converted to a letter grade: 90-100% = A, 80-89% = B, 70-79% = C, 60-69% = D, below 60% = F. +/- is at the instructor’s discretion.

200 points (the best 10 of 12 quiz scores)
600 points (two midterms and one final exam)
200 points (final essay assignment)
1000 possible points total

GENERAL EDUCATION: Group VII and Group X

Group VII: Social Sciences (S)

Social science courses describe and analyze human social organization and interaction, employing social data at a broad scale with statistical relevance, experimental data on individuals or groups, or qualitative data based on observation and discourse.

(Learning outcomes) Upon completion of a Social Sciences course, students will be able to:

1. Describe the nature, structure, and historical development of human behavior, organizations, social phenomena, and/or relationships;

2. Use theory in explaining these individual, group, or social phenomena; and/or understand, assess, and evaluate how conclusions and generalizations are justified based on data.

Group X: International and Cultural Diversity (formerly Indigenous and Global)

These courses foster an appreciation for diverse cultures, their histories and contemporary forms, and their positions in world spheres of power and change. This includes knowledge of diverse cultures in comparative and thematic frameworks. Knowledge gained through courses in the X perspective prepares students to cultivate ways of thinking that foster an understanding of the complexities of indigenous or international cultures and global issues, past and present.

(Learning outcomes) Upon completion of a course in this group, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate an understanding of the diverse ways humans structure their social, political, and cultural lives;

2. Interpret human activities, ideas, and institutions with reference to diverse cultural, historical and geo-political perspectives and physical environments; and recognize the complexities of inter-cultural and international communications and collaborative endeavors, and relate this to the complex challenges of the 21st century.
