COMMUNICATING VIA COMPUTERS (CS171)

FALL 2000 SYLLABUS

Communicating via Computers covers the use of the computer for information presentation and communication. Emphasis is placed on the use of electronic resources for the access, management, and presentation of information. Beginning Fall 2000, Microsoft Office 2000 will be the primary application software tool. This course is designed for the "intermediate" computer applications user. Skills will be enhanced for the MS Office 2000 suite of products including Word, Excel, and PowerPoint. Special treatment will be given towards integration of these skills so that students can solve problems and have built a portfolio to add to their resumes. Overall, at the end of this course, the student should be proficient in all of the MS Office 2000 applications listed above.
