21 TO COMPLETE
BUSINESS EDUCATION
PROGRAM AT UM AUG. 22

MISSOULA, Mont.--

Twenty-one teachers involved in business education curricula will be ready to return to the classrooms this fall, after completing 12 months of study on the University of Montana campus.

During their stay on the Missoula campus the teachers, most of whom represent high schools in more than a dozen states, have been studying electronic data processing and its impact on business and education as fellows in the Experienced Teacher Fellowship Program (ETFP) in business education. The program, which ends Aug. 22, is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education.

The ETFP is under the direction of Dr. George J. Brabb, professor of management, and Dr. Donald B. Koeppen, chairman of business education and office administration. Both men are faculty members in the UM School of Business Administration.

Commenting on the unique features of the Montana program, Dr. Brabb said, "No other such program currently exists anywhere in the nation. Through a combination of courses in business administration, computer science and education, these teachers have developed expertise in computer programming and the application of computers to business problems and school administration.

"In addition, they have been taught methods and procedures for teaching electronic data processing skills to their own students," Dr. Brabb added.

The ETFP also will be offered during the 1969-70 academic year. In mid-September a new group of 15 experienced teachers will arrive in Missoula to begin their studies on the Montana campus.
