- I. Required readings for this course will be drawn from the following resources: Tales Of a Shaman's Apprentice, Sanapia, Cry of the Eagle.
- II. This course is designed to acquaint students with how Native health practitioners traditionally respond to health imbalances and the role that plants have played in Native approaches to health and healing. Students will gain this perspective through lectures, assigned readings and discussions. In addition to this the course will also examine the impact that colonization and technology has had upon Indigenous cultural knowledge and as a result the way Indigenous people have come to perceive their own health and healing.
- III. Objective: By the end of the course students should expect 1. to be familiar with aspects of ethnobotany, 2. to be able to identify certain plants that possess medicinal value and 3. gain an understanding of how Native health practitioners traditionally respond to health imbalances.
- IV. Graded assignments:
- A. The Short Answer Exam is worth 50 pts and will consist of 4 short answers (10 pts ea.) and 5 identifications (2 pts ea.).
- B. The Mid Term is worth 50 pts and will consist of 20 multiple choice (1 pt ea.), 5 identifications (2 pts ea.), and 2 short answers (10 pts ea.)
- C. The Final Research Paper is worth 50 pts and should be 8-10 pages in length, with approximately 240 words per page, or a minimum of 2,400 words to a maximum of 2,800 words. The paper should be properly referenced, with a properly written and formatted bibliography of no less than 6 references. Those papers not adhering to the word length, bibliography and reference criteria will result in a significantly lower graded paper. Students must get their paper's topic approved by me first.
- D. The Group Presentation is worth 50 pts. Assigned groups will be expected to present on a topic of Native health and healing. Presentations can cover such areas as; effectiveness of Native health practices, a comparative perspective, Native health and healing from a psychological perspective; etc. Every member of the group must participate in the presentation or the presentation will loose points. The presentation can cover a maximum of 35 minutes including time for questions.
- E. The final research paper is to be turned in during class on the date that it is due. If the research paper is turned in late 2 points will be deducted for each day late, Saturdays and Sundays not included.

IV. Grading Scale:

A = 181 - 200
D = 129 - 140

B = 161 - 180
F = 0 - 128

C = 141 - 160
