UM PROFESSOR
HEADS COMMITTEE
FOR CUNA INTERNATIONAL

MISSOULA--

A University of Montana faculty member recently was appointed chairman of a committee within CUNA International, it has been announced by James M. Huggins, manager of the UM Federal Credit Union.

The appointee is Dr. Ludwig G. Browman, a UM zoology professor, who has been involved in credit union activities many years on the Missoula campus. Dr. Browman will head the Special Committee on Consumer Affairs.

The committee will study current policies, programs and services in relation to consumer wants and interests in order to make recommendations for specific consumer programs on a national level.

Dr. Browman is among seven credit union and consumer affairs leaders appointed to the committee.

CUNA International formerly was known as the Credit Union National Association.

Dr. Browman is a member of the board of directors for the UM Federal Credit Union.

He served as president of the Montana Credit Unions League the past two years.

The credit union has been in operation on the Missoula campus since 1954.
