CUT BANK COMMUNICATIONS
WORKSHOP SET FOR NOV. 15

MISSOULA---

Applications are being accepted for the Nov. 15 communications workshop at Cut Bank Senior High School.

The program is last in a series of six communications workshops held in recent weeks in various Montana communities under the direction of several University of Montana faculty members.

Among those invited to attend the Cut Bank workshops are school teachers, administrative and staff personnel, and parents in the respective communities.

Dr. R. Wayne Pace, chairman of the University of Montana Department of Speech Communication and the workshop coordinator, said the responses to the previous workshops have been good. About 125 participants are expected for the Cut Bank program.

Those interested in attending the Cut Bank workshop should contact Richard L. Moore, high school guidance counselor. Moore is in charge of local arrangements.

Dr. Pace said the workshops serve three basic objectives--improvement of classroom and interpersonal communication, discussion of methods of improving communication behavior and relating communication research to communication problems within organizations.

Formal registration for the Cut Bank program is set for 8 a.m. Nov. 15. The workshop will include a series of brief lectures and small-group discussions involving the participants and program leaders. Final session of the day will begin at 4:15 p.m.

Other UM faculty joining Dr. Pace in directing the various workshop sessions at Cut Bank will be Dr. Robert R. Boren, director of speech activities and communication services; Dr. Eldon E. Baker, Communication Research Center (CRC) director; Dr. Duane D. Pettersen, CRC associate director, and Wesley N. Shellen, an instructor in speech communication.

Assisting them will be Terry Radcliffe of the College of Great Falls, and Dr. William R. Lassey of Montana State University, Bozeman. Both are consultants and group leaders.
