LOCAL STATIONS TO BEAM
CAMELLIA BROADCAST

MISSOULA---

Two Missoula radio stations will broadcast the Camellia Bowl football game between the University of Montana and North Dakota State University/ from Sacramento, Calif. Dec. 1

KUFM radio, which is the University-owned training facility for students, and KGVO radio will broadcast the game beginning at 2:30 p.m. Mountain Standard Time Dec. 13. A time for broadcast of pregame highlights will be set soon for both stations.

Three University of Montana students will be featured on the KUFM Camellia Bowl broadcast. Robert W. Hoene, Columbus, Wisc., will do the play-by-play; Edward A. Matter Jr., Havre, will handle pregame and half-time color, and Larry J. Nash, Butte, is producer-director and engineer for the game.

A local television broadcast of the game on KGVO-TV also is scheduled. Additional information on that presentation also will be available at a later date.

The KGVO radio presentation will be broadcast to a network of Montana stations. Dick Vick will do the play-by-play during the Grizzly-Bison game, which will determine the No. 1 and No. 2 small-college teams. The Grizzlies currently are ranked No. 2 and the Bison No. 1 on the college division poll.
