STATE POLLUTION ENGINEER
TO SPEAK AT UM FRIDAY

MISSOULA---

Ed Gatzemeier, Helena, pollution engineer for the State Department of Health, will be featured at the University of Montana Friday (Feb. 13) in the next seminar in the botany-geology series on the environment.

Gatzemeier will discuss "Control of Air Pollution in Montana" at a noon lecture.

The illustrated talk will be in room 307 of the Natural Science Building on campus. It is open to the public without charge.

Program coordinator is Dr. Meyer Chessin, a UM botany professor.
