OVERVIEW OF THE ONLINE VERSION OF PSCI 526

Issues in State and Local Government has been offered online since about 2000. The class is part of the Online MPA Program.

Students can register for this class online at the UM website, http://cyberbear.umt.edu, or by calling the Registrar's Office at UM (406-243-2995). Every effort has been made to make this online class work seamlessly using the Moodle online system maintained by the University of Montana. It is recognized that an online class cannot completely replicate an interactive seminar with a group and a professor gathered in a room. This limitation should be noted at the outset.

The class consists of 10 sessions. The material that is assigned is due on Thursday nights of each week of the class. The due dates are designated on the syllabus. You should begin your work on May 23; the work is due the following Friday, June 3. Each session will consist of a brief summary about the topic, a variety of readings and several questions. Students will post their responses to the questions and may enter into a dialogue with other students about the subject matter. The intention is to generate an online dialogue among students similar to the dialogue that one would get in a traditional seminar.

Students may post their comments and responses to the questions online at any time during week as long as their final comments are made by Thursdays of each week. The comments should be kept parsimonious -- that is, kept to a short, well-written paragraph. On Fridays, I will read over the dialogue and make comments. Students should always feel welcome to contact me personally via e-mail at jeffrey.greene@umontana.edu or by phone (406-243-6181) if you have any questions about the session or the course.

The theme of this class, like the traditional seminar that has been taught many times at UM and in the old Helena MPA program class, is the resurgence of the states thesis. This thesis was made popular by Bowman and Kearney during the mid-1980s with their book, Resurgence of the States (Prentice Hall, 1984). Although a bit more challenging with the online version, this class will focus on the resurgence theme and incorporate a wide variety of issues about state government. Another way of thinking about this theme is: Have state increased their capacity to govern, manage change, and innovate over the past 60 years? There will be a number of topics that deal with local government included, but the primary focus is on the states.

There are a few requirements, such as participating on the Discussion Board, article critiques or summaries, and a single question exam. These are explained below in the syllabus and can be sent as attachments to me by e-mail at jeffrey.greene@umontana.edu. Each student will select five articles and write brief (two pages of less) summary. Students should select articles for their five summaries from State of States or Governing Magazine, which is available free online. Students can select other articles from other professional journals or online journals. There are links to examples of each of these assignments further down in the syllabus. The course will also include a single question exam. The responses can be e-mailed at the end of the term and should not exceed 6 single-spaced pages. The question is: Evaluate the evidence that suggests there has been resurgence in the states’ ability to govern during the past 50 years. Do you agree or disagree? And, what are the prospects for the future regarding the role of the states (and local governments) in the federal system? Again, these documents should be sent as attachments via e-mail by July 29.

TEXTS

These texts can be ordered from the UC Bookstore at 406-243-1234. You can e-mail the bookstore at contact@umtbookstore.com or visit their website at http://www.umt.edu/bookstore. The UC Bookstore will ship the books directly to your home or office. There are 3 books required for this class. In the past we used more readers but to cut down on costs, the course is now limited to the three books shown below. You can also get these books online from other sources.

2. Readings and Cases in State and Local Politics, 1/e, (edited by Richard Clucas; Houghton Mifflin). This is the main reader and text for the class, which also contains case studies.

3. State of the States, 4/e (edited by Carl Van Horn; CQ Press) This book contains a series of excellent articles about state politics. This book is used on the Discussion Board but is optional. If you do not have the book, just skip any questions that may appear on the Discussion Board that comes from these articles.

Governing Magazine, which is available for free online at www.governing.com

Governing: The Magazine of States and Localities, contains many articles and current events that may be discussed during the class. (You can view current and many past editions of Governing at the link shown above).

COURSE DESCRIPTION & REQUIREMENTS

State government is one of the most exciting areas in political science. This course examines the evolution and development that has taken place in the states since the founding period. It focuses on the basic institutions as well as a broad spectrum of public policy issues that affect governing in the states. The objective of the course is to provide a forum to discuss and wide range of issues involving state government. Students’ proficiency with the material included in PSCI 526 will be assessed via a written exam, written article summaries, and by the quality of participation (the Discussion Board). The theme of the class is the Bowman and Kearney notion that there has been a “resurgence of the states.” Specific learning objectives can be viewed on the main page of the course; these are for the full version of the textbook. The Essentials version is very similar. Students using the full version of the textbook will need to adjust the chapter sequence, which is different. The full version contains 18 chapters.

Grades will be based on the quality of the responses posted on the Discussion Board, a final, comprehensive exam, and writing summaries for the articles included in State of the States or any of the readings included in the class. The final exam consists of one question: Evaluate the evidence that suggests there has been resurgence in the states’ ability to govern during the past 50 years. Do you agree or disagree? And, what are the prospects for the future regarding the role of the states (and local governments) in the federal system? This seems to be a timely question given the current circumstances of the nation dealing with severe economic problems, a new president that appears comfortable expanding the role of the federal government. Your responses can be sent directly to me via e-mail mail.

Article Critique (or Summary) Guidelines

The CQ book contains a variety of articles that are typically assigned to students on the first day of a traditional class. To help facilitate the online version, students may pick any five (5) articles from any source used in the class (or from Governing Magazine or other outside sources), and write summaries. These should be e-mailed by the end of the semester to jeffrey.greene@umontana.edu. There are some specific questions one should consider while reading the article and developing a summary (or critique). The purpose is to enhance one's ability to write short, concise reports -- no more than two pages -- about complex material. One should attempt to summarize the article in a single page if possible.

1. What is the major subject and theme of the article?
2. What is the major question the author addresses?
3. What techniques, tools of analysis, or methods are employed by the author to answer the question?
4. What major points does the author make?
5. What does the author conclude? What suggestions are made?
6. What is the relevance of the article to theory or practice?

Grade Weights

Exam .....................50 percent (The Resurgence of the States question)
Participation ..........30 percent (Based on the quality online responses)
Article Critiques......20 percent (Based on the five article critiques or summaries)

Grading System at UM

To accommodate the Plus/Minus system a new grading scale will be used. Grades will be assigned based on the following grading scale. This scale and system is more complex than the system used in the past but rewards As only to those students whose performance in the class is "exceptional."

Case Study 3, The Role of Homeland Security," by Posner
New Orleans, the Gulf Coast, and Hurricane Katrina dominated the news in 2005 and continue to be important issues about federalism. Many claimed that it was a perfect example (and case study) about the weaknesses of federalism and intergovernmental relations. Below is an interesting article about New Orleans before and after Hurricane Katrina.

This article, from City Journal, is an interesting account of New Orleans. It is called "Who is killing New Orleans," by Nicole Gelinas. Click this link to go directly to the article at City Journal. http://www.cityjournal.org/html/15_4_new_orleans.html

An article found in Governing Magazine about federalism is located at http://www.governing.com/topics/economic-dev/The-Katrina-Breakdown.html The article is about the communication breakdown among various levels of government and between agencies. "THE KATRINA BREAKDOWN," by Jonathan Walters & Donald Kettl.

Clucas: Chapter 4 "State Constitutions: The Concept of Distinctiveness"
"The Distinctiveness of State Constitutionalism," by Tarr
Case Study 4: "Alabama Constitution at Heart of Controversy," by Goens
