Black poet to read works at UM Monday

University of Montana--Missoula. Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the University Relations at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Montana News Releases, 1928, 1956-present by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
MISSOULA--

Mike Harper, a nationally-known young black poet from California State College, Hayward, will read his poems at 4 p.m. Monday (May 4) in room 11 of the University of Montana Liberal Arts Building.

Harper attended the Writer's Workshop at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, and before going to Hayward was poet-in-residence at Reed College, Portland, Ore.

Harper is the author of a book, entitled "Dear John, Dear Coltrane," published by the University of Pittsburgh Press, and was one of several black poets recently featured in a long review article in "Time" magazine.

The "Time" reviewer praised in particular Harper's use of "rhythms drawn from city sounds, African drumbeats, church responses, and the jazz of Coleman, Coltrane and Charlie ("Bird") Parker."

Presently on a reading tour of the western states, Harper will be a writer in residence next year at the University of Illinois Institute for Advanced Study.

####