Description of the Course:

Michael Oakeshott finds that the political philosopher usually takes a "somber view of the human situation." For the political thinker human life "appears generally as a predicament." Oakeshott adds that "every great masterpiece of political philosophy" provides us with "the glimpse of a deliverance or the suggestion of a remedy." Beginning with the Greeks, we will explore how different thinkers interpret the human predicament, and their distinctive remedies for a way out of it. To do this we need to ask: 1) What ails the political philosopher (or us)?; 2) Does his diagnosis of what is wrong with society or human beings make sense?; 3) Is his diagnosis relevant to our situation?; 4) How does he propose to improve the human situation?; and 5) Will his prescription(s) make his world (let alone, ours) better?

Required Readings:

Grey, R. Political Theory & The Human Predicament: An Introduction to Major Political Thinkers
Recommend: Plato, The Republic(Reeve or Sterling eds)
St. Augustine, The Political Writings
Aquinas, Treatise on Law
Machiavelli, The Prince

Course Objectives: upon successfully completing the course work, the student should be able to:

1. Identify and assess the various tests or criteria (such as relevance, significance, or ethical considerations) that can be use to assess the value of a theoretical argument or theorist.

2. Present and orally defend two interpretive, analytical essays which examine a thinker's ideas about human nature, justice, social obligation, and political legitimacy.

3. Orally critique an essay in terms of its analytical clarity, accuracy in its interpretation of the readings, and the logic of its conclusion.

4. Develop a coherent position with regards to ethical idealism and political realism, elitism and democratic doctrine, individualism and classical republicanism etc. The goal of the course work, overall, is to encourage students not only to learn about Ancient and Medieval thinkers, but also to learn how to think theoretically about politics.
Political philosophy... “is a complex, imprecise, psychologically demanding, imagination-requiring field of enquiry, in which nothing like certainty can ever be obtained, only, at the most, a high degree of plausibility and coherence and evidence of intellectual power and originality and effectiveness.” --Isaiah Berlin

To achieve the above objectives — Course Grading:

This course will be taught as a seminar. Each student will submit and orally defend in class two analytical essays (30% of course grade or 15 pts each), not to exceed 4 double-spaced pages. The essays will be assigned weekly and are due no later than the class period before you are scheduled to orally defend it. (For topics, see below.) If you are absent the day we are scheduled to discuss your essay, you will not get credit for it.

In addition, each student will complete a take-home midterm (20% of course grade or 20 pts) and a take-home final (30% of course grade.) Each student will be graded on class participation and attendance (10% of course grade.) ( Students who attend class, but seldom raise questions or participate in discussion usually receive between 6-5pts out of 10. See below regarding absences.)

Finally since it does not honor a writer to read him/her without seeking to challenge him/her, students will be required to submit two written questions for the essays discussed (10% of course grade.) They should plan on writing questions for all essays distributed in class, and expect to turn in their questions for credit. Only typed questions will be accepted.

Cautionary note: if you are absent more than 3xs, three attendance points will be deducted for every absence thereafter. Excused absences require a medical note for illness, injury, family emergency, or letter from instructor for field trips, ASUM service, music/drama performances, intercollegiate athletics, and military service. Instructor will also excuse absences for reasons of mandatory public service.

- Plus/Minus Grades will be used based on the following:
  100-93 = A; 92-90 = A-; 89-87= B+; 86-83 = B; 82-80 = B-; 79-77= C+; 76-73= C; 72-70=C-; 69-67=D+; 66-63=D; 62-60=D-; 59< =F

Students taking this course to fulfill writing the 400 requirements will be required to revise and expand one of their essays into 10-12 pages. Substantive and grammatical revisions will be expected. The writing grade will be based upon the following writing guidelines and expectations:

- The critical, interpretive essay must provide a clear thesis (preferably at the end of the introductory paragraph), indicating the author’s main points with regard to the essay question.
- The essay must support the thesis statement with specific references to the primary texts, providing footnotes for all quoted material and a bibliography at the end. Please use Chicago style.
Students should pay close attention to their choice of words in summarizing and clarifying the substance of a political theory (i.e. the good state and a good state are not the same). They must demonstrate awareness of how words can clarify and/or obscure a theorist's principles, illustrations, and, in general, the nature of their political inquiry.

The first essay draft will be returned with editorial comments. Students are encouraged to talk with me about their essays before revising them.

Student must include original essay draft with revised, extended draft.

Revised essay will be graded based upon: grammar, spelling, appropriate choice of words, transitions between paragraphs, use of quoted material to support their interpretation, accuracy in paraphrasing, logical organization of ideas and points, and clarity.

Only one revision is allowed. Please proof read the final drafts for any grammatical, spelling, or typos before turning it in.

Academic Misconduct
All students must practice academic honesty. Academic misconduct is subject to an academic penalty by the course instructor and/or disciplinary sanction by the University of Montana. All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code, which is available for review online at: http://life.umt.edu/VPSA/name/StudentConductCode.

Accessibility and Students with Disabilities
The University of Montana assures equal access to instruction by supporting collaboration between students with disabilities, instructors, and Disability Services for Students. If you have a disability that requires accommodation, please present the instructor with a letter from Disability Services for Students (DDS), Lommasson Center 154 (243-2243), indicating the existence of a disability and suggested accommodations.

The instructor has attempted to make all course materials accessible. If you find course material that has barriers to accessibility, please notify the instructor as soon as possible so the oversight can be corrected as quickly as possible.

Tentative Course Schedule:

8/30  Introduction to the Course; Political Theory & the Search for Standards Plato's Version of the Predicament

9/1   Plato's Indictment: Review of The Republic
       Read: Plato, Republic Books I, II, & III; The Apology (prepare for mock trial (Honors Students).

9/6   Thrasymachus v. Socrates
       Read: Republic, Books IV & V
       Essays (due 9/1): Is Thrasymachus a political realist?
       Why, why not? If so, then how do we explain his anger?

9/8-  Thrasymachus v Glaucon
9/13   Read: Republic, Book VI
Essays (due 9/6): Is Thrasymachus a spokesman for the City? Do all city-states or governments, in other words, define justice in the way that Thrasymachus does?

Essays (due 9/8): How does Glaucon’s definition of justice differ from Thrasymachus, or does it? Is Glaucon more of a political realist than Thrasymachus? If so, why? If not, why not?

9/15-9/20 Plato’s Critics & Defense: The Trial of Socrates (Honors Section)
Recommend: Karl Popper, The Open Society & Its Enemies
Read: Aristotle, Politics, Book I
Essays (due 9/13): As a prosecuting council on behalf of Athens, please write a brief laying out Socrates’ crimes, why he is guilty and should be punished accordingly (based upon the Apology). You may also recommend what punishment he should receive for his crimes.

Essays (due 9/13): As a defense council at Socrates’ trial, please write a brief defending the old philosopher & his vocation. Be sure you address the specific charges against him (in the Apology).

9/22 Plato’s Critics & Defense: The Trial of Socrates- final verdict
Read: Aristotle, Politics, Book II (Chaps. 1-8). Honors Section
Essay (due 9/20): Socrates may not have been a democrat, but there is nothing in his position that is inherently opposed to democracy. Do you agree? Would you have sided with Athens or with Socrates?

Essays (due 9/20): Assuming for the sake of argument that Socrates was a political thinker, what does this tell us about the nature and purpose of political theory?

9/27 Plato’s Ideal Justice & Utopia?
Read: Republic, Book VII
Essays (due 9/22): Does Plato’s ideal of justice take human beings as they are, or positively demand them to stop being human? Please discuss both possibilities with regard to his guardians & citizens before coming to your own conclusion.

Essays (due 9/22): In her reading of Plato’s Republic, Julia Annas complains that Plato wants it both ways: justice to be good for the individual and also good in a way that has no reference to anybody or anything in particular. In short, he fails to answer the question: Why should I be just?” Is this a problem particular to Plato, or all justice-seeking political theorist? What are the problems of favoring one side of this dilemma or the other?

9/29 The City verses the Philosopher
Read: Republic, Book VIII
Essays (due 9/27): According to Plato, why are philosophers or those with wisdom not ruling us? Are they to blame or are we? Does Plato’s view of ‘human predicament’ still have relevance for us today? If so, why so? If not, why not?

Essays (due 9/27): Plato may not have been fond of democracy; and yet, some of his recommendations for achieving a just society might actually make our modern democracy stronger. Discuss

10/4 Aristotle’s Biological Analysis of Politics
Read: Aristotle, Politics, Book III (Chaps. 6-18); Book IV (Chaps. 1-8; 11-12)

Essays (due 9/29): All differences in political thought between Plato & Aristotle can be explained by their distinctive methods of political inquiry. In contrast to Plato, what for Aristotle is the purpose of political theory? Discuss Essays (due 9/29): The difference between Plato & Aristotle is the difference between the radical and the conservative.

10/6 Aristotle & the Classification of Governments
Read: Politics, Book V (Chaps. 1-4)

Essays (due 10/4): What does Aristotle mean by justice” and “the rule of law?” Are they the same? Why, why not?

10/11 Aristotle & Democracy & Constitutions

Essays (due 10/6): What does Aristotle mean by a constitution? Can a government be constitutional, but undemocratic? Or conversely be democratic, but unconstitutional? Explain how Aristotle would respond.

Essays (due 10/6): What does Aristotle mean by a constitutional democracy (or mixed polity) as opposed to a tyrannical democracy? Are his insights into what makes a polity a constitutional democracy verses a tyrannical democracy still valuable?

10/13 Aristotle & Political Life

Essays: (due 10/11): What do you find to be the major difference between Plato’s and Aristotle’s respective views of human nature and their theories of justice. Discuss

10/18 Aristotle & Political Life
Read: St. Augustine, The Political Writings, Chap. 2, pp. 44-88

Essays: (due 10/13): In saying that man is a ‘political’ animal Aristotle meant much more than we mean by political. What all does he suggests being ‘political’ mean, and how does it contrasts with our meaning of being ‘political’ today. Could we benefit from his notion?
10/20  St. Augustine & City of Man
Read:  St. Augustine, The Political Writings, Chap. 3, pp.118-162.
Essays (due 10/18): "What is lacking in Plato’s ethics is present in that of Christianity: the Day of Judgment." Is this Judgment important to ethical theory? Why, why not? Discuss

10/25-  St. Augustine & the Two Cities; the Idea of “Just War"
10/27  Read: The Political Writings, Chap. 3, pp. 162-183; Appendix; St. Thomas, Treatise on Law
Essays (due 10/20): How does St Augustine’s conception of the Two Cities posed in acute form the problem of separation between church and state? Or does it?
Essays (due 10/25): The "Just" War? What are Augustine’s criteria for a just war? Is this an ethically or practically criteria useful? Why, why not?

* * * * * Tuesday November 1st Midterm Due * * * *

11/1-  St. Thomas Aquinas & Political Theology
11/3  Read: St. Thomas, Treatise on Law
Essays (due 11/1): For St. Aquinas ‘law is perfectly compatible with the freedom proper to man.’ What does he mean? Do you agree? Why, why not?

Don’t editorialize! Give us nothing but your opinion w/no reference to our reading.

Don’t give us a book review! No rehashing of lecture notes or quote for the sake of quoting. # (Too much narration/description.)

Don’t quote Wikipedia or Dictionary for definitions! Instead provide your own ideas and criteria for the meaning of key political terms.

Some General tips for Good Writing:

1. Good writing stems from good thinking. Clarify your intent & major ideas before you start. Don’t expect that your design will materialize during writing. A good outline can help organize your ideas. Sketch out your major points and their logical relationship.
2. Be a master builder. Your building blocks are sentences and paragraphs. Each essay should have a specific theme; each paragraph should have a specific purpose regarding that theme; and each sentence should have a specific purpose in its paragraph.

3. Good writing results from revision. First drafts are almost always lousy writing. Samuel Johnson said, “What is written in haste is read without pleasure.” Please note!

4. Become your own best editor. If you are committed to your ideas, you will be willing to revise and revise until they are expressed clearly.

5. “Simplicity, simplicity, simplicity,” Henry David Thoreau admonished. His advice applies to composition as well as to life. Use clear-cut syntax and active voice (passive voice tends to distract & obscure.) Avoid unnecessary verbiage, such as “first and foremost” instead of “first.” A good writer, said Thomas Jefferson, can use one word instead of three.

6. Be precise in your diction. Avoid a $100 word when a $5 word will do. “Never,” said George Orwell, “use a foreign phrase, a scientific word, or a jargon word if you can think of an everyday English equivalent.”

7. And “if it is possible to cut a word out,” Orwell added, “cut it out.” Carefully selected nouns and verbs rarely require adjectives and adverbs.

8. Don’t be a hedger. If you believe in your purpose and conclusions, be positive and bold. Tentativeness undercuts your credibility. Avoid, for example, “it seems, “perhaps,” “somewhat,” “it appears,” etc. I call these ‘chicken words.’

9. Keep your reader in mind. Guide the reader through your train of thought. Keep the reader awake by varying the length and beginning of sentences. Keep the reader involved by providing interesting examples, transitions, and conclusions. Use short and apt quotations and paraphrase the rest.

10. Be technically correct. Grammar and spelling errors tell the reader that you are careless. Read your writing aloud to catch your mistakes.

Final Due by Monday December 19th at 12:10pm.
