Spring 2-1-2015

PSCI 474.01: Civil Liberties & Rights Seminar

Patrick Peel
University of Montana - Missoula, patrick.peel@umontana.edu

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.
Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/syllabi

Recommended Citation
Peel, Patrick, "PSCI 474.01: Civil Liberties & Rights Seminar" (2015). Syllabi. 5871.
https://scholarworks.umt.edu/syllabi/5871

This Syllabus is brought to you for free and open access by the Course Syllabi at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in Syllabi by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
This seminar focuses on how the United States through the concept of civil liberties and rights has attempted to limit government and empower individuals. To that end, while surveying the historical and political development of rights and liberties within the context of American constitutionalism, we will pay particular attention to how the Supreme Court has and should interpret the Bill of Rights. To facilitate our inquiry, the course is arranged topically. Finally, in addition to normative questions, we will be concerned with the empirical question of whether litigation is, as is commonly assumed, an effective means of promoting social progress and constitutional change.

Readings
The books listed below are required reading and may be purchased at the University Bookstore.

Required Reading:
4. Michael J. Klarman, From the Closet to the Alter (Oxford: 2012)
5. Bruce Ackerman, We the People, Vol. 3: The Civil Rights Revolution (Harvard: 2014)

Recommended Readings:

Procedures and Requirements
Grading and Assignments:
This course has 5 requirements, which include the following:

1. Faithful attendance to class and active participation during the discussions (50% of the final grade; see “Participation” below)
2. First Essay: 5-6 page paper (Feb. 27: 10%; see “Essay” below)
3. Second Essay: 5-6 page paper (Mar. 20: 10%; see “Essay” below)
4. Third Essay: 5-6 page paper (Apr., 24: 10%; see “Essay” below)

5. Final Essay: (May 14: 20%; see “Essay” below)

In order to pass the class, you must complete all of the assignments.

Participation:
This is a seminar. The excitement of seminars is that they are a chance for you to learn from each other, to try out your own analyses and comparisons, and to hear your own voice in intellectual conversation with each other. You are all bright and interesting people, and seminars are an opportunity for you all to be colleagues in an intellectual inquiry.

Our seminar will be organized around discussion. Regular attendance and participation are thus required. Given the nature of this course, the seminar’s participation grade is weighted accordingly at 50%.

The goal of our discussions is for participants to demonstrate informed, ongoing, responsive engagement with the material. By “informed,” I mean informed by a close reading of our texts and engaged with the other materials of the course. By “ongoing” I mean both sustained throughout each meeting and sustained throughout the semester. By “responsive,” I mean responsive to each other, taking each other seriously enough to respond to each other’s observations and analyses.

I know that for some of you talking in class is as easy as breathing, but that, for others, it is a hurdle to overcome. If talking in class is difficult for you, please come see me during an office hour early in the semester. There are tricks to making participation easier – and it’s well worth your time to practice sharing your ideas and thoughts with others in a constructive, yet critical, intellectual conversation. So, work on that skill here in this class!

Most classes, 4 or so members of the seminar will be required to start our discussion with a 3 to 4 minute responds to one or more of the prep questions for the day. Given the size of our seminar, this means I expect that each participant will begin discussion at least once a week. Some days, participants will respond to prep questions of their choice; other days, I will ask that people respond to specific questions and other days I will ask that people outline some aspect of a case we are reading. After the completion of these responses, then we will open the floor to the rest of the seminar so that we can hear people’s agreements and disagreements with the ideas and arguments advanced by the 4 members of the seminar. Each person, during each class meeting of the seminar, will be expect to participate in this dialogue.

Furthermore, during the term - when we read Michael Klarman’s Brown v. Board of Education and the Civil Rights Movement, his From the Closet to the Alter, and Bruce Ackerman’s We the People, Vol. 3: The Civil Rights Revolution – each participant will be asked to present on a chapter of these texts, along with putting together an outline of their proposed remarks, which will be handed out to the participants of the seminar. Given the amount of material we are attempting to get through, students should be prepared to present 3 times during the term. Each presentation should run approximately 5 to 6 minutes.

As I hope my remarks indicate, each participant in the seminar should come to class with that day’s readings completed, and carefully thought about, with questions to ask and ideas and thoughts to share. That is to say, in class it is your job to put your ideas forward for your classmates to endorse, challenge, and transform. As I indicate above, this is an obligation of every seminar participant, regardless of whether you have signed up to begin discussion or not.

Your regular, thoughtful participation will be critical to determining the success of the seminar and the grade you receive in it.

Thus, during and after every class, I will evaluate your contribution to the course. These daily scores – ranging from 1 to 10 - will be used to calculate your participation grade. Unless these scores are substantial, a student will fail the seminar.

Classroom Policy:
Because this is a seminar, electronic devices – cell phones and computers – are not permitted. The success of the seminar depends on the development of a constructive dialogue among its participants. There is simply no way that can happen if people are focused on their computer screens, rather than the human beings they are talking with.

Essays:
The course requires the successful completion of 3 short essays and one longer 10-12 page essay.

- Short Essays: Essays should be 5 to 6 pages long. Each essay should be “an argumentative essay.” That is your essay should be an explication of some feature of the material we have covered in class, along with an argument in favor or against some aspect of the reading. It is thus not to be a book report, but an opportunity for you to put forth some novel point of view about the material and your reasons for thinking you are right about the material. After all, everyone in the class has read the material, so just repeating back that material does not move the conversation forward much… Two books that are particularly helpful for learning how to write college level argumentative essays are: Anthony Weston, A Rule Book for Arguments and William Strunk Jr. and E.B. White, The Elements of Style. Consulting these books should give you a sense of what constitutes strong college level writing.

- Final Essay: The final essay should 10 to 12 pages. Like the shorter essays, it too should be an argumentative essay. Each participant in the seminar is required to clear the topic of his or her final paper with me. It is your obligation to stop my by office hours, or schedule a time to discuss your paper with me.

Late Paper Policy:
You will note from the syllabus that we do not have class scheduled on the week your essay is due. For this reason, late papers will be marked down a grade every day they are late.

Sources for Papers:
Generally speaking, essays should be written using the sources from the course – either texts from the class or books recommended via texts from the course or webpages used in the class. That means the Internet, unless used to access databases of scholarly articles, or legitimate academic sources, is off-limits.

Needless to say, there is a great deal of information and material on the Internet that touches on civil rights and liberties. Unfortunately, much of that information is of a poor quality. Furthermore, it is not always easy to distinguish high from low quality sources of information.

Writing Help:
The Writing Center is located in LA 144. To make an appointment with a writing advisor, call 243-2266, email growl@mso.umt.edu, or stop by LA 144.

Academic Dishonesty:
Students in this course are expected to follow the University’s standards of academic integrity and honesty. If you are caught cheating or plagiarizing, you may receive a failing grade for the assignment and/or class and may be reported to the University. Students are responsible for understanding what constitutes plagiarism. The Code is available for review online at http://www.umt.edu/SA/VPSA/index.cfm/page/1321

---

Course Topics and Readings:

Reading assignments are to be completed before the class meeting for which they are listed. Bring to class the assigned books, print-outs of online assignments, your reading notes, and this syllabus.

Week One: Constitutionalism, the Tradition of Liberty, and the Puzzle of Constitutional Change

1. Mon., Jan. 26: Constitutional Skepticism
   The American Constitution Society (debate between Larry Kramer and Erwin Chemerinsky)
   https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wOrTkKqKq_Y
   *Jeremy Waldron, “Constitutionalism – A Skeptical View” [M] (look specifically at sec 6, 11, 12, 14)

   Prep: What’s the argument of Larry Kramer? What’s the argument of Erwin Chemerinsky? Why is Waldron skeptical about constitutionalism?

   Recommended:
   *The Case Against the Supreme Court: Erwin Chemerinsky says justices side with powerful and privileged

2. Wed., Jan. 28: Judicial Supremacy & the Puzzle of Constitutional Change
   Video: Does the Supreme Court Follow the People? Aspen Ideas Festival (2011) with Jeffrey Rosen, Larry, Kramer, Sandra Day O’Conner, and Stephen Breyer http://www.aspenideas.org/session/does-supreme-court-follow-people
   *Larry Kramer, “We the People,” Boston Review (February/March 2004) [M]

   Please read through the course syllabus and come prepared to discuss it

   Prep: Today we read the various protections of the Bill of Rights as legally enforceable commands that courts are obliged to recognize and execute. Kramer, Waldron, and many others are skeptical that this is the essential, core, way we should think about the issue of constitutional rights. How might Kramer think the framers, and Americans until quite recently, thought of the constitutional amendments we call the Bill of Rights? What, in broad outline, is Kramer’s understanding of the development of judicial review in American constitutional development? Do you agree with the Kramer or Waldron position? Why or why not?

3. Fri., Jan. 30: How Should We Think About The Bill of Rights?
*Gillman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 3-10:
1. Introduction to Rights and Liberties
   I. Constitutional Rights
   II. Connections
   III. Sources
   IV. Constitutional Interpretation
*Amar, The Bill of Rights, pp. xi-19

Prep: What are the various types of constitutional rights, according to Gillman et al? Further, what are the several “connections” these rights may have to one another, and from whence might they originate? Does Amar interpret the Bill of Rights along the same lines as Gilman et al? Would Amar agree or disagree with the distinction between constitutional rights that Gilman et al explicate? If they - Amar and Gilman et al - do differ, then whose argument/interpretation of the Bill of Rights do you find more persuasive? Finally, do these views (those of Gilman et al and Amar) have similarities and differences with Waldron and Kramer?

Week Two: The First Amendment (Expression)
Amendment I: “Congress shall make no law...abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, of the rights of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.”

1. Mon., Feb. 2: Early Precedent and the Beginnings of the Modern Speech Doctrine
*Gillman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 52-54, 173-74, 419-29, 539-47
   A. Free Speech
      Schenck v. United States (1919)
      Whitney v. California (1927)
      Near v. Minnesota (1931)
      West Virginia State Board of Education v. Barnette (1943)

Prep: According to the early tradition of “seditious libel,” truth was not considered a defense. Conversely, why might “truth” be an important free speech value in a democratic context? (See the recommended piece by J. S. Mill, which the justices themselves had read, and which influenced their thinking) What principle(s), that is, do you see at work in Schenck (pay attention to Holmes’ test), Whitney (pay attention to Brandeis’s concurrence), and Near? (Note the very early date of these cases relative to other civil liberties cases; does this tell us something about the free speech value in the United States?)

Recommended:

2. Wed., Feb. 4: The Modern Doctrine
*Amar, The Bill of Rights, pp. 20-32
*Gillman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 795-806, 810-812, 952-62:
   A. Free Speech
      Texas v Johnson (1989)
Snyder v. Phelps (2011)

*Vauhni Vara, “The Nuances of Threats on Facebook,” The New Yorker, Dec. 3 2014 [M]
*Elonis v. United States, Oral Argument Transcript [M]

Prep: What is the core of first amendment speech rights today? Based on that understanding, how would you decide the Elonis case? Also, do you think the framers of the constitution would or would not have been in favor of the principles advanced in modern free speech jurisprudence? Should, for instance, the constitution protect libel, hate speech, “symbolic speech,” violent video games, cross-burning, and picketing of military funerals? Or are there instances of speech that go too far? Does Amar’s understanding of free speech differ from the core understanding of that right today?

3. Fri., Feb. 6: Our First Amendment?
*Gillman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 962-67:
*Money Unlimited, The New Yorker (2012) [M]

Prep: Who do you agree with, Dworkin or Epstein? Why or why not? The history of the modern doctrine of free speech is strongly libertarian. Does this drive court decisions protecting the right of free speech to go too far? Is Citizens United, for instance, an example of this? Is campaign spending speech at all? Why or why not? Further, what understanding of constitutional interpretation –originalism, textualism, doctrinalism, prudentialism, or aspirationalism - is required by your position?

Recommended:

Week Three: First Amendment (Religion)
_Amendment I: “Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof...”_

1. Mon., Feb. 9: Foundations, Free Exercise, & Establishment
*Amar, The Bill of Rights, pp. 32-45
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 521-28:
  B. Religion
Engel v. Vitale (1962)
Sherbert v. Verner (1963)
*Lemon v. Kurtzman (1971) [M]
*Marsh v. Chambers (1983) [M]
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 768-771:
Lee v. Weisman (1992)

Prep:  What do you think the purpose of the religion clauses of the first amendment is? Is there a tension in the two clauses? What sorts of tests does the court articulate with regard to the establishment clause in Lemon, Lynch, and Lee? What do you notice about the shifts in the tests? Is the stringency of the tests changing? Further, how would you characterize the reasoning of Marsh?

*Video: Watch Prof. William P. Marshall, University of North Carolina School of Law, Federalist Society, Lawyer’s Conference, Religion Clauses (2012) (From 12 min to 25 min) http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MPGdCy68dG0
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 647-50, 760-62, 771-78, 907-10, 917-23
B. Religion
Free Exercise
Employment Division v. Smith (1990)
City of Boerne v. Flores (1997)
Debate over Exemption from the Affordable Care Act (2012)
Burwell v. Hobby Lobby Stores, Inc. (2014) [M]
“Can’t Have Your Cake, Gays Are Told, and A Rights Battle Rises,” NYT (with video) (2014) [M]

Prep:  (1) Please explicate the opinion of Smith (1990); (2) please explicate the decision of City of Boerne v. Flores (1997); (3) please explicate the Hobby Lobby Case (2014). What principles do you see at work in these cases? Currently, there are a host of cases pending before courts regarding religious exemptions to state anti-discrimination laws that protect LGBT rights in the case of public accommodations. Specifically, these cases have come to the fore as states have acknowledged a right to same sex marriage. Based on your reading of these cases, do bakers and florists have a constitutional right to deny services that support the marriage ceremonies LGBT people? (Question: Do you think the current so called “invisible primary” and the looming presidential race has anything to do with these cases??)

* http://www.oyez.org/town-of-greece/ Please watch the videos on this site, explore the history of the Establishment Clause, read the briefs in the case (including the amicus briefs), and listen to the oral argument.

Prep:  Each member of the seminar will be assigned a portion of the material for this case to present to the class. Given the evidence you have, how would you decide the case?
Week Four: The Second Amendment (Guns)

Amendment II: "A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed."

1. Mon., Feb. 16: NO CLASSES: PRESIDENT’S DAY

   * Amar, The Bill of Rights, pp. 46-63

   Prep: Please explicate and interpret Amar’s understanding of the “military amendments.”
   Further, why exactly is the second amendment “embarrassing” according to Levinson?
   Remember this article was written before the current second amendment cases.

   Recommended:
   * Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 170-72, 234-37:
     C. Guns
     Bliss v. Commonwealth (KY 1822)
     State v. Buzzard (1842)

   * Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 778-81, 923-30:
     C. Guns
     Debate over the Federal Assault Weapons Ban (1994)
     John Ashcroft, Letter to National Rifle Association (2001)
   * Video: Watch Jack Rakove (History, Stanford) debate Eugene Volokh (UCLA Law School) about the meaning of the Second Amendment and Heller http://bloggingheads.tv/videos/1673

   Prep: Based upon what you now know about the right to bear arms and the second amendment, do you think Heller was decided correctly? Put otherwise, who do you think has the better argument, Rakove or Volokh? And why do you come down on the issue as you do? What principle or evidence do you have for your position? The conflict over the second amendment is usually framed as a conflict over an individualist and statist reading. Is this though the only way to read the amendment? What other ways of reading the amendment does Amar see? (In the recommended readings, Konig and Cornell see a similar approach to the second amendment)

Recommended:
*Saul Cornell, “A New Paradigm for the Second Amendment” (2004) [M]
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 891-896
  McDonald v. City of Chicago (2010)

Week Five: FIRST SHORT PAPER DUE (5-6 PAGES)
1. Fri., Feb. 27: Essay Due 5 pm in my Office

Week Six: Fourth (Search and Seizure) and Fifth Amendment (Due Process & Habeas Corpus, and Interrogations) (I.E. Criminal Justice)
*Amendment IV: “The right of the people to be secure in their persons, house, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place or be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.”

*Amendment V: “No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or navel forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb, nor be deprived of life liberty, or property, without due process of law...”

1. Mon., Mar. 2: Search and Seizure
* Amar, The Bill of Rights, pp. 64-77
* Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 69, 271-72, 462, 612-17, 719-20, 857, 1022-23:
  B. Search and Seizure
    Table 5-3: Some Landmark Cases in the Development of the Power of Search and Seizure
    Mapp v. Ohio (1961)
    Florence v. Board of Chosen Freeholders of County of Burlington (2012)
* Video and Webpage: Shifting Scales: How the Robert’s Court is Interpreting the Fourth Amendment http://projects.oyez.org/shifting-scales/

Prep: Member of the course will be assigned different parts of the Shifting Scales page to work with. A few questions to think about: are warrantless searches sometimes constitutional? What is the “exclusionary rule” and what is the justification for it? What is the early scope of that rule? What is the modern scope of that rule? (Here take into account Mapp, but also be aware of the cases that follow, and which place exceptions on that rule, especially as they have been recently articulated by the Robert’s court).

2. Wed., Mar. 4: Due Process and Habeas Corpus
*Habeas Corpus, The Oxford Companion to the Supreme Court [M]
A. Due Process and Habeas Corpus
   The Civil War
   Reconstruction
   Wickersham Commission, Report on Lawlessness in Law Enforcement (1931)
   Ex parte Quirin (1942)
   The Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act (1996)
   William Clinton, Statement on Signing the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996
   Felker v. Turpin (1991)
F. Infamous Crimes and Criminals
   The War on Terror
   The USA Patriot Act

Prep: “The Nazi Saboteur Case” [Ex parte Quirin] has become an influential case in the context of the War of Terror. Why might that be? What are the facts of the case, and what was the ruling of the Court? How does Stone distinguish Ex parte Milliga from Quirin? And do you find his argument convincing? What implications does the War on Terror have for due process and habeas corpus? How would Anthony Lewis see the matter do you think? How would Eric Posner see the matter? Who do you agree with? Further, what is the appropriate constitutional standard to use when thinking about these national security issues? A strong civil libertarian standard, such as heightened scrutiny? Or does war change everything, and should the court give deference to the executive branch? Or is there, perhaps, some other alternative?

Recommended:

3. Fri., Mar. 6: Interrogations
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 138-39, 619-24, 722, 1029-32:
C. Interrogations
   Commonwealth of Pennsylvania v. Dillon (1792)
   Miranda v. Arizona (1966)
   Dickerson v. United States (2000)
*Salinas v. Texas (2013) [M]
*Debate over Delaying of Miranda Warning (NYT 2013) [M]

Prep: Miranda was part of an overall constitutional transformation in criminal justice ushered in by the Warren Court. What were the facts of Miranda? And what was the ruling and reasoning of the case? Does Salinas v. Texas alter the nature of Miranda rights? Does the War on Terror alter the substantive protections afforded by Miranda warnings? Does the War on Terror have broad implications for the constitutional protections afforded within the criminal justice system? Again, recalling the issues surrounding habeas, what judicial standard should the Court use?
Week Seven: Article I, Sec. 10 (The Contract Clause), Fifth Amendment (Takings/Due Process) & 14th Amendment (Property/Due Process)

Art. I, Sec. 10: “No State shall...[pass a law] impairing the Obligation of Contracts...”

Amendment V: “No person shall... be deprived of life liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.”

Amendment XIV: “...nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without the due process of law...”

1. Mon., Mar. 9: Contract Clause (Property)
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 109-10, 157-63, 220-22, 512-16, 756:
  A. Property
    Fletcher v. Peck (1810)
    Charles River Bridge Case (1837)
    Home Building & Loan Association v. Blaisdell (1934)
  Contracts

Prep: Does the constitution protect private property rights? How does Marshall’s argument in Fletcher v. Peck impact on this question? What about the River Bridge Case and Blaisdell? Can you fit Fletcher, Charles River, and Blaisdell together? Or has something fundamentally changed here, and if so what? Finally, say the constitution does protect private property rights, what should be the judicial standard that is applied? How much scrutiny should the Court give in the protection of property? Is the right to private property the same as the protection of free speech and religion, for example? Or are there differences?

Recommended:
*David N. Mayer, Liberty of Contract: Rediscovering a Lost Constitutional Right (Cato: 2011)

2. Wed., Mar. 11: Due Process Arguments (5th & 14th Amendment) for the Protection of Property
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 226, 384-85, 390-91, 397-400, 516-20:
  Due Process
    Lochner v. New York (1905)
    West Coast Hotel Co. v. Parrish (1937)
*Footnote Four, Carolene Products (1938) [M]
*David Bernstein, Rehabilitating Lochner (Chicago: 2011), selections [M]

Prep: What do you make of the argument of Lochner? Is there, as the majority opinion in Lochner argues, a right to freedom of contract via the due process clause of the 14th Amendment? What is Bernstein’s argument in favor of Lochner? What is the position of Holmes in his dissenting opinion, and what is the argument of West Coast Hotel? In what ways is it a critique of Lochner? More specifically, what is the core constitutional value at stake in West Coast Hotel? (After West Coast Hotel, this constitutional value will become increasingly significant). Finally, what is the constitutional settlement marked out by Footnote 4?
3. Fri., Mar. 13: Takings

* Amar, The Bill of Rights, pp. 77-80
* Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 110, 222-23, 642-44, 755-57, 901-07:
  - Takings and Due Process
    - Penn Central Transportation Co. v. City of New York (1978)
* Video: The Legacy of Kelo, Duke Law School (2013) (first 27 minutes on the history of Kelo documentary): http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KwCdfd5g0C8

Prep: After West Coast Hotel, the takings clause is the principle means for the protection of property in American constitutional law. What was the basis for the Kelo decision? Does it fit with the tradition of American constitutionalism as explicated in the other cases we have read? How does it, for instance, differ from Penn Central Transportation Co v. City of New York?

Recommended:

Week Eight: SECOND SHORT PAPER DUE (5-6 PAGES)

1. Fri., Mar. 20: Essay Due 5 pm in my Office

Week Nine: 6th, 7th, 8th (Juries and Lawyers) & 9th and 10th Amendments (Popular Sovereignty)

Amendment VI: “In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.”

Amendment VII: “In Suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.”

Amendment VIII: “Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.”

Amendment IX: “The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.”
Amendment X: “The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.”

1. Mon., Mar. 23: We, The Jury?
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 74-78, 202-04, 275-78:
  D. Juries and Lawyers
    The Trial of William Penn and Bushell’s Case (1670)
    United States v. Callender (C.C.D. Va 1800)
    Commonwealth v. Athens (MA 1855)
*Amar, The Bill of Rights, pp. 81-118

Prep: What distinguishes these early cases touching on the jury from later understandings of the role of the jury? How is the role of the judge understood, for instance, in Bushell’s Case? Why might American’s have thought serving on a jury was the second most important right they enjoyed after being able to elect representatives? How does Amar understand the role of the jury in the American constitutional order? What various functions does he think it serves?

2. Wed., Mar. 25: Juries/Lawyers, the 9th and 10th Amendments (The Popular-Sovereignty Amendments)
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 470-73:
  D. Juries and Lawyers
    Powell v. Alabama (1932)
  http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Rnp7JzSfc7U
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 624-26, 726-28, 865-70, 1032-35:
  D. Juries and Lawyers
    Gideon v. Wainwright (1963)
    Peters v. Kiff (1972)
    Burdine v. Johnson (5th Cir. 2001)
*Amar, The Bill of Rights, pp. 119-33

Prep: Is the right to counsel a fundamental American constitutional right? What is Black’s reasoning in Gideon? Is that a reasonable way to interpret a constitution and the Bill of Rights? After Gideon, how are we to interpret the right to an attorney? Further, what does the right to a jury trial include? What would a fair jury trial include? Finally, how, according to Amar, ought we to interpret the “popular sovereignty amendments?” How that is, does Amar, interpret the Bill of Rights? As a compilation of counter-majoritarian personal rights, or something else?

Recommended:
*Anthony Lewis, Gideon’s Trumpet (Vintage: 1989)
*http://gideonat50.org/ (an interesting site to explore)

3. Fri., Mar. 27: No Class

SPRING BREAK: MARCH 31 THROUGH APRIL 4
Week Eleven: Do Courts Cause Social Change? (The Case of Brown)

Amendment XIV: “Section 1: All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without the due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.”

1. Mon., Apr. 6: Equality/Race

Klarman, Brown v Board of Education and the Civil Rights Movement, pp. 3-53
Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 334, 447-50, 452-53, 586-90:
  - Federal Courts
  - Plessy v. Ferguson (1896)
  - The Birth of the Civil Rights Movement
  - The Road to Brown

Prep: (1) Explicate Plessy v. Ferguson; (2) explicate pages 3-26 of Klarman on Jim Crow; (3) explicate pages 27-53 on World War II.

Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

Recommended:
Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 324-34:
  - B. Race
    - Implementing the Thirteenth Amendment
    - Congressional Debates over the Second Freedmen’s Bureau Act (1866)
    - Congressional Debates over the Civil Rights Act of 1875
Gerald N. Rosenberg, The Hollow Hope, pp. xi-71

2. Wed., Apr. 8: Equality/Race

Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 590-98:
  - Brown v. Board of Education (Brown I) (1954)
  - Brown v. Board of Education (Brown II) (1955)
Klarman, Brown v. Board of Education and the Civil Rights Movement, pp. 55-148

Prep: What is the reasoning of Brown? What is the core constitutional value? (1) Explicate pages 55-78 (Brown v. Board of Ed) of Klarman; (2) explicate pages 79-104 (Brown II and Subsequent Developments); (3) explicate pages 125-48 (Brown’s Indirect Effects).

Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

Recommended:
Rosenberg, The Hollow Hope, pp. 72-169

3. Fri., Apr. 10: Social Change and Brown?

Klarman, Brown v. Board of Education and the Civil Rights Movement, pp. 149-231
Prep: (1) Explicate pages 149-73 (Brown’s Backlash); (2) explicate pages 175-211 (Why Massive Resistance? & Brown, Violence, and Civil Rights Legislation); (3) explicate pages 213-31 (Conclusion).

Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

Week Twelve: Do Courts Cause Social Change? (The Case of Same Sex Marriage)

1. Mon., Apr. 13: Gay Rights
*Gilman et al., American Constitutionalism, pp. 792-94, 932-48:
   - Bowers v. Hardwick
   - Lawrence v. Texas
   - Goodridge v. Department of Public Health
   - Defense of Marriage Act
   - States Debate Same Sex Marriage
*Klarman, From Closet to Alter, pp. ix-47

Prep: What is the reasoning in Bowers and Lawrence? What is the reasoning of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts in the Goodridge case? What political consequences do you see with regard to Bowers, Lawrence and Goodridge? (1) Explicate pp. 3-15 (Klarman on WW II to Stonewall); (2) explicate pp. 16-47 (Klarman on Stonewall to Bowers).

Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

Recommended:
*Rosenberg, The Hollow Hope, pp. 339-400

2. Wed., Apr. 15: Gay Rights
*Hollingsworth v. Perry (2013) [M]
*United States v. Windsor (2013) [M]
*Victory for Equal Rights (NYT 2013) [M]
*Klarman, From Closet to Alter, pp. 48-88

Prep: Seminar participants not explicating Klarman will be assigned a portion of the material from oyez to present to class. (1) Explicate Klarman pp. 48-74 (Hawaii and the “Defense of Marriage”); explicate Klarman pp. 75-88.
Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

Recommended:
* Rosenberg, The Hollow Hope, pp. 400-31

3. Fri., Apr. 17: Gay Rights
* Klarman, From Closet to Alter, pp. 89-164

Prep: (1) Explicate pp. 89-118 (Goodridge and Its Backlash); (2) explicate pp. 119-42 (The Gay Marriage Spring); (3) explicate pp. 143-55 (Backlash: Main and Iowa)

Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

Week Thirteen: THIRD SHORT PAPER (5-6 PAGES)

1. Fri., Apr. 24: Essay Due 5 pm in my Office

Week Fourteen: Contemporary Issues: Civil Rights

1. Mon., Apr. 27: Gay Rights
* Klarman, From Closet to Alter, pp. 165-219

Prep: Ask yourself, given Perry, Windsor, and the current four cases before the court where do you come down on Klarman’s thesis? Do they conflict with his thesis? Or how might Klarman’s thesis accommodate these decisions? Is litigation an effective political strategy to promote ones interests understood in the context of civil right and liberties? Would Keck agree with Klarman? Why or why not? (1) Explicate pp. 165-82 (Why Backlash Part I); (2) explicate pp. 183-92 (Why Backlash Part II); (3) explicate pp. 193-207 (Looking to the Future)

Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

Recommended:
* Michael McCann, “Law and Social Movements: Contemporary Perspectives” Annual Review: Law and Social Science [M]

2. Wed., Apr. 29: Dualist Democracy; Ackerman’s Theory of Constitutional Change
* Bruce Ackerman, “Neo-Federalism,” pp. 153-93 [M]

3. Fri. May 1: We the People, The Civil Rights Revolution
* Ackerman, The Civil Rights Revolution, TBA
Week Fifteen: Contemporary Issues: Civil Rights

1. Mon., May 4: We the People, The Civil Rights Revolution
*Ackerman, The Civil Rights Revolution, TBA

Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

2. Wed., May 6: We the People, The Civil Rights Revolution
*Ackerman, The Civil Rights Revolution, TBA

Note: For those of you presenting today, please make sure to type up an outline of your notes to distribute to the class regarding the material you are explicating. Also, make sure to conclude your outline by raising some questions regarding the reading for the day.

Recommended:
*Symposium on We the People Volume 3: http://balkin.blogspot.fr/2014/05/we-people-volume-3-symposium.html

3. Fri., May 8: Constitutional Revolutions & the Future of American Rights

Recommended:

FINAL PAPER DUE: MAY 14