ROTC offices occupied, strikers seek removal

By RICHARD BANGS
Montana Kalmin Staff Writer

ROTC offices in the Men's Gym were closed until Monday yesterday after being occupied by about 50 students who demanded the physical and academic removal of ROTC from campus.

Following a noon rally, about 10 blacks went to Air Force ROTC offices and discussed the removal demand with Col. Jack Swayze, chairman of the Air Force ROTC department.

Shortly after the blacks arrived, about 150 whites entered the offices demanding the immediate suspension of all ROTC activities on campus.

Protesting what they said was a "belligerent" disruption of the discussion by whites, blacks angrily left the building.

All but a nucleus of about 20 white demonstrators left the AFROTC offices.

Many other demonstrators left when they realized that their staying could possibly mean arrest.

The group of about 20 remaining in the offices was then confronted by William Craig, academic vice president, who asked the group to leave.

One student said the group would not leave until negotiations were conducted with the administration and the demands met.

A negotiating team headed by E. W. Pfeiffer, professor in zoology, Ron Wheeler, graduate student in zoology, and Ralph Compton, a freshman in sociology, then left to talk to President Pantzer.

Before reaching the President's office the negotiators disagreed on the demands to be presented and Compton returned to the ROTC offices.

Mr. Pfeiffer and Wheeler demanded that President Pantzer close down all ROTC activities for the duration of the strike and for immediate action be taken by the Faculty Senate to implement the removal of ROTC from campus.

If their demands were not met, they said, strikers would nonviolently occupy ROTC offices until the demands were met or until strikers were forcibly removed.

Mr. Pantzer and Mr. Craig then conferred with Col. Swayze and Major John Krimmer, associate professor of military science.

Mr. Pantzer and Mr. Craig took the results of the conference to a special Budget and Policy committee meeting.

When Mr. Pfeiffer and the negotiators came from Mr. Pantzer's office they said their demands had been met.

Many of the strikers in the offices did not agree that their demands had been met and it appeared that they were not going to leave the building.

Compton then placed the blame on himself for the lack of communication between strikers and asked others to leave the offices.

"We are leaving this building in good faith that Pantzer and the Faculty Senate will keep their word," Compton said.

King blasts leaders for spiritual genocide

A genocide of the American spirit is being committed by forces in power in America, Walter King, professor of English, said yesterday.

"There is a wall of massive American indifference that we can't talk about any longer," Mr. King said at the second noon rally protesting the war in Indochina and the killings of students at Kent State University.

He said the most striking indication that he had of the genocide was from students who came to him seeking advice on the draft.

The young men have to decide whether to be drafted, be put in jail or to leave the country, Mr. King said.

"But most of all they just knew that it was all wrong," he said. "Why can't America say it is wrong and pull out of Vietnam."

Donna Applegate, a junior in philosophy, said that the UM foundation holds stock in 11 companies involved in manufacturing munitions and attending classes are using "blood money."

Dick Chapman, assistant professor of political science, called for volunteers to ring the bell in the Main Hall tower four times every five minutes today.

Charles Briggs, a senior in history, called for the impeachment of President Nixon and Vice President Agnew.

The Rev. Jon Nelson, campus Lutheran pastor, said he thought the Montana congressional delegation should be called back from Washington to be questioned about their feelings on the war and the student strike.

Mr. Nelson also urged the continuance of the nonviolent strike.

Andrew Cogswell, dean of students, said he appreciated the lack of violence and that he felt that most students sympathized with the strikers.

Frank Greco, junior in journalism and an Air Force ROTC cadet, said he believed in the right of dissent but also in the right of choice to belong to ROTC.

He was shouted at by the crowd several times.

The Black Student Union said it would not let whites join their movements if the whites wanted to take over the leadership of those movements.

"The blacks won't be lead in any half-assed movements," Esther Hadley, a junior in social welfare, said.

Paul Warwick, English instructor, called for those people who were committed not to go into the military to burn their draft cards tomorrow.

Solidarity sought

Strikers picket classrooms

Students picketed classroom buildings yesterday in an attempt to elicit support for a class boycott which began Tuesday afternoon.

The strike was initiated to protest President Nixon's involvement of U.S. forces in Cambodia and the recent deaths of four Kent State University students.

Richard James, acting chairman of the drama department, said attendance in drama classes was off by about 75 per cent.

A secretary in the business administration department office said that business classes had about a 90 percent to 95 percent attendance. She said some classes discussed the war and some teachers postponed mid-term examinations until next week.

Most professors in the physics and geology departments reported normal class attendance.

About one-third of regularly scheduled classes in the Liberal Arts Building met.

At one time about 40 protesters surrounded the building entrances and talked with students. The pic-keters held signs saying "peace through solidarity," "America repent," "impeach Nixon" and "strike for peace."

One picketer said, "Hell is reserved for those people who did not make a stand today."

Another student said there was no correlation between skipping classes and the war in Cambodia. He said he was against the war, but would not boycott classes.

A protester said, "This is our last non-violent means of protest and I hope to God that it works."

One professor told his class, "I have to be here because the administration tells me. But why in the hell are you in this class?"

A few teachers in the LA Building had signs on their office doors saying their classes would not meet until the strike was over.

Many of the professors who did hold classes said they discussed the strike and the war in Cambodia during class time.

Bob Byers, freshman in speech and communication, said, "I approve what the strikers are trying to say, but not how they're doing it. I think the best way is to write letters to their Congressmen.

"Mass demonstrations haven't shown to be productive in anything but raising violence and destruction," he said. "Although our demonstrations here have been peaceful, what I've seen here today could turn into violence rather quickly. The speeches of the blacks really raised doubts."

Dennis Krepicka, senior in education, said "I think the strike is a terrific idea. And I thought Pantzer's speech on Tuesday was excellent. He finally took a stand against the war."

Richard Konizeski, forestry professor, said, "I think it's silly. It will only make a black eye on the University and the students. Opinions should be vented in a reasonable manner. I think professors like Pfeiffer, Silverman and Curry are nothing but rabble-rousers and should be indoors doing their job."

Mr. Konizeski expressed a desire to let "the other 4,000 students express their opinions by going to class like they paid their money to do."

Students continue antiwar activities

(AP)—Two governors called for college and university shutdowns in their states yesterday as students across the country, backed in some cases by administrators and faculty, engaged in anti-war strikes, marches and sit-ins.

Most of the widespread activities were peaceful but scattered violence did occur. Many schools around the nation closed.

Gov. Ronald Reagan asked state colleges and universities in California to close down today through the weekend.

Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio said all Ohio universities experiencing unrest should be shut down immediately.

Meanwhile, Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky ordered state police and National Guard "with mounted bayonets and live ammunition" onto the University of Kentucky campus to enforce a 7 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. curfew. His action came after 750 students ignored a 5 p.m. curfew ordered by University President Otis Singletary after an Air Force ROTC building was burned.

In Congress, Senate leaders of both parties joined in asking that a special presidential commission be appointed to investigate the shootings at Kent State.

Convoys of National Guardsmen continued leaving the Kent State University campus yesterday, but security precautions remained tight in the wake of the shooting deaths of four students by Guardsmen Monday.

Leaders planning demonstrations in the Capital said they were setting their sights on bringing 30,000 demonstrators right to the doorstep of the White House Saturday to confront Nixon with their "outrage and shock." They rejected the government's offer to let them use the Washington Monument grounds.

Charles Palmer, president of the National Student Association, estimated that his organization knows of more than 300 schools which have closed down.

National Guardsmen marched to the University of Wisconsin campus again yesterday and faced about 2,000 student demonstrators, some chanting and shouting obscenities at the troops. Tear gas was used to break up the crowds of students who were blocking traffic on campus area streets.

Peaceful acceleration urged by speakers

About 500 persons listened to speakers urge the nonviolent acceleration of strike activities last night in the UC Mall.

"People who want violence will blow the whole strike," a student said. Another student said a rational, peaceful unity that supports the administration is necessary.

A speaker proposed inviting Montana Senators Mike Mansfield and Lee Metcalf and Rep. Arnold Olsen to speak at a rally tomorrow.

A list of Faculty Senate members will be distributed on campus today, it was announced. Picketers were asked to contact Senate members before the Senate's 2 p.m. meeting tomorrow and discuss ROTC at the strike with them.

A speaker said ASUM offices have been donated for use as strike headquarters, and ASUM funds for making posters and financing telephone service were available.

One student said he thought some strikers should attend classes today and talk about ROTC and the war. If professors barred discussion of these topics, he said, strikers should walk out.

The audience applauded an announcement that CB endorsed the strike and had called for an immediate end to the war.

Hypocrisy termed CB supports strike, war end cause of pollution

By CONRAD YUNKER
Montana Kaimin Staff Writer

Methods of dealing with government-corporate hypocrisy must be devised to fight pollution, Ralph Nader, attorney and noted consumer crusader, told about 1,500 persons last night in the UC Ballroom.

A double standard of pollution control enforcement exists in the attitude of controlling commissions, said Mr. Nader, who gained national attention in 1965 with his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed."

He said corporations can cause large-scale pollution of the environment because of a "price-of-progress" attitude on the part of governments.

"This price of progress is in essence the garbage smell of the payroll," he said.

He cited national leaders as "incapable of meeting the needs of the country."

"Those wrapping themselves in the flag are the ones most desecrating what it stands for. I find it interesting that those known as the radicals are trying to save the environment while those most engaged in destroying it are called conservatives."

Mr. Nader's speech was financed by ASUM Program Council.

Central Board, in a resolution to be sent to President Nixon, last night unanimously supported the University strike which began Tuesday.

The resolution, telling students "to actively participate in the class boycott," also will be sent to the Montana congressional delegation and Gov. Forrest Anderson.

The resolution also expressed "the shock and horror of all Montana students over the useless murder of four Kent State University students" killed Monday.

The resolution says students "are angered and dismayed with the escalation of the war into Cambodia."

"We therefore speak on behalf of the University of Montana students as we demand an immediate end to the war."

The Board also approved proposed bylaws for CB budget procedures, special allocations and publications.

The president would be required to submit a budget to the board "within four weeks of his election or the second meeting in May, which ever comes first." In the new bylaws, a Sentinel publications director will be appointed by CB and will be paid a yearly salary of $2,500 by ASUM. Clay Collier, freshman in history and political science, was approved as Program Council director.

Administration fears involvement of 'pigs'

President Robert Pantzer and Academic Vice President William G. Craig met with leaders of the University strike last night to discuss what Mr. Craig described as "some people who want to bring in the 'pigs'."

Mr. Craig spoke to an informal meeting of about 40 students and faculty members and warned that

Jesuit will talk on birth control

Gov. Forrest H. Anderson might mobilize police and National Guardsmen if a repetition of yesterday's ROTC sit-in occurred.

Both Mr. Pantzer and Mr. Craig asked for cooperation in protecting the University from "hard-core people."

Jesuit Father Thomas S. Acher will conduct seminars on birth control today and tomorrow.

Father Acher, an assistant professor of biology at Detroit University, will speak on "Jury-Rigged Reproduction" today at 7:30 p.m. in LA 11.

He will also discuss "Clomid: Its Reproductive Stimulation and Inhibition" tomorrow at noon in Health Sciences 207.

Williams asserts strike will not help

To the Kaimin:

To begin with I must say that I am in complete sympathy with the cause for which the strike is taking place, however, I am not in favor of the strike itself. I did not enroll in this university to take part in any form of strike.

No one is being hurt by this strike but the students themselves.

The strike is not helping any of the four students killed at Kent. They are beyond our help, the same for the guys in Vietnam who are being killed. If you want rallies or demonstrations have them after classes.

My advice to the students here at the U and also across the U.S. is to go to class, learn something and then put your knowledge to work. We are the leaders of tomorrow, but without an education we will do no better than the leaders now.

Think about it.

RUSSELL WILLIAMS
Sophomore, Political Science

Sophomore says Nixon must be reminded

To the Kaimin:

President Nixon said Tuesday that all American troops will be out of Cambodia by June 30.

June 30 isn't far away. But it is far enough away to give the majority of Americans time to get used to the idea of our soldiers in Cambodia, and time to forget that our national leader has promised that they will be withdrawn.

If people do not remember this pledge, Nixon will also forget. If June 30 passes unnoticed, he will have a sigh of relief that may push even more men into Cambodia.

I suggest that students at this University refuse to give Montana citizens the chance to allow Nixon to "forget."

If we can keep that June 30 date and its significance in the minds of Montanans by whatever advertisements, marches and letters necessary, he will not forget.

If Nixon knows his electorate is waiting for the withdrawal of troops from Cambodia on June 30, he will not dare break a pledge that only too likely was offered to placate people whose anger will be then forgotten.

Student says gallant peace paraders are murderers in absentia

To the Kaimin:

Isn't it a shame that you people who so gallantly parade for peace are the murderers in absentia who are prolonging the war? The Viet Cong guerrillas control little of the countryside today and the North Vietnamese armies are very low in manpower.

Yet they continue to hold out. Why? Their hope lies in the division of public opinion you have created. This is why they continue to fight. They are counting on American patience to run out.

The late Ho Chi Minh once told the French: "You will kill 10 of our men and we will kill one of yours and in the end it will be you who tire of it."

It was the collapse of support at home that defeated the French.

North Vietnam has always regarded the war not as a test of strength, but of will. They delight in the fact that America is divided—in August, 1968, Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Assembly of North Vietnam and Number Two man in the ruling party Politburo, said: "We are currently taking advantage of the contradictions between the doves and hawks in the American ruling class."

We'll never know how many of our boys have died because North Vietnam holds on, waiting for American patience to crack. Your peace marches, moratoriums and protests are worth regiments and whole divisions to the communists.

How many of you peace marchers are sincere in your desire for peace? Sure, I dislike war, too. I've lost many close friends, almost my father and perhaps someday my only brother. Yet, I'm proud of them, for they are fighting to keep this country free.

If we don't stop communism in Southeast Asia, we will be trying to stop them on our own shores in short order. All one has to do is read the history books. If we back down now, the Communists will use South Vietnam as a stepping stone on their way to conquer the rest of Southeast Asia.

Remember communists are aiming at world domination, and they mean it—not by next year, but by gradually eating away, bit by bit, year after year. Several years ago, Peking's foreign minister, Chen Yi, publicly designated Thailand as the next target for Communist attack.

Malaysian Prime Minister Abdul Rahman said: "If the Americans decide to give up the war in Vietnam, then it will be the end of us all."

Thailand and Laos once felt secure in the fact that they could handle the communist threat with their own troops, yet with the deterioration of U.S. public support for South Vietnam, fomented by you peace-loving draft dodgers, their position has changed.

It is you who are causing the war to spread. As long as the Viet Cong believe you are marching for them, they will continue the fight, and more Americans and Vietnamese will lose their lives.

The situation for the North Vietnamese is grim indeed. Everywhere, the Viet Cong recruiters are getting only one replacement—usually a woman or a little boy—for every guerrilla they lose. The 1968 Tet offensive was a disaster for Hanoi and the Viet Cong.

Thousands of their most valuable staff officers (including veterans with 10 to 20 years of revolutionary activity) and seasoned soldiers fell in great numbers.

For the offensive, they called up 350,000 men, although only 125,000 annually reach military age; and they had already drawn 400,000 men before the offensive. Six entire "year classes" of North Vietnamese young men perished in this offensive. Now North Vietnam has little to draw upon.

Before the offensive, 29,000 North Vietnamese were drafted each month. Since July, 1969, only 3,500 are being drafted a month. None of them have ever returned home, save the hopeless cripples. Obviously, North Vietnam is a country in trouble.

You peace marchers, dupes and dupsters together, sit around and chant "bring our soldiers home." Well, let's just see who would happen if we betrayed the South Vietnamese and brought our soldiers home. First, the mass murder of thousands of innocent victims would follow. Do you doubt it, peace marcher? You need only to look at Hue, for an example, where several thousand South Vietnamese were shot or buried alive during the brief communist occupation of that city during the 1968 Tet offensive.

Or read about the tragic fall of Tibet to the communists, when none of the free nations rallied to help her, although she pleaded for help to stop the communist invasion. These religious, peace loving people suffered untold tragedies. They tried to live in peace with the communists, yet had nails driven through their eyes to a cross for not permitting their children to be taken from them and sent to Peking for "education."

Does this give you an idea of the type of "brothers" you refuse to take up arms against?

Next, Cambodia, Laos, Thailand and Malaysia would fall—remember the words of Chen Yi and Prime Minister Rahman if you doubt it.

A good percentage of you peace marchers are just plain yellow and are hiding behind the peace movement to save your own skins, witness your hasty exodus to Canada when your draft number comes up. If our boys hadn't fought and died for this country before, you peace marchers wouldn't be free to protest as you do now. If communism is so great, why are people constantly risking their lives to escape from Russia, East Germany, Cuba and Communist China, to name a few?

Temporary peace is easily gained, but amounts to defeat. Is that what you want? Did 400,000 Americans die for defeat?

Vietnamization is working. At the hamlet level, the People's Self Defense Force has recruited three million South Vietnamese. Their economy is prospering once more—if progress continues at the 1969 rate, the benefits of a free economy alone will cause an ideological defeat of the Viet Cong.

The North Vietnamese communists and their American counterparts feed you peace marchers all sorts of American "atrocity" stories. Of course, they, the communists, are perfect angels. How many of you know that during an eight-month period at their height of our air campaign in 1967, fewer than 400 North Vietnamese civilians were killed?

Bomb pilots went to great lengths to avoid killing civilians, even though this often created extra risks for them. Believe me, the Viet Cong doesn't do the same in South Vietnam. To set a bomb off in the most heavily civilian populated section of Saigon is great fun to them. Our "atrocities" at My Lai? That's kid stuff compared to what they did at Hue. But of course, it's okay for them to slaughter people.

They'd have you believe how honorable their intentions are to keep the peace. Yet look at South Korea, where not a week goes by without a band of terrorists being fed in from North Korea. And how about the communist phrase: "Negotiating while fighting is opening another front?"

The Missoula "Peace" Coalition tells us "the war is illegal," that we could be doing lots of other things with the money we spend on the war. Can you really put a price on freedom?

Let's just examine some of your "leaders." Since when had a few weekend jaunts made them military experts?

Dr. Pfeiffer maintains that when he was in Cambodia studying the effects of defoliation, (gotta leave that jungle for the Viet Cong to ambush our boys from) he never saw any Viet Cong and therefore the State Department was obviously lying to us about troop movement.

For heaven's sake, just because he didn't see them doesn't mean that they're not there. Why is it that everything our State Department says is false, everything our army does is wrong, everything that we do is suspect . . . but the enemy is lily white?

Tell me this; how many wars has the U.S. Army started? None!

And how many has it won? All of them, and not by betrayal of our friends either . . . not by hiding their heads in the sand and displaying a yellow backside. You can protect yourselves and your loved ones better by displaying your courage and "carrying a big stick" than by swallowing a lot of verbal garbage.

Wake up, you peace marchers, and look the hard facts and your yellow and pink leaders in the face. It's put up or shut up, so let's work together and support our country. Let's win that war, and then we can bring our boys home again.

Anti-ROTC effort called action of few

Maj. John A. Krimmer, associate professor of military science, said yesterday he believes the student effort to remove ROTC from campus is an expression of an emotional minority and some radicals.

"Our classes are as good as any as a sounding board on Cambodia," Maj. Krimmer said in a Montana Kaimin interview.

He said discussions about the war in Cambodia are being conducted in ROTC classes. Both pros and cons of the war are being voiced, he added.

Maj. Krimmer said that as long as the strike remains peaceful, it is the students' right to strike.

He said ROTC class attendance was unaffected by the strike.

None of the ROTC staff members attended the memorial service Tuesday, Maj. Krimmer said, adding that some ROTC students probably attended.

The memorial service, held in front of Main Hall, honored four Kent State students who were killed Monday in a confrontation with National Guardsmen on the Ohio campus.

Mr. Krimmer said, "We don't feel it (the memorial service) concerned us individually."

Anaconda Co. move defended

An Anaconda Co. lawyer has stated that the Company's proposed open pit mining venture in Lincoln will not convert that town into "another Butte."

James Robischon told the Blackfoot Telephone Cooperative in its annual meeting at the Florence Hotel last Saturday that water pollution in Butte was caused by the pumping of water from mining shafts into the Clark Fork River.

He said this would not happen at Lincoln because the operation there would not have underground mines.

Possible water pollution could arise from runoff that might go through tailings, or waste piles, and from the concentrator that uses water to separate ore from crushed rocks, he said.

"The ultimate in water pollution control will be used in the operations," Mr. Robischon said.

He indicated the "ultimate control" would be a closed water system in which water runoff and water used in the concentrator would be recycled through settling ponds and used again.

He said the problems Anaconda has experienced with the Company smelter would not be duplicated in the Lincoln area because no heat would be required in the processes at that site.

The ore will be shipped by truck or rail to Anaconda where it will be smelted, Mr. Robischon said.

Air pollution could be controlled further by wetting down roads in the area and establishing emission control devices on diesel trucks used in the mines, he added.

In a question-answer session following the meeting, Mr. Robischon said Anaconda Co. has planned for pollution controls to provide "perpetual maintenance of existing conditions" in the Lincoln area.

He said this means that even after the mine has been abandoned, the Anaconda Co. will be responsible for maintaining its water pollution control devices.

Mr. Robischon said that the Anaconda Co. will not make a "company town" out of Lincoln. He said the Company will cooperate with Lincoln residents.
