TEXTS

Primary: State and Local Government 5th Edition (Ann Bowman and Richard Kearney)

Supplements: The State of The States 3rd Edition (Charles Van Horn) and Who Runs for the State Legislature? (by Moncrief, Squire, and Jewell)

COURSE DESCRIPTION

State Government is one of the most exciting areas in political science. This course examines the evolution and development that has taken place in the states since the founding period. It focuses on the basic institutions as well as a broad spectrum of public policy issues that affect governing in the states. The theme of this course is built on one primary question: Has there been a resurgence of the states? That is, have states increased their capacity to govern, manage change, and innovate in various areas of public policy?

The primary objective of the course is to acquaint students with the complexities of state government and state politics. Local government is not covered in the summer version of the class. Upon successful completion of the course students should acquire considerable knowledge about comparative state government and politics in the states. Assessment is based on students' performance on two exams. Additional learning objectives are provided at PSc 364 Learning Objectives.

Link to Governing.com, one of the best sources of information about the state and local arena available.

Houghton Mifflin provides excellent online resources for the Bowman and Kearney text, including exams, outlines, and many links to state-local web sites. Click here to access these resources. (If asked for a username and password, the username/password needed to access certain parts of this website is government/rules. The username is government and the password is rules). You will find this time line useful for the final exam's major essay. Click here to access many state and local government resources on the Internet, including links to all 50 state websites. Also, Stateline.org is a great website dedicated entirely to news and information about the states and their local governments.

Since state nicknames are often mentioned in class as trivia, click here to read more about the origin of the Tar Heel State (North Carolina). State mottos are also interesting. For example, The state motto for North Carolina, "Esse Quam Videri" is Latin for "to be rather than to seem." Click here for a humorous version of the 50 state mottos.
