'CURRICULUM ISSUES'
THEME OF UM PAPERS

MISSOULA--

The second in a series of "Continuing Education Papers" for curriculum libraries in Montana public schools, published through the University of Montana Extension and Continuing Education Division, has been released.

This edition, entitled "Curriculum Issues," was edited by Dr. James F. Hall, assistant professor of education, coordinator of Extension and Continuing Education and director of the UM Division of Indian Services.

In the first edition of the "Continuing Education Papers" in 1969 a brief history of the Indians of Montana was featured. That booklet was prepared by the UM Department of Anthropology.

The paperback booklets in the series serve as information sources for faculty, staff and students in Montana public schools.

School of Education faculty who prepared the articles include Dr. William H. Fisher, associate professor, "History and Philosophy of Education: Key to Curriculum Change"; Dr. John J. Hunt, associate professor and Dr. Lyle L. Berg, assistant professor and director of Educational Research and Services at UM, "Curriculum Issues" and "Accountability--The New Administrative Task." Also, Robert S. Van Slyke, assistant professor, "Some Suppositions in Regard to Learning"; Dr. Hall, "Grouping"; Dr. Roy C. White, assistant professor, "The Movement Toward Environmental Education"; Dr. William G. Stoner, professor, "If the Shoe Fits."
