UM ORIENTATION SLATED AUGUST 3 and 4

MISSOULA--

An orientation program to introduce prospective students to campus life is scheduled at the University of Montana Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 3 and 4.

The students will learn about academic, social and other aspects of the University in meetings with faculty advisers and students leaders. Sessions will also be offered for parents on financial aid and other topics of interest to them.

Students who do not attend a summer orientation program must go through fall orientation, according to Maggie Doolen, orientation director.

Students who have not signed up for orientation may still do so by calling the UM Center for Student Development, 243-4711. They may also register for the program Monday, Aug. 3, between 9 and 10:45 a.m. at Knowles Hall on campus.
