POLITICS OF MEXICO

Instructor: Professor Paul Haber 243-4862

Paul.Haber@umontana.edu

Political Science Department, course #327

Spring 2005

Meets Tuesday and Thursday 2:10 – 3:30

Office Hours: LA 355 Tuesday and Thursday 1:00 – 2:00 and 3:30-4:00 in LA 355

Required texts available or soon to be available for purchase in UC Bookstore:

(There is one copy of Opening Mexico on reserve. Middlebrook may not be there yet.)

Julia Preston and Samuel Dillon. (2004) Opening Mexico: The Making of a Democracy. New York: Farrar, Straus and Giroux.

Kevin Middlebrook, Editor. (2004) Dilemmas of Political Change in Mexico. La Jolla: Center for U.S.-Mexican Studies, University of California at San Diego.

There are two aspects to this class. First, there is the content. It is expected that students will leave this class with knowledge about contemporary Mexico. Second, this is a class that demands of students that they engage in the art of critical thinking. In brief, this means thinking about knowledge in creative ways. Students will be given multiple opportunities to demonstrate the degree to which they have mastered both aspects of the class: 1) the material as presented in the reading and lecture

Your grade will be based on two exams (2/3 of total grade) and class attendance, in-class assignments, and participation (1/3 of total grade). The reading load is quite heavy in this class and students are required to read all assigned readings before the class in which they will be discussed. Coming to class prepared means having read the material carefully and thoughtfully. It means coming to class each day prepared to participate by offering interpretations or questions concerning the readings' main arguments.

Two times during the semester each student will be required to write a one to two paged typed statement in response to the readings. This statement must be posted to Blackboard no later than 5pm on the day before the class in which the readings are to be discussed. This statement must do two things. First, it should state what the student determines to be the main arguments or themes of the reading, along with a brief statement regarding why these are the most important arguments or themes in the reading. Second, the statement must conclude with a comment on up to three issues or sections of the reading that the student decides, after a careful reading of the material, are in need of class discussion, along with a comment for why these are important to discuss. The statement can be written in bullet form or in more traditional prose. What is important is that the two sections be clearly demarcated and that the writing be clear, precise, and well-edited. Students will be assigned specific days to do this assignment. If you would like to request certain dates, you may do so up till 4:00pm this Thursday, January 27 (give me your top three choices). Everyone in the class is required to read these statements carefully before coming to class.

Students may miss two classes without explanation. After that, students must bring a typed statement explaining their absence (please do not phone or email me, it is neither necessary nor sufficient). Make a serious effort to get to class on time. If you come in late make sure you check with me after class so that I can mark you late instead of being absent.

Blackboard Instructions

Accessing Your Online Course or Course Supplement:

On the beginning date of your course, you may login to the UOnline Blackboard Web site to access your supplement.

1. To find your official university username for Blackboard, login to Cyberbear and select Personal Information. Select View Email Addresses. Your username address is listed under the header Official University Student E-mail Account and is in the form fl123456@cue1.umt.edu. The first part of the account, before the @ symbol, is your username. Write this down as you will need it later.
2. Log out of Cyberbear.
3. Browse to <http://umonline.umt.edu>. Click on the Login button near the top lefthand corner of the page.
4. Enter your assigned username. Your password is your date of birth in six-digit format (for example, 062581 for June 25, 1981).

Accessing Your Official University Email Address:

Your UOnline instructor will use your official university email address, assigned by The University of Montana, to communicate with you. If you wish to use a different email address, go to personal information and it is easy to change it to wherever you would like.

To access your official university email address, browse to <http://cue1.umt.edu>. Your username is the same as your Blackboard username (see #1 above - Accessing Your Online Supplement). Your password is your Cyberbear PIN (Personal Identification Number). (Note: When you were admitted to UM, initially your PIN was your date of birth; you may have changed your PIN since then. Use your current PIN number to access your official university email address.)

Online courses and course supplements offer students convenience, flexibility and new approaches to learning. We hope that you have a successful learning experience.
