Introduction to Political Theory

Course Description:

Introduction to Political Theory (PSC 150E) familiarizes students with the basic concepts and issues which preoccupy the political theorist, including the origins of government and society, the nature of justice, and the meaning of the "public" and the "private." We will begin by considering the tension between politics and philosophy and continue with an examination of the major ideologies—liberalism, conservatism, Marxism, feminism etc.—that have shaped our modern political dialogues. We will conclude the course with the "end of ideology" debate.

At the outset, let us consider some basic questions about the relationship between political philosophy and ideology. First, is there a political theory that is not an ideology, or a theorist that is not an ideologue? If ideology is not the same as political philosophy, nor as good (as Plato suggests), then how does one avoid being labeled an ideologue? Lastly, what does it mean to you when someone says that "today it is no longer possible to construct a genuine political philosophy"?

Course Objectives: upon successfully completing the course work, the student should be able to:

1. Demonstrate an understanding of the political and ethical values associated with Plato, Aristotle, Locke, Hobbes, Bentham, J.S. Mill, Burke, and Marx.

2. Identify major themes and ideas associated with the ideologies of utopianism, classical and reform liberalism, utilitarianism, conservatism, Marxism, feminism as well as contemporary variations such as neo-Marxism and post-modern feminism.

3. Provide an interpretative, critical essay on a feminist utopian novel, Herland, examining to what extent the author borrows, satirizes, and/or negates the ideas of western political thinkers, including Plato and Aristotle. (See attached Paper Guidelines)

Texts:
Plato, The Republic
Barker, The Politics of Aristotle
Gilman, Herland
Fac Packet Vols I & II, Masc. readings

*In addition, short articles will be placed on reserved in the library.
Grading:
The work of the course consists of reading all assignments, attending lectures—students who ask questions usually have good lecture notes, completing the two-part midterm (30% of course grade), the final (35% of course grade.) In addition, each student must complete on time a critical analysis of Gilman's Herland (35% of course grade.) Please see attached for instructions on the Gilman essay.

 Cautionary Note: Late papers will not be deducted a letter grade for each day it's late.

Guidelines for Essay: "Herland: Our land?" (35% of course grade)

I. Purpose
   A. Objective: Provide an analytical essay comparing and contrasting the ideas/themes found in Herland with the political theories we have covered in the course. An interpretive essay is not a book review or an editorial. A critical essay supports its analysis with direct references to the novel, showing the extent Gilman borrows, satirizes, and/or negates the ideas of other western political thinkers.

II. Content
   A. Description & Thesis (10% of essay value)
      We do not want more than a cursory attempt at describing the content of Gilman's Herland. Assume that the reader is familiar with the plot of the book. (No more than one paragraph.)

   B. Analysis (50% of essay value)
      This part of the paper should constitute the major portion of your work. Look for the ideas that Gilman draws upon in terms of the ideologies covered in the class. Can you identify radical, conservative, and/or liberal ideas in her model community? (i.e. what extend does Gilman borrow from Plato's notion of justice?)

      What are her underlying assumptions about human nature, "male" & "female" natures? Is there a class, caste, or elites in this society? What is the role of their political leaders (what legitimizes their authority). Does this utopia dispense with state coercive power? Explain. What is the character of their economic system and the nature of social relationships in Gilman's utopia? What is the value system of the "Herlander" society? Consider, for instance, the political socialization process of the women: what they are taught, if anything, regarding gender roles, history, community etc.

      Lastly, what are the sources of Jeff, Van, and/or Terry's discontent in Herland? Why does Gilman introduce these male figures? Are they merely foils to show female superiority?
C. Conclusion: (40% essay value)
Does Gilman convince the reader that this utopia is desirable? Why, why not? Finally, does Gilman's brand of feminism offer us a unique contribution to political philosophy or is it merely a hybrid political theory? Explain

D. Planning
Parts B & C should comprise almost equal parts of your paper. In other words, do not spend 4 1/2 pages on analysis and 1/2 page on your conclusion. We are looking for your ability to come to logical conclusions.

II. Style
A. Format
Paper should be typed, double-spaced in 10 or 12 pt. font, and must be between 5-6 pages. Please provide 1 inch margins. Be sure to edit and proof final copy. Points will be deducted for grammatical and spelling errors.

B. Additional Reading
You may wish to do some additional reading to substantiate your positions for parts IB and IC. However, this is not necessary. You will probably do just as well by attending class lectures regularly, taking good notes, and reading the assigned material.

C. Quotations
All quotations or paraphrasing in your work from any material must be enclosed in quotation marks and properly cited as to their origin. (See any writing manual for a consistent format.)

D. Bibliography
You should include a complete bibliography of all outside books used for this paper.
