2-24-1981

Montana Kaimin, February 24, 1981

Associated Students of the University of Montana

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.
Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/studentnewspaper

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.umt.edu/studentnewspaper/7118

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Montana Kaimin at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in Montana Kaimin by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
Ticket revenue covers only half of Duke's cost

Almost 1,100 people paid to see ex-Klan leader David Duke speak at the University Center last Wednesday, and according to an ASUM Programming report, only half of the ticket buyers were students. But, according to the ASUM ticket sales brochure, Programming $1,320 in revenue, it will fork out at least $2,700 for expenses related to Duke's visit.

The Programming report on the Duke speech states that 1,093 people bought tickets, 866 being students. Expenses for the Duke speech include:

- $1,400 for Duke's fee and $603 for his travel.

- An estimated $60 to $1,000 for security. According to Programming Director Rick Ryan, 30 security costs are yet to be compiled.

- $70 in personal expenses for Duke. According to Sue Grebeldinger, Programming's Lectures Coordinator, Programming picked up a $20 hotel bill for Duke and spent $50 to take him to dinner.

The costs for technical services for the show still remain untabulated. Neither Ryan nor Grebeldinger would estimate the costs, which include the costs of sound and light placement and ballroom rental—would cost.

Vets problems surfacing

By C. L. GILBERT
Montana Kaimin Reporter

Citing an increasing number of veterans "coming out of their shells," Max Inglett, former director of the American Veterans Movement, said, "We cannot allow the American public to forget the sacrifices of the American Veterans Movement." Inglett, a paraplegic, spoke to attendants at the University Center Ballroom as the kick-off speaker for a week of events titled "The Vietnam Legacy."

Inglett said the Vietnam vets are suffering from many problems still. But he said the vets need help for "someone to listen, someone to understand." Inglett described many aspects of his experiences in Vietnam. After serving in Vietnam and Cambodia for two years as a combat medic, he returned to the United States. He began suffering from nightmares, blacks and amnesia. He said he was absent without leave many times after having a perfect military record and he wouldn't know where he had been.

One day he woke up in an Army hospital, paralyzed from the waist down. He told the Army about the incident, which included shooting a gun while robbing a liquor store but he had no recollection of the incident. There were photographs to prove that it was he and he doesn't deny the fact.

"It was me physically," he said. He told the Army about the problem he had been having but he said they didn't believe him. Finally, after a year and a half of psychiatric evaluation, the Army gave him a discharge.

The revised edition of the ASUM constitution, long slated for tomorrow's ballot, will not be on the ballot. However, students may get a chance to vote on it Spring Quarter.

Several steps required to get the revised constitution on the ballot have not been taken:

- Central Board has not approved it.

- The University of Montana central administration has not approved it.

- The revisions have not been adequately publicized.

A vote to approve and place the revised constitution on the ballot was scheduled for last week's CB meeting, but four members left the meeting at 7 p.m., destroying the two-thirds quorum needed for doing business.

However, had CB approved the revised constitution, it still would not have been on tomorrow's ballot.

CB member Greg Anderson, who helped author the revised constitution, said it was discovered last week that any constitutional changes must be published in the Montana Kaimin at least twice a week for two weeks before the day it appears on the ballot.

Anderson said he will try to put the revised constitution before students for approval next quarter in a special election.

Proposers of the revised constitution had wanted it on tomorrow's ballot to capitalize on the turnout for ASUM officer elections, the largest student voter turnout in five years.

Write-in candidates hope to add life to 'dull campaign'

By MIKE DENNISON
Montana Kaimin Reporter

Editor's note: This is the last article in a four-part series on the candidates for ASUM president and vice president.

Dan O'Fallon is running for ASUM president to pump some life into what he sees as a dull race, and he plans to do the same for student government if he wins.

But winning the election is, at best, a long shot, for O'Fallon's and his running mate Cathy Nelson's name will not be on the ballot. They are write-in candidates, announcing their candidacy just six days ago.

This disadvantage is compounded by the fact that neither candidate can be in Missoula for the campaign, as both are interns in Helena.

O'Fallon, junior in political science, is a Senate intern and Montana Student Government intern, as is Nelson, a senior in political science, and a legislative intern for the office of the commissioner of higher education.

If nothing else, the candidates have made their last-run effort for ASUM office with spur some interest in student government.

In a telephone interview Sunday, O'Fallon said ASUM suffers from a severe lack of student interest, a lack that needs to be addressed.

"We have an existing problem," he said. "We have a malaise which would combat everyone has labeled AUSM as their top priority and forgotten academics. The emphasis of (a student) must be on education. "People think they have to be a student," he said. And according to O'Fallon, these concerns center on how students' activity fees are spent. O'Fallon called allocation of the $400,000 in student activity fees "the single most important act that ASUM does."

"Everything else is icing on the cake," he said. "I think I can run government well. I set out to do something I can get done," he said. "But I won't say I can do miracles. I hate to make promises and not come through on them. I just have ideas."

Included in O'Fallon's ideas are:

- keeping the annual budgeting process during each quarter,

- inventories on larger ASUM purchases

O'Fallon said his leadership is based on being able to make it through the off-year. Bills ASUM wants to introduce should be drafted, priorities formalized and student groups easier to determine, despite the constrictive nature of ASUM's political scientist at UM not to impose undue constraints on the political parties during this time.

- no ASUM control of the Montana Kaimin. "They should have the right to print what they want, even if they want to slam me all over the place.

"To do that, I don't want to cause the political scientist at UM to not be competitive in the marketplace," Donaldson said. But Donaldson said he does not feel it is fair to state employees to give across-the-board raises in faculty when other state employees also probably lag behind their "peers."

"That's just one of the things we give up, I guess, to live in this state," Donaldson said. Donaldson denied that Republican tax cut proposals had necessitated the budget cuts. He said he and the other members of the Legislative Council "are having it so much as is humanly possible to deviate from the tax or cut taxes.

Cont. on p. 6
Students will face a familiar bill of fare in tomorrow's ASUM election, having been served up selections of candidates who have been around a while. But the addition of write-in candidates, does offer students a better chance than the ones presented on the ballots for the president/vice president posts.

All four sets of candidates — O'Fallon/Nelson, Greg Anderson/August Matosich, Wayne Kimmel/Sue Spaulding/Eric Johnson — list impressive qualifications for the positions, including Central Board and ASUM committee experience. However, O'Fallon and Nelson stand out from the others, for they have tempered their ideas with a realistic attitude. For that reason, they should be elected to ASUM's top offices.

Deciding only last week to run as write-in candidates and having had little time to advertise or campaign, they concede they face an uphill battle. But their absence from this year's campaign arena should not prevent them from winning the offices.

O'Fallon expressed last quarter a certain amount of disenchantment with the Central Board to which he was a delegate and now has some ideas for changing the things that bothered him. He basically thinks student government should be put in perspective, with the emphasis placed on the "student" portion of the title. He would like more power returned to student committees, which he feels could be staffed almost entirely by non-CB members, so students in general can have more say in how ASUM is run.

Involving more students in ASUM is a good idea — the people in student government often tend to develop a group mentality, hanging on year after year after year. A president who could distance himself a bit from the usual groupie ties could give ASUM a better view of what student government should provide for students.

Of course, O'Fallon has his less-than-laudable qualities, as does any candidate. The major problem he would face as president is one he says he could avoid — a possible inability to work well with some people. His past disengagement with ASUM has formed a few barriers between him and some people he may be working with.

However, the problems presented by the other candidates are a little greater than that.

— Anderson and Matosich have good ideas for shaping up the ASUM administration, ideas that are — unfortunately — backed with a bit too much enthusiasm. In their zeal to whip ASUM into shape, virtually making it a professional political organization, they could easily alienate others in student government. In addition, they have indicated they may favor trimming the budgets of some smaller groups such as the Student Action Center or the Kiy-Yo Club, which provide the university with much of its diversity.

— Kimmel and Grebeldinger have been through the election mill before, losing in the primaries last year. In their year away from the mainstream of political life, they have developed a more subdued attitude about what they can accomplish, having reflected on their mistakes in last year's campaign. While they have a great deal of ASUM experience, they also have developed close ties to ASUM and its groupies, so little change could be expected from this status quo. However, if you don't want to vote for a write-in-longshot, Kimmel and Grebeldinger would be a good alternative because of their sensibility approach to what they could accomplish and their past work in student government.

— Spaulding and Johnson have concentrated much of their campaign on one issue — giving students greater control over the way in which their fees are used. The domimant theme of their campaign has been for student rights. Yet Spaulding has been part of the current ASUM administration, which has been characterized by inefficiency and a lack of leadership.

In closing, I ask your support for Carl Burgdorfer for ASUM business manager.

Peter Karr
senior, finance

VOTE FOR A TEAM

Editor: As a graduating senior, I feel fantastic about completing my education at the University of Montana. I am especially proud of the students of this campus and glad that I had the opportunity to represent the students as a member of Central Board. For almost a year now I have had the chance to work with some very energetic, dynamic and hard-working students of the board. There were, of course, some not so energetic board members.

From the previous years, it is apparent that in order for Central Board to be effective it must have some leadership in the offices of ASUM President and Vice President. Greg Anderson and August Matosich have these kind of leadership characteristics. They have been two of the most active, hard-working and all-around excellent Central Board members I have found them to be very willing to spend a majority of their time representing the best interests of the students on this campus.

In this election it is very important that students vote for a TEAM. We saw major problems between our current President and Vice President who had not spent a time of working together before being elected to ASUM and thus were not prepared to face the offices as a unified team. Greg and Andy have had the opportunity to work together through committees and other Central Board activities. They are a dynamic team.

Finally, I recommend for you to vote for Greg and Andy, because they do everything they can to provide hard working leadership to the students of this campus.

Linda May
Outgoing Central Board member, senior, business management/ himCO

EXCELLENT CHOICE

Editor: I believe that Greg Anderson and Andy Matosich would be an excellent choice for ASUM president and vice president. I have known Anderson since high school and have long admired his responsible leadership. Anderson is ef-ficient and thorough in anything he undertakes. Such efficiency and thoroughness is especially needed right now since they seemed to be lacking in the Curtis-Lang administration, i.e., Nelson. His partner, Matosich, compliments Anderson's administrative capabilities. Matosich is the goal-setter and enthusiasm behind Anderson. Although, he is new to ASUM as a representative, he has already done more work (not surprisingly) than the present ASUM president and vice president of the CB members. The Anderson/Matosich team would be a "team" and by pulling their talents together, they would get student government running again.

I also endorse Carl Burgdorfer as ASUM business manager. Burgdorfer is one of the most active CB members this year. (Contrary to popular belief there are some active CB members.) Burgdorfer has served on the ASUM Budget and Finance Committee and has many times assisted the ASUM business manager in investigating budget requests. This experience is valuable since the business manager's job comes close and takes time to learn the ropes. His opponent is new on the ASUM scene and unexperienced about the responsibilities of business manager. This is not to say that being new is necessarily bad, it only becomes bad when an inexperienced and incapable person is elected merely for the sake of newness.

Vicki Harriaman
CB member, junior, journalism/political science

"Friends and Affiliates, Let’s Keep A Good Thing Going..."

—Montana Kaimin • Tuesday, February 24, 1981
letters

Vote for Carl
Editor: Carl Burgdorf has to be the best choice for AUSM business manager. Carl is a senior in business administration and has shown excellent leadership as the chairman of the quite successful students party and as a member of CAB. Being a member of the Budget and Finance Committee (of which the business manager chairs), the Teacher Evaluation Committee and chair­man of the Student Union Board, Carl has gained the necessary experience to do a good job of business manager. I believe having a working knowledge of ASUM will enable Carl to do the job. He’s got the leadership, he’s got the experience, and he’s got my vote.

Leadership, he’s got the experience, and having a working knowledge of ASUM will enable Carl to do the job. He’s got the leadership, he’s got the experience, and he’s got my vote.

Ralph Simpson
senior, physical therapy

public forum

Spaulding is Curtis’ choice
Editor: Well, once again election time is upon us. Tomorrow students will be going to the polls to elect executives and board members of their governing body. ASUM (Associated Students of the University of Montana) is literally a million-dollar-a-year business with over 80 employees. But ASUM is not only a business; as the representative body of the 8,000 plus students of the university, it makes decisions that affect the lives of not only the students but the entire community at large. Student government has been, especial­ly in the last decade and a half, con­tinually evolving towards greater and greater degrees of responsibility and involvement. One example of this is the very active role ASUM’s Legislative Committee and lobbyists have come to play in the Montana legislature. In short, student politics is a serious and important matter of activity. Many people think otherwise. This is not without good reason. Student government has done much of the aforementioned evolving and has contributed much to the quality of education and thereby to the quality of life in Montana. ASUM has accomplished this almost in spite of itself. There have been a number of qualified, educated people who have taken ASUM seriously and worked very hard. But ASUM is not only a business; it is a service, a public forum for the students as president/vice president of the university. Lux et Veritas—Light and Truth.

Because of their depth of experience, ability to communicate with a broad range of people, and their combination of talents, Steve Spaulding and Eric Johnson are the best choices to serve in the executive positions face a great deal of problems, Steve Spaulding and Eric Johnson are the best choices to serve in the executive positions face a great deal of problems.

David Curtis
ASUM president

Expound energy
Editor: To everyone now attending the University of Montana, I offer a point to ponder.

On Feb. 25 we are having university elections to select a new president, vice president and Central Board members. Most of us take this for granted or even consider the whole thing a joke. But, right now, students in Poland are struggling for the right to have a students’ union. Think about it! Instead of wasting a precious others’ energy, expend the energy to vote.

Michael McCallum
sophomore, social work

Steve’s sincere
Editor: I wish to state my support for Steve

Spaulding in the upcoming ASUM presidential election. Steve has gained valuable experience while serving as ASUM business manager and his sincere efforts to expand student participation in university affairs should be commended. I trust that he and his running mate, Eric Johnson, will work hard to improve the good standing achieved by previous student administra­tions.

Michael Dahlem
ASUM lobbyist

Commendable candidate
Editor: I urge students to vote for Carl Burgdorf for ASUM Business Manager on February 25. Carl has been a Central Board member for one year, and has been a responsible servant of student interests. More recently, Carl has been employed by ASUM Legislative Committee as one of our staff. He has done a commendable job as a researcher on several matters of student interest, and has contributed valuable information for our drive to fund the state work-study program. Carl’s honesty and ability to good work make him worthy of the business manager’s position.

Bill Bronson
chairman, ASUM Legislative Committee first year, law

Vote for Merle
Editor: We feel that Merle Podesden, can­didate for ASUM business manager, best represents our constituency and urge you to get out and vote.

Dan McGuire
senior, biology
Mike Magone
sophomore, INCO/business administration
Jeff Lubbers
senior, history
Jim Mountain
senior, economics, business ad­ ministration
Jon Files
senior, business administration
Bill Flann
graduate, guidance and counseling
Van Blakely
sophomore, business administration

Unconstitutional
Editor: The current ASUM constitution requires that proposed constitutional amendments be published in the Kaimin at least twice a week during the two weeks before they are put before the student body for a vote. The proposed new constitution has not been published in the Kaimin and so cannot constitutionally be placed on the ASUM election ballot.

Ross Best
sophomore, classics

This Month’s Special...GYROS $10.00 each
Limit 2 per person, per coupon—Good through entire month of February—No Substitutes Orders Available to go.

ATHENS GREEK FOOD
Hours: Mon.-Sat. 11 a.m.-9 p.m. 2021 South Ave. W.

ASUM Programming Lectures presents
DESERt WILDLANDS
A slide show/lecture by George Wuerthner

Monday, February 25 8 PM UC Ballroom FREE

Bilboard Magazine calls Taj Mahal a “prolific composer and compelling performer.” His versa­tile approach to the blues has packed concert halls across the world. Ramblin’ Jack Elliott is the greatest of a vanished breed of balladeers. His prodigies include Bob Dylan and Kris Kristofferson. Even Mick Jagger says he is “awe-struck” by, Ramblin’ deek. On March 6, these two legends meet. You should be there.

Friday, March 6 8 PM UC Ballroom
Tickets: $6 & $7 STUDENTS — $7 & $8 GENERAL
Available in Missoula at: University Center Bookstore, El's Records & Tapes, Worden's Market, Grizzly Grocery, Photo Factory.

Montana Kaimin • Tuesday, February 24, 1981—3
classifieds

lost and found
LOST: SEIKO ladies gold watch. Sentimental value. If found, please contact Marilyn, 543-4910.

LOST CALCULATOR: Business Analyst II in small, clear plastic case. New last in UC. Look in Lounge. Need desperately if found, please contact 231C or Student Lounge. 51-4

LOST: MK 2011 (suit) section of wallet. Included: Brown Leather, blue jeans, etc. Believed lost at the "Peacock" February 20th. If found, please return to 726-4437. 8-4

BEEN: Adult European ferret, last seen between 11:30 a.m. and 12:00 noon on Tuesday, Feb. 20th. If found, please phone 543-2268.

LOST: SET of keys on two metal rings. Call 726-4960.

FOUND: "H" cup serving in Women's Locker Room 2-20. Claim at 726-4960 or at desk in Student Lounge. 54-3

LOST: SET of keys — identify to claim. Call 726- 3986 after 7 a.m. found in parking lot. 54-4

FOUND: W O M A N S 3010 book Found around desk but no need. 60-3

FOUND: A pair of socks in South Center. Claim at Service Desk. 60-3

FOUND: FIVE per hour — WEDNESDAY

THE application may be obtained at the Residence Halls Office, Room 101, Turner Hall. Applicants must be graduate students, preferably with residence halls experience, or have lived in a dormitory.

MONTE CARLO—FRIDAY

U.C. RECREATION

Currently the Residence Halls office is Accepting Applications

For Student Staff Supervisory Positions

During the 1981-82 Academic Year.

Applicants may be obtained at the Residence Halls Office, Room 101, Turner Hall. Applicants must have a minimum 2.0 G.P.A., and an interest in residence halls or student personnel work. Interviews will be held during spring quarter and staff selections will be made prior to July 15, 1981. Questions relative to these positions should be directed to the Residence Halls Office.

Applications should be completed and returned to the Residence Halls Office by March 1, 1981.
Globetrotters dribbling here tonight

The basketball wizardry of the Harlem Globetrotters inspires Missoula tonight when the world-renowned team brings its 1981 tour to Dahlberg Arena for a single game. The game gets under way at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are priced at $6.50 and $5.50 for reserved seating and $4.50 for general admission; there is a $2 discount for University of Montana students and children 12 years old and younger.

Tickets are available at Eill's Records and Tapes, the Photo Factory in the Southgate Mall, Grizzly Grocery and the UM Field House ticket office. This year, the Globetrotters will play before nearly three million people around the world. No sports team in history has played more games than the Trotters—they play about 400 games a year and are in their second century of existence.

The Globetrotters will play a game that travels with them on their tour.

Blood drawing held today

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be on campus today for Winter Quarter blood drive. It will be set up in the University Center Ballroom between 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. All types of blood will be needed and the goal is 150 donors.

Anyone 18 years old, weighing at least 110 pounds and in good health, is eligible to give blood.

Spurs and Circle K clubs will be assisting with the set-up and also at volunteer stations during the drawing.

WARM WINTER TOES

MINETONKA MOCCASINS

Adults & Children Sizes

Discontinued Assorted Brands • Broken Sizes

Moccasins • Tremendous Markdowns

MONTANA COPPER SHOP

The Royal Lichtenstein Quarter-Ring

Sidewalk Circus

CITY LIGHTS

MANHATTAN

ALL YOU CAN EAT!

SPAGHETTI NIGHT!

“All You Can Eat!”

“Little Big Men”

 paralysis band Tues-Sat. tonight student i.d. night first beer free with student i.d.
Faculty...

Cont from p. 1

"My concern is that we come to the House Appropriations Committee and the Legislature with the best possible budget for the university system and that it's a budget they'll be willing to put money into," he said.

Howard Reinhardt, president of the University Teachers' Union, said O'Fallon did not face the subcommittee and the rest of the University Teachers' Union, Co.

Write in...

Cont from p. 1

over the front page, "O'Fallon said. "Willing to put money into," he said. And that it's a budget they'll be

The Faculty salaries and approval of enrollment estimates are the two issues left to be decided by the subcommittee. Donaldson hopes to finish those before the committee meets this morning.

At Saturday's hearing, the subcommittee went through a long list of "modified" requests, including a master of social work program at UM, and by 3-3 party line votes rejected all the requests. The speed with which the committee acted on the requests prompted Haffey to comment that the subcommittee was practicing "efficient, quick decision-making," O'Fallon said.

is that they were involved in a losing effort.

America needs heroes," he said, but "it also needs victory." He said the vets from World War II and Korea were treated like heroes because they had fought successfully.

"You cannot treat losers like heroes and I had been a loser," Inglett said.

LONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS
A chance to study and live in London
A wide range of subjects and courses is available in Central London for students of all levels, including BA, BSc, MA, MSc and PhD.

Enquiries to: Admissions Secretary, LSE, Houghton Street, London WC2A 2AE, England
Please state whether junior year or postgraduate.

ITALIAN NIGHT
Combination Dinner Includes:
• Chicken Parmesan
• Lasagna
• Spaghetti
With Garlic Bread and Salad

Heidelhaus
93 STRIP

By Popular Demand
SOCIAL ADJUSTMENT HOUR
With Specialty Priced Drinks
in the Garden Bar Thursday-Saturday
5-6:30 p.m., Fri. 4:30-6:35
Free & cute her at our bar on the house.

LADIES' NIGHT
FIRST DRINK
FREE
(HIGHBALL OR BEER)

NITRO BROTHERS
NO COVER
THREE GREAT HOURS
39 SCHONERS, $1.50 PITCHERS
500 HIGHBALLS — 6-9

TRADING POST SALOON

SOMETHING OLD! SOMETHING NEW!
Black & White photography has an elegance, a special character color can't capture. Your costs of processing are lower and at CPI Photo Centers the processing time is swift...we use Kodak paper for a good look.

CPI PHOTO CENTERS NOW OFFER:
• Black & White roll and sheet film processing
• Sheet film, 35mm and 120mm roll film sleeved
• Push Processing
• Proof sheets
• Standard print sizes on glossy paper
• Enlargements to 11 x 14 on glossy or matte

Modern films and cameras, plus state-of-the-art processing equipment give you fine quality results we can both be proud of—at old-fashioned prices!

Bring in your Black & White order and experience something good!