3-9-1982

Montana Kaimin, March 9, 1982

Associated Students of the University of Montana

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.
Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/studentnewspaper

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.umt.edu/studentnewspaper/7367

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Montana Kaimin at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in Montana Kaimin by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
CB votes to hold elections as planned despite ballot debate

By Karen McGrath
Kaimin Reporter

It almost happened again. Because of 18 ballots that were believed to have been invalid, Central Board last night in a special meeting decided to hold the ASUM general election at April 29 and 30, but voted to hold the election tomorrow as planned.

Last Wednesday, while ballots were being counted after the March 3 ASUM primary election, members of the vote-counting committee — CB member Anita Hall, senior in history/political science; Election Committee chair Dan Hallsten, freshman in economics, and Diane Elliott, senior in secondary education — found 18 ballots folded together with similar handwriting. Hall said the vote-counting committee believed the ballots were marked by the same person.

After discussion, the group set aside the 18 ballots and continued counting tallies.

When the final count was in, the candidates were informed that a "fail-safe" election procedure could be created before registration.

Hall said both Cote and McRae-Zook were informed that a meeting to discuss the ballots was being conducted Sunday. However, McRae-Zook said a new election procedure was never discussed at the meeting she attended.

Several phone calls and a note stating that she would lose the upcoming ASUM presidential election were delivered this weekend and yesterday to presidential candidates Marquette McRae-Zook.

The calls were made by a male, McRae-Zook said, but added that she did not recognize the voice. She received four calls Saturday and five calls Sunday, she said.

"Somebody has a personal vendetta against me," she said.

McRae-Zook also received a note in the ASUM offices yesterday saying: "You lose, you lose, you lose..." the note said. "We got you now."

McRae-Zook said she believes she knows who is behind the phone calls and the note but declined to elaborate.

"It's getting a little bit hectic," she said. "Someone's trying to make me quit (the race) and I'm just not going to do it."

Both candidates also agreed that ASUM’s main problem this year was that ASUM officers, Central Board members and the UM administration suffer from a lack of credibility.

ASUM presidential candidates say lobbying, experience main issues

By Sam Richards
Kaimin Reporter

ASUM presidential candidate Frank Cote said the most important issue facing the University of Montana during the next year is the university’s effort to lobby with their respective vice presidential running mates Carla Cote and McRae-Zook, along with their respective vice presidential running mates Carla Smith, freshman in business administration, and John Doty, senior in forestry, participated in a debate Friday afternoon in the University Center Montana Rooms.

The debate was sponsored and conducted by Alpha Lambda Delta, a freshman honor society, and ASUM Programming. About 30 people attended the debate.

The candidates were allowed to present their platforms, answer eight prepared questions, respond to the other candidates’ answers and give closing statements.

Both candidates agreed on solutions for most of the major issues addressed. Both Cote, a senior in political science and economics, and McRae-Zook, a sophomore in interpersonal communication, said ASUM’s main function was to serve students, that the recent revision of the ASUM Publications Board was a good idea and that ASUM needs a clear purpose and better leadership.

Both agreed that campus lighting needs improvement, but each had a different solution. Cote said spotlights could be mounted on buildings to create specific "safety lanes" on campus. He added that those lights could be paid for with building funds. McRae-Zook stressed off-campus lighting, because residential areas surrounding the university have proven more dangerous than the campus itself.

ASUM's "lack of credibility" was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM credibility addressed by Central Board candidates

By Sam Richards
Kaimin Reporter

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s "lack of credibility" was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s "lack of credibility" was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.

ASUM’s “lack of credibility” was an important issue to both candidates.

"We need a lot of different people in this country," Cote said. "We need to have the right people in power."

"We need to make sure that we have the right people in charge," McRae-Zook added.
The Kaimin endorses Jim Brennan for ASUM business manager. Mike Copeland, despite having held the position since Jan. 27, does not have enough experience to do the job, as well as Brennan. (ASUM President Steve Spaulding appointed Copeland to the position after Cote resigned; it will now become ASUM accountant.)

As an elected member of Central Board, Brennan worked his way through the budgeting process last spring. Such experience, earned through hours of effort on the task, is a valuable qualification for a business manager candidate. The limited dealings that Copeland had with funding various groups from the special allocations fund are a pitance when compared to the grueling process of spring budgeting.

In addition to having more experience, Brennan has done a better job of keeping open the lines of communication with students — something both candidates have failed, but it is his practical experience with ASUM affairs that is lacking.

Cote was appointed to CB last fall. He has not gone through a complete budgeting process, probably the most important function that CB faces.

Cote also is a soon-to-graduate senior. What is his motivation to become involved with student politics now? Dedication and commitment appear to be lacking.

Cote has proven also his hasty approach to patch problems. Before a specially-convened CB meeting last night, Cote, a self-interested candidate, proposed that general elections be held until registration week Spring Quarter. But proposing that CB adopt an untried innovation such as online registration is irresponsible and also inappropriate from a presidential candidate. A new system could be unworkable and would only compound the problems CB and the elections committee are trying to avoid. But by then it could be too late. ASUM’s credibility and integrity would be ruined beyond salvation.

McRae-Zook’s advantage lies in her long-year internship in the intracies of ASUM. She has been through the budgeting process and consequently established contacts with student organizations that came before the board requesting funding. Most significantly though, McRae-Zook is ideally acquainted with practicality. She does not propose to turn ASUM upside-down, merely amend its operations to more smoothly run efficiently. She sees the problems that a lack of communication and coordination can create, but also realizes that reactive solutions are unrealistic as well as dangerous.

University of Montana students and ASUM especially need an effective, sensible leader. That can be realized by electing McRae-Zook/Doty.

Stephanie Hanson

Brian Bygg

---

show support for social concerns

Editor: It’s ASUM election time again. We can understand how students might be turned off if they take the time to vote in Wednesday’s elections, but as a valuable qualification for a business manager candidate. The limited dealings that Copeland had with funding various groups from the special allocations fund are a pitance when compared to the grueling process of spring budgeting.

In addition to having more experience, Brennan has done a better job of keeping open the lines of communication with students — something both candidates have failed, but it is his practical experience with ASUM affairs that is lacking.

Cote was appointed to CB last fall. He has not gone through a complete budgeting process, probably the most important function that CB faces.

Cote also is a soon-to-graduate senior. What is his motivation to become involved with student politics now? Dedication and commitment appear to be lacking.

Cote has proven also his hasty approach to patch problems. Before a specially-convened CB meeting last night, Cote, a self-interested candidate, proposed that general elections be held until registration week Spring Quarter. But proposing that CB adopt an untried innovation such as online registration is irresponsible and also inappropriate from a presidential candidate. A new system could be unworkable and would only compound the problems CB and the elections committee are trying to avoid. But by then it could be too late. ASUM’s credibility and integrity would be ruined beyond salvation.

McRae-Zook’s advantage lies in her long-year internship in the intracies of ASUM. She has been through the budgeting process and consequently established contacts with student organizations that came before the board requesting funding. Most significantly though, McRae-Zook is ideally acquainted with practicality. She does not propose to turn ASUM upside-down, merely amend its operations to more smoothly run efficiently. She sees the problems that a lack of communication and coordination can create, but also realizes that reactive solutions are unrealistic as well as dangerous.

University of Montana students and ASUM especially need an effective, sensible leader. That can be realized by electing McRae-Zook/Doty.

Stephanie Hanson

Brian Bygg

---
the overseeing of over forty committees, soliciting over two hundred requirements of the ASUM vice president. And this must be done while Marquette and Doty are the best qualified of the two candidates.

Marquette Zook participated in over five ASUM Committees, chaired three of these, made faculty evaluations work only once it was effective in the three years that students conducted them, and was instrumental in organizing the 1980-81 budgeting process. Her running mate, John Doty, was an active member on one ASUM committee, and is the only candidate that contacted me, the ASUM vice president, to familiarize himself with the requirements of the ASUM vice president. This position includes the overseeing of over forty committees, soliciting over two hundred members, and coordinating activities of over eighty student groups.

While Frank Cote was a member of two ASUM committees (Academic Standards and Curriculum Review Committee and Budget & Finance Committee) he attended ASRC only once in an entire quarter. Consequently, students were inadequately represented, and courses that normally would be classified as upper level were pushed onto students as general studies. Frank did not contact ASUM to be replaced. It wasn't until an irate student came into my office that I found out and replaced him. I think Frank has a place in ASUM, Marquette Zook and John Doty have excelled in demonstrating both experience and responsibility to U of M students. I urge you to consider these facts when you vote this Wednesday.

Respectfully,

John S. Johnson Jr., psychology ASUM vice president

Matelich 'interviews' self

Editor: Dear Kaimin

Yes I received your phone-call and message for my interview on your article on CB candidates. I thank you for your effort but unfortunately (for me) I was out of town participating in extra-curricular activities. I returned the day the article appeared. So...under the same format that all the other candidates hopefuls were interviewed, I will respond to the questions, trying to eliminate the fact that I've had a chance to read everyone else's interviews.

The reason I am running for CB is, I have grown up with the university for 20 years and have benefited from it as an asset to my community, so now if my turn to try and do something to make it an even better place. It will be a good experience for me too. I have had no previous experience with ASUM politics, but I have an understanding of the university system and how it functions. If I had a top priority, it will be to support a non-lobbying effort for the upcoming legislature. It is very important that the university remain adequate funding. I am a member of the "Active Students' Party" and will follow the party platform to the extent that it benefits the greater UM body.

CB is very time-consuming. I plan to put as much energy as it demands. It can be a very powerful position.

In closing, I would like to encourage the 85% of students who normally don't vote for the candidates of their choice. As stated before "If you don't vote, Don't Grip." Thank you

Lewis Matelich

senior, business administration

Hartman backs Cote, Copeland

Editor: During the course of this campaign and as a member of Central Board, I have had the pleasure of working with Frank Cote, Mike Copeland and the members of the Active Students' Party. I haven't the slightest hesitation in recommending to my friends, supporters, and all UM students (and the university) that they vote to elect Frank Cote, ASUM president, Mike Copeland ASUM business manager, and the members of the Active Students' Party to Central Board.

Frank Cote has proved himself as a talented, committed individual who is aware of the difficulties students face on this campus. Frank's experience in legislative politics means that he can carry through with his promises of a strong, effective ASUM lobbying effort in Helena. His support on funding for loan, grant and work-study programs can be relied upon to produce tangible results and not just empty talk.

Frank is also aware of and has shown his support for programs which make a lasting contribution to the quality of life on campus, in Missoula and in Montana.

Similarly, I have witnessed the competence and concern for students displayed by Mike Copeland as ASUM business manager. These individuals are deserving of your respect and your vote.

Thomas Hartman

junior, philosophy

Central Board

Cote gets Spaulding's support

Editor: Well it's that time again when the ASUM president looks back on his experience in student government, in my case 3 years, and with the recommendation as to who may be the best qualified to serve the students.

For the position of ASUM president the nod goes to Frank Cote. An important reason why Frank Cote would be the best choice is the fact that he is hands and shoulders above any other candidate when it comes to legislative experience and skills. He is knowledgeable of our state legislature and has worked in Washington D.C. for one of Montana's senators. This will be very important when the Montana State Legislature meets next January and considers the funding of higher education. Also there is the problem of federal level cuts to student aid programs, it takes acquired skills, knowledge and experience to effectively combat these cuts. On Central Board Frank Cote has shown his abilities to work with others and has gained their respect when others have not.

I would like to make a recommendation for another position that I have held and that is the ASUM business manager. Mike Copeland, back in 1980 took on a project that had only been talked about, a garden for the students. In his efforts Mike Copeland negotiated with the campus administration in obtaining land, dealt with the office of the commissioner of higher education and the state government in obtaining water rights and well permits, and worked with Physical Plant in designing a well and irrigation system. Important. When it comes to budget work, single handedly has been making this garden a reality. His tireless efforts did not go unnoticed, when there was a vacuum created in the position of business manager, Central Board chose Mike Copeland to fill that position. When it comes to budget work he has proved himself most knowledgeable, he has been on both sides of the issue.

Steve Spaulding

junior, business administration

ASUM president

Fine Arts/Radio-TV Building

Students on Student Interest

BACKGROUND

The State of Montana has authorized the building of a Fine Arts/Radio-TV Building at the University of Montana. The legislation provided 7.5 million dollars toward the total cost of the project and the University is responsible for raising the remaining 1.1 million dollars. The legislation states that an amount not to exceed $500,000 (to be paid over a three-year period) be made available if required. The President is prepared to seek formal approval of the Board of Regents to permit, use of such amount if required in order to seek construction bids for the total amount authorized by the State.

The Board of Regents policy for use of building fee funds required an indication of student opinion on such a commitment. It is the purpose of this resolution to provide such information. The student vote will not be binding. The current Building Fee will provide sufficient resources to fund this commitment over a 3-year period.

ResOLUTION OF STUDENT INTEREST

The State of Montana has authorized the building of a Fine Arts/Radio-TV Building at the University of Montana. The legislation provided 7.5 million dollars toward the total cost of the project and the University is responsible for raising the remaining 1.1 million dollars. The legislation states that an amount not to exceed $500,000 (to be paid over a three-year period) be made available if required. The President is prepared to seek formal approval of the Board of Regents to permit, use of such amount if required in order to seek construction bids for the total amount authorized by the State.

The Board of Regents policy for use of building fee funds required an indication of student opinion on such a commitment. It is the purpose of this resolution to provide such information. The student vote will not be binding. The current Building Fee will provide sufficient resources to fund this commitment over a 3-year period.

FINE ARTS/RADIO-TV BUILDING RESOLUTION OF STUDENT INTEREST

Given the background information provided, and with the understanding that this resolution applies to funds generated from current fees and not a new or increased fee, and with the understanding that the funds will not be used unless necessary, the option marked below describes my preference:

---YES, I support the use of current student building fee funds to apply to the cost of the Fine Arts/Radio-TV Building.

---NO, I do not support the use of current student building fee funds to apply to the cost of the Fine Arts/Radio-TV Building.

Montana Kaimin • Tuesday, March 9, 1982—3
Arrests for violating open container laws have increased to bar in Missoula with half a can wise to carry $25 cash also. The actual number of open container offenses are not easily accessible, because the Missoula Police Department’s arrest sheets do not list liquor law offenses together. But Roberta Beards, records clerk for the department, said all liquor law arrests are for open containers.

In the past December 1980 and January 1981, 26 people were arrested for violation of liquor laws while this past December and January, 48 were charged under those laws. In addition, "90 percent" of the littering tickets written in Missoula are open-container related, Patrolman Mike Seidel Weigel said.

Weigel said people often drop a can or bottle in the gutter after they get arrested for being opened for open container.

Weigel said officers do not like to arrest people made said opened for open containers. He said the officers "give them a break" and even throw the Container in the trash.

The only violators who are arrested, Weigel said, are those who are "smart enough" to give up their drink or who cause trouble. Shannon Hinds, a University of Montana student, Hinds, who was recently ticketed, said she was walking in a group of about six, carrying drinking drinks in the street. She said two officers stopped Dan and another UM student in the group, and began questioning him when Hinds intervened and began arguing with the officers. After questioning Craig, both students were ticketed.

"When Hinds intervened and开始" the police department. In 1980, 31 people were ticketed and arrested for open container violations in September and May 6 in October, the first two months most UM students are in Missoula.

Most of those cited for open container violation are white, according to University of Montana police. Open containers are forbidden in the Montana Kaimin • Maine Room, all certain public buildings and parks.

The usual fine for open container violations in Missoula is $35.

TROJAN REGISTRATION DAY DELAYS?

Take time now before the end of the quarter to meet with your Advisor and secure a stamp, and avoid the need to do so on the day you register.

If you have questions about this process, call the Advising Office, 243-2835:

Take this opportunity before you can register on the "Schedule of Classes" to see what classes you are interested in taking this coming quarter. You will need to have your Registration number on hand. It is available from the Office or the police chief.

For more information, call Marion—-.Lommasson 4—Montana Kaimin • Maine Room, all certain public buildings and parks.
Pesticides, 2,4-D in ‘same family’ as Agent Orange, says Vietnam vet

By Melinda Sinistro

The U.S. government has avoided the responsibility of treating Number of Agent Orange veterans, according to Vietnam veteran counselor Phil Burgess, a University of Montana graduate student in guidance counseling. Burgess helped organize a three-day seminar that will begin tomorrow to inform the public about Agent Orange and the health effects on Vietnam veterans and their families, its effects on the environment and the response of the U.S. government to those who attribute symptoms of toxic poisoning to the defoliant as a result of its use by the United States in Vietnam.

But there is a health problem that needs to be treated, so why can’t we treat it? “No one wants to accept the responsibility, consequently, there is no information on what Agent Orange coming out of the U.S. government,” Burgess said.

It was reported in a recent Minnesota article that the Veteran Administration will exclude from its own scientific advisory panel a survey taken of Agent Orange-exposed veterans on health problems they attribute to the use of the chemical. The VA fears false health damage claims from veterans, Burgess said.

The purpose of the seminar is to inform the public about Agent Orange and the possible dangers of it and related weed killers in the United States.

A lecture entitled “Eco-cide: A Strategy of War,” will be held tomorrow at 7:00 p.m. in the undergound Lecture Hall. The lecture, part of the Environmental Lecture Series, will be followed by a discussion heading by Ken Weil, a Vietnam veteran who will talk about his exposure to Agent Orange.

Pesticides, 2,4-D in ‘same family’ as Agent Orange, says Vietnam vet

Most people would rather defer to the death day than to say it aloud to it. — Robert Brazit

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER

“HUGELY ENTERTAINING”

The Today Show, NBC-TV

“AN ABSOLUTE MASTERY”

NY Post

Pesticides, 2,4-D in ‘same family’ as Agent Orange, says Vietnam vet

Most people would rather defer to the death day than to say it aloud to it. — Robert Brazit

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER

“HUGELY ENTERTAINING”

The Today Show, NBC-TV

“AN ABSOLUTE MASTERY”

NY Post

Pesticides, 2,4-D in ‘same family’ as Agent Orange, says Vietnam vet

Most people would rather defer to the death day than to say it aloud to it. — Robert Brazit

ACADEMY AWARD WINNER

“HUGELY ENTERTAINING”

The Today Show, NBC-TV

“AN ABSOLUTE MASTERY”

NY Post
CB... Cont. from p. 1 attended that day.

Hall said that McRae-Zook left the meeting; the others continued discussion. "We took it upon ourselves to do it. We weren't satisfied with any procedure we had come up with" at that point, she said.

Spaulding contacted CB delegates Sunday night, informing them that the special CB meeting was to be held last night.

At the meeting, several CB delegates argued that the election could not be held tomorrow.

"We have to take a stand, have some guts, and change the system," said CB delegate Kent Spence, senior in finance.

CB delegate John Smith, senior in philosophy and economics, said it is more noble to admit problems than to cover them up.

"We cannot wish all of it gone," Smith said.

CB delegates would have to take the responsibility to serve into next quarter if the election was held at spring registration, Smith said.

"I don't think there's any point in delaying the election," CB delegate Jeanne-Marie Soursavay, graduate student in environmental studies, said. "I'm so discouraged with this CB, and I'm not going to serve."

CB delegate Jim Brennan, sophomore in sociology and social work, said, "The election process has to be changed, but not now. We have a responsibility to have the elections when we said we would. Talk about losing your credibility."

After two hours of debate, CB voted 11-7 to hold the election tomorrow.

CB delegates Matt Mayer, freshman in geology, Mike Copeland, junior in economics, Smith, Spencer, Hall, Hartman and Cote voted to delay the election.

Cote said that ASUM has lost more credibility in not delaying the election.

"I'll be goddamned if I can believe it," Cote said. "I'm extremely disappointed in this board."

McRae-Zook said she didn't know of any particular motives for delaying the election.

New course to be offered

The first Maureen and Mike Mansfield course on International Relations will be taught at the University of Montana next quarter.

"Problems of Peace and National Security," will be taught by Paul Lorenz. UM associate professor of history. The course deals with such topics as approaches to peace, deterrence and military technology, national security and human rights.

Gordon Craig, a professor from Stanford University, will present a lecture in May. Craig is the president of the American Historical Association and the author of many works on diplomacy.

The Mansfield Course will be offered for three credit hours as History 485 and will meet Wednesday evenings from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Those wishing to enroll in the course for credit must see Paul Lorenz this week because enrollment is limited.

Presidential Cont. from p. 1 lack of communication. Both stressed the need for improved communication at all levels of ASUM government.

McRae-Zook and Cote were pleased with the debate, both in terms of its organization and the opportunity to speak.

Carlos Pedraza, sophomore in biology, said the ASUM Constitution, bylaws and budgeting process are all out of date, and that they'd have to be revised. He told the audience, "I have a lot of ideas, but a lot more will be coming from you."

Credibility Cont. from p. 1 function should be to regulate funding for ASUM groups and for student aid and work-study programs.

Independent CB candidate Pete Carroll, junior in wildlife biology, said the ASUM Constitution, bylaws and budgeting process are all out of date, and that they'd have to be revised. He joined the other speakers in calling for more student representation in ASUM.

"CB shouldn't pass legislation without representation of students," Carroll said.

He told the audience, "I have a lot of ideas, but a lot more will be coming from you."
TIME IS RUNNING OUT TO JOIN THE FALL TRIP TO NEPAL
Kashmir and Northern India. Trekking time to examine the culture and geology for 16 units undergrad or graduate credit.
LECTURES: Professor Louis D. Hayes—Political Science
Professor Ian M. Lange—Geology.
COST: $2500 to $3000 Depending on Air Fare, Incl. Room and Board and Transportation.
See or write to Ian M. Lange, Rm. 331 SC for More Information.

for sale

for rent

All Tostadas Only

$1.25 Beef or $1.75 Steak

with Stuart L.O.

Good Every Tues. & Wed. of March

MEXICAN RESTAURANT

130 E. Broadway

Open 11 a.m. - 9 p.m. Monday-Saturday.
sports—Griz beaten in two OTs; Lady Griz lose twice

By Ray Murray

The Grizzlies ended their season last weekend by losing to Nevada-Reno 97-93 in double overtime in the opening round of the Big Sky Conference Tournament, held in Moscow, Idaho Friday night.

University of Montana finished the season with an overall record of 17-10.

Derrick Pope led the Grizzlies with 30 points and 15 rebounds. He hit 14 of 15 foul shots to set a tournament record.

The Grizzlies were up by five with 10 seconds left when Reno’s Billy Allen scored a basket and hit the free throw after being fouled. Reno got the ball back after the Grizzlies failed to get the inbound pass in before the second-mark, and B. B. Fontenet hit a jump shot with five seconds left to send the game into overtime.

Both teams scored eight points in the first overtime to tie the score at 86 and force a second overtime.

Reno then outscored the Grizzlies in the second overtime, winning the game.

Idaho won the tournament and the right to play in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament with victories over Weber State, 57-55 Friday night, and Nevada-Reno, 85-80 Saturday night.

Pope was named to the all-tournament team, along with Idaho’s guard Brian Kellerman, forward Gordie Herbert, guard Ken Owen and Nevada-Reno’s center Greg Palm.

Women’s Basketball

The Lady Griz dropped a pair of games over the weekend, losing to Oregon State 72-65 Friday night and Oregon 70-66 Saturday night.

Julie Eckmann led the Lady Griz in scoring both nights, getting 12 against Oregon State and 14 against Oregon.

The Lady Griz finished the season with a 22-4 overall record and a spotless 12-0 conference tournament record.

The next game for the Lady Griz is March 11, when they make their first ever post-season appearance in the AIAW National Championships.

Women’s Gymnastics

The women’s gymnastics team scored 127.10 points to take third place in the Mountain West Invitational, held Sunday in the Dahlberg Arena.

UM’s Jacky Judson placed third in the parallel bars with a score of 9.65.

Montana State won the competition with a score of 134.80. Idaho was second with 129.50 and Eastern Washington was fourth with 126.30.

Women’s Volleyball

UM’s women’s volleyball team won an AA women’s open volleyball tournament in Moscow, Idaho, by downsing Spokane Volleyball Club 8-15, 15-7, 15-9 in the championship.

The women advanced to the finals by beating Montana State, University of Idaho, Washington State and Eastern Washington.

Mary Beth Dungan led UM with 42 kills, and Mary Kibler added 37 kills. Kara Price served 14 aces.

Women’s Tennis

The women’s tennis team won two matches and dropped one at the Eastern Washington University Invitational in Cheney, Wash., last weekend.

UM beat Pacific Lutheran 8-1 and Eastern Washington 6-3.

The team will be in Tacoma, Wash., tomorrow to face Puget Sound, in Seattle Thursday to meet Washington and in Eugene, Oregon Friday to meet Oregon.

Women’s Swimming

Five members of the women’s swim team will be in Moscow, Idaho Thursday through Saturday competing in the AIAW Division II Nationals.

Edie Van Buskirk will compete in the 100-, 200 and 500-yard freestyle.

The 200-yard freestyle relay team of Van Buskirk, Tracy McLean, Gail Stevens and Beth Krinkelnich is also entering to be national champions.

The 200-yard relays are 4:42.

Tuesday, April 13 8:00 p.m.
Harry Adams Fieldhouse
$9.00 Advance

Tickets on sale now at:
Missoula: Budget Tapes & Records
Ehr’s, Grizzly Grocery, Wonders Mtg. & the U.C. Bookstore, Helena Opera House, Budget Tapes & Records in Kalispell,
Great Falls & Butte Hamilton Pettra’s Bookstore
Listen to KZOQ-FM 100 for details
Presented by ASUM Programming

March 15-19
Ends Friday, March 19 at 5 p.m.
Afghanistan, up from about 60,000 in December. The use of chemicals in war is a violation of an international agreement signed by the Soviet Union and other nations in Geneva in 1925.

THE NATION

- General Motors Corp. and Toyota Motor Co. are considering a joint effort to build small cars in the United States, company officials said yesterday. The idea of a cooperative production venture was raised at a March 1 meeting in New York between the companies’ presidents. They agreed to study the idea, but no details were made public.

MONTANA

- U.S. District Judge James Battin has ruled that the federal Bonneville Power Administration’s proposed giant power line through western Montana must comply with standards in the Montana Major Facility Siting Act. The line must conform to environmental and other restrictions of the siting act for energy facilities located in the state.
TODAY
Meetings
Transportation system management, 7 a.m., University Center, Missoula, 7 a.m., UC Montana Rooms
Campus Recreation Committee, 3 p.m., UC 124
"Chief "Fish roadside Museum," meeting to identify species of fish in the Columbia, 7 p.m., Missoula Public Library, East Main and Washington
Lectures
"Who Are We and What Can We Do," by Donn Bousquet, on coordination of Montana EDA Council, "Taxpayers' Memorial Day," meeting from East Main and Washington.
Film
"South of Laredo," also "Fort Worth" will speak about their adventures in Arizona. 7 p.m., Social Room 362

week in preview

TODAY
Montana Room
Meetings
Washington Missoula Public library, East Main and Washington, ERA Council, noon, Missoula Public Library Social Science 352
Miscellaneous
Area transportation planning, 8 a.m., UC Montana Rooms
"Clark Fork Riverfront Masterplan," meeting of Butte Women at Work. noon. Missoula Public Library meeting room. East Main and Washington
Transportation System Management, 8 a.m., UC Montana Rooms
Fleet managers meeting, 8 a.m., UC Montana Rooms
"How Big is the Puddle?" by David Richler, 7 p.m., Liberal Arts 102, out of town meetings, 9:30

WEDNESDAY
Meetings
Social Science 352
Miscellaneous
"Who Have Done An Oral History of Women at Work," by Mary Murphy, past director of the Killam Foundation. Missoula Public Library meeting room, East Main and Washington
"An Imaginary History of the Montana Language," by Linda A. Baugh, 7 p.m., underground Lecture Hall

THURSDAY
Meetings
Social Science 352
Miscellaneous
Montana for Midwives, 9 a.m., UC Mall
Firewood and fuel for residents of Grangeville, Idaho, 7 p.m., UC Lounge
"Renaissance Science," by Maxine Van de Wetering, professor of philosophy, noon and 7 p.m., underground Lecture Hall
"Albert Creek," by Richard Wurth, 7 p.m., Grill

FRIDAY
Meetings
Social Science 352
Miscellaneous
\"Renaissance Science,\" by Maxine Van de Wetering, professor of philosophy, noon and 7 p.m., underground Lecture Hall
"Albert Creek," by Richard Wurth, 7 p.m., Grill
"Renaissance Science," by Maxine Van de Wetering, professor of philosophy, noon and 7 p.m., underground Lecture Hall

The Book Department Staff Would Like to THANK the Following Instructors for Turning in Their Spring Quarter Orders on Time . . .