The Montana Lady Grizzlies played 40 minutes of aggressive offense and position defense last night, defeating Cal-State Fullerton 64-41 and claiming their first Lady Grizzly Insurance Classic. Both teams were cold offensively at the start. The Lady Grizzlies were having trouble putting in their first shot when coach Robin Selvig shouted, "Who wants the ball?"

State Fullerton led 64-41 and majors to the university, as well held in Salt Lake City. Last year, the group won will take part in two dance trip. It needs $1,600 altogether. The Lady Griz front line of

Your campus newspaper

The new year begins. 1983 marks Missoula’s centennial. It is the 90th year since the University of Montana was established. And it is the Montana Kaimin’s 85th year.

The Kaimin has a long tradition of serving the campus, but it is still young, still evolving; although the page size is reduced from last quarter, the Montana Kaimin is still growing. We think the Kaimin is a good student newspaper, but we have no illusions that it is perfect. The Kaimin staff works to make the newspaper better, and we would like to hear from you, the readers. Tell us what you like about the paper, what you don’t like about it. Tell us about stories you think we should be covering or angles we may have missed on stories. If you want your campus newspaper to be even better, why not help us improve it?

Kaimin editorial

And now for the flip side — telling you what we think about the Kaimin. First it is a newspaper, as opposed to advocacy press, which means that the main purpose is to provide readers with pertinent information, objective and unbiased. A news story contains the facts, not the reporter’s opinions about the facts. A newspaper that works toward objectivity simply tells the readers what is going on and lets the readers decide what to think about it.

Because the Kaimin is a campus newspaper, most of what it tells readers is focused on the campus. This includes stories about student government and feature profiles on professors. But since the Kaimin is the only newspaper some students read (especially among those who pick it up only for the comic strips), we also try to include national and international news so that they’re likely to read at least a bit about what’s going on in the world.

In some cases, though, it’s worthwhile to include more than just the objective facts. In some stories, the facts are complemented by the reporter’s interpretation of what the facts mean; these are clearly labeled as news analyses. In the fine arts section, reviews and previews (again, so labeled) obviously must contain opinion.

And opinion is the very purpose of this page. If the Kaimin editorials contained no opinion, they could hardly be called editorials. They represent the view of the Kaimin, and may urge readers to take certain actions or try to convert them to some belief. But they are also founded upon objectivity, as the authors’ beliefs, which are not necessarily those of the Kaimin, are accepted by the readers, knowing what you think. But please keep it to no more than 300 words, so that others have room for their opinions.

Distorted view of Latin America

We are Americans who have made our home in Latin America for seven years. Lately, we are seeing much distorted news about the Americas coming out of the U.S. and would like to set the record straight for Montana Kaimin readers.

When we first moved to Costa Rica, bag, baggage, grandmother, teenagers and pets, we spoke no Spanish and knew little about the country. But, soon, our rural neighbors accepted us and graciously taught us their language, culture, and how a clyded family could enjoy ranch life in a foreign land. Truly, our delightful adventures there merit a book.

Now, from beautiful Santa Marta, Colombia, we wish you salud (health), peerras (wealth), amor (love) and the time to enjoy them all.

Letters to the editor are an important part of the opinions section; the letters are the readers’ forum, their access to each other in the newspaper. Topics for letters can include the paper itself, things that have been reported in the paper, or just about anything else. Let us, and other readers, know what you think. But please keep it to no more than 300 words, so that others have room for their opinions.

ASUM Programming showed a net profit of more than $1,000 last quarter, according to Tim Smith, who attributed the gain to a "budget-minded" staff. He said that ASUM Programming took in a total of $47,209.60 Fall Quarter. That, he said, includes subsidies from the University Center and the portion of programming's allocation from ASUM that was scheduled for Fall Quarter. He said that programming's expenses totaled $46,135.89, which leaves a profit of $1,073.71.

The current ASUM Programming staff has had to make sacrifices because of the previous staff's deficit, Smith said, adding, "The quantity (of events) may be a little less, but the quality certainly is not." He said that programming's expenses totaled $46,135.89, which leaves a profit of $1,073.71.

The quantity (of events) may be a little less, but the quality certainly is not. Smith said he was cutting down the cost of the office's administration by reducing travel and the number of long-distance phone calls made. The most profitable events were the pop concerts, he said, with a net profit of $6,198.29. According to the financial reports for Fall Quarter, the films cost $2,528.16 more than they brought in, but this used $271.84 less of programming's funding than had been expected.

Victor Gotesman, the programming manager, said he expects that the $29,000 deficit will gradually be made up by programming profits over the next five years, depending upon how much ASUM funding Central Board grants programming in those years. It's doubtful that it could be done sooner, he said. "Either it's going to take a few years," he said, "or we won't have any programs."

THE RESIDENCE HALLS OFFICE IS CURRENTLY ACCEPTING RESIDENT ASSISTANT APPLICATIONS FOR THE 1983-84 ACADEMIC YEAR

Applications may be obtained at the Residence Halls Office, Room 101, Turner Hall, or at any of the respective hall desks.

Applicants must have a minimum 2.00 G.P.A. and an interest in working with people.

Interviews will be scheduled during Winter Quarter, and new resident assistant will be selected prior to the end of spring quarter.

Questions relative to these positions should be directed to the Residence Halls Office.

Applications should be completed and returned to the Residence Halls Office by January 14, 1983.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer

THE PERFORMING ARTS SERIES had a net loss of $5,124.28, according to the report, and the lectures had a net loss of $4,494.70. The coffeehouses cost $2,200 and were wholly subsidized by the University Center, which is giving programming $5,600 for the year for coffeehouses. Smith said that the reasoning is that the coffeehouses (and other programming events that the UC subsidizes) bring revenue into the UC because of the increased use of the facilities.

World news

A Soviet spy satellite, equipped with nuclear-powered radar, is tumbling in orbit and may fall into the Earth's atmosphere late this month, U.S. intelligence sources said yesterday. It may not be possible to determine where the ocean surveillance satellite will come down until perhaps a dozen hours before it happens, said the Washington sources, who declined to be identified. It would be the first such incident since a similar Soviet spy satellite disintegrated five years ago over a thinly populated area near Great Slave Lake. Cosmos 1402, launched from the Soviet Union Aug. 30, is traveling in a relatively low orbit about 160 miles above Earth, the intelligence sources said yesterday. The satellite's main engine compartment will be completed and analyzed by tomorrow, but that doesn't mean the problem will be solved, an engineer said yesterday at Cape Canaveral. FIA Technicians may have to begin another set of tests if the probe doesn't determine the source of a hydrogen leak into the Challenger's rear section, where the three main engines are located, said Horace Lambert, vehicle engineering fluids chief. The mysterious leak, which space agency officials have termed miniscule, has delayed setting a firm launch date for the new shuttle's first mission, tentatively scheduled to begin no sooner than Jan. 27.

John Cowell Jr., a cabinet-level official in charge of the Forest Service, will meet with the Western Environmental Trade Association in Helena next week, and Montana environmentalists don't like it. Cowell, assistant secretary of agriculture for natural resources and conservation, will discuss a wide range of natural resource issues with the pro-development organization, according to Forest Service spokesman Tom Maches in Washington, D.C. He will be the second high-level Reagan administration official to meet with WETA in the past year. Anne Gorsch, director of the Environmental Protection Agency, met with WETA members in Helena last February during a political fundraising trip. She refused to meet with EPA's Helena staff or with environmental groups.

Student internship applications due Jan. 14

By Joanne DePue

Applications are being accepted by the Montana Public Interest Research Group for internships and stipend positions open to University of Montana students. MontPIRG promotes student research on consumer interest issues. It is supported through a $2 waivable fee charged UM students every quarter at registration. Fall Quarter, 67.5 percent of UM students chose not to waive the fee, Pearson said.

MontPIRG will hire specialists to research areas such as economic development, energy, water quality and toxic substances. The specialists will receive $30 to $50 per week. According to C.B. Pearson, MontPIRG executive director, preference for the internship positions will be given to those with experience and to upperclassmen and graduate students.

The internships are designed to allow students to earn academic credit in independent study while doing research for MontPIRG. Positions are open in the areas of housing, city council watch, air and water quality, economic development, consumer advocacy and cable television projects. There are also openings for a graphic artist and a copy editor.

Applicants also may submit proposals for research in other areas of public interest as possible MontPIRG projects. Bede Montgomery, MontPIRG chairman, said.

Although MontPIRG members have not determined how to limit some of the studies to be conducted Winter Quarter, Montgomery and Pearson said projects planned include:

—Continuation of a consumer hotline to identify consumer complaints and allow publication of a complete survey of Missoula marketplace services.
—Consumer fraud investigation to educate consumers and allow reform efforts.
—Publishing a study of phone services and costs.
—Investigation of housing in Missoula, researching the existing Missoula housing code, summarizing tenant laws, identifying the main rental and property agents and complexes in the city and possibly publishing a Missoula housing guide.
—A report on the activities surrounding the Northwest Energy Act, which will attempt to make energy conservation as a community effort more effective, and the organization of citizen support for the act's model plan, which will promote energy conservation.

Applications for the stipend positions and internships are available at the MontPIRG office, 729 Keith Avenue or the UM Cooperative Education Office, Main Hall 125. Applications should be returned to the MontPIRG office by Jan. 14.

Ten volunteer positions also are open on the MontPIRG Board of Directors, the decision-making force of the organization. Applications may be picked up at the MontPIRG office and must be returned by Jan. 7.
