This class is intended to provide students with an overview of the America in the 1950s. More particularly, it intends to provide a context for understanding the social and cultural developments of that time, many of which were central in forming the society in which we live. Students will be expected to master the basic events and issues of the 1950s in America, to draw conclusions about those events and issues, and to present their findings in clear, grammatical English.

Requirements:

Essay (50%): "The Eisenhower administration inherited from the Roosevelt and Truman administrations a consensus in domestic and foreign policy. Eisenhower and his administration functioned within that consensus." Agree or disagree.

Papers are due in the History office on Friday, March 2 at 4:00 PM.

Unexcused late papers will be penalized.

Make sure that your essay answers the question. Be sure to buttress your thesis and supporting arguments with evidence and specific examples. Use the textbook, other assigned reading, and class notes for information. You need not go beyond the reading assigned on the syllabus and class notes for information. This is not a research paper. If, however, you do consult other sources, be sure to cite them. Formal footnotes are not necessary but all derivative information should be attributed.

Plagiarism, or any other form of academic dishonesty, will not be punished by failure on the exam; it will mean automatic failure for the course.

Limit your answer to seven (7) double-spaced, typed pages.

Final exam (50%): Take home exam.

Due in the History office on Thursday, May 9, at 4:00 PM.
