Note that you will have a number of CDs and films on DVD to be sure that you have the opportunity to read AND to listen to authentic Russian. The CDs have a native speaker reading «Золотой ключик» and Чуковский reading some of his own poems. You may also find these on the web using a tablet or iphone if you do not have easy access to a computer. You MUST listen to the Чуковский MP3 files of the poems when you do the readings that go with them. You MUST also keep a vocab notebook with words that you look up as you are doing the readings. I may decide to collect these notebooks from time to time as part of your homework grade. I also strongly recommend that you listen to some of the chapters of «Золотой ключик» on the second CD as you are reading these chapters.

GRADING:

- 20% Attendance and Class Participation, including a vocab notebook you will need to show me
- 15% In-class Presentation in Russian on one reading (introduce the reading for the day)
- 20% Vocab Quizzes and/or In-Class Writing
- 15% Memorization of part of a Chukovsky poem that you will recite to me by heart

You need to memorize parts 1 and 2 of either the poem Телефон or Айболит by Chukovsky and then recite these lines to me (without any visual aids) in class on Tues, Feb 20

- 30% Long (8-10 pages) Analytical Paper in English with citations in Russian whenever possible

GRADING SCALE

A = 93-100	B- = 80-82	D+ = 68-69
A- = 90-92	C+ = 78-79	D = 64-67
B+ = 88-89	C = 77-73	F = 63 and below
B = 83-87	C- = 70-72

PRESENTATIONS:

Each student will sign up to present a reading assignment and lead class discussion once this semester. Presentations should be primarily in Russian and should last about 15-20 minutes. The presentations should also lead into group discussion for the day. Each presentation should incorporate the following elements:

- 1) Key vocabulary on a handout that you prepare ahead of time and pass out to everyone in class. The handout should include a minimum of 15 key words and phrases from your section, plus several key sentences that you plan to discuss in more detail.
- 2) A plot overview (several sentences) in Russian for the assigned material
- 3) Several discussion questions for the entire group to answer. These questions should focus on the section you are presenting (not the work as a whole). The questions should also lead into a general discussion of the assigned material for the day. Try to come up with questions that elicit more than a one or two word answer. The best questions require a sentence or two to answer them (not just yes/no or a one-word answer).

LONG PAPER GUIDELINES:

The long paper should be written in English but should include citations in Russian from key texts or films. You are welcome but not required to incorporate secondary source material. Be certain to cite any outside sources that you consult (and provide the proper bibliographical information). Use a standard 12 point font and double-space. Proofread each assignment for typos, poor wording, mechanics, etc. Late work will be penalized one letter grade per class day (except for in-class writing, which cannot be made up). Plagiarism will not be tolerated in any form. Please ask if you have a question about what constitutes plagiarism, but on the whole, if you consult another work for ideas, copy or paraphrase from another source, etc., then you need to acknowledge the source (including the work you consulted, the publication information, and the page number/s) in your paper with a footnote. Papers written in Russian will have slightly lower expectations in terms of content and the level of your analysis.

VOCAB QUIZZES and IN-CLASS WRITING:

You will likely have periodic vocab quizzes based on the material that we cover in this course. At least once and no more than twice during the course of the semester you will likely have a short, focused in-class writing assignment (in Russian) based on the reading for the day. You will have about 15-20 minutes to write on the topic and may use your books and notes in your vocab notebook for reference, but no extra time will be given and no electronic devices may be consulted. If you have done the reading, fifteen minutes will be plenty of time to respond to the topic. The response essays will be graded on a scale of 1-10 based on how well you responded to the question, with ten being the highest possible grade. NB – If you miss class the day of an in-class response, you will get no credit for that day's response. Class attendance counts for part of your class grade, and the in-class response essays are intended to emphasize this fact and to reward those who come to class prepared for discussion for the day.

CLASSROOM ETIQUETTE:

It is essential to the learning process that students treat each other and the instructor with respect. Under the Student Conduct Code, students who are found to be disruptive may be asked to leave the classroom. Disruptive behaviors may include but are not limited to:

- Using electronic communication devices, including cell phones and laptops for purposes unrelated to ongoing class activities.
- Carrying on side conversations that are distracting to the instructor and other students.
- Verbally interrupting the class with comments or questions not relevant to the course or to the current discussion.
- Failure to participate in assigned group activities.
- Significantly interfering with instructor's work activities during or outside of class.

The University of Montana assures equal access to instruction through collaboration between students with disabilities, instructors, and Disability Services for Students (DSS). If you think you may have a disability adversely affecting your academic performance and you have not already registered with DSS, please contact DSS in Lommasson 154. I will be glad to work with you and DSS to provide an appropriate accommodation.
