Campus to consolidate location of some services

By Linda Thompson
for the Kaimin

The Spring Quarter moves of the Center for Student Development and the Center for Continuing Education will cluster similar student services in centralized locations, Barbara Hollmann, dean of students, said Wednesday.

The Center for Student Development provides individual, group, self-help, handicapped and marriage counseling. It is also UM's official testing site for commercial exams such as the National Teacher Exam, the American College Test and aptitude and personality tests.

The center, which has seen an increase in student use from 2,500 students a year in the 1970s to 4,841 last year, is located in room 148 in the Lodge.

During spring break, the center will be moved to a house at 626 Eddy Ave., next door to the Student Health Service.

Fred Weldon, CSD director, said the move will cost about $5,000, which includes making the center accessible to handicapped students. He said the move will consolidate UM's health services in one location, "so students aren't running all over campus to get help."

Similarly, the Center for Continuing Education and Summer School offices, located in the basement of Main Hall, will be moved to the space in the Lodge vacated by CSD. The move is expected to take place by the end of Spring Quarter, but an exact date has not been set.

Legislature major issue for next CB, Snelson says

By Rebecca Manna

Kaimin Reporter

The next ASUM administration must form a strong link between students and lawmakers during next year's legislative session to ensure students' higher education needs are met, the ASUM president said Wednesday.

ASUM President Scott Snelson will leave office at the end of this quarter, and President-elect Jennifer Isen, Vice President-elect Nancy Hiatt and the new ASUM Senate will begin their one-year terms.

Snelson emphasized that the new administration will have one major issue to contend with during the coming year: the state Legislature.

"ASUM has got to become an information source for the Legislature right away," he said. "The Legislature needs to know exactly what students need, not what the UM administration tells the Legislature that students need."

He said ASUM must continue to be the primary information source on students' needs and concerns for legislators before, during and after the session.

He said much preliminary work must be done well in advance of the session, "or else ASUM might look like a bellyaching child to the Legislature."

He suggested that ASUM poll Montanans about their opinions on taxation and its connection to legislative funding for the state's universities and colleges. Then, he said, the survey results should be sent to every member of the

Scott Snelson

Legislature.

Reflecting on his term as University of Montana's student body president, Snelson said, "As usual, Central Board (now called the ASUM Senate) didn't do anything extraordinary."

Besides managing to keep up with ASUM "housekeeping chores," Snelson said he was pleased that his board ratified a new ASUM constitution.

But he said his personal project, trying to convince the Board of Regents to rescind its decision to convert the university system to a semester calendar, was unsuccessful.

"What students want, students have to insist on for themselves," he said. "I tried to bring their concerns to the attention of the regents and

Hurlbut says ensuring fair budgeting is a priority

By Carol Roberts

Kaimin Reporter

Sonia Hurlbut's one-vote victory over Chris Johnson for the ASUM business manager position was confirmed by a recount of the votes Tuesday.

Bill Chaloupka, ASUM's faculty adviser, recounted the votes from last week's election and found that the original count of 723-722 was accurate. The recount was required by the ASUM bylaws because Hurlbut won the election by less than 3 percent.

Hurlbut, a sophomore in political science, said she wasn't too worried that the results would change, but said "there was some degree of nervousness."

Johnson could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

Hurlbut, who will take over as business manager at the beginning of next quarter, said she has been preparing for the job by reading

ASUM's fiscal policy and constitution and working with current Business Manager Kyle Fickler.

As chairwoman of the ASUM budget committee meetings, Hurlbut said she wants to "make sure narrow-mindedness is not figured into budgeting and day-to-day transactions."

Several candidates for student government positions last month criticized ASUM representatives for distributing money to campus groups based on their personal interests. Hurlbut called the budgeting process

"extremely unfair."

She said she can make budgeting more fair by being well-informed about all of the groups on campus and by educating ASUM senators about those groups. Doing that, she said, would help ensure that funding is based on the groups' worth rather than the biases of ASUM representatives.

Aber Day bash could benefit in big way

The ghost of Aber Day kegger past is about to rise on campus again. Each Spring Quarter, stories are told of past Aber Day keggers. Each spring students wish for a return of the kegger to UM.

Rumors of a kegger are again circulating around the campus.

This year, finally, the kegger may again become a reality. Eighty-four percent of the students who responded to a recent poll support the idea.

A committee has been formed to plan the event. The committee is working with $700 raised in ASUM's LUST campaign as seed money for the kegger.

In addition to everyone needing a day to get wacky and have a good time, a kegger is a great way to raise money for the Mansfield Library.

Keggings past had as many as 10,000 people and 1001 kegs of beer. Big name performers such as Jimmy Buffet, Elvin Bishop, New Riders of the Purple Sage and the Live Wire Choir provided the entertainment.

The sale of beer pitchers, t-shirts and tickets to the kegger provided the profit.

In those days the kegger was held at the KO rodeo grounds on Upper Miller Creek Road. The crowds got crazier and the consternation of some people got stronger.

One county commissioner expressed fear that participants at the event would commit offenses such as public urinating, defecating and fornicating. Because of complaints about noise, drunk drivers and damage to the kegger site, the county commissioners decided that the rodeo grounds would no longer be available.

But the legend of the Aber Day bash lived on.

Now UM has a chance to revive the kegger. It doesn't have to be on the scale that past keggings were.

The image of a drunken brawl shouldn't be associated with the attitude of most participants. Crowds can be controlled and public fornicators can be convinced to find a private place.

A kegger can again become a viable, fun way to raise money and spirits. President Koch and the UM administration should give their support to this project.

Roger Kelley

County sheriff acts irresponsibly

As of last year, there have been nine cases of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome in Montana, and six people died of it. AIDS has yet to have a firm grip in this state — only 13 of the 650 who tested for the virus were positive. That's only 2 percent, not much if you compare it with the national average of 18 percent. But a new disease, just as appalling as AIDS, may very well help to push the numbers up if it is not stopped in its tracks.

This new disease is called the IT'S NOT OUR RESPONSIBILITY AT ALL syndrome.

On March 2, The Associated Press reported that a county sheriff in Montana refused to cooperate with the county health department to give AIDS prevention packets to people newly released from jail. The health department wanted to distribute paper bags containing a bottle of bleach and a bottle of water (for cleaning hypodermic needles), a condom and printed material on AIDS and on needle-cleaning techniques (for habitual intravenous drug users).

The packets would teach former inmates how to lower their chances of getting AIDS. That was a commendable intention. It also was a case of good intentions gone stuck when Lewis and Clark County Sheriff Chuck O'Reilly said: "We will not be dispensing condoms and information about needles. It's not our responsibility at all, and they're not going to use the sheriff's office or the jail to do it."

O'Reilly is the big boss of the jail there and nobody in the health department could twist his arm to change his mind.

It is granted that distributing AIDS prevention packets is not as simple as just handing out a packet to every person who gets out of jail. Yes, it may involve some record keeping, increased communication with health officials and the sacrifice of a little storage space. But aren't those extra efforts worth the lives that they may save? Or are those lives not considered by the sheriff to be worthy of saving?

Ex-inmates, homosexuals and intravenous drug users are people, too, no less than mothers, babies, dogs and right-wing conservatives. Lives are lives, and every effort ought to be taken by administrators, whether elected or appointed, to save them. After all, the people are the bosses of all officials — they pay them. And remember, the health department is not just trying to save those lives. It also is trying to stop the spread of a contagion.

By

You would think that it is only natural for county departments to work together to serve the people better. Instead, the Lewis and Clark county sheriff seems to prefer to avoid a little more work rather than to do something really important — the prevention of the spread of AIDS. Does it look as if he is acting in the interest of the public or his department?

It is not as if the issue at hand is whether it is ethical to teach people how to clean needles used for drug-taking, or whether it is encouraging promiscuousness to give out condoms. No, the issue to O'Reilly is his area of responsibility.

The people of Lewis and Clark County, if they have any social conscience at all, must write or call their sheriff and tell him to do the right thing. If he refuses to listen, then they would know who not to vote for in the next county elections. Other more humane law enforcement officers would be happy to take on a little more responsibility in order to cooperate with another department to control a lethal disease like AIDS.

In the meantime, other counties in Montana would do well to ensure that the IT'S NOT OUR RESPONSIBILITY AT ALL syndrome does not spread to them. It's their responsibility to ensure that.

Perhaps Missoula County would consider distributing AIDS prevention packages to people newly released from jail and to whoever else is at high risk. That should provide other counties with a good example.

CB approves $4 increase in health service fee

By Dug Ellman
Kaimin Reporter

The request for a $4 increase in the Student Health Service fee was approved by the ASUM Senate at last night's meeting.

Although the health service doesn't need the Senate's approval to increase the fee, Joyce Dozier, health service administrative officer, said administrators wanted to get the Senate's approval since it represents students.

Not all Senate members agreed with the fee increase.

"I am tired of the health service coming here every year and telling us they will not be back next year if we give them their raise," Senate member Rob Bell said.

He said the fee isn't fair because all of the students must pay the fee, but not all of them use the health service.

But ASUM Vice President

Mike Mathison said that opposed to private health care, the cost of health care at UM is "a fair deal, if not a good deal."

One Senate member suggested the health service could save money with a user fee by billing people for each visit.

Dozier said a user fee would not save money because the health service would have to pay to get each bill processed.

"In the long run a user fee would cost more money than it would save," she said.

The Senate also denied the Montana Kaimin's request for a $2,700 special allocation to hire a faculty advisor Spring Quarter.

Kyle Fickler, ASUM business manager, said he opposes the allocation since the advisor wouldn't be classified as an ASUM employee, but rather a journalism school employee.

Fickler said he feels ASUM should have some influence in what decisions the advisor makes on behalf of the Kaimin, but it wouldn't if the advisor weren't an ASUM employee.

Mathison agreed, "I oppose paying a salary where we have no authority over the employee." ASUM is not in the business of funding academic departments, he added.

NEWS BRIEFS

Army cleans up after copter crash

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — Army crews Wednesday retrieved the last eight bodies of 17 soldiers killed when two helicopters on a night training mission collided, then plunged 250 feet to the ground and caught fire.

The UH-60 Blackhawk helicopters from Fort Campbell spewed wreckage for hundreds of yards and charred the partially wooded, gently rolling site six miles from the choppers' air field Tuesday night.

It was the worst Army aviation disaster since '248 soldiers based at Fort Campbell were killed in 1985 in the crash of a chartered plane in Gander, Newfoundland, said Maj. Randy Schoel, Fort Campbell spokesman.

The Blackhawk, one of the newer helicopters used by the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps, has been grounded four times in three years. Last summer officials said about 40 people had been killed in crashes of the helicopter since 1978.

Refunds ahead of 1987's pace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal tax refunds are averaging 6.2 percent more than last year, the Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday.

Through March 4, said spokesman Wilson Fadely, 12.66 million refunds had been certified, up slightly from the 12.6 million at this time a year ago. Refunds averaged $802, up from $755 for the same period of 1987.

The filing deadline is April 15.

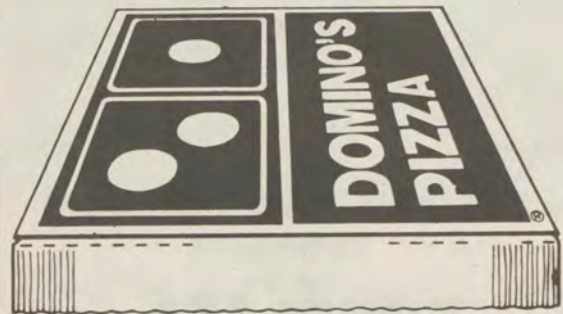

6 dead in foiled hijacked attempt

MOSCOW (AP) — Armed hijackers seized an Aeroflot jet in an attempt to flee the country, but they were foiled in a shootout with authorities that killed three passengers, a stewardess and two of the hijackers, Tass said Wednesday.

Tass said others aboard the plane were injured, but did not say how many or indicate the severity of their wounds.

The Tupolev-154 was to have flown from the Siberian city of Irkutsk to Leningrad, with a stop in the Ural Mountains city of Kurgan.

Extra week given for book refunds

By Carol Roberts
Kaimin Reporter

A new textbook refund policy will begin next quarter at the UC Bookstore giving students an extra week to return their books for a full refund, bookstore manager Bryan Thornton said Wednesday.

The refund deadline was extended to correspond with the last day students can drop classes with a partial fee refund. "Students questioned why they could drop a class, but couldn't return the book (for that class)," Thornton said.

The new policy, approved by the bookstore's board of directors yesterday, states that students may return books through the 15th day of classes for a full refund if the books are still in new condition.

Books that have been written in or damaged will be refunded at 75 percent of the new price. Workbooks that are worn or have only a name written in them will be refunded at 75 percent also.

The old policy allowed refunds through the 10th day of classes and workbooks which showed any sign of use were not accepted.

Thornton said the bookstore will be more liberal than it has in the past in accepting worn books for a full refund.

Slide show on St. Helens kicks off geology lectures

By John Firehammer
Kaimin Reporter

A slide show and lecture tonight tracing the history of Mount St. Helens is the first speech in a new lecture series created by the University of Montana geology department.

Ian Lange, geology department chairman, said the Geology Evening Lecture Series will be a monthly event at UM. Tonight's lecture will be followed by lectures in April and May, he said, adding the series will continue next fall when school resumes.

Lange, who will start the series with his speech: "Mount St. Helens Before, During and After the Great 1980 Eruption," said he is trying to schedule lecture topics that will appeal to people with little knowledge of geology.

He said topics of the series will include geological events which have a great impact on the environment, the geological evolution of the Northwest, the lost continent of Atlantis and dinosaur extinction.

Speakers in the series will include UM geology faculty members and local and out-of-state geologists, Lange said.

He said his speech on Mount St. Helens will focus on the geological and environmental aspects of the volcano's May 18, 1980, eruption.

Lange said he has had a "long relationship" with Mount St. Helens, beginning in his days as a graduate student at the University of Washington in the mid-1960s when he used to climb the mountain. He later performed geological studies on the mountain in the 1970s.

He said his presentation will include slides taken at Mount St. Helens in the '60s and '70s, and from a research trip he took to the site with a group of UM geology professors in September 1980.

Lange said the lecture should be interesting to non-geologists, as well as people with a background in the subject because the eruption had an affect on Montana.

"Catastrophies are always interesting if you're not in them," he added.

Future speakers in the series include UM geology Professor David Alt, who will speak April 21 on "The Awful Truth About the Dinosaurs; The Naked Truth about the Columbia Plateau." On May 17 geology Professor Johnnie Moore and associate Professor William Woessner will speak on "Toxic Metal contamination of the Upper Clark Fork River Floodplain: Warm springs to Missoula."

Tonight's lecture will be in the Underground Lecture Hall at 7:30. There will be no admission charge.

U.S. relations with China improves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Relations between the United States and China brightened Wednesday with a U.S. decision to liberalize the sale of high technology to the Chinese and China's agreement in principle to accept Peace Corps volunteers.

The Reagan administration announced that it lifted a five-month suspension on the transfer of new technologies after receiving assurances from Chinese Foreign Minister Wu Xueqian that his country was not sending Silkworm anti-ship missiles to Iran.

Then, during a question-answer session at the National Press Club, Wu said of the Peace Corps that "China has adopted a positive attitude on this matter," though many details still need to be resolved.

After years of enmity, including several years of war in Korea, the United States and China normalized relations in the late 1970s.

There have been some rough spots in the relationship recently. Last autumn, to protest what it said was continuing Chinese sale of Silkworm anti-ship missiles to Iran, the administration froze a decade-old process of liberalizing the list of high technology items China is permitted to buy from U.S. companies.

Social work department gets $1000 scholarship from American Legion

By Jim Mann
Kaimin Reporter

The University of Montana's social work department will receive $1,000 Friday from American Legion Hellgate Post 27 for a scholarship fund for students preparing to enter child welfare services, a Legion spokesman said Wednesday.

The Missoula branch of the nationwide organization of war veterans was one of five posts awarded $1,000 for community service by its national headquarters. It won the award for a seminar on child abuse and neglect in Missoula in October, 1987.

Spokesman Gerald McIntyre said his Post chose to give the money to the social work department scholarship fund because the money would be continuously used for child welfare services.

He said the department has promised to match the fund, which will offer a student about $250 per year.

Frank Clark, chairman of the social work department, said Wednesday the donation "really demonstrates an excellent relation between the department of social work and the American Legion."

Social work Professor Robert Deaton said, "the department is pleased to see some community recognition of the work we do. And in particular, the importance and value of work we do on the behalf of children."

Deaton was on the committee that organized the Legion's award-winning child abuse and neglect seminar.

The seminar focused on specialties such as legal and medical investigation of child abuse and family advising and treatment.

The American Legion is a philanthropic organization dedicated to serving widows of veterans and all children.

The Hellgate Post will hold a ceremony when awarding the scholarship to the social work department at 2 p.m. Friday on the main floor of Rankin Hall.

Frank Horn will run in NCAA championships

By Dan Morgan
Kaimin Sports Reporter

Even if neither the men's or women's basketball teams don't make it to the NCAA championships, Montana will still be represented by an athlete this quarter. Frank Horn will compete Friday at the University of Oklahoma, in the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships.

Horn, a senior from Boise, Idaho, qualified for the NCAA meet in both the 800 meter and the mile, but he will only compete in the mile. Horn ran a time of 1:49.94 in the 800, and a time of 4:02.33 in the mile this season.

Horn's time in the mile ranks within the top ten in colleges nationally, when Missoula's elevation is taken into consideration. The conversion formula reduces Horn's mile time to 3:59.53. Even without the conversion, Horn's time in the mile is still a school record.

Indoor track coach Bill Leach said that Horn was ill at last weekend's Big Sky Conference Championships, but added that Horn was almost completely recovered. Leach also said that while Horn will have to run between a 3:59 to 4:05 to be an All-American, that time is well within his reach. Horn was unavailable for comment.

The trials for the mile will be held at 10:50 (MST) in Oklahoma City, Okla., and the championship race will be 10 p.m. Saturday.

Tournament action —

Grizzlies defeat Lumberjacks 77-72

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Junior guard Nate DuChesne led a balanced attack with 18 points as Montana held off Northern Arizona 77-72 Wednesday night in the first round of the Big Sky Conference Basketball Tournament.

In the opening game, Weber State upset Nevada-Reno 96-93 in overtime.

The quarterfinals Thursday night pit Weber against Idaho State, while Montana takes on Montana State.

The Northern Arizona-Montana game was a see-saw affair, with the Lumberjacks jumping to a 16-11 lead on a 3-pointer by Kevin Tucker with 12:14 left in the first half.

Montana then went on a 13-2 scoring spree and took its biggest lead at 36-26 on a jumper by Tony Reed with 2:32 left in the half. The Grizzlies were ahead 42-36 at the half, but the Lumberjacks rolled off the first seven points of the second half to go ahead 43-42 with 18:59 remaining.

However, that was the last time Northern Arizona led.

Montana led 61-54 when freshman guard Roger Fasting hit a slam-dunk with 11:51 to play. NAU kept pecking away at the Grizzly lead and tied the game twice — the last time at 72 on a driving shot by guard Mark Anderson with 3:28 remaining.

A hook shot by Kevin Hood with 2:11 left put Montana ahead for good at 74-72 and Hood and DuChesne wrapped up the game with free throws.

Montana, now 18-10, also got 17 points from Hood, 16 from Wayne Tinkle, and 12 from Reed.

Nevada-Reno upset in overtime play

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Guard Timmy Gibbs scored on a driving layup with five seconds left Wednesday night and added a free throw after being fouled on the play to lift Weber State to a 96-93 overtime upset victory over Nevada-Reno in the opening round of the Big Sky Conference Tournament.

Gibbs and fellow guard Greg Boyd led a Weber comeback that saw the Wildcats scratch their way from a 15-point deficit with 13 minutes to play.

Boyd finished with 31 points, including nine 3-point field goals, while Gibbs had 23 points, including four 3-pointers.

The 13 3-pointers set a conference tournament record.

Reno, now 15-13 for the season, was in control until the Wildcats started their comeback behind the shooting of Gibbs and Boyd.

Snelson

was basically ignored."

Snelson said he was pleased by his boards' "straightforward approach" to decision-making and budgeting.

At the beginning of his term, Snelson said, the group was very young and inexperienced. Very few of them had any experience with ASUM, he said.

But, he added, that may have been an asset because the delegates were forced to "learn their job from the ground up."

He commended the delegates for carefully considering the value of the student groups applying for funding. He added that he is pleased that the Board didn't justify funding groups just because they were funded in the past.

That approach to funding, he said, is a departure from the way things were done in the past and could pave the way for a more accountable board, he said.

"But the most important thing is that I managed to keep myself sane," Snelson said.

"I ran for the office because I felt there was no alternative;

the other candidate was unqualified in my opinion," he said. "I felt ASUM could do something for students. And I tried, as best I could."

"We (ASUM) are a student service. I think my board members realize that we aren't an elite or self-righteous group. We're just here to give students a hand, and to say anything else would be untrue."

Snelson, 24, said he will attend school next quarter and plans to do a little more hunting, fishing and spending time with his new wife, Heidi. A sign on his ASUM office door says he's "gone fishing."

Admission standards to be considered by regents

BOZEMAN (AP) — Proposals for the first set of standards for admission to Montana's public colleges and universities, 15 months in development, will be laid before the Regents for Higher Education in Butte March 24 and 25.

Regents Chairman Dennis

Lind said the board will eliminate some of the proposals but probably will not vote, yet, to adopt any of them. Public hearings on the standards will be held in Billings on April 18 and Helena on April 19.

Officials say, however, that regents are likely to choose a single set of requirements for all the colleges and universities rather than separate standards for the larger and smaller campuses.

For nearly 100 years, Montana high school students have needed only a high school diploma to get into a state college or university. Regents ordered admission standards in December of 1986.

Today

Lectures

Medical Issues — Dr. Howard Robbins will present a lecture on recent advances in clinical medicine titled "Joint Replacement in the Foot." The lecture will be held at 11 a.m. in room 109 of the Chemistry/Pharmacy Building.

Wilderness — Jackson Webster, a professor of biology at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and State University, will discuss "Effects of Clearcutting on Ecosystem Processes in Eastern Streams: Contrasts with Western Streams" at noon in Botany 307.

Ian Lange, chairman of the UM geology department, will discuss "Mount St. Helens Before, During and After the Great 1980 Eruption" at 7:30 p.m. in the Underground Lecture Hall.

Entertainment

Film — "Yellow Handkerchief," sponsored by the Mansfield Center, will be shown at 7 p.m.

in the Crystal Theater at 515 S. Higgins. Admission is free.

ASUM Nightclub Series — Comedians Dan and Randy will perform at 8 p.m. in the Gold Oak Room on the second floor of the University Center. Admission is $1 for students and $2 for the general public.

Exhibits

University Center Gallery — "Artifacts and Fossils," works by Sam Manno, are on display through March 18. The gallery, located on the second floor of the UC, is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Gallery of Visual Arts — Works by the University of Wyoming Art Department faculty are on display in the gallery, located in the Social Sciences Building lobby. The lobby is open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. This is the last day of the show.

Bookstore

THE BUY BACK STORY

1. We are buying back books which instructors have requested as texts for future quarters.
2. We buy back books that are on our list at 60% of the new (not used) price.
3. We resell our books at 75% of the new price.
4. The books must be the current edition, the correct volume number & in good condition, etc.
5. If any of your books are not on our list, the reasons are as follows:
 - a. We have not received a written request from the faculty for future classroom use.
 - b. It is an old edition, programmed text, etc.
 - c. In very few cases, we're overstocked and cannot send the overstock back to the publisher.
 - d. We have bought back the maximum limit based on what the instructors have submitted as their classroom enrollment.

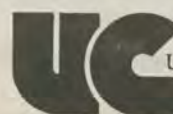

*Most stores pay no more than 50% of what you paid for the book. We are one of the very few that offer you 60% of the current new price.

*Nebraska Book Co. will make you an offer on most of the books that we cannot buy back. The price they offer depends on the national resale market.

*We at the Bookstore understand the frustrations of exam week and have made an extra effort to buy back as many books as possible.
