COURSE DESCRIPTION & OBJECTIVES
This course is designed to allow students to develop an understanding of public administration as a field of academic study and an area of professional practice. Specifically, it focuses on the evolution of public administration as an academic discipline and a profession in the real world, the context in which public administration takes place, the meaning of public service in a democratic society, and the importance of personal and professional ethics. The course will be conducted as a seminar. Students must be prepared to discuss reading assignments and participate in analysis of case studies.

The specific competencies developed in PSCI 361 are:
1) Knowledge of public administration as a field of study
2) Knowledge of the political and organization context of public administration
3) Knowledge of public administration as a profession
4) Written and oral communication
5) Awareness of public service values: personal ethics, professional ethics, citizen responsiveness, social responsibility

Assessment of these competencies will be based on evaluating contributions to class discussions, two papers, and a formal class presentation (described below).

REQUIRED TEXTS: There are 3 required books

Public Administration: Concepts and Cases. 9/e by Richard Stillman
The 9/e of the Stillman text is now the latest edition. You can use either the 9/e or the 8/e. This syllabus has been adjusted for both editions. On weeks where there are differences, we will cover both the case and/or articles included in both editions. There are not a lot of differences between the two editions.

Public Administration in the New Century by Jeffrey Greene (Order this book for Amazon.com or similar sources – Cengage, the publisher, has sold out all of its copies)
Bureaucracy by James Q. Wilson

Classics of Public Administration (most any edition can be used from the 5/e on) edited by Shafritz & Hyde. There are minimal differences between the editions and copies will be placed on reserve in the Mansfield Library. The UC Bookstore will have the 8/e. Most of the articles are also available online in the library using JSTOR.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS and STRUCTURE

The requirements for the class includes reading James Q. Wilson's Bureaucracy, writing article summaries from Classics of Public Administration for three articles, and writing one five-page paper (described below), and a research paper of some aspect of public administration. The structure of the course is simple. Each week the class will focus on one major concept of public administration that will be illustrated in the readings and any assigned articles. The case study approach will be used to highlight the concepts. STUDENTS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL ASSIGNED READINGS. After completing the course, students should understand the major concepts of public administration included in this course.

Paper

Write a five-page paper on the following assignment. The paper is due the last session.

Provide a statement of your personal code of ethics. Include at least 3 principles in your statement and give an explanation and justification for each of these principles derived from your reading of the pertinent literature, and the discussions in class. Also discuss whether you believe that a person's personal ethical code every clashes with organizational ethics and expectations. Some believe that two sets of standards exist -- one's personal ethics and organizational ethics. Others argue that the same set of ethical standards should apply and work in organizational settings. Thus, do you believe that there are two sets of ethical standards? Is it possible for the same set of ethics used in our personal lives to be applicable to organizations in which we work?

Research Paper on some aspect of public administration or policy.

Political Science 400: Students can take this class as PSCI 400 -- the writing class option. You MUST be a political science major to take PSCI 400. This is a one credit hour class that can be used to fulfill the university writing requirement. It is required for all political science majors. If you opt to sign up for PSCI 400, you must get the approval of the instructor; fill out the appropriate paperwork, then turn the completed paperwork to the department secretary in LA 350 during the first week of class. It is the discretion of the instructor to allow more than 10
PSCI 400 students in any political science class. The requirements to complete PSCI 400 are described below.

All students using PSCI 361 as a writing class must be properly signed up for PSCI 400. Students taking this option are required to write a 10 page research paper on a topic related to public administration or policy. The topic must be approved by the instructor in advance (before beginning the paper). These papers will be graded more rigorously than for students not taking PSCI 400. Students will be allowed one re-write for their research papers. There is not a universally accepted writing style format to follow; writing styles vary from discipline to discipline. The political science department tends to use Kate Turabian's, A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations. You do not have to use this writer's manual for this class, but you will likely have to use it for other writing classes with other professors in the political science department. Thus, it is advisable to use the Turabian model. All papers are expected to contain a cover sheet, a bibliography, and appropriate citations.

The first draft of the paper is due on Thursday, November 29. The papers will receive two letter grades; one for content (the quality of the research) and separate grade for writing (composure, grammar, writing style, and clarity). The second grade is a technical grade and the standard that will be used is based on the technical writing style of social science research. That is, sentence structure should be clean, clear, and concise. The goal is to write a short, well-crafted, organized paper that is easy to read. After the first draft is graded, the papers will be returned and students will make any corrections and re-submit the paper by the last class of regular classes (the last day prior to exam week, which is December 7). The papers will be re-graded. The final grade for PSCI 400 will be based solely on the average of the content/writing grade for the final paper. For example, if the final grade on the paper is A/C (92/75), the student will receive a grade of a "B" (the average is 83.5).

Students will present their papers during the final sessions of the semester: a semi-formal presentation using PowerPoint or some presentation software. The presentation is part of the paper grade.

James Q. Wilson's book, Bureaucracy.

All students are required to read James Q. Wilson's, Bureaucracy. The book will be discussed later in the semester.

Exam

There is not a formal, written exam in this class.

Articles about New Orleans

Many point to Hurricane Katrina, New Orleans, and the Gulf Coast as a perfect example of weaknesses and failures in federalism and intergovernmental relations. I enjoyed reading the following article about New Orleans and Katrina. A case study about Hurricane Katrina and New Orleans will likely appear in the next Stillman text. I would be surprised if it did not appear. This article, from City Journal, is an interesting account of New Orleans. It is called "Who is killing New Orleans," by Nicole Gelinas. at City Journal. http://www.city-journal.org/html/15_4_new_orleans.html

Another article found in Governing Magazine is posted on Moodle. The article is about the communication breakdown among various levels of government and between agencies. "THE KATRINA BREAKDOWN," by Jonathan Walters & Donald Kettl.
