This examination is a learning opportunity imbedded within the Internship course, FSM 298.

This portion of your internship will prove quite challenging. You will be expected to execute a practical exam designed to evaluate your cooking expertise. A growing number of employers require a prospective employee to prepare a meal, a complete menu, or take on a station as part of the interview process. The completion of this internship and the entire program hinges on a passing score for this exam.

Students who fail must pay appropriate course fees to retake the exam.

_Students who do not pass cannot graduate and must retake Internship._

The parameters for the Final Practical are as follows:

- Prepare a four course menu
- For four guests
- From menus compiled and selected by Chef Campbell

Menu:

- Each student will be given a four course, classic menu with recipes and techniques referenced from _The Professional Chef, 9th edition._
- The courses presented must be an appetizer/salad, soup, entrée and dessert.
- The menu will have a consistent, cohesive theme demonstrating proper basic cooking techniques.
- For your preparation pleasure, there will be five possible menus available for students to view on Moodle four weeks in advance of the first Black Box exam date.
- Upon entering the kitchen at your designated time, you will be randomly given one of the five menus to prepare for your exam.
Black Box Exam

• Each student will have three hours of cooking time to prepare the menu. Additionally, each student will be given 1/2 hour to set-up their stations and assemble their menu mise en place.

• At the end of three hours the student will have a window of half an hour to present to the judges and an additional half an hour to clean up their stations.

• Judging will start at the moment of set-up and will continue until the station is completely cleaned.

• The first course must be presented during the designated presentation time and each course must follow at 10 minute time intervals.

• The order of courses must be kept in sequential order.

• Three presentations are for the tasting judges and one is for photographs.

• For every minute the student is late after the presentation window has ended, their score will be deducted by half a point from the ACF 40-point judging structure.

• Note: it is not permissible to refer to cookbooks or manuals during the testing time. However, it is expected that examinants come prepared with recipes, production schedules, MEP sheets, plating diagrams, plating sequences, etc. compiled in a presentable binder for each judge and at use on station.

• YOU MUST SUBMIT REQUISITION SHEETS FOR (1 per) EACH OF THE FIVE MENUS COMPLETE WITH COST EXTENSIONS – NO TICKY, NO LAUNDRY!

• The examinant will, at random, be designated a scheduled time for the examination period in order to even the playing field with those students scheduled at a later date.

Black Box Schedule:

• A block schedule for examination times will be posted four weeks from the exam date and examinants are required to be in the kitchen at that designated time; the clock starts precisely.

• Each student will be randomly assigned an apprentice from the pool of 2nd and 3rd semester students to help during their testing time.

• The designated apprentice will be notified by Chef Campbell and assigned a time slot prior to the notification of the examinant. Therefore, when you have been assigned a time, you will automatically be paired with an apprentice.

• So, you have at least four weeks to research and plan your menus and two weeks to confer with your apprentice.

• This gives you ample time to make arrangements with work and secure your judges.

• Part of the floor evaluation will be on how well you manage the apprentice’s time and responsibility. Remember, the apprentice is there to assist. Meaning, the apprentice cannot demonstrate any cooking or fabrication skill that can be judged during the exam.
• The apprentice may work only as a helper. They may clean, sanitize, serve, set up, help with presentation, etc. They may not prepare anything that affects demonstrated cooking techniques or knife skills.

• Participants are responsible for setting the evaluation table according to the standards of table service.

• Courses should be delivered in proper sequence observing the following time frame:

  • Appetizer on the table at the end of the three hours (00:00).
  • Soup delivered 10 minutes later (00:010).
  • Entrée ten minutes after the soup (00:20).
  • Dessert ten minutes after the entrée (00:30).
  • Clean up 30 minutes after service (01:00)

Judging:

• The examinant is responsible for inviting the judges for the examination. Judges must be qualified chefs or restaurateurs agreed to by the Program Director.

• If the person judging is not known by the Program Director, the student must obtain a resume or vitae from the proposed judge and present to the Program Director.

• The judging will follow the ACF Category F/1: Hot Food Competition criteria.

• There will be three judges assigned as taste evaluators.

• There will be one judge from the Culinary Faculty assigned to evaluate the student performance in the kitchen.

• The floor judge is also the exam administrator.

Black Box Judges

• Chef Instructors have the right to refuse to be a tasting judge.

• Floor judges are scheduled accordingly: Monday - Tuesday – Wednesday.

• Tasting judges must be confirmed by Chef Campbell with a résumé or vitae if not known.

• Civilian judges will be sent judging criteria documents one week in advance by the student examinant.

• Civilian judges are expected to understand judging criteria and must be coached by the student examinant.

• The judging criteria will be issued to civilian judges through student examinant one week prior to exam date so that they are acclimated to the procedure and responsibilities of judging.
• Civilian Judges who do not act in accordance to their responsibilities or who delivers a biased or absurd score may be disqualified by the Exam Administrator.

40% of the score will be the kitchen/floor evaluation covering the following:
• Mise en place and organization.
• Sanitation and cleaning procedures.
• Apprentice coordination and task delegation.
• Timing of service and follow up.
• Cooking techniques, skills, and fundamentals.
• Effective utilization of all ingredients.
• Clean up.

60% of the score will be the service/tasting evaluation accordingly:
• Serving methods and presentation.
• Portion size and nutritional balance.
• Menu and ingredient compatibility.
• Craftsmanship and professionalism.
• Flavor
• Texture
• Doneness
• The final score tally will reflect the combined evaluation of the floor and tasting segments and translate into ACF Point Conversions and Awards as follows:

Failure of Exam
• Students must receive a score of at least 70% (27.9) in order to pass the exam.
• As part of Internship, you must pass in order to earn these credits and you will not graduate until this is accomplished.
• Make-up exams will be scheduled during vacant slots or during finals week.
• Students will be allotted only one make-up exam and should they fail; you must re-take Internship.
