

MEMORIES

· MAIN HALL ·

I stand and watch, where Youth comes in
To work and love and laugh awhile
And goes—with passion to begin,
To conquer in the mighty trial.

• GYMNASIUM •

Happy hearts and happy music,
Brilliant lights and joyous laughter;
Moonlight walks alone with some one
Through the quiet, follow after.

NATURAL SCIENCE HALL.

Sad winds sing around these corners
Moanful songs of death.
Here what cursed ghastly horrors
Loosed their awful breath.

Many hearts lie sick and bleeding
Mourning those here slain.
Many cats have passed these portals
Never to return again.

· CRAIG HALL ·

Where none may penetrate,
Except the sacred few,
Beyond the parlor's portal.
Where women's whims and Fate
Decide which ones that woo
Shall win their goals celestial.

· DORNBLASER · · FIELD ·

Where manhood meets in contest,
Where hearts are swelled
with pride,
Where Valor makes his conquest,
Where friendship's bonds are tied.

CAMPUS. STORE.

Mighty Leaders of the State,
Problems which confront
the race,
Hear the verdicts of your fate,

Tremble in the judgement place

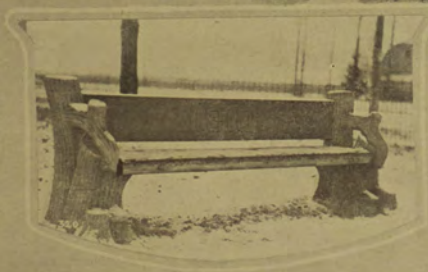

·LOVERS·
·LANE·

Where moonbeams paint dim patches
On the ground
And distant music mingles
with the sound
Of leaves---that whisper catches of love lyrics.

SENIOR BENCH.

For three long years we wait
And long to taste the honor
Shared by the Senior Class—
Such are the whims of fate
That when we may taste honor
We hurry, laugh, and pass.

LIBRARY.

Stern walls and graceful branches
Hide, within their compass,
The mighty works of mighty men—
Which none will read
When spring is here.

ABER MEMORIAL GROVE

Tall, straight fir trees stand
With heads uplifted to the sky,
A tribute to a man—whose steady
hand
Was always ready

·THE· ·RATTLESNAKE·

Racing waters in their flight
Pause a while beneath the trees;
Reflect the beauty of the sight
And tumble on to distant seas.

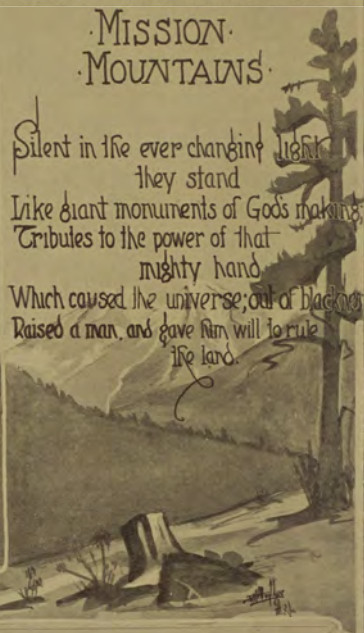

BITTER ROOT RIVER.

I stood and watched the quiet flow
Of swift and silent water
And felt a calm, But longed to know What mountain streams gave life
And why and whence the endless flow.

MISSION MOUNTAINS.

Silent in the ever changing light
they stand
Like giant monuments of Gods making;
Tributes to the power of that mighty hand
Which caused the universe; out of blackness
Raised a man, and gave him will to rule the land.

THE BLACKFOOT.

Roaring,
Dashing,
Loitering, Whispering,
From glacier
To harbor,
Forever,
It flows.

HELL GATE RIVER

Shining, Glowing,
Laughing,
Thundering,
Endlessly flowing
To oceans unknown.

