

SENTINEL

Montana began her 1922 football season with a new coach and with much material that gave little promise. Coach Stewart, however, using a style of play somewhat different from that favored by Bierman, brought the Grizzlies through the season in fairly good shape. The University retained the State title and won three of its seven games in the face of opposition from much larger schools in the Northwest Conference.

While Montana has had more successful seasons, still it is felt that Coach Stewart has accomplished much in furthering athletics at the University, and it is thought that, under his direction, the Grizzlies' record for next year will be a much better one.

THE SEASON'S SCHEDULE

October 7—Montana, 0; University of Washington, 26.
October 13—Montana, 37; Wesleyan, 0.
October 21—Montana, 15; Idaho Institute of Technology, 12.
November 11—Montana, 7; Montana State College, 6.
November 25—Montana, 0; Whitman, 13.
November 29—Montana, 0; University of Idaho, 39.

The opening of the practice season found the Grizzlies without an experienced backfield. Sullivan, an inspiration to the Grizzlies for three years, was gone, as were Daylis, Keeley, Barry, Johnston, Merrill, Lambert and Dorsey. Coach Stewart found plenty of material for the line and built up a good one, but the Grizzly backfield was weak and Montana lacked an offensive the entire season, though the backs with any sort of promise were given a chance.

Twenty-two men made the trip to Seattle to officially open the season October 7 with the University of Washington. The Sun Dodgers, not forgetting the defeat handed them by Montana in 1920, repeated their 1921 performance and Montana lost, 26 to 0. Outweighed fifteen pounds per man, the Grizzlies at times outplayed the Sun Dodgers but threatened Washington's goal line only once in spite of the brilliant work of Kershner, whose defensive work was a feature of the game.

Elliott, who suffered an injury to his eye early in the game, continued playing, although his sight was badly affected. Madsen and Murphy returned to Missoula with wrenched knees.

Wesleyan, claimants to the State football title, brought a veteran team to Missoula, October 13, confident of an easy victory. The varsity, however, gave their best performance of the season that Friday afternoon, running up a 37 to 0 score on the Helena team, who fought hard and well. Montana finished the game with her entire second string. Madsen and Coleman, ends, starred for Montana, with Elliott and McGowan at tackles also playing a good game.

1923

Elliott's field goal from the 24-yard line in the last minute of play broke the tie that resulted in the Idaho Tech game, October 21, and the Grizzlies won, 15 to 12, in one of the most sensational games played on the home grounds during the season. Holmes, former Northwestern star, played exceptional football for the visitors, and Idaho Tech, predicted to be a "weak sister," showed strength enough to stir the Grizzlies into real action.

Plummer and Porter, with Elliott, are given most of the credit for the victory.

Plummer intercepted a pass on Montana's 12-yard line shortly before the game ended. Porter kicked seventy-five yards to put Idaho on the defensive and give the Grizzlies a chance to recover it a few seconds later. Elliott's kick came at this point, winning the game.

Silvernale, Grizzly substitute, placed his name in Montana's hall of fame in Spokane, October 28, when, with Montana scoreless and only two minutes left to play, he recovered a Gonzaga fumble and ran twenty-five yards for a touchdown. The Bulldogs won, however, 37 to 6.

Real Montana fight was displayed in that game. The Grizzlies played real football against Gonzaga, rated as one of the best teams in the West, and at times outplayed them. Johnson starred for the Grizzlies.

Then came the Aggie game. Montana State, with a new system developed by Coach Romney, came to Missoula confident of victory. It was a good team that represented M. S. C. on Armistice Day. That game will go down in Montana history as one of the most exciting contests ever played on Dornblaser field, for the Grizzlies, although they outplayed the Bobcats all through the game, lacked the punch to put the ball over until the last few seconds.

With the Bobcats leading, 6 to 0, and with but five seconds left to play, Kershner took the ball over from the two-yard line to tie the score and give Elliott an opportunity a moment later to kick goal.

Fans who saw that game will remember it as one in which Montana spirit flamed up three times and burned out, then flamed again with brilliance. The Bobcats have not won since 1908; Grizzly fighting spirit maintained that record, November 11.

Three times the Grizzlies carried the ball within Montana State's 10-yard line; once they brought it to the two-yard line, but each time the Bobcat defense stiffened and they were held for downs. And then with defeat staring them in the face in the last few minutes, they started the march again toward the Aggie goal; one minute left, they were still fifteen yards away; six seconds left and they were on the two-yard line, and with the largest football crowd ever assembled on Dornblaser field pleading for a touchdown, "Bullet Joe" took it over.

It was the greatest exhibition of fight ever witnessed in Missoula. Montana, decidedly off form, made 278 yards in scrimmage to 36 for the Aggies and made sixteen first downs as compared with seven for Montana State. The Bobcat aerial offensive was responsible for the Aggie touchdown; they made 140 yards on passes as compared to ten for the Grizzlies.

Silvernale, by his brilliant exhibition of line plunging, was the outstanding star of the game, although Kershner, Johnson and Tanner played a big part in the Montana victory. Captain McCarren, Montana State quarterback, whose passing resulted in the Montana State touchdown, was the outstanding Bobcat star.

Tilton, Whitman star, proved to be too great an obstacle for the Grizzlies to overcome when they met the Missionaries in Walla Walla, November 25, and Montana lost, 13 to 0. The Grizzlies had their best chance to score in the last quarter when they opened a passing offensive that gave promise of bringing a touchdown, but the Missionaries stiffened their defense and held. Kershner was Montana's individual star.

When Montana students think of Idaho they are reminded of that day last fall when the Vandals came to Missoula, tossed a football around Dornblaser field in an amazingly easy marvelously effective way, then left town with a 39 to 0 victory. Missoula has seen forward passing teams before but the Vandals, who completed eighteen passes for a total of 296 yards, made even the most blaze of the local football followers take notice.

The game ended for Montana a season not a record-breaker, not as successful as some, but, on the whole, highly profitable for those men who next year will be veterans because of last fall's experience. Montana can look forward to next season with confidence.

SENTINEL

RAY MURPHY

Although injuries prevented Murphy from playing a great part of the season, he was in enough games to show his qualities as a leader and the vote which elected him captain of the 1923 team was unanimous. Ray plays real football and opponents found it hard to get through center when he was in the game. Rocine picked him for the all-state honor roll. With Ray at the helm the Grizzlies can expect much next season.

"DOC" TANNER

Ends who faced "Doc" during the 1922 season found he had speed and that he could skip merrily around the line for long gains if given even a slight chance. "Doc" has possibilities; the experience of another season should develop him into a great Grizzly player.

JOHN SHAFFER

Shaffer gave brilliant exhibitions at two positions this year—at guard and at center. Placed at center when Murphy was injured, he found himself filling a position which he had never played before, and his work brought special commendation from newspaper critics throughout the season. Shaffer, who will return next year, was given a place on Rocine's all-state honor roll.

TED RAMSEY

Spectacular tackles made Ramsey one of the shining lights of Montana's defense and Ted was again given a place on the all-state honor roll. He will not be back next year and Stewart will miss him for he broke up many an opponent's offensive before it started.

SENTINEL

GRANT SILVERNALE

Dornblaser field has been the scene of many sensations, but football fans will never forget the day when Silvernale, a substitute, was given his chance and proved he could run faster with his nose on the ground than any man Montana has produced in years. Silvernale's plunging was sensational; it was pleasant to watch and the results were indeed gratifying. His chances are good for a permanent place next year at halfback. He was mentioned on the honor roll.

"GIL" PORTER

A 75-yard punt at the Idaho Tech game, one of the longest ever made on Dornblaser field, helped the Grizzlies to win a 15-12 victory last fall and put "Gil's" name in the local hall of fame. "Gil" could plunge, too, and many a Grizzly gain was made through his efforts. Men like "Gil" are getting scarce. Montana will miss him next fall.

HARRY ROONEY

Rooney came out this fall for a position at end but found competition in Madsen and Coleman. Rooney, however, kept trying and he has an excellent chance to fill the position left open by the graduation of "Muttie." He will be conspicuous by his absence next year.

HARVEY ELLIOTT

The Grizzlies next year will miss the big tackle whose smile showed through an inch of mud. Captain Elliott is a real leader and men find it easy to follow him. Twice during the season "Jelly's" toe won games for the Grizzlies—once when he place-kicked to beat Idaho Tech in the last two seconds; the other time when he kicked goal in the Aggie game. Elliott had no trouble in making the all-state honor roll.

SENTINEL

Montana's 1922 Team

By JOE KERSHNER

(Varsity Star and for Two Years Fullback on the Montana State University Squad)

Those who casually follow the fortunes of Grizzly athletic teams through their respective seasons, applauding the winners and criticizing the losers, it might have come to them last season, with somewhat of a shock, that the 1922 football team did not bring surgings of pride from the "old-timers" for their performances on foreign fields and against heavy odds. "Casual" followers of the team also seem prone to criticize the coaches, the material, and even in some cases to criticize the management. No end of criticism comes from the outsiders of the student body. Much criticism is deserved, no doubt, but not all that is forwarded. Everybody has so much "knocking" to do and few there are who haven't some especial thing which is a thorn in their respective sides relative to the athletics and the conduct thereof in the University. Whether it is the coaching staff, the student body, the faculty or the members of the team, some of it is deserved. But some of it is not forthcoming from those who are not wont to extend the courtesy (?).

If there is one thing that a losing team does for its followers, it wakes them up to the fact that you can't have a winner unless you have the material; you can't have a winner unless you have a good coach and co-operation of all elements with that coach; you can't have a winner unless you have a student body that is willing to forego some of its so-called pleasures. But all that is commonplace prattle. Everybody is acquainted with that type of prattle in some form or other. Anyway, everybody wants to blame everything on the other fellow (more prattle).

And that is what the 1922 football team has done for its followers. It has shown that you can't have a winner unless you have all the other elements that go to make it such. It isn't the coach; no coach can make a team of green material which can compete with the squads of the larger schools which have to be cut to thirty and forty members in order to allow the coaches to properly handle the men. All schools have their complaints to make of the support of the student body, all of their alumni, all of the men who go out for the teams. The 1922 team gave such a chance for criticism that those who have to "knock" have a chance to do a little soul-searching themselves. In fact, the 1922 team has given the "knockers" a superb chance to take a look at themselves.

1923

SENTINEL

And the result—has been gratifying. The coach is certain to have men for next year that are good. The student body is certain to see games that will make it a privilege to call it "ours"; the alumni are certain to have a team which will furnish reminders of the time "when we beat Washington and Syracuse" for the "men" are coming up. Everything's to the good. A new gym, a new field and a new spirit. The student body and the alumni, of course, are made over but should be better than ever, for wasn't it Shakespeare who said, "An old loom runs best" or was it "Whiskey improves with age?"

BILL O'NEILL

Baseball experience made Bill a valuable man; he pulled forward passes from the air as could no other man on the team; his entrance on the field always preceded an aerial attack. It was Bill who went into the Idaho Tech game in the last few minutes and plucked enough passes to allow Elliott to drop-kick from the 24-yard line. He has an excellent chance of making the squad again next year.

GEORGE AXTELL

Axtell, who played guard with the Frosh of 1921, came back last fall to try for the same position on the varsity. Although he was not a regular, he showed signs of ability to hold a place on the Grizzly squad and he promises to develop with experience. He will return in the fall.

"MATTIE" MADSEN

Madsen, said by Rocine, sports editor of The Missoulian, to be the "best end in the state," finished his career at the State University by being chosen for the all-state honor roll, as no all-state team selections were made by Scott this year. "Mattie's" game was always consistent—sometimes brilliant—and his fight aided the Grizzly spirit greatly.

TOM MCGOWAN

"McGowan," says Rocine, "played the best game at tackle of any man in the state," and the big tackle, who for three years has been a mainstay of the Montana defense, was also placed on the all-state honor roll. McGowan was picked by some critics as one of the best linemen that ever donned a Grizzly suit.

SENTINEL

TED PLUMMER

Ted is noted for two things—plunging and punting—and he does both well. His kicking showed some improvement this year over last, he hit the line harder and played a better defensive game. He will be a big asset to the Grizzlies next fall.

ED TAYLOR

Taylor was another of those men who labor for the school, not so much for personal glory as for the betterment of the athletic teams that represent their Alma Mater. His work on the line, while not giving Taylor a letter, was rewarded in granting him long trips to foreign fields where Grizzly teams competed with the best in the West.

AVON FRASER

Fraser made his second attempt last season to gain a regular place on the varsity but lacked experience enough for the first squad. He has weight, and if he can develop speed should have little trouble in gaining a regular berth.

CHARLEY COLEMAN

Coleman's work at end was exceptionally good and the Alberton boy, who had little football experience before he came to the University two years ago, broke up many a pass. Charley has two more years on the varsity, and, with added experience, he should easily make the all-state team.

SENTINEL

"JIGGS" DAHLBERG

"Jiggs" was not in every game, but he made the most of what opportunities he had. If fight and grit deserve commendation, Dahlberg certainly should come in for a good share of it. Critics predict that he will make the team again next year if he continues to improve.

RALPH CHRISTIE

Coach Stewart found a good backfield man in Christie, who was playing his second year of varsity football. Christie is fast and shifty; he has a style of plunging all his own and should be a valuable asset to the Grizzly squad in the fall.

JOE KERSHNER

Fans who have watched "Bullet Joe" perform at the State University for three years will regret the departure of probably one of the greatest fullbacks who ever attended Montana. Joe played hard football but it was clean football, and all of his friends are not Grizzlies. Joe closed his football career by making Montana's lone touchdown in the Aggie game and he also was chosen for the honor roll.

SENTINEL

EARL JOHNSON

Much of the credit for the Grizzly victories must be given to Johnson whose work at quarterback was really an inspiration to his teammates. His playing was always exceptional; the Grizzlies had confidence in him and showed it. Much can be expected of Johnson next year. He was mentioned on the honor roll.

WARREN MAUDLIN

Maudlin, who played left tackle with the Frosh squad of 1921, lacked the experience to make the varsity against older men but his showing for the season was very creditable. McGowan and Elliott, veterans who also won tackle positions, graduate, and "Wee" should have a good chance for a regular berth on the team again next year.

GEORGE OECHSLI

OechslI was another of the 1921 Frosh squad who tried for a tackle position with the varsity last quarter. "Spud" is a worker, and, under Stewart's direction, has showed great improvement. He will be back next fall.

JOHN MORIARITY

Moriarity fought the whole season for a line position although he was given few chances to play. He will be back next year, however, and if he shows the same spirit which he manifested last season, Stewart should have a place for him on the squad.

"PIKE" BOEHM

Pike Boehm is a scrapper. Unfortunately he did not possess the experience necessary to clinch a regular berth on the varsity. He more than held down one of the "thankless" jobs of which there are many, on the second string. It is men like "Pike" that are highly responsible for whatever success Grizzly teams may have in their competition with the stronger aggregations representing larger institutions in the Northwest.

Basketball at the State University during the 1923 season was not a success for the Grizzlies lost fourteen of the twenty-one games played. Most State teams were easy for the Grizzlies but conference teams were too strong this year. The Grizzlies also dropped the State title to the Aggies, losing three of four very hard-fought contests played with them.

The Grizzlies won their first game played in the new gymnasium with Mt. St. Charles College, defeating them 24 to 14, in a rather ragged contest. Badgley led in the scoring for Montana, with Baird playing a good guarding game.

The Grizzlies dropped both games at Moscow in contests with the University of Idaho that opened the western trip. The Vandals won the first game, 38 to 17, in spite of frantic efforts by Grizzly guards to hold the fast Idaho forwards. The second night, Idaho, champions of the West, piled up an even greater score, defeating Montana, 44 to 17.

Whitman then met the Grizzlies at Walla Walla and took both games—the first, 19 to 17, and the second, 33 to 19.

At Pullman, the State University had no better luck. W. S. C., rated as one of the strongest teams in the conference, took both games from the Grizzlies by scores of 37 to 14 and 33 to 13.

The Gonzaga Bulldogs got a firm hold on the Grizzly neck when Montana arrived in Spokane and Coach Dorais' aggregation defeated the Bruins easily, 38 to 20.

Then came the games with the Aggies at Bozeman. Probably the two schools have never witnessed more fiercely contested games. Montana State won the first game at Bozeman in an extra-period contest, 27 to 24, snatching victory from the Grizzlies in the last half. Montana came back the next night to win and they did, defeating the State College, 30 to 23, in another extra period game marked by a brilliant spurt of the University in the closing minutes of the contest.

The School of Mines offered little resistance when Montana met them in Butte and the Bruins won easily, 26 to 16. Pacific University came to Missoula and departed after dropping two games, 27 to 7 and 15 to 12.

The School of Mines, an easy victim earlier in the season, showed unexpected strength when they came to Missoula for their return game, and the Grizzlies were forced to extend themselves to win, 17 to 11. The Butte aggregation tied the score several times but lacked the strength to gain any lead.

Then from Bozeman came the Aggies, bent on regaining the State title. What they did to the Bruins is history—the Grizzlies lost the championship of Montana in two of the hardest games ever played in Missoula. Both were forwards' battles, with the Aggies having a decided advantage. Montana State took the first contest, 25 to 19, and the second one, 20 to 15.

Then came Washington State. They, too, departed with two Bruin pelts after defeating Montana, 35 to 11 and 24 to 14.

The Bear turned and growled when Gonzaga came for its first game here and Gonzaga lost, 31 to 24. The Bulldogs regained their grip the second night, however, and the Bruins went down, 14 to 13, in a game that kept onlookers on their feet until the final whistle.

Mount St. Charles showed a reversal of early season form when they met the Grizzlies in Helena in the closing game of the season and the Hill-toppers triumphed over Montana, 27 to 11.

Montana finished third among State teams for the season with an average of .500. Three Grizzlies—Badgely, Tanner and Baird—were selected for Scott's All-State team, while McDonnell and Thoresen were given honorable mention.

Scoring of the players for the season was as follows: McDonnell, 132; Badgely, 105; Thoresen, 22; G. Dahlberg, 52; Baird, 12; Tanner, 51, and Porter, 20. Montana scored 394 points and its opponents, 521.

The Players

Captain "Tick" Baird played an exceptional guarding game during the season. His work was so noteworthy that he was selected for the all-state team. He played a good, clean game for Montana during this his last season.

Captain-elect "Doe" Tanner, with two years on the varsity, has developed into a good guard. He is better than the ordinary player at dribbling, is excellent at close shots, and plays a good floor game.

McDonnell, although crippled early in the season by an operation, was high point man for the Grizzlies during the season. Many of his shots were sensational; his work from the foul line was easily better than that of any of his teammates. He will be back next year.

Badgely can shoot baskets from any angle, especially from the corners or the side lines. In Badgely opposing guards found more speed than in any other man on the Grizzly squad.

"Gil" Porter, playing his second year on the squad, got in many of the games as a substitute. He has played his last game for Montana.

G. Dahlberg, substitute forward, did good work during the season and will probably find a place on the squad next year.

SENTINEL

Inclement weather that lasted somewhat longer than usual prevented Montana's track team from getting in good shape for an early start this year. The result was that when the Grizzlies went to Seattle late in April for the relay meet at the University of Washington they were in poor condition but they finished in fourth place in spite of poor luck.

Andrus, crack Montana sprinter, was running in second place in the 100-yard dash and would have finished in that place but for a rather unfortunate circumstance. When "Scotty" reached the 90-yard mark, he saw a pole, around which was a small group of people. He mistook this for the tape; he threw up his hands and the rest of the field swept by him. Montana probably would have finished second in the half-mile relay had not Stowe lost his stride while making a turn, putting the Grizzlies into third place.

Unexpected defeats in the pole vault and 220-yard dash and the loss of places in the quarter and half-mile runs were responsible for the loss of the meet to the Aggies in Bozeman. Cogswell, of Montana State, was given a disputed first place over Andrus in the 220-yard dash; Plummer finished second in the high hurdles, but was disqualified, and though Egan went well in the 440-yard and 880-yard runs his teammates could not keep up the pace he set for them and the best Montana could get was second place.

Shaffer, who has been doing 11 feet 6 inches in the pole vault, could not repeat his performance at the meet and the Aggies won this event with 10 feet 9 inches. One redeeming feature of the contest was the performance of Andrus, who ran the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds to equal the State record.

The Grizzlies, minus the services of several stars who were on the western baseball trip, nevertheless, had no trouble in defeating Idaho in a dual track meet here, May 12, by a score of 78 1-2 to 38 1-2. Montana placed first in nine events, took second in as many, and was tied for second in still another event. Captain Egan provided the sensation of the day when he ran the quarter mile in 50 seconds to win from Casebolt, Idaho star, and set another record. The State University also established another new mark in the mile relay race, which was won in 3 minutes 30 seconds. Shaffer, with 12 1-2 points, was high scorer of the meet.

Rutherford, sprinter; Stowe, almost sure of a place in the low hurdles; Porter, pole vaulter, and McAlear, miler, did not compete. Those who took part included Andrus, Anderson and Egan, sprinters; Mathews and Blackburn, distance runners; Shaffer, pole vault; Rule and Shaffer, high jump; Rule and Badgely, broad jump; Maudlin and Shaffer, discus throw; shot put, Axtell and Shaffer; javelin throw, Plummer and Madsen; relay race, Closs, Anderson, Roettler and Egan.

The opening of spring found baseball prospects at the State University only fair, and Perk Spencer faced a real job when he took over the job of coaching the Grizzly squad this season. In Simmons and Guthrie, both new men on the varsity squad, he found material for a catcher; Bill Johnson came back from Portland to resume his old position on the mound and captain the Grizzlies; O'Neill, Wiedeman and Centerwall were also back, but in the main the work of shaping the team for the season demanded the development of new talent.

And so the opening game with Whitman found many new faces on the Grizzly squad. J. Driscoll was at shortstop; Stowe, also on the track squad, found time to play in center field; Tanner was in right field; Dickson played at first; Bertness was on third; Baird went to left field; "Billy" Driscoll played third and second; O'Neill also was on second; Weideman and Shoebottom were in the field. On the mound Spencer used Johnson, Porter and Centerwall.

Nevertheless, the Missionaries went down to defeat, 5 to 4, in the first contest of the year. Porter, pitching his first collegiate game, was given excellent support, and the Grizzlies gave a good exhibition of stick work.

Ten innings were necessary to decide the second contest with the Missionaries, but Montana won with the sort of a finish that furnishes inspiration for novels. With the score 8 to 8 at the close of the ninth, Johnson fanned the three Whitman batters who faced him. J. Driscoll singled for Montana; Tanner popped out; Weideman whiffed and Montana's hopes be-

Whitman came back next day and got it, shutting out the Grizzlies by a 5 to 0 score. Centerwall pitched a good game for Montana, but evidently the Grizzlies had not donned their batting clothes and they were held to six hits by Knudsen.

western trip. The Grizzlies dropped the first game to Gonzaga, 3 to 0; they were defeated also in the second contest by the Bulldogs, who overcame a four-run lead to win, 7 to 6.

Washington State College slaughtered the offerings of Johnson at Pullman, winning by a 13 to 0 score. They repeated their victory the next day, defeating Montana, 13 to 2.

Idaho and W. S. C. come here late in May for two-game series with Montana. Games are also scheduled with Gonzaga and with the University of Washington, who are making their first appearance on the local diamond.

SENTINEL

Freshmen athletics at the University this year brought out much material that should be of first-string calibre next season.

In football the Frosh always were able to hold the varsity to low scores; they lost only one basketball game; their baseball team was good, and there seems to be several good track prospects among their number.

The football season, however, was rather disastrous for the freshmen. A 20-yard drop kick by Romney gave the State College freshmen a victory over the Grizzly Cubs when they met in Bozeman for the opening game of the season. Sugrue, with his end runs, and Tarbox, with his plunging, starred for the Cubs, who fought valiantly on a muddy field.

The first quarter of the W. S. C. freshmen-Montana freshmen game here, October 27th, seemed to promise a victory for the Cubs for Coach Adams' yearlings outfought and outplayed the visitors; they even carried the ball to the W. S. C. 7-yard line, only to lose a touchdown on a fumble. W. S. C., however, waited until the second period to begin the slaughter; then they ran up a 40 to 0 score before the game ended.

After holding Idaho's freshmen to an even game in the first half, the Cubs weakened in the second period and lost at Moseow, November 4th, by a score of 46 to 0. Wm. Crowley starred for the Montana Frosh, who fought valiantly against great odds.

Other freshmen, who by their work this year give promise of making the varsity next year, are Telin, MacSpadden, Griffin, Johnston, Sterling, Martinson and Estey.

BASKETBALL

A 47 to 4 victory over Butte Central enabled the freshmen to properly dedicate the new gymnasium, January 13th, and Steve Sullivan, who led many a victory in the old building, now stood by as coach of the visitors and watched his squad go down to defeat. First-string players in the game were: Johnson, left forward; Berg, right forward; Illman, center; Beauden, left guard; G. Crowley, right guard. Substitutes were: Smith, Baney, Chichester and Wilson, forwards; Moe and Coulter, center; Tarbox, Hyde, Robertson and W. Crowley, guards.

The freshmen won the first eight games played, scoring 283 points to 60 for their opponents. They lost only one game—that the closing one of the season—when they were defeated, 20 to 18, by Missoula High School, runner-up in the state basketball tournament.

BASEBALL

Ben Moe, pitcher; Captain Meagher at first base; Tarbox, shortstop; Long, catcher; Rover, pitcher; O'Connor, another hurler, are starring for the Frosh on the baseball team, which is opening its season as this annual goes to press.

Interscholastic Track Meet

A total of 378 boys from 78 high schools of the State competed on Dornblaser field, May 10 and 11, in the twentieth interscholastic track meet, the greatest staged by any educational institution in the United States. The meet, given under the auspices of the State University with Dr. J. P. Rowe as chairman of the General Committee, was this year a greater success than ever in spite of somewhat inclement weather the first day.

A new record of 5 2-5 seconds for the 50-yard dash was established by Hill, of Stevensville, during the first semi-final race the first day, while Jim

Porter Boots One

Charteris, crack Great Falls athlete, ran the half-mile in 2 minutes 42-5 seconds to break a record established a decade ago.

Women's Athletic Association

Co-ed athletics began this year with the formation of an athletic association at a W. S. G. A. convocation held November 14th. The following week a constitution was written and adopted at the first meeting of the association. The main object of the association is to direct and encourage women's athletics and to establish a point system by which each girl has a fair chance to win an "M" sweater.

The 150 points necessary to earn a sweater may be gained as follows: In major sports, 25 points for being on class teams of basketball, baseball, hockey and soccer. In track, the individual winner gets 25 points, second 20 and third 15 points. The winner of each event gets 10 points. Members of winning relay teams get five points. In the minor sports the swimming and gymnastic meets will be on a similar basis with track. Hiking sixty-five miles a quarter wins 15 points; dancing, 15; riflery, 10, and volley ball, 10. The points for tennis have not yet been decided. Substitutes on teams get 15 points. All-stars chosen from class teams receive 10 points; from other teams, 25 points. The members of the second all-star team chosen from class teams receive 5 points; from other teams, 15 points. Managers of each sport receive 25 points.

At the time of the formation of the association the following officers were elected: President, Rita Jahreiss; vice-president, Helen Newman; secretary, Marian Fitzpatrick; treasurer, Alice Peppard. Members of the faculty of the Women's Physical Education Department form the Advisory Board.

BASKETBALL

Under the managership of Nina Moore two basketball tournaments were held this year—class and inter-organization. This is the first year that an inter-class tournament has been held. Each team played three games. A silver loving cup was awarded to the Juniors, the winners, by the association. The members of the winning team were: Helen Newman, center; Rita Jahreiss, side center; Amanda Velikanje and Nina Moore, forwards; Helen Carson and Ruth Spencer, guards.

The Out-of-town team, composed of Esther Mohrherr, center, Thora Sorenson, side center, Mabel Mohrherr and Ruth Wilkie, forwards, Frances Holly and Mary Comer, guards, won the inter-organization tournament. This gives the five-year silver loving cup to this team to hold for one year, taking it from Craig Hall, who had won it the two preceding seasons.

This year the teams participating were divided into two leagues. The first league consisted of Out-of-town, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Craig Hall, Delta Sigma Chi, Beta Zeta and Town; the second league was composed of Delta Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Omega Xi, Phi Beta, Alpha Phi and Chelys

Club. The winner of the first and second leagues, Out-of-town and Omega Xi, played for the championship. The two best games of the season were those played by Kappa Kappa Gamma, runner-up in the first league, and Out-of-town, and Out-of-town and Omega Xi. In the former game the score was close, first one side being ahead and then the other, but finally ended with Out-of-Town at the big end of the 18 to 15 score. In the latter game the champions started with a flying start and kept ahead of the other team all through the game. The final score was 30-24.

At the end of the season all-star and second teams were chosen by the association with the aid of the coaching class. The girls chosen were:

BASEBALL

The Alpha Phi team cinched the three-year silver loving cup this year after defeating Delta Gamma in the final game of the tournament by the score of 13-10.

The teams were divided into leagues this year, League 1 being composed of the following teams: Delta Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Omega Xi and Kappa Kappa Gamma. League 2 was composed of Alpha Phi, Craig Hall and Phi Beta.

Delta Gamma won the championship of League 1 after playing off a tie with Kappa Alpha Theta and Omega Xi.

The championship game played at track meet time was undoubtedly the most exciting game of the series. For the first four innings Alpha Phi led, 11-0, and then the Delta Gamma team started a batting rally and threatened the Alpha Phis. The score stood 13-11 at the beginning of the last inning, but neither team scored a run.

The championship team was composed of the following: Catheryn McRae, catcher; Solvay Anderson, pitcher; Emma Quast, first base; Maybelle Shackleton, second base; Charlotte Knowlton, third base; Nina Moore, shortstop;

Dora Dykins, a sophomore who is majoring in the Physical Education Department, was manager of the tournament this year.

TRACK

The co-ed track meet was held the first week of June on Dornblaser field. The standards of the various events were raised this year, and as a result the number of contestants entered in the meet was not as large as in preceding years.

"M" men and faculty members were in charge of the meet. Helen Carson, winner of second honors in the 1922 meet, managed the track events this year. Genevieve Kelly was awarded the silver loving cup for individual honors last year, having accumulated 22 points to 15 of Helen Carson and 13 of Mary Comer.

The contestants took part in the following events: Seventy-five-yard dash, 100-yard dash, low hurdles, high hurdles, walking race, relay, shot put, high jump, broad jump, javelin and baseball throw.

SWIMMING

A swimming tournament was held in the pool of the new gym the early part of June under the direction of Miss Rhoda Baxter, of the Physical Education Department. The various events in the tournament consisted of races and diving contests.

The swimming classes have been held on Tuesday and Thursday and this is the first year that credit has been given for swimming. Approximately 120 girls have been registered in the swimming classes.
