Members of Mortar Board are chosen from the Junior Class, on a basis of scholarship, service, and leadership, each spring and are formally tapped at the first SOS of the spring quarter. Membership in this organization is considered one of the highest attainments that a woman student can secure during her college career.

This year a new system was adopted in making the choice of the twelve Junior girls tapped for Mortar Board. The names of thirty-five girls were submitted to a committee, consisting of eight members of the faculty, and this committee voted on the basis of scholarship, activities and personality of the various girls.

At the meeting of the Junior women, the same list was given each girl, on which she voted, considering the same merits of each candidate.

Silent Sentinel was organized in 1904 by President O. J. Craig and Professor Robert Sibby of the University faculty. The membership of Silent Sentinel is chosen from the men of the Junior class who have been conspicuous in athletics or other campus activities.

The organization was originally secret and disbanded during President Dunningway's administration. It was revived again in 1921, but was no longer a secret society. The members are tapped at the track meet SOS by Dean Stone.

Kappa Tau, a local honorary scholarship fraternity, was organized in 1916. For several years plans have been underway in preparation for a charter into the national scholarship fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa. Dr. Oscar M. Voorhies, national secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, visited here a year ago and stated that scholarship conditions here were favorable. Final action on the Charter is expected in the near future.

Mu chapter of Delta Psi Kappa, since its organization on the campus in 1920 by a group of physical education majors, has done much to promote interest in physical education among the college women.

This year, with WAA, it sponsored "Posture Week" on the campus; posture exercises and lectures were given in all the gymnasium classes, and a prize of five dollars was awarded to the best poster featuring the plans of the week. The prize was won by Theodora Reed, a major in the Art department.

During the spring quarter, Delta Psi Kappa plans on promoting a "Swimming Pageant."

Sigma Delta Chi, the first national professional fraternity on the campus, is actively engaged in promoting interest and enthusiasm for the School of Journalism on the Montana campus. During the past year, as in former years, it has been doing various forms of publicity work for the University.

With Theta Sigma Phi, Women's national honorary journalism fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi sponsors a number of events connected with the school during the year. This spring, Sigma Delta Chi assisted in the various programs held in connection with the Interscholastic Editorial Association.

Delta Sigma Rho is the oldest honorary forensic society in the United States, and exercises great influence upon intercollegiate oratory and debate through the regulation of subjects, standards and rewards of merit.

Montana chapter of Delta Sigma Rho was granted a charter during the spring quarter. Delta Sigma Rho was organized in 1904 by representatives of the faculties of the University of Michigan, the University of Minnesota, and the University of Iowa who met in Chicago for that purpose. The purpose of the fraternity is to encourage a higher standard of public speaking and debate among college students. In order to become a member of Delta Sigma Rho a student must have participated in at least two intercollegiate debates and must be representative of the highest type of public speaking at the institution.

Corbin Hall, named in honor of Miss Frances Corbin of the English department, is the newest dormitory on the campus. The hall accomodates eighty-three girls. During the past year, fifty freshman women and thirty-three upperclasswomen lived there. The girls are very congenial and the dormitory is noted for its home-like atmosphere.

Early fall quarter, the Corbin Hall Club is formed and officers are elected for the ensuing year. The first social event of the year is an exchange of guests with South Hall, the men's dormitory. During the school year, quarterly formal dances are held and one or two firesides. There are two formal birthday parties and a Christmas Tree party which are for the girls alone.

Corbin Hall is proud of its large number of honor students among both the freshmen and upperclasswomen.

Students and faculty of the School of Forestry unite to make the Forestry Club one of Montana's outstanding organizations.

The Forestry Club was organized in 1913 to create a spirit of fellowship and mutual interest in the school and in the University. Meetings at which men active in the world of Forestry speak to the members are held fortnightly.

The club is prominent in the social and scholastic life of the University and its members are active in Varsity and inter-mural athletics as well.

The annual Forestry Ball has come to be the leading event of the Winter social season. Informal dances and hikes complete the social calendar.

Newman Club is a national organization for Catholic students. The local chapter was granted in October, 1915, to a group known as the Catholic Students association.

Having as its purpose the promoting of fellowship among students of the Catholic faith, the Newman Club now has about one hundred and fifty members. This year for the first time members of the faculty have been taken into active membership in the organization.

Meetings of the club are held the first Sunday of each month in the parish hall of St. Anthony's church. Following the meeting a breakfast is served. What is known as the executive council, composed of officers of the club and a representative from each class, holds meetings alternately to the regular meetings. Programs at which talks and other entertainment are provided, are held once a month.

All residents of North Hall are members of the North Hall Club. This club was organized for the purpose of furthering the social life of both freshman and upperclass women in the hall. The fall and winter formals, the spring informal, the Christmas party, the firesides, and the birthday parties given by this club are among the most delightful social events of the year.

The officers of the club are elected in the fall and they work under the supervision of Mrs. Theodore Brantly and the dormitory leaders. Mrs. Brantly is social director and her leaders are upperclass women who have had previous experience in dormitory life.

North Hall was built seven years ago and at that time accommodated only ninety-eight women, but with the increasing freshman enrollment it has been made to accommodate one hundred and fourteen. Its occupants are subject to the regulations of A. W. S. and are under the direct supervision of Harriet Rankin Sedman, dean of women.

Shortly after the founding of the school of Journalism in 1914 the Press Club was organized with 15 students then in attendance in the school as members. The growth of the club has kept apace with the school and is now one of the largest clubs on the campus.

Twice each month the club meets in the "Shack" and a general get-together is held. Though the activities of the club, journalism majors become quickly acquainted, and work as a unit throughout the year.

Journalism and its various fields is discussed at the sessions, prominent newspaper men, and faculty members on the campus being invited to lead in the discussion.

South Hall Club is organized every fall for the purpose of providing an organization that shall guide and control student life at the hall. The club now offers a means of social entertainment and intellectual advancement as a group. South Hall is the men's dormitory on the campus. It was completed in 1923 and at this time the Freshmen dormitory plan was adopted. The club serves as a means of adjusting the new students to the conditions which they will meet upon entering college.

During the fall quarter the club gave a banquet in honor of the football men who live there and later they gave a formal dance. A "Whoopie" dance given in the winter quarter, and a "Sport Dance" in the spring quarter, were both informal affairs. A number of firesides were held throughout the year by various groups in the hall.

The basketball tournament that was played off by the South Hall men, gave many of them an opportunity to participate in the Intra-mural sports.

The Wesley Club is an organization of Methodist University students. It presents an interesting program of Christian fellowship and recreation. The club holds a Bible study class each Sunday morning and sponsors a University Night at the church each month. This is augmented by a social program including a venison dinner, a New Year's party, and a Senior party.

The study class under the leadership of Mrs. Jesse Bunch was very interesting and well attended. Dr. Charles Donaldson secured special speakers for the University Night program, and musical numbers were presented by members of the class under the direction of Marion Butchart. These services were followed by an informal hour at the parsonage. The social chairman, Walter Taylor, arranged a particularly interesting program, aided by the patronesses: Mrs. C. A. Colby, Mrs. Charles Donaldson, Mrs. I. B. Fee, Mrs. Thomas Layfield, and Mrs. E. R. Sanford.
