ADVERTISING AND INDEX

While the staccato rhythm of pounding hammers blended with the hum of electric saws and straining motors, new plans for more buildings were being made this year. Above (left to right) Kaimin editor, Lew Keim; Student Union director, Cyrille Van Duser; President Carl McFarland, and Dean of Students, Herbert Wunderlich discussed the Field House and a new Student Union.

KNOW MONTANA

Education In the Early-Day Mining Camps

Four years after the first school in the Montana territory was opened at Bannack and three years after the first regular public school was started in Virginia City, pioneer teachers in 1867 were providing their students with an education through what today is the eighth grade.

However, any student who completed that training—through the eighth grade—was considered to have a high school education.

Pupils starting in school were assigned to the eighth grade and graduated from the first grade—just the reverse of the present system.

Upon graduation from the first grade, students were required to take examinations to obtain a certificate. Tests were given in the home and the cost of the diploma was set at $6. All problems in the test had to be accurately answered before the applicant qualified for the certificate.

Because early-day schools did not have a common textbook of any kind, study in each varied. The commissioner of education—that was the title of the superintendents—however, tried from the start to establish regular courses of study. It was not until 1881 that a uniform textbook law was placed on the statute books by the legislature, and not until 1889 that a uniform course of study was made mandatory.

A list of those who attended the early-day schools and who later became prominent in public life in Montana were Austin Gormley, Cascade attorney at one time; Dr. LeRoy Southmaid of Great Falls; Judge Lew L. Calloway, State supreme court, and Judge Lee Word, former associate justice of the high state court.

MONTANA PAY ROLL PRODUCTS

We're both selling the same thing—SERVICE

Pardon us if we seem to be presumptuous . . . but we are both selling service. Montana State University is selling education as a service and we are selling energy. Both are essential.

You at the University have been at your sales job longer, more than a half century, but we've been operating more than 40 years, so feel able to make a few observations on service.

If we may say so, we think the University is doing a better sales job than it used to . . .

You're bringing your services to the people in their own communities to a greater extent. As a result cities and towns a long way from Missoula have learned to appreciate what you're doing and what your problems are by seeing and hearing University groups and individuals. We've been doing that from the beginning, as it's the nature of our business. We believe the people appreciate what we're doing, too. We're serving them.

Congratulations to the 1953 graduates of MSU. Why not cast your lot with Montana from now on?

Fish Bowl night clubbers were Dr. McFarland and his wife one evening. They shared a table with Tom Needham and Joan Brooks.

SOME EXTRA PAGES SOME EXTRA PICTURES

"Our loss is your gain," (Bob and Ray, 1953 A.D.) in a sense anyway. A few less ads provided us with a few unexpected pages back here and since we know you don't exchange autographs, the space is filled with some informal pictures.

SIDELIGHTS

One of MSU's newer organizations, Bacteriology club redecored the bacteriology department in the Natural Science building. The club painted desks, cupboards, and laboratory tables in the media room, the main classroom, the advanced room and office of the department. This club was organized as an outgrowth of a bacteriology seminar that met at the Rocky Mountain laboratory each week in Hamilton. The purpose of the club is to promote interest among bacteriology majors in the department and to attract high school graduates. Members of the club are majors who have completed two quarters of bacteriology or the equivalent. They are (below) back: Pat Schammel, Carol Coughlan, Victor Vilik, Francis Powers, Ed Coleman. Front: Dick Raymond, Jerry St. Onge, Gwen Dickson, and John Jutila.

In the fall Women's M club tapped six members of the annual Santa party. They were Marion Nelson, Sue Kuehn, Jary Nelsen, Mavis Carin, Bev York and Maxine Hightower. The Women's Athletic association entertained about 100 people, including President and Mrs. McFarland, Kirk Badgley, Dr. Maurine Clow, Danny Lombros and Mollie Iler. Honorary M pins were given to Mr. Badgley, Danny, Mrs. McFarland and Mrs. Peggy Ask. At the buffet table (above) are Pat Wordal, Peg Toffe, Donna Bar, Reba Turnquist, and WAA president, Beryl Handford.
