OFFICERS

Massey S. McCullough, President.
Roberta L. Satterthwaite, Vice-President.
Edna Fox, Secretary.
Lamar Maclay, Treasurer.
Wilford J. Winninghoff, Sentinel.

Motto: “In bull-dogs we trust”

Colors: Maroon and Cream
OPAL MAY CRONK, Townsend.
Opals are always clear and bright
Wherever they are seen,
But this one beats the rest somewhat
By her brilliancy, it seems.

DAVID LAMAR MACLAY, Lo Lo.
"Mac."
Maclay is so long and slender
That he's really quite a josh
But he makes up for his long-ness
By being very short across.

ANNA HAZEL BUTZERIN, Missoula.
Our Hazel is such a sweet girl,
Every hair on her head is a curl;
She's a Chemistry shark
But she enjoys a good lark;—
In dramatics she shines like a pearl.

DOROTHY MAY GRAHAM, Livingston.
"May."
May is small but a force in the class
Whenever she starts things, they travel quite fast.
Thru her keen observation nothing's let pass,
That adds to the strength of the 1910 class.

MASSEY SANDERSON McCULLOUGH, Missoula. "Mac."
Massey's always busy,
Every minute of the day,
Did I hear you say in studying?
Oh, my goodness sake!—nay, nay.

EFFIE CORDZ, Missoula. "Ef."
One of the jolliest girls in the class
A gay little, sweet little, fair little lass;
She is light in her eye
That you can't help but spy,
Whenever you see Effie pass.
LIZZIE B. LEAF, Missoula.
Lizzie Leaf's a worker,
Keeping up 1910's "rep",
And when the rest begin to slip,
She helps 'em up, you bet.

HUGH TEMPLE FORBIS, Missoula.
"Garden City."
This Hugh is a brother of Chick,
He's a pleasant and sociable Mick,
His smile is so sweet
It has all the boy's beat,
About it the girls never kick.

EDNA FRANCES HOLLENSTEINER
Lo Lo.
Hollensteiner's quite a name,
To carry up the ladder of fame,
And yet it's climbing just the same.
By studying Latin.

GEORGE DANIEL LITTLE, Missoula.
"Jittle."
In basket ball George is a peach,
He baskets the ball with a reach,
When he stands on the line
His work isn't so fine,
Yet he always goes in with a leap.

RENEE JANE HENDERSON, Hall.
Renee is kind and gentle,
You can see it in her face,
And because of these good merits
She's leading (?) quite a chase.

MARJORIE ESTELLE MASON, Missoula.
Marjorie Mason, fat and fair,
With such a sweet and winning air;
A duty she will never shirk,
She's fond of philanthropic work.
LAURA S. JOHNSON, Great Falls.
"Wuzzy."
Laura Johnson is her name,
Single is her station,
There are half a dozen trying now
To make an alteration.

CHARLES STUART McCOWAN,
Great Falls. "Stuffy."
Now you must keep this very dark,
We have in our class a news
shark,
If McCowan gets mad,
He will make you feel sad
At the news in the weekly—just mark.

MAUDE McCULLOUGH, Missoula.
Maude's a girl who on neatness is bent,
We missed her that time when away she went;
She can sing like a lark
And I've heard the remark,
"She's my sister", from our president.

ISMA CAROLINE EIDELL, Helena.
"Is."
Isma is a quiet girl
And has acquired poise,
She has a word for every girl
And a gracious smile for boys.
EDNA THERESA FOX, Twin Bridges.
"Foxy."
Edna is a Foxy girl,
To her, life is a bore,
She likes to dance and prance and whirl
And all the time looks sore.

WILFORD J. WINNINGHOFF, Philipsburg.  "Heidelberg."
Winninghoff’s small, but, O! My!
His ambitions and ideals are high,
He works late at night,
And gets up at day light,
But none of us know just "For Why."

CARRIE E. ALLEN, Livingston.
"Good morning Carrie, how are you today?"
“Oh, jogging along in the same old way;
I’m never sad for it doesn’t pay,
And besides I’ll go home on the last of May."

FRANCES F. FOSTER, Great Falls.  "Fuzzy."
Frank may be frank about many things
When you think about her honor
But the frankest of all it seems to me
Is how frank she is about Bonner.

EARNEST W. FREDELL, Anaconda.  "Friddle."
Fredell at speilen hot air
Is most awfully, awfully good
But he’s a good deal better
At a speilen in the “woods.”

MILDRED ALENE McGR EGOR, Hinsdale.
Tall, stately, and serene
She carries her head like a queen,
I am sure that with me
You all will agree
When I tell you her name is Alene.
HOMER R. DEUEL, Missoula.
"Homely."
The way Homer plays the clarinet,
I tell you isn’t slow,
Some day he’ll have an orchestra,
To bring in all his “dough.”

OLIVE LOVETT, Miles City.
Olive is very silent
Never has much to say,
But she’s moving steadily forward,
In her own sweet, quiet way.

ARBIE E. LEECH, Choteau. “Ike.”
Who’s had to forego many a walk?
Who’s had to snatch a moment’s talk
With Sentinel over him like a hawk?
Arbie.

FLORENCE HALE AVERILL,
Townsend. “Flora.”
Flora A. has gone away
And left us here to mourn;
If any more desert us thus
We shall feel quite forlorn.

FRED THAYER STODDARD, Missoula. “Stddie.”
Just look for a minute at “Stddie,”
Whose ties are so bright and so gaudy,
Yet you have to confess
That he’s there with the best
When it comes to midnight toddy.

FLORENCE ELIZABETH CATLIN,
Anaconda. “Tod.”
There is a girl named Florence
Who from Anaconda hails,
Her favorite stunts are rough housing
And emitting baby wails.
DONALD B. McGREGOR, Missoula.
"D. B."
D. B. is a Forestry guy,
In the service, he's climbing quite high;
With the Profs he's a pet,
Though he's not a dig yet,
And for the girls has a critical eye.

BESS MARTINDALE, Litchfield, Minn.
Bess Martindale has just arrived
From the east to join our throng,
She is not small, she's very tall,
She's famous for her song.

MARY JOSEPHINE ELROD, Missoula.
Elrod's Mary is quite contrary,
She hasn't any lamb,
She's quite petite and very sweet,
She belongs to Kappa Gam.

KNUTE EMIL SWENSEN, Missoula.
Swensen expects to make an M.D.
And we hope that he'll get his degree,—
He's a dandy good worker,
Can't call him a shirker,
But oh my! some fun, too,—for me.
OLIVER RAYMOND DINSMORE, Missoula. "Mike."
Ray is a sort of a Cicero type
That you very seldom find,
But the subjects that he orates on
Are of quite a different kind.

CLARENCE JENKS FORBIS, Missoula. "Chick."
Do you know the gay youth we call Chick?
In basketball he is very quick;
If you give him a chance
He is ready to dance,—
But he wishes his own girl to pick.

MARGARET MARY LUCY, Missoula.
Our Margaret is so quiet,
She is almost like a nun,
But when you get to know her
She's a perfect heap of fun.

HELEN MARGARET WHITAKER, Missoula. "Nellie."
Strange Nell should talk so much of "wood"
Whenever she is seen,
Strange too that its shade must be
Of the very brightest green.

HERBERT WILLIAM SILLOWAY, Lewistown. "Silly."
Silloway's a poet
That is pretty hard to beat,
If he only didn't know it,
He would be quite a treat.

FRANK E. BONNER, Missoula. "Ditto."
Frank Bonner is such a nice boy,
His manner's exceedingly coy,
Jet black is his hair
But its right, on the square,—
Light hair and blue eyes are his joy.
Rolfe

Will Tait is the jolliest lad,
He never makes any one mad,—
A preacher's his father,
That doesn't him bother,—
It just seems to make him more glad.

Martha Edith Rolfe, Monarch.
Some girls in our bunch are so quiet,
You'd never think they'd cause a riot,
But E. Rolfe's a true sport,
She is just the right sort,
And there's lots of fun in her—just try it.

Mary hasn't got a "lamb"
Although she'd like to have one,
So she has substituted for the pet,
A complete Shakesperian volume.

Martha Edith Rolfe, Monarch.
Some girls in our bunch are so quiet,
You'd never think they'd cause a riot,
But E. Rolfe's a true sport,
She is just the right sort,
And there's lots of fun in her—just try it.

Mary Josephine Henderson, Hall.
Mary hasn't got a "lamb"
Although she'd like to have one,
So she has substituted for the pet,
A complete Shakesperian volume.

Mary Elizabeth Burke, Missoula. "Senior's Mascot."
Mary Burke is staunch and true,
Whatever you give her she is able to do,
Though she is small in size and in love too
Whatever she starts she pushes clear through.

William James Tait, Missoula. "Bill."
Will Tait is the jolliest lad,
He never makes any one mad,—
A preacher's his father,
That doesn't him bother,—
It just seems to make him more glad.

Martha Edith Rolfe, Monarch.
Some girls in our bunch are so quiet,
You'd never think they'd cause a riot,
But E. Rolfe's a true sport,
She is just the right sort,
And there's lots of fun in her—just try it.

Mary Josephine Henderson, Hall.
Mary hasn't got a "lamb"
Although she'd like to have one,
So she has substituted for the pet,
A complete Shakesperian volume.

Mary Elizabeth Burke, Missoula. "Senior's Mascot."
Mary Burke is staunch and true,
Whatever you give her she is able to do,
Though she is small in size and in love too
Whatever she starts she pushes clear through.

Arthur Fowler Bishop, Seattle, Wash. "Bish."
When "Bish" comes out upon the field,
We know we're going to win,
You can tell it by his golden locks
And his bright determined grin.
WALTER HERBERT McLEOD, Missoula. "Bud."
There was a man named McLeod,
In German, he never talked aloud,
When he began to recite
It never came right
So when he rose, he simply bowed.

MONTANA SEMPITerna.
(To the Class of 1910.)

Montana of the mighty hills,
  The monitors of the eternal age
     Aspiring to the sky.
Thy furrowed majesty deep stills
  The puny boast, the human rage
     Of men so soon to die.

Montana, we would proudly live,
  The children of thy quiet heart,
     Thy heights and depths to dare
Through ruth and rest that life shall give
  The sons of all thy might a part,
     Thy daughters good and fair.

Montana, thou wilt live that day
  When we thy sons and daughters rest,
     And run and dream no more.
May other sons of thine, we pray,
  With dearer dreams than ours be blessed
     And more thy domes adore.

Montana, may thy name decay,
  Thy peaks fall down into the dust,
     Thy deathless pride decline,
Ere love and truth shall pass away,
  Or honor rest, or valor rust
     In sons or daughters thine.

—J. H. U.
The sun came up from behind the vast plain on that fall morning and increasing its brightness, made the mountains glisten with their newly fallen snow. Everyone felt good, even the little buckskin was ready to keep up a lively pace.

"Well, Art, its the queerest thing in the world how old Murphy keeps his cattle together and never loses any either. He gets along with about half the punchers he ought to have, and never does a thing himself. Saw him in town again last night, so drunk that I bet he didn't get out till morning."

But Arthur did not seem to show much interest. It was Tib who was speaking and apparently Arthur's mind did not run to such matters as that of his younger companion. So the boys rode on, each following his own train of thought.

Arthur and Tib had been companions their whole life. Their fathers were partners in an extensive cattle business and owned the big hay ranch in the valley below. Their range extended clear to the mountains for a distance of thirty miles, and in the summer the cattle even ran far up the canyons. Tib's recklessness was counterbalanced by Arthur's precision, which was the latter's chief characteristic. He rode better, talked quicker, and showed himself the man of culture at every turn. But the two boys had the usual western spirit, tinged with the idea of cow-boy life.

As Arthur had the greater education we expected to see such developed traits of character, through which his culture might show itself. He had finished three years in college and was always considered a leader there, particularly since he had reached upperclassman years. His main strength rested in athletics and it was in football that he starred, being one of the Varsity's strong half-backs. It was known that he always held the coolest and levelest head on the team. Never had he failed and no other man was so regular.
But for some peculiar reason Arthur came home from college Thanksgiving and did not return after his vacation. He spent the following two weeks on the ranch riding on the late fall round up, and it was on one of these early mornings that he and Tib were leaving the ranch on their way to the cow camp.

The boys had ascended the long ridge that led out of the valley and had come out on the range where here and there could be seen a few scattered cattle feeding in the crisp early morning. During most of the ride Arthur had been absorbed in his own meditation and did not care to talk, but he soon broke his silence:

“Well, Tib, I rather wish I had gone back after all. This riding gets mighty monotonous in a few days after a fellow has been off to school having a good time.”

“It’s a shame you didn’t go back when Thanksgiving was over. And it made your father feel pretty sorry too.”

“But you know, Tib, if I had gone I wouldn’t have enjoyed it after what she said to me,” Arthur added.

“Oh, there was a girl mixed up in it, was there? I always thought it was something beside trouble with the faculty, but Dad told me I hadn’t better ask any questions, so I didn’t know anything about it.”

As Tib spoke he showed signs of curiosity, for although he knew very little about colleges, he had always been interested in what Arthur was doing.

“If trouble with the faculty was the only thing that bothered me I would have gone back long ago, for the little trick of putting the flag on the main hall is not punished by suspension, and moreover the president himself only said that he was sorry to know that I was the guilty person, but made no mention of my leaving school.”

Arthur was one of the star men on the football team. The last month of the season was spent in the training quarters and the rule stood that every man should be in by ten-thirty. It was a rule strictly lived up to, and the best man on the team did not dare violate it. But it so happened that three nights before the eventful day when the big Thanksgiving game was to be played, Arthur came in shortly after midnight.

In the morning before breakfast the coach, with his usual sulky tone, said:
“What time did you get in last night, Arthur?”
Without hesitation he replied, “At twelve-thirty.”
“Don’t you know that the rules require that every man shall be in by ten-thirty?”
“I know it.”
“What can you say for yourself?”
“I was simply out to a spread and did not get in on time.”

The coach turned and with a voice that signified determination, said:
“You had better watch the game from the bleachers tomorrow.”

Arthur’s heart sank for a moment; he knew that he had broken training and at the same time had anticipated its results. But for some reason he cared less. Still there was a pang of sorrow in his heart. To be kicked off the team, three days before the big game, and worst of all to face Ethel and Pete Gibson.

Pete’s aspirations ran high in football lines and he was only kept off the team by Arthur, who was considered the better player. As the two boys were both keenly interested in the same girl, the rivalry ran high.

Although keeping in practice for two weeks before the game, Pete had been informed by the faculty that even though the coach might desire it, he would not be allowed to play on account of the suspicion resting upon him. It seems that a ‘10 flag was seen to float from the main hall one morning and though no definite proof had been gathered the suspicion rather rested on Pete, and for this reason the faculty had taken such action.

Upon meeting Ethel on the campus the next morning, Arthur saw that she already knew of his disgrace. He could say nothing; there was no excuse to be made. He knew that he had lost, and the worst of it all came with her last words, when she told him that she hoped never again to see a fellow with such poor spirit, and that she would never speak or write to him until he redeemed himself.

His heart was heavy, but in his disappointment one thought seized him. He would go to the president, acknowledge his guilt of putting the ‘10 flag on the tower. Pausing but a moment to think of its consequences, he started, and with a determination to do the “square thing,” found his way to the president’s room.
Without speaking to anyone else, he hurried to the depot and in less than an hour was on his way home, driven there not by the voices of the faculty, but by the words of a girl. His heart still heavy, but his conscience clear.

The following day Pete played the game of his life and scored the only touchdown in the whole game. He was lauded from one end of the grandstand to the other and the mere mentioning of his name brought cheers from everyone.

While engaged in conversation the two boys rode down the steep hill and came in sight of the corral toward which they had been traveling. The outfit was just then engaged in branding a steer, and as they rode up Tib exclaimed.

"Gosh! Art, I forgot all about giving you that letter I got at the post-office last night."

Handing it to Arthur, he rode up and started to talk with some of the cowpunchers. Upon returning Arthur said:

"I’m going back tomorrow Tib, it’s from her."

Fra Andre was the youngest monk of all—
Indeed the other brothers called him son—
I saw him at the time he took his vows;
'Twas plain his manhood years had but begun.

The villagers all knew his story well,
How, homeless, friendless, in the storm one night
He sought the Mission,—and the good monks there
Took pity on the little fellow's plight;
Shared their plain fare with him, and gave him clothes
Coarse, but sufficient for his body's need,
Showed him his duties in the cloister halls,
Taught him, as time went on, to write and read.

And Andre, grateful for their loving care,
Repaid them with his earnest thoughtful ways,
And learned so eagerly all they could teach
In such brief time, he filled them with amaze.

The years went by, and his probation passed,
His last most solemn vows the lad had made,
And stood among them as a brother monk,
Facing his life work, calm and unafraid.
This was at Easter time. Before the breath
Of June's late roses filled the summer land
A strange new thing had come into his life,
A something far too strong for his command.
A girl's face smiled thru’ all his dreams at night,
And when at dawn, in terror of his sin
He rose and sought for solace in his books,
Her sweet voice spoke the Latin words therein,
Not "Noster Pater qui est in coelum,"
But this, "Carissima," and "Amo te,"
His soul kept crying when he said the prayer,
In early morning or at close of day.

The summer filled with hopeless battle passed,
And then the dreamy fall-time took its place;
And Andre sat one day, soul sick with fear,
And heard the girl confess with covered face.
He heard her to the end, and then at last
The struggle ended in half pain, half bliss,
For lo, the father caught the girl to him
His soul forgotten in no father’s kiss.

* * * *

When Andre sought his cell at dawn of day,
A new and high resolve were in his face—
The poison in his hand. At matin prayers
Another brother took Fra Andre’s place
And all were silent. In the little cell
The Abbot father held the thin white hand,
And heard the lad’s low whispered broken words,
And said at last, “My son, I understand”—
“Love was before church was,” Andre cried,
“And man before the monk!” “Truly you say,"
The father answered sadly. “God must judge,”
Not we;—Andre, my son, ABSOLVO TE.

But Andre did not die. The poison’s strength
Seemed weakened, happily, by some strange chance,
And after many weeks his strength came back,
And with it came his soul’s peace sure advance—
Calmly and unafraid he faced his work—
The fire had purged his soul, the abbot said,
And left him stronger than the strongest one,
And still he is.—The girl is long since dead.

SONG OF THE ENGLISH.

I sing the song of the English,
English as she is taught,
And never a theme may so worthy seem,
Though with practical profit wrought.

I sing of versification,
Of lyrics and am'rous lays,
And ballads galore, yea, a goodly store
Of ballads of by-gone days.

For no other subject teaches
Truth in such gentle guise,
Would you win to fame and an honored name,
Heed not scientific lies.

And woe to the wight who preaches
Success in another role!
There's but one safe rule for both knave and fool—
'To Ballads! and save your soul.

Forbear, then, to scorn the English,
(Fain would I thwart sad fate)
A ballad or two may save even you,
Prepare, e're it be too late!
THE RETORT CHEMICAL.

If you think you’re educated when you’ve got a little Greek, Can quote a bit of Shakespeare and of Chaucer glibly speak, And can marshall dates of History in neat ranks within your head, Talk of art and economics fairly fit to bore the dead, You are very much mistaken; your poor head with lies is packed; Let me call your strayed attention to this scientific fact. There’s but one plain path to knowledge, though befogged by smoke and fumes, You can smell your way quite safely through the odorific glooms; You must learn how to distinguish pungent smells and odors strange; For intelligence is measured by a wide olfactory range. And it’s wise to know the properties of \( H_2 S O_4 \) And \( H_2 S \) and \( H_2 O \), and a lot of \( H \)’s more For it saves you some confusion, helps much more than one can tell To know whether the said symbol ends in \( N \) or double \( L \). And there’s more in signs and symbols that the laymen ever dream; A chemical analysis, at times, detects the cream That lurks subtly, in solution, in the pitchers at the Dorm; While a germ can’t fool a chemist in its most alluring form. In testing heart reactions for the one and true divinity, The only thing reliable’s the chemical affinity. In short, if you would know Love’s way and quite surely fathom it, Take the laboratory method, and experiment a bit. No other cock-sure system ever yet has been devised, (Don’t, I beg you, trust the THEORIES so highly advertised.) Now, if my classic colleagues are objecting to my style, ’Tis no doubt in classic ignorance they mistake retort for vile. Their wounded pride but proves my point—ONE’S NEVER EDUCATED Until his nerves cerebral are all chemically inflated.

THE BOASTFUL BALLAD OF THE ENGINEERS.

Oh, we are the crew of the College Craft, And our chief is a man of might, And we trim her sail to the stiffest gale, And we weather the darkest night, And none is so gallant and brave as we, As with hammer, and forge, and wheel, With transit and chain, both mountain and plain We fetter with cables of steel.

Rivers and seas we subdue to our will, And torrents and tempests as well, There’s nothing on earth, our strenuous mirth Can’t conquer, destroy, or dispell.

Oh, we are the Crew of the College Craft, We bid her move on or stand still, The others on board, with impotent word, Protest, but must bend to our will. For we are the lords of Things-as-the-are; They, vessels of Things-as-they-seem, As bloodless and thin as the ghost of a sin That was thought by a nun in a dream. Why should we care for a whining ideal That lures from the THING and its pay? Let poets and girls, and weaklings and churls Waste life in this pink-teaish way. Oh, we are the Crew of the College Craft, And never a crew was more fit; While others are mooning about for the way, WE GET THERE—with muscle and grit!
CHANSON DU CONTENT.

Je ne dis pas beaucoup,
Why all this stupid fuss?
Heureux qui ne parle guere,—
It's lots of work to cuss.

Es tut nichts, let them howl;
For me—je sui content;
A foreign phrase serves well
To end an argument.

You haven't got a match?
Non? Voila, c'est si bete!
Tiens! here's my cigarette,
I have no quarrel with fate.

Considering the fact that the University of Montana is a comparatively young institution, and that the first graduating class was in 1898, the Alumni Association will compare with any. It is no longer a power to be, but a definite, enthusiastic reality.

Up to the present time, lack of members has been a great hindrance. Now, however, each incoming class is adding the brightest young minds in the state, and more at a time, until we have a united band that should be able to do something. There is scarcely a town in the State that does not number at least one University graduate among its inhabitants, while others are scattered over more than half the states in the Union. There are even one or two informal little groups that dignify themselves with the title of Alumni Clubs. But what is of more importance than mere numbers is the fact that, as far as known, every University graduate is creditably filling whatever position he may hold,—and there are representatives in all professions.

Because we have been a struggling band of pioneers and therefore very short of funds, we have not as yet accomplished anything very noteworthy. In spite of the floods last June, it was our great pleasure and especial privilege to give Dr. Craig, as a parting gift, a loving cup, to show in a small degree the esteem in which we hold him, the President of our college days. Then again last October when Dr. Duniway was inaugurated, we were able to give the University a transit and level. How we wish it were possible to supply some, if not all, of the needs of our Alma Mater! Some day, of course, things will be more possible than now. In the meantime we can only work faithfully and wait patiently.

Be the future what it may, the alumni can never entirely remove themselves from that precious responsibility—the improvement of our college. And may it be our just boast that not one of the alumni does anything to bring discredit upon the University for even as the years pass we feel more and more keenly the full significance of the old COLLEGE YELL,

"Wherever, Whenever, However, Montana Forever."

E cannot say that it has been a very successful one for Montana.

Montana’s 1908 track team, though going to defeat in both of its big meets, was composed of some of the strongest men that have ever represented the University on the track. In both meets Montana was strong, and in each case gave its opponents a close race.

The baseball situation, last year, was one which was rather gloomy. The team itself was strong, and a good schedule was arranged, but our opponents, due to prejudice and fear of defeat, accused us of violating the inter-collegiate athletic rules under which we were playing, and called off their games, without seeking further information as to whether or not their accusations were true.

Due to a ruling that the Faculty made at the beginning of the collegiate year, 1908-9, that no professional coaches should be employed to train any University athletic team, the football team was somewhat handicapped in getting down to work. But, as soon as Coach White came on the field, improvement began and continued throughout the season. In the first game Montana tied the “Aggies” but were defeated by them later in the season. They won from the “Miners” the first time but were beaten by them in the second game. In the meantime, the School of Mines had defeated the Agricultural College. This gave the “Miners” first place in the race, the “Aggies” second, and the “Varsity” third. Regardless of this record, Montana had its share of men on all the “All-Montana Teams” that were selected, and at present has an abundance of good football material.

The University has taken no part in athletic contests this semester. This step was taken on account of the effect caused by introducing into the institution a higher standard of scholarship for athletes.

We have taken the lead among the collegiate institutions of Montana in enforcing the rules of the Montana inter-collegiate athletic association. The University has also taken a step forward in introducing the system, which so many eastern institutions have taken up, of procuring amateur coaches.

And, although athletics at Montana have been subject to many adverse conditions during the past year, they are entering into a new era, one which promises to bring the greatest success.

COACH WHITE had been working with the team just a week when the first game was pulled off. The Varsity went into the game with seven green men, and used nothing but straight line plays and end runs, and the Aggies resorted to the same style of play. The game was a good exhibition of the old style of football throughout.
Montana kicked off to the Aggies at the south goal. On the next play Montana recovered the ball on a fumble, and lost it on an unsuccessful pass. From that time until the end of the half, it was bucking the line for a few yards and punt. The ball was in the Aggies territory most of the time, being within striking distance once. The half ended with the ball on the Aggies 25-yard line.

The second half opened with the Varsity receiving the ball at the south goal, and returning it to the center of the field, on a spectacular run. Montana had a decided advantage in this half also, but could not get the needed score.

Ryan and Winstanley starred for the Varsity, and Fransham did the bulk of the work for the Farmers.

October 17—M.S.S.M. vs. U. of M.—5-3

The second game of the season was played on the home grounds with the School of Mines, on October 17. The Montana team showed a great deal of improvement over the game with the Aggies a week previous, but still had some weak points.

Hartsuck kicked off for the visitors, to the ten yard line and the ball was advanced five yards. The first play resulted in a fumble and with an illegal pass, from which a ten yard penalty resulted, the Varsity was on their five yard line. A thirty yard punt put the goal out of danger. After ten minutes of straight football the Miners pushed the ball over for the first touchdown. The goal was missed. Later in the half, a fumbled punt by the Miners on their goal line gave the Varsity a safety. The half ended with the ball on Montana’s thirty yard line and with the score five to two in favor of the Miners.

SECOND HALF.

The Miners could not keep up the fast pace they set in the first half, while the Varsity grew stronger and faster. The Butte team had a chance to score by a place kick but it was blocked and the ball was carried back sixty yards. A few minutes later another punt was fumbled by the Miners and a Varsity man fell on it behind the goal line. With the score 8 to 5 and a few minutes left to play, the Miners kicked off. They could not do a thing with Montana’s defense and the game ended with the ball on their fifty yard line.

November 6—M.S.S.M. vs. U. of M.—5-4

On November 6th Montana went down in defeat at the hands of Montana State School of Mines at Butte, by the score of 5-4. Just six and a half minutes after the first kick-off, the Miners got their first and only score.
Captain Little of the School of Mines won the toss and chose the west goal, which put the wind at their backs. Montana kicked off to their ten yard line, and the ball was advanced ten yards. Both Montana's defense and offense seemed to be weak, and with a few exchanges of punts and some fierce line plunges, the Miners were on the Varsity three yard line. Here Montana held them for downs. This necessitated a punt from behind the goal line. It went low, hit a Montana man and bounced behind the goal line, where a Miner fell on it. The Miners missed their try at goal, making the score 5-0. This was the only time that the School of Mines was within striking distance of the University's goal, but was sufficient to win the game. Montana worked forward passes for several large gains, while the Miners played straight football throughout. The half ended with the ball on the Miners' thirty-five yard line.

In the second half Montana played the Miners to a standstill, working the forward pass and onside kicks to perfection. The punting, in this half was the feature of the game, averaging sixty yards. With about five minutes to play Webster received an onside kick and ran twenty-five yards to the Miners' fifteen yard line, where two unsuccessful line plunges were tried. It was here with three minutes left to play, that Winstanley put the ball between the goal posts from placement. Two minutes later time was called with the ball in the center of the field, leaving the final score 5-4 in favor of the Miners.
November 20—M.A.C. vs. U. of M.—5-0

On November 20th, the Aggies sent the University to the foot of the ladder in the championship race.

In this game also, Montana showed her superiority in playing the new game of football. Time after time the Varsity carried the ball to the Aggies' twenty and twenty-five yard line, and there to lose it because of the inability to make gains through their heavy line.

M. A. C. kicked off. The Varsity carried the ball down the field, and had it on their five yard line before they got in the game. Here they held the "U" for downs, and started the ball back, but lost it on an onside kick. Forward passes took the Varsity to their thirty yard line, where a try for a goal was missed. It developed into a punting game, and toward the end the Aggies had the advantage, the ball being on Montana's ten yard line when time was called.

M. A. C. started the second half with greater strength, while the Varsity seemed weaker. Ten minutes after the half opened Fransham got away, through a broken field, and ran thirty-five yards for a touchdown. Norton missed the goal. They had the ball within striking distance twice later in the half, but could not score. The Varsity got stronger as the game progressed, and took the ball to the Aggies' five yard line and lost it on an illegal play. When time was called the ball was in M. A. C.'s territory. The final score was 5 to 0.

Lives of great men all around us
Life is really not worth while
If we can not leave behind us
Some excuses for a smile.

BILL OF FRANK
Come and have a smile with me

Wise and Otherwise

As an introductory word the editors wish to remind the kind reader that there is nothing new under the sun and we might add the moon and stars when it comes to jokes.

In our endeavor to depart from the line of Sentinet traditions we have decided to leave out that touching little picture of school life portraying the annual staff on the way to Warm Springs after the completion of its year’s work. While this is a bold stand to take we feel that this joke needs a rest to have its point sharpened. It has been used with telling effect in the last five Sentinels and Prof. Aber asserts that the first time he heard it he kicked the foot out of his cradle.

With these few remarks we invite your attention to the pages that follow.

Prexy—"Re-quirements."

136
"THE GREAT COLLEGE GAME"

RICHARDS—"Make mine the same" (?)
Purr-rr-rr-

"Hello! this is the Sentinel."

"Oh, no! we won't put anything in the Sentinel about the office."

"J. B. won't like it? Well, well! But you won't care, will you?"

"All right. I will assure you that you need fear nothing, Laura. I won't let anything go to press about you and Dan either. Goodbye."

Ching-ling-ling!

"Yes—oh! Miss Fox? What's that? —a hit at the Kappa Ball?"

"Well I should say. What a shame? Depend upon me, I shall do what I can to keep your name out of the locals."

"What? Speak louder?"

"Oh! Massey! You bet he is a nice little boy, but as long as you insist we will take your names out of the 'Lover's List.'"

"Oh, No! The pleasure is all yours."

Brrrrrr-rrr-

"Yes, this is the office."

"Is that you, Professor Snoddy?"

"You don't want to be joshed this year?"

Dana—"This chalk is on the pig."
"Knowledge is power. Then knowledge derived from ponies is horse power."

"How would it be if some of the girls wrote it? Would it be all right?"

"Yes! yes! That's what we thought. We all considered it pretty good. By the way, Prof., she's from Missouri, isn't she?"

"So you want us to get up something on Prof. Underwood. What could you suggest? Oh! that old joke last year?"

"Much obliged."

"What is that?"

"Brrr-rr-r."

"Why, certainly; we can easily announce that you are the only literary shark in college."

"I believe it will have to go in the advertising section. You know the rates, don't you?"

"You don't want your name? How would it be to put a plain 'A. W.' on the end; you know that is known all over college."

"Just a moment, what real decent stuff have you written for the Kaimin this year."

"Zip! Smash! Bang!"

"What's the matter? Science Hall? Why Hello, Kessler, how are you, anyway?"

"What, you won't stand for 'BISMARCK'? Well, we are very sorry but it has been sent to the publishers already."

"We would be pleased. I think we could arrange for a full page insert just before the president's."

"Yes, we can put it in a place where it will show off well. Thank you."

There it goes again.

"Hello!"

"Oh, Hello, Prof."

"You say you have a story for the literary department?"

"If it is just like the one you published in the Kaimin, it will be acceptable."

"Let us put your initials to it, thus: J. H. —What's that? No!

"That will be fine. No one will know who 'DISCIPILIUS' is."

"S'long."

DINSMORE—"I am growing 'Weiry' of Helen."
"It is presumed that classes in Physical Culture will be resumed in the near future."
Dorm Philosophy

Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise; so co-eds come to college.

Dorm Girl's Motto—“Don't eat anything; just grin and gain.”

None but the brave deserve the fair (fare).

A Dorm Girl with one idea spells it thus—'grub'.

It is reported that the Dormitory Milk Man is always on the "waterwagon".

Why should the co-eds set good examples?
Because the young men are so apt to follow them.

Things Some People Say and Do

The literary tone of the Kaimin was much improved last month by the addition of two pages of advertising matter.

"I keep my boarders longer than you do," said the Dorm landlady.
"Oh, I don't know," replied the other, "you keep them so thin they look longer than they really are."

Bill Vealey—“Say Van, if you would say, 'Six, slimy, slick, slender, saplings,' you would soon be alright.”
Van Eman—“Y-es bu-but it's a h-hard expression to b-bring into c-c-conversation.”

O’Rourke (before party)—“Our Bible doesn't look worn enough.”
Line—“Go over and borrow Prof. Rowe's.”

“How can I keep my rat from showing?"
Dorm Girl—”Use Herpicide.”

McCULLOUGH—“I’ll take -er- lemon aid.”
The Deed, The Actors, and The Result

REWARD.

FIVE DOLLARS REWARD FOR name of party who defaced the sign-board on South Fourth street with red college figures. Five dollars reward for name of party who stole the trestle from said board. J. J. Curran.

BISHOP—"A fascinating red-head."

"College is merely a means to an end; the end comes for some immediately."
F I N I S

Now the book is finished. But before submitting our work to the publishers, the Editors wish to thank all those who have been so kind in assisting, especially Mr. Charles Eggleston, Miss Clanton, Miss Rosean, and Miss Reed, whose drawings have done so much toward making our book what it is. We wish also to acknowledge our appreciation of Dr. Elrod's work in furnishing many photographs used throughout the book. We are grateful, too, for the valuable ideas of the 1909 Sentinel Editors, and for the assistance of all others, who have helped in various ways.

Everything is over but the verdict. We have made mistakes but they must stand, we cannot run a correction in the next issue. It is now up to you. We are not satisfied nor have we come up to our expectations, yet we have tried to convey a representation of our Alma Mater. We have tried to indicate, at least, a glimpse of the local college spirit,—to suggest something of what our University means to us.

If then, we have accomplished this end, in any degree, we shall consider our time well spent.

"Sophomore" and "College Cut" are two standard makes of clothes specially designed and styled for students who universally desire that distinctiveness and dash so becoming to them. The college boy looks "nifty", not because he spends more money for his clothes—but because he knows how to select them. In view of this fact, we have just secured two different lines, "Sophomore" and "College Cut" clothes that are made for the sole purpose of satisfying the just demands of college students. Don't buy until you have seen our complete line of college clothes in the new models and latest patterns.
