Salutations to the editors and readers of the 1931 Sentinel. As you review the significant social, recreational, athletic and cultural events of your current college days may you have keen satisfaction in the achievements recorded. May you be assured that high evaluation will be accorded your work and the events which you chronicle when they are judicially reviewed decades hence by students of education and collegiate values.

MELVIN A. BRANNON,
Chancellor.
Memories are as fickle as precious minerals. They sometimes fail us in times of test. Some we would like to forget throng to plague us. Others are worth making every effort to retain. Memories of friends, college chums, and contests won or lost, are a mine of satisfaction and cheer; and may form a culture which furnishes the wherewithal for further progress. If life is to be worth living, it must keep going ahead. Nothing is so disheartening as being stopped too long. May the 1931 Sentinel prove good prospecting for all on the campus of Montana's State University.

CHARLES H. CLAPP.
President.
it raises inner forces and brings to light much unknown, it produces new sources.

"And he who says: 'See, here is a fountain for many thirsty ones, a heart for many longing ones, a mind for many tools,' around him a people will gather, that is, many who will attempt."

So, with the University, its worth is not in money, but to better the world. So, also, its students should aim to improve the world rather than to get ahead in it.

FREDERICK C. SCHEUCH.
Vice-president.
The yearbook, the Sentinel, sets down the events of this year in order that in the future you may review them with memory refreshed. May the verdict of your last reading of this book in years to come be that it was well worth your while to have spent this year at the University of Montana.

R. H. JESSE,
Dean of Faculty.

Athletics is a symbol of the University, and an enterprise which has an almost universal appeal. This fact is attested by the number of alumni who made contributions for financing Dornblaser Field. The debt which alumni owe their alma mater can not be measured in money, but their appreciation has been shown by these sacrifices. May this symbol of the University—our athletic enterprises—ever continue to be a symbol of the best in sportsmanship.

J. B. SPEER,
Registrar and Business Manager.
The people of the State of Montana, by passing the Referendum Measures by a good majority in the last election, have expressed confidence in the desirability of college education for the youth of this state. Only by putting forth your greatest effort to profit by your University experience can you justify the confidence which they have placed in you. You can repay them only by your contribution of real service to your community.

HARRIET RANKIN SEDMAN,
Dean of Women.

The successful development of Montana's athletics during the past five years has been due in a large measure to the efforts of Major Milburn who has been much more than "the coach" to the men who have been in any way associated with him. The faculty and the entire student body join with the football squad in regretting the departure of an excellent teacher and a loyal friend.

J. E. MILLER,
Dean of Men.
It is with regret that we Seniors say "Goodbye" to the University of Montana. We have grown to love Missoula with its blizzards and its marvelous Springs. Even the wind tearing out of Hell Gate leaves pleasant memories.

In these four years, we have made many strong and lasting friendships besides pleasant acquaintances that will remain with us as long as we can remember. There is something about this University and its campus that gets hold of all of us somehow and there will always be a warm spot in our hearts for our college days.

MARJORIE STEWART.
A. W. S. President.

To give a suitable message to Major Milburn from the student body is a difficult job. The feeling that the students have for him is an intangible thing, hard to get into printed words. The seniors have enjoyed his friendship, have watched his work and have backed him. The rest of the student body is sorry at being deprived of his further leadership and acquaintance. Major has been a prominent and respected figure upon the University campus. The student body says a sorrowful good-bye to a true friend.

CARL S. WALKER,
A. S. U. M. President.
School of Business Administration

Business education in banking, financing, transportation, marketing, merchandising, trading and public utilities, and specialized training in accounting are the aims of the School of Business Administration. In its elementary courses the school gives training for administrative positions in industrial and commercial organizations and in public service.

Commerce club, which meets every two weeks for the discussion of business problems and business subjects of special interest to women, is open to all women students in the school.

Alpha Kappa Psi, national commercial fraternity for men who have attained a certain scholastic standing, fosters research, raises business standards and improves scholarship in the school. This year the fraternity has sponsored a brokerage company in which the members trade on stock prices according to the closing quotations in the Associated Press reports.

The school co-operates with the School of Law in such a way that in six years a student can obtain a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Administration and a Bachelor of Laws degree. The degree normally granted is Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration.

Members of the faculty are: Robert C. Line, dean; Emmett R. Sanford, James B. Speer, professors of business administration; Hampton K. Snell, assistant professor of economics; E. Kirk Badgley, assistant professor of business administration, and Miss Emily Maclay, instructor in typewriting and shorthand.
Although authorized by the Montana State Board of Education, the School of Education was not established by the state legislature until 1930. Last year was the first of the School of Education.

Its main objectives are training superintendents, principals and supervisors for the public schools of Montana and training teachers for the junior and senior high schools and special subjects such as music, art, physical education and home economics; to provide assistance to the schools of the state in the form of testing programs, extension work and expert counsel; to provide opportunities within the state for those who wish to pursue graduate work toward the Master's degree in Education; to encourage investigation and research in the schools of the state; and finally, to unify and coordinate the agencies of the University which contribute to the preparation of those who expect to enter school work.

The school offers curricula for the student working for the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Education and Master of Arts and with the completion of University requirements the Certificate of Qualification to Teach is granted.

Practical work in the senior year of a student in the School of Education is given to the student in teaching in the Missoula schools under the supervision of the regular instructors.

Members of the School of Education faculty are: Freeman Daughters, dean; W. R. Ames and W. E. Maddock, professors of education.
Montana was fortunate in having such a renowned forest authority on its campus during the winter quarter as Dr. C. A. Schenck of Germany. He is recognized as a prominent philologist, an authority on forestry economy and one of the pioneers in American Forestry.

Specialization in various branches of forestry and graduate work for a Master of Science degree are both offered by the School of Forestry in its curriculum.

Forest stands of the Northern Rockies, ample laboratories and laboratory equipment, a valuable school forest of some 1,500 acres of fir, larch and yellow pine, mills, forest nurseries offer graduate and research students exceptional opportunities. The school maintains its own nursery, with a capacity of 1,000,000 trees.

The school occupies one of the higher positions in enrollment among all the schools on the campus and has the distinction of having nearly two-thirds of its members from states other than Montana.

Faculty members of the School of Forestry Staff are: T. C. Spaulding, dean; Irwin W. Cook, professor of forest engineering; Dorr Skeels, professor of silviculture; Fay G. Clark, associate professor of forest management; J. H. Ramskill, associate professor of forest production and T. G. Swearingen, assistant professor of forest engineering.
School of Journalism

Practical training in the work of newspaper making is the purpose of the School of Journalism. It has been extremely fortunate this year in receiving donations from the State Press Association, O. S. Warden, editor of the Great Falls Tribune, and the Anaconda Copper Mining company for equipping the printing laboratory which was instituted.

February 20, the first Montana Kaimin was printed in the School of Journalism. Since then it has regularly been printed on the campus, the realization of a sixteen-year dream for Dean A. L. Stone.

Preliminary plans for a building for the School of Journalism to be dedicated in June, 1932, were approved by the State Board of Education in April. C. J. Forbis, a graduate of the University, was granted the architect's contract.

Donors and equipment include: O. S. Warden, Great Falls Tribune, and the Anaconda Copper Mining company who gave the linotypes, press and type; W. O. Ensign of the Deer Lodge Silver State-Post, who gave the job press and type; Carpenter Paper company, Western Newspaper Union and Leon Shaw of Billings, who gave a saw; students and faculty of the School of Journalism, linotype magazine, planers and accessories, and Mergenthaler Linotype company who gave the matrices and linotype parts.

Members of the faculty are: A. L. Stone, dean; R. L. Housman, associate professor of journalism; Mrs. Inez Abbott, instructor in journalism; and C. W. Hardy, head of the mechanical laboratory.
School of Law

Training in law for three years in addition to two years of pre-legal work is the normal course in the School of Law for a student who is to be granted the degree of L. L. B. The school is one of the oldest on the campus.

The school has a good working library of twenty-three thousand volumes. It includes the reports of the Supreme Court of the United States, the complete Reporter System, all State Reports up to the Reporter System, complete sets of reports not in the Reporter System, English Reports, English Statutes, Canadian Reports, the revision and current statute laws of all the states in the Union, citators, encyclopedias, digests, and all leading collections of cases. To a very great extent the library is the result of the generous gifts and legacies of Mrs. W. W. Dixon and gifts of Judge J. J. McHatton and the Anaconda Copper Mining Company.

Students in the School of Law are organized into a Law school association. Men of distinctive ability in the school are chosen members of Phi Delta Phi, national honorary legal fraternity.

The faculty of the School of Law is composed of C. W. Leaphart, dean; Walter L. Pope and Albert N. Whitlock, professors of law; David R. Mason and J. H. Toelle, associate professors of law; and Miss Charlotte Russell, librarian.
Courses in music which will permit students to become candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts with a major in music are offered by the School of Music. Glee clubs for men and women, the University Symphony orchestra and the University band offer practical experience.

John Crowder, member of the faculty, has sponsored a series of ten recital-lectures for students and townspeople at which he has explained the works of composers and then played their selections.

John Powell, one of America’s foremost pianists, gave a recital in Main hall on March 10 sponsored by John Crowder.

In the concert of the University Symphony in the middle of February three selections composed by Lowndes Maury, Jr., of Butte were featured.

Music club open to all students in the school and Sigma Alpha Iota open to women juniors and seniors of outstanding musical ability are the organizations in the School of Music.

With the absence of Professor Roy Freeburg who instructed in the School of Music and directed the Grizzly band, during the winter and spring quarters Marguerite V. Hood, state supervisor of music, was added to the School of Music faculty. Professor Freeburg continued his studies at the University of Washington. Other members of the faculty are: DeLoss Smith, dean; Mrs. Florence Smith, A. H. Weisberg, professors of music; Mrs. Bernice Berry Ramskill and John B. Crowder, associate professors of music.
Advancing the science of pharmacy and affording students opportunities to obtain a thorough technical education in pharmacy are the purposes of the School of Pharmacy. The degrees of Pharmaceutical Chemist for the three year course and Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy for the four year course are offered by the school.

Students in the school are organized in Pharmacy club which meets monthly to hear talks given by instructors, students, practicing pharmacists or others. Kappa Psi, men's national pharmacy fraternity, and Kappa Epsilon, women's pharmaceutical fraternity, are honoraries open to students doing distinctive work in the school.

On April 19 pharmacy students in the School of Pharmacy with alumni as guests held a banquet for Dean C. E. Mollett in recognition of his twenty-four years of service to the school. This was instituted as a traditional day on the campus for students in the School of Pharmacy.

Acquaintanceship with the growth and characteristics of the official drug plants found in Montana, as well as a number of those successfully introduced from other states, is given in the medicinal plant garden which is maintained by students and faculty.

Members of the School of Pharmacy faculty are Charles E. F. Mollett, dean; John F. Suchy, assistant professor of pharmacy; and Leon F. Richards, instructor in pharmacy.

Junior Garb

Each year since 1922 it has been the custom of the Junior class to select some distinctive article of dress to be worn as the class garb for that year. This year the committee selected sleeveless leather jackets as the class insignia.

The jackets chosen were of dark brown leather with light brown pockets and fringe. On one pocket was the class numeral, '32. The leather jacket was selected in an effort to do away with the old sweater type of dress for the class and to put in its place a piece of clothing typical of the West.

The idea of a junior garb was started by the class of '23 which wore gray corduroy trousers. For three years corduroy knickers were selected as the garb and in 1927 gold-trimmed red vests were adopted. At this time women also started wearing the apparel.

Maroon-colored blanket coats trimmed with gold and silver were next used by the class of '29 and they were followed by green slipover sweaters with a black "30" on the side. The class of 1931 wore orange coat sweaters with the numeral on the pocket.

Both men and women members of the class are permitted to wear the garb and are thus easily distinguished from the other classes of students on the campus.

This year's junior garb committee was composed of Phillip Patterson, chairman; Adelaide Olinger, Jeanette McGrade, William A. Brown and James McNally.

Soph Dance

Every year it is a tradition for the members of the sophomore class to entertain the freshman class at an informal dance. The dance is held during the fall quarter and serves as a social gathering in which the incoming class becomes acquainted with the upperclass men and women.

The dance is complimentary to the freshman class and during the winter quarter it is the custom for the freshmen to return the favor by giving a dance in honor of the sophomores.

This year the dance was held down town at the Elite hall and the patrons and patronesses were: Dean and Mrs. R. C. Line, Dean and Mrs. T. C. Spaulding, Dean Harriet Rankin Sedman, Professor and Mrs. M. J. Elrod, Professor and Mrs. I. W. Cook, Professor and Mrs. Paul Bischoff and Mrs. Mary Elrod Ferguson. Sheridan’s 10-piece orchestra furnished the music and the dance started at 9 o’clock.

Those in charge of the arrangements for the dance this year were: Berton Matthews, chairman; Mary Breen, chaperons; Sterling Stapp, tickets and programs; Leola Stevens and Mildred Renshaw Wood, refreshments; and Kathryn Coe, decorations.

The dance is open to all students and, being one of the first of the school year, it is always well attended. Complimentary tickets are given to all freshman men. This year there were twelve dances with one prize dance, a prize being given to the best waltzers.

Members of the freshman class were again hosts this year to their traditional rivals, the sophomores, at the annual dance given in honor of the second-year students. This dance is given each year by the freshmen in return for the annual dance given by the sophomores during the fall quarter for the yearlings.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the dance, appointed by President Tad Sanders of the freshman class, was composed of John Dahlin, chairman; Arthur Caven, tickets; Edward Flasted, programs; Jane Adami and Kathryn Bailey, chaperons.

The dance is held during the fall quarter and this year it took place downtown at the Elite hall. Phil Sheridan’s seven-piece orchestra furnished the music and dancing began at 9 o’clock. There were twelve dances and two extras. The usual complimentary tickets were given to all sophomore men and tickets for upperclassmen and freshmen sold for one dollar.

Chaperons for the occasion were: Dean Harriet Rankin Sedman, Mrs. Mary Elrod Ferguson, President and Mrs. C. H. Clapp, Mrs. Maude Betterton, the Alpha Phi housemother, and Mrs. R. J. Maxey, the Kappa Kappa Gamma housemother.

The dance is one of the social highlights of the school year and serves as a social get-together for the members of all classes, especially the freshmen and sophomores. Class strifes are forgotten for the evening and both of the lowerclass groups combine to make this dance one of the most enjoyable of the year.

III ATHLETICS
Coach J. W. Stewart came to the University in 1922 as head coach in charge of football, basketball and track. Such a wide range soon became too much for one man and Stewart confined his efforts to basketball and track. Later, he assumed the duties of director of athletics and is now doing work in the dual role of coach and director. Stewart's track teams have gained much recognition for the school and he has been successful with his basketball squads. Mr. Stewart was at the University of South Dakota before coming to Montana.

Major Frank W. Milburn has been head football coach at Montana for the past five years and in that time has won the respect and esteem of the entire student body as well as of the Missoula people. He has proven himself a real sportsman. Major Milburn is a graduate of West Point where he was a star athlete. When he first came to Missoula he was also head baseball coach but this sport was abandoned here. Milburn has been ordered back to regular army duty this summer and the University will lose a great man.
Dr. W. E. Schreiber is chairman of the Department of Physical Education and Montana’s faculty representative in the Pacific Coast Conference. He came to the University in 1918 and has served as baseball coach, health service director, and athletic director but the duties of the Physical Ed department require so much of his time that other duties have been delegated to other men.

Director of Athletics J. W. Stewart also coaches basketball and track in addition to representing Montana at meetings of the Conference graduate managers who make out athletic schedules.

Football coaching for the past five years has been under the direction of Major F. W. Milburn, formerly coach at Fort Benning, Georgia. Major Milburn will be succeeded in his duties by Bernard F. Oakes, a graduate of the University of Illinois and formerly assistant coach at Nebraska. Milburn has developed a fine spirit of sportsmanship in his teams. He was assisted last fall by Harry Adams. Adams is also Frosh basketball coach and director of intramural athletics.

Freshman football last fall was coached by Jimmie Morrow. Carl Walker coached the frosh linemen. Both these men are former Grizzlies. Morrow was an outstanding back, and Walker was a mainstay of the line.

Harry Adams has developed considerable interest in intramural and minor sports. Through his efforts, minor sports tournaments have been held with Montana State College the past two years.

Montana was fortunate in obtaining Coach Oakes to fill the vacancy left by Milburn. Mr. Oakes has conducted spring football this spring and is making fine progress in developing a football team. He will be assisted by Harry Adams, “Jock” Stewart, and Adolph Lewandowski, former Nebraska end who will report this fall.
"M" Club

The "M" Club is composed of men who have made a letter on one of the State University's athletic teams. It is an honorary organization and membership is automatic with the winning of an "M."

Each year the club sponsors the annual "M" club boxing tournament to determine the championships in wrestling, boxing, and fencing events of the school. Preliminaries are held in the various events during the winter quarter under the direction of the Physical Education department and the finalists all compete for their respective titles at the "M" Club tourney held sometime at the beginning of the spring quarter.

The athletic group also plays an important part in interesting high school athletes in coming to the State University. Dispersal of funds oftentimes used for the "M" Club scholarship awards that are usually given to some prominent high school student who can not afford to attend the University without some financial aid.

At the annual Interscholastic track meet, the members are called upon to aid the running of the meet and to help entertain the visiting contestants.

Carl Walker is president of the organization and Frank Golob is secretary. The club recently started entering the names of all wearers of the "M" in a large book. It is planned to have each member sign his name in the book and to list the sport in which he participated.
The Athletic Board of the State University guides the athletic activities on the campus. The board is composed of Carl Walker, president of A. S. U. M. and chairman of the board: Francis Ruckman, secretary of A. S. U. M., who serves as secretary of the board; Bob Hendon, business manager of A. S. U. M.; J. W. Stewart, director of athletics; E. K. Badgley, student auditor; and Oakley Coffee, representing the alumni of the University.

The duties of the board are to regulate and supervise athletic programs and keep them in harmony with the policy of the institution. They recommend candidates for athletic managers, pass final decision on athletic awards, ratify schedules and control the expenditures of University sports.
Minor Sports Board

Minor sports are attracting increased attention at schools all over the country, athletic directors at several of the larger schools having declared themselves in favor of the sports in which the greatest number of students will be able to participate. In the fall of 1928 minor sports were adopted as a regular part of the University athletic program, to include boxing, wrestling, swimming, fencing, tennis, golf, riflery and cross country racing. Eligibility standards were set to be the same as those of major sports.

This year the only minor sports competition was the dual meet in boxing, wrestling and swimming, with the Bobcats, and the golf and tennis meet at Eugene, Oregon. In the Bobcat meet minor sports awards, consisting of a regulation four inch silver block "M" surrounded by a circle of gold, were earned by Cale Crowley, George Grover, George Haney, Deane Jones and Eddie Krause for boxing victories. Clyde Banfield and August Vidro received awards for wrestling titles earned, while Bob Cooney, Walter Dean and Oliver Hoye earned swimming letters.

To receive a minor sports award in golf and tennis a player must be one of the members of a team chosen to represent the University in an Intercollegiate meet. Rubin Lewon and Dave Fitzgerald attended the meet at Eugene as golf players.

The Board of Control for Minor Sports consists of:
The director of Intramural athletics for men—Harry Adams.
The director of Intramural athletics for women—Harriet Wood.
President of A. S. U. M.—Carl Walker.
President of W. A. A.—Theadora Reed.
President of Women's "M" Club—Margaret Randall.
Student manager of men's minor sports—Harold Dean.
Yell Leaders

Robert "Bob" Hendon served his second year as Yell King of the State University, assisted ably by Dick O'Malley and Roy Woods. In the winter quarter, the return of Billy Burke added another member to the varsity yell group.

The Yell King is appointed by Central Board and serves as a member of that body. It is his duty to organize and lead the cheering sections at all athletic contests and to act as chairman of the Traditions committee, as well as arrange programs for the student gatherings such as Singing on the Steps and student convocations.

At the beginning of each school year, the Yell King usually holds a mass meeting of the students for the teaching of new songs and to acquaint the new students with Montana's traditions, yells, and songs. Many new features in stunt performing are added each year to become a feature at some of the varsity athletic contests.

Bob Hendon, Dick O'Malley, Roy Woods and Billy Burke deserve much credit for the carrying out so successfully the rooting section at all the games the past year.

Next year, the University will have a new Yell King to fill the shoes left by Hendon. Ambitious yell leaders will have a chance to demonstrate their ability for the vacant job.
FOOTBALL
Leonard Schultz was appointed varsity football manager for the 1930 season by Central Board upon the recommendation of the Athletic Board. He served as freshman football manager during the 1929 season after serving as an assistant manager after having gone through two years of apprenticeship.

The requirements of a football squad of over 30 are great, and the resources, ability and perseverance of the manager must be equal to the demands placed upon him. The varsity managers must check material in and out, inspect equipment and keep track of everything that a football team needs while on a trip. In addition to that they must have a knowledge of first aid and be of general assistance to the team.

For his work with the team, the manager is given a small "M" placed on a regulation major sport sweater. This carries an honorary membership in the "M" Club. Because the manager is privileged to accompany the team on all journeys, the position is one much in demand.

Robert Flint was the assistant varsity manager this year. Frank Holmberg served as freshman football manager and was assisted by Albert Brown. Wesley Wertz was the second varsity assistant.

The Squad

Major Frank Milburn completed his coaching career at Montana last fall by producing the most successful team the University has had in many years. Despite a shortage of experienced men and handicapped throughout the season by injuries, the 1930 squad carried on with a fighting spirit to win five of eight games and finished in seventh place in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Starting the fall practice with a large squad, the “smiling major” had a big turnout of sophomores to augment the few returning lettermen. The first game, a practice session with the Anaconda Anodes, and practice scrimmages caused injuries to several candidates. Peterson, veteran tackle, and Davidson, who did some fine work against the Anodes, were lost for the season. As the season progressed, injuries continued to cut down the squad. Forced to depend on reserves, the Grizzlies completed the season in a brilliant manner by taking the last two games from Gonzaga and Idaho. The victory over the Vandals took Montana out of the conference cellar and enabled the Copper, Silver and Gold to place ahead of California, Idaho and U. C. L. A.

Again, last fall, the major used the system of appointing a captain for each game instead of electing a captain. At the end of the season, Waldo Ekegren was chosen by the lettermen as honorary captain. "Fatty" was one of the mainstays of the Grizzly backfield for three seasons playing halfback and occasionally being used at fullback. He was a reliable defensive player and was a consistent threat on offense, being the chief groundgainer on the squad. In the California game last fall, Waldo injured his hand and was kept out of the Gonzaga contest. With his hand still bandaged, he came back in the Idaho tussle to lead his team to victory. Waldo was given all-American honorable mention on several national selections.

Besides Captain Ekegren, nine other seniors completed their football activities for Montana with the close of the 1930 schedule. These men worked hard for the University and will be missed next fall. The other seniors were Tom Moore, Emile Perey, Clyde Carpenter, Ted Rule, Joe Grove, Clarence Mublick, Kermit Ekegren, Frank Spencer and Ray Lyons.

Major Milburn used many substitutes in the opening game against the Anodes in an effort to find out what his men could do. The Anodes gave the Grizzlies a great battle and after Montana had scored two touchdowns, the Anaconda crew took the lead 14 to 12. A great 60-yard run by Carpenter in the last quarter regained the lead for Montana and the final score was 18 to 14 in favor of Milburn's men.
Again, the following Saturday, Milburn used his entire squad to subdue the Hilltoppers of Mount St. Charles. The team had improved greatly during the previous week and had little trouble piling up a 52-0 score. The line opened up huge holes for the backs to make consistent gains. The Grizzly passing attack had the Saints completely bewildered and many long gains came by the air route. Fox was particularly outstanding with his long heaves. As the third and fourth string players entered the fray near its end, the score continued to pile up. The Grizzlies also displayed great defensive power as evidenced by the fact that the Saints marked up only two first downs to the 21 chalked up by Montana. Carpenter did some fine work in the backfield and Vidro was brilliant in his pass receiving.

The following Saturday, the Grizzlies journeyed to Seattle to open the conference schedule with the University of Washington. Coach Phelan, who handled the Husky teams for the first time last fall, put a well drilled team on the field that outplayed Montana. The Husky line was too powerful for the Grizzlies and the Husky backs too fast. Most of Washington's yardage was gained through the line although a good passing attack helped out the triumph. The Seattle defense was so strong that Montana was forced to make most of its gains through the air.

Montana lost several chances to score after taking the ball within five yards of the goal line. Once in the second quarter, Carpenter fumbled as he was crossing the goal line and the Huskies recovered. Late in the game, the Grizzlies lost the ball on downs after taking it to the four-yard line with long passes. Washington scored two touchdowns in each of the second and fourth quarters. The final count was 27 to 0. Carpenter and Waldo Ekegren were outstanding for Montana.
With a rest the weekend following the Washington game, the Grizzlies prepared for the annual classic with Montana State and on October 18 they journeyed to Butte to subdue the squad from Bozeman. Excitement on the Montana campus ran high and a large crowd went to Butte with the team. After a thrilling game the state championship was returned to Missoula following a year’s absence, the first in 22 years. The final score was 13 to 6.

The Grizzlies started fast after Carpenter returned the kickoff 40 yards and soon had the ball on the Aggie one-yard line where a penalty stopped the first drive. But Milburn’s men were not to be denied and after DeFrate punted on first down, another drive was under way that took the ball to the goal line again despite numerous penalties. Waldo Ekegren took the ball across for the first touchdown. Perry’s kick was wide but the extra point was allowed because the Cats were offside.
In the second quarter, Montana continued to pile up yardage with all the men in the backfield making gains. Near the end of the half, Waldo scored another touchdown after consistent gains had completed a 40-yard drive. Perey missed the goal kick. Straight football had resulted in such successful gains that few passes were tried. The half ended 13-0.

The Grizzlies entered the second half with instructions to play a defensive game so the long drives of the first period were not repeated. In this half, the Aggies resorted to passing and although many were incomplete, enough were successful to give the College a touchdown in the last quarter when McFarland caught a toss from DeFrate. Worthington missed the goal attempt. The Bobcats fought hard throughout but made most of their yardage in the last period. Montana completely outplayed their College foes as the yardstick figures show 17 first downs for the Grizzlies to 5 for the Aggies.

The following Saturday, Montana met the Cougars of Washington State College on the Pullman field. W. S. C. had already defeated the strong Southern California squad and later finished the season undefeated for the Conference title. Milburn’s men entered the fray as the underdogs but determined to fight. The Cougars were too strong and despite a stubborn Grizzly spirit. W. S. C. won 61-0. Carpenter was the leading ground gainer of either team. He made 95 yards from scrimmage play.

Next the Grizzlies travelled to Berkeley for a game with the California Bears on November 1. The Montana team fought hard and held the score to six points at the end of the first half. Heat took its toll in the second period as the Grizzlies weakened and California sent in many reserves. Montana reserves could not stand up under the battering of the Bear subs. The final count was 46-0. Carpenter and Ekegren were injured during the game and forced to quit. Carpenter did some great work before he was taken out.

Returning from California, the team had an open date before they met Gonzaga on Dornblaser field. With most of the regular backs injured and... several linemen laid up. Major Milburn had to start many substitutes against the Bulldogs and the outcome looked anything but bright. Cox and Madden, regular fullbacks, were both on the sick list and Lowell Dailey, a substitute tackle, was moved to the backfield. Kermit Ekegren, regular quarterback, was shifted to a halfback post and Cale Crowley and Dick Fox held down the safety position. Accurate passes by Fox resulted in many long gains and two touchdowns as well as two goal conversions. Tom Moore started at the other halfback and played a fine game, being a consistent ground gainer.

In the second quarter, Fox and Moore made steady gains toward the goal and Moore went over for the first score. Soon after, a bad pass went by Fox and the Bulldogs gained two points on a safety which was augmented by a touchdown just before the half ended. Starting the last half one point behind, Montana opened up in a hurry and Vidro raced to a touchdown after catching a long pass from Fox. In the last quarter, Fox flipped a long one to Kermit Ekegren in the end zone for another score. Soon after, line plays again took the ball goalward and Fox went over for the last two yards and a touchdown. McKenna, fleet Gonzaga back, caught the final kickoff and raced to a touchdown. The final score was 27 to 15 in favor of Montana. Vidro and Lyons played brilliantly at end.

The last game of the season was against Idaho at Missoula. Again cold weather prevailed but Milburn’s men were inspired by their triumph of the previous week and were aroused to fight. They started with a bang. Carpenter and Ekegren were back in the lineup and made several long runs. Consistent gains through the line brought two touchdowns in the first half. Idaho made a touchdown in the last quarter mostly due to the steady line plunging of Wilke, strong Vandal fullback. The final count showed Montana on the long end of a 12 to 6 score. The season was over and the squad’s work well done.
Coach Morrow had the largest turnout for frosh football last fall in the history of the school and he developed an undefeated team that rivaled the famous champions of 1923.

The Cubs played four regular games on their schedule. They defeated Missoula High 25 to 12, the School of Mines 51 to 0, Intermountain Union College 25 to 0 and the Bobkittens 32 to 0. The only trip for the Cubs was to Helena where they played Intermountain Union College.

Some of the outstanding players on the Cub squad were Smith, Loomis, Williams, McCall, Jenkins, Thompson, Kuka, Reynolds, Johnson, Caven, Shoemaker, Vickerman and McDonald.
BASKETBALL
Basketball Managers

Hugh Lemire served as Varsity basketball manager for the season of 1930-31 and made all of the trips with Coach Stewart’s men. For his efforts he was awarded the manager’s "M" which is emblematic of service, time and effort devoted to the University. Last year he was assistant Varsity basketball manager. His assistants were Phil Patterson, David Fitzgerald, Lehman Fox and Howard Place.

These five men looked after the equipment, attended to minor injuries and kept score for all the games. It was their job, as it is with all managers, to take care of all details, and they did it in a very satisfactory manner in spite of the small managerial squad.

As it is in the other sports, the manager undergoes first a two-year period of apprenticeship. Then he serves a year as assistant to the varsity manager or the manager of the freshman team. In the following year one of these two men is appointed by Central Board on the recommendation of the Athletic Board to the position of Varsity manager. The manager of any major athletic team at the University is awarded a sweater similar to those received by lettermen but with a smaller "M."

Lemire succeeded Bill Crawford who was manager of the Varsity basketball team during the season of 1929-30. Phil Patterson, last year’s freshman basketball manager, advanced to assistant Varsity manager this year.

Varsity Basketball

With many lettermen missing and some good prospects failing to return to school, Coach Stewart was faced with a hard task to develop a basketball team last winter. Added to this, injuries took several good men from the squad but regardless, a Grizzly team was put on the floor that made a good showing for itself. Stewart’s men won nine of 14 games during the regular schedule after gaining much experience on a barnstorming trip to the south on which only one game of eight resulted in victory for Montana.

Billy Rohlffs, veteran forward, was captain of Grizzly basketeers this year. Rohlffs was a regular forward on the Varsity for three years and this year was the leading scorer of the team. Billy played forward and was high scorer on the undefeated frosh team of 1928. At the end of the past season, Glenn Lockwood was chosen captain for the 1932 season. Glenn was a reserve guard in 1930 and this year won a regular berth at that position.

Coach Stewart and his men started on the barnstorming trip after only about a week of organized practice. The team left Missoula the day after Christmas and played Utah in the first game the next night. The veteran Utes won out in the last few minutes. The Grizzlies then journeyed to Los Angeles for two games with U. C. L. A. and two with U. S. C. Montana forced the Uclans to the limit before the latter finally won by a single point. The next night, U. C. L. A. won by a large margin. Southern California won the first of the two games there but Montana came back the next night to take the decision by a four-point margin.

Stanford was Montana’s next opponent and after an exciting game with the lead changing often, the Cardinals took a one-point victory. The University of California furnished the opposition the following night. The game was close most of the way but the Grizzly defense weakened several times to allow the Bears to win. California later won the championship of the Southern division but lost out to Washington in the playoff for the conference title.

On January 8, the Grizzly squad closed the barnstorming trip against the University of Nevada. The Wolf pack finished strong to take the game by one point, making the third game Montana lost by that score. Stewart used most of the squad in every game. Andrews led the scoring in the Utah game but Rohlfss was ahead in the other games as well as in the total.

The home schedule was opened against the School of Mines. Montana took both games by scores of 40 to 21 and 47 to 17. Stewart used the entire squad in both games but the regulars and first substitutes did most of the scoring.
The following weekend. Gonzaga came to Missoula and the Grizzlies copped two more games with scores of 33 to 27 and 38 to 22.

The Grizzlies journeyed to Bozeman the next week to engage their ancient foes in a two-game series. Despite the loss of their all-Americans, the Aggies put a good team on the floor. Their defense was too tight the first night and Montana was on the short end of a 42-34 score. In the second game, Montana opened with a fast passing attack and led all the way. The Grizzly defense was tighter than the previous night and the final score was 31 to 29.

The Grizzlies stopped in Butte following the Bobcat games for a return engagement with the School of Mines. The Orediggers were stopped again by scores of 47 to 27 and 49 to 18.

The next home games were with Mount St. Charles. The first game was fast all the way and a good exhibition of basketball with the Grizzlies coming out ahead, 59 to 25. Both teams let up the second night and the game was slow but the Grizzlies kept their home slate clean with a 41 to 18 victory.

The last trip on the schedule was to Spokane where Montana dropped two games to Gonzaga. Both games were rough. The first was close most of the way with the Bulldogs ahead, 33-28. The Grizzlies hit a slump the next night and the Bulldogs went on a scoring spree to grab a 42 to 18 decision.

The season was closed at home with the Bobcats taking both of the return games. The first game ended with a 35-24 score. The game was rough but the Aggies were superior. The second game was a thriller. The lead changed often and at half time Montana led, 16-14. In the second period, both teams fought hard with Montana State coming out ahead, 33 to 31, and the state title remained in Bozeman for another year.

The men who completed their basketball for Montana this year were Billy Rohlffs, John Lewis, Don Stocking, Jack Doherty, and Frank Thrailkill.
Frosh Basketball

Rapid scoring featured the play of the freshman basketball squad as it rushed through the season undefeated. The Cubs, composed of many former Montana high school stars, won the six games played and scored an average of 60 1/6 points a game for a new high scoring record for University basketball. Opponents tallied an average of 18 1/3 points a game.

Harry Adams, freshman basketball coach, stated that the present freshman class would furnish more Varsity material than any other Cub squad in recent years. Several prospective Varsity basketball players were developed. Chalmer Lyman, tall center, was indispensable on rebounds and his height and jumping ability made him a valuable pivot man. In the six games played he scored 114 points to lead the rest of the squad. Walter Smith was next in the scoring column with 69 points to his credit. James Freebourne followed Smith closely with a total of 65. Arthur Caven turned in capable and fast games as running guard.

Fourteen freshmen were on the squad and all received numerals, all being nearly on par as to playing ability. Injuries or forced substitutions did not weaken the Cub machine; it kept up its vigorous scoring attack.

TRACK
While it is generally known that track men work hard in their events, it is sometimes overlooked that the track manager and his assistants have no easy job. A few of his duties besides that of making trips are assisting the coach, help score the meets, watch the condition of the track and field, inspect equipment and give the men rub-downs every night.

In the past it has sometimes been difficult to obtain someone who would undertake the responsibilities of track manager. This year the personnel of the managers included six names. Under the leadership of Robert H. Boden, Missoula, the squad did its work very efficiently this year. His assistants were Bill Morrison, Livingston; Lawrence Neff, Missoula; Bob Schroeder, Missoula; Howard Gullickson, Missoula, and Jake Kurtz, Hamilton.

Boden, a junior in the department of mathematics, was appointed track manager by Central Board following recommendation by the Athletic Board. In order to become a manager the student must work up to the position by spending at least two years as an apprentice. The first year he is just a member of the staff. The second year he must be either freshman manager or assistant Varsity manager. Finally, in order to become the manager of a major sport at the University, he must be recommended more highly than his competitors.

The Squad

The season of 1930 was a fair one for the University. The season opened with the relay meet at Seattle and the University placed in the medley relay and the discus. At that time Montana had not had time to condition itself for the carnival.

The University outpointed its opponents in the State Intercollegiate meet, having 13 more points than the second place team, Montana State College. Emile Perey, the University’s one-man track team, gathered 10 1/2 points to lead the individual scoring.

The following Saturday the University turned the Gonzaga meet in Missoula into a runaway; at the end of the relay the official scorers announced the score as 112 points favoring the Grizzlies to 18 for the Bulldogs. Emile Perey and Claude Samples were high point men with a total of 27 points divided between them.

The next week the University lost its only dual meet since 1927 and that to Idaho, 84-47. The other defeat was dealt to the University by W. S. C. in 1927 when victory or defeat balanced precariously on the result of the relay race. The University lost when one of the Montana runners pulled a tendon.

In the Idaho meet, though, Bob Nelson lifted the Montana state inter-collegiate record from 6 feet 1/10 inch to 6 feet 7/8 inch.

In the conference meet at Pullman, Bob Nelson was the only point winner for Montana: he tied first in the high jump at 6 feet 7/8 inch, tying his own state record.

At the end of the season the track lettermen elected Emile Perey and Archie Grover joint captains for the season of 1931.
Emile Perey, the iron man of Montana track annals, competed in five events in most of the track meets last year. He scored points in the discus, shot put, high jump and the low and high hurdles, and took high point honors in two meets in 1930. In the Intercollegiate meet Perey took first in the discus and high hurdles, and tied for third in the high jump. In the Gonzaga meet he was even more active, taking enough places to give him a total of 14 points. Perey was also noted for his consistent play as end on the football team. Husky and fast, he could stand the continual strain of a hard football campaign, and at times his sparkling play marked him as one of the best ends Montana has ever had.

Archie Grover, the other captain, has confined his athletics to one branch, track. He has done a good job of that. Not every man is captain of a major sport. As a sophomore, Grover won the half mile in the State Intercollegiate meet, and repeated his triumph over Idaho with a 2-minute eight-tenths second half mile. In his junior year, Archie was a member of the medley relay team which took third in the Seattle relay carnival; returning to Missoula he placed five points in the Grizzly scoring column by taking first place in his specialty at the Intercollegiate meet. These are a few of his first places.

Stewart is planning to have Archie run the quarter mile if his condition warrants the pace. So far Grover has been credited with a quarter mile under 51 seconds and with better condition should lower that time.

With Watson, Bills, Rossiter, Bob White and Andrews from former frosh teams, it was thought that the University might score a good many points in the conference meet but from the start of the season the men were handicapped. Snow, wind and cold rains hindered the squad as they attempted to limber up on Dornblaser track. The cold was intense in late March and throughout the month of April. The men could not begin the drive to get in running condition. For one week about the middle of March the tracksters were forced

Grover takes the half

Start of the two-mile from the track when snow and bitter winds raged in unseasonable weather.
Until May 1 the track and field men had not seen more than three warm days consecutively.

During this time the flu was raging through the squad, at one time as many as eight men being out with that disease. Tom Lowe, John Bills, Bud and Archie Grover, Joe Roe, Tom Rowe, Loftsgaarden and Armon Glenn were confined to bed with the epidemic.

April 22-23 high winds, sweeping into the canyon formed by Dornblaser bleachers and Mount Sentinel opposite, scooped out huge holes in the cinder track and exposed the rocks in the foundation. It looked like a miniature battlefield. Dornblaser track, considered one of the fastest tracks in the west, had only recently been plastered with clay and cinders which had been rolled, packed and watered daily for the past three weeks. All of it undone by two days of the worst wind that Missoula has suffered in years.
Work has been done and will continue to be done on the track but Stewart does not expect to get the track to its former excellence this year. It will be necessary to rework the track and level it. This will not have been accomplished before next spring.

As a result of the triple handicap, poor weather, sickness and a damaged track, pessimism was the predominant note of the track symphony. In early season Stewart had said that the University would not win a track meet this year because of the handicap which the track men had been under all season.

The weather conditions did not improve up to May first. The track continued to be somewhat bare, and the track men who had been sick were slow to convalesce; some of them had quit track under the doctor's orders.

The men on the squad, however, did not seem to be disheartened—they worked hard and appeared at practice regularly. Every day that it was possible some 40 men worked out on the field, but there is no doubt that they weren't handicapped.

In spite of the unusual disadvantages, some of the track and field men have been turning in some excellent performances. Clarence Watson, holder of the state interscholastic mile record, has been running his event in rapid fashion, and has a time of 1 minute 59.6 seconds for the half mile. This is only four-tenths of a second above the state intercollegiate record held by Barkes Adams, University.

Bob Nelson, up to the time of the Interclass meet, has been breaking his own state record regularly; his best jump being 6 feet 2½ inches, 1½ inches above his record established last year.

"Snick" Lockwood has been throwing the javelin around 190 feet which is 4 feet over the state record. Both of these men should break the state intercollegiate records in their respective events before the present track season ends.
Bob White, a promising lad from last year’s frosh team, will bring in some points for the University in the 880-yard run and the quarter-mile, having done a 2-minute half-mile and the 440-yard dash in 50.8 seconds.

Henry Murray and Emile Perey should score a great number of points in the shot and discus with Walter Cox to help them.

Harold Ruth and Al Flint have been threatening the state record in the broad jump, Ruth having the best jump at present with a leap of 22 feet 1 inch.

Elbert Covington should give the other sprinters some fast competition in the dashes. Robert Parmenter, Donald Stevingson and John Bills have been doing 10 flat in the 100-yard dash, and running the 220 in a commendable fashion.

In the hurdles the University will depend upon Al Spaulding and Emile Perey. The two-mile will have Robert Blakeslee, Lewis Steensland and possibly Clarence Watson. Glenn Lockwood and Schultz will throw the javelin.
Billy Burke and Hugh Lemire will compete in the pole vault. Bob Nelson will lead the high jumpers again this season with Emile Perey and Dave Rossiter pushing him for the "top." Harold Ruth and Al Flint, either one of whom may break the state record, will do the broad jumping for the Varsity. Bob White, Archie Grover and Elbert Covington will run the quarter mile, all of them setting a fast pace.

In late March Gonzaga telegraphed that it would be unable to hold the triangular meet with the University and Whitman scheduled to be held at Spokane May 9. Stewart took advantage of the cancellation to put his men through some tough conditioning events.

Displaying clean-cut superiority in the shot put, the high and low hurdles, the high and broad jump, the quarter-mile, the 100-yard dash and the javelin, the seniors won the Interclass track meet with a total of 65½ points. Their nearest competitors, the frosh scored 34 1/2 points, the sophomores 24 1/2 and the juniors 15 1/2.

Al Spaulding and Perey strode over the high hurdles in a dead heat with the clock at 16.1 seconds. Because he knocked down four hurdles Spaulding was given second, and the seniors eight points.

Lithe as a cat. Bob Nelson cleared 6 feet in the high jump, and Harold Ruth, another senior, took a first place with a leap of 21 feet 4 inches in the broad jump.

Both the mile and two-mile races were thrilling as the runners sprinted up the homestretch grouped together. Clarence Watson won both races with Bob Blakeslee pushing him for the lead in the two-mile and Joe Roe, a freshman, threatening to come home in front in the mile. Watson was timed in the mile at 4 minutes 29.3 seconds and the two-mile was announced as 9 minutes 59.2 seconds.
This year J. W. Stewart, Varsity track coach, has handled both the frosh and Varsity track teams. Harry Adams, former frosh track coach, was transferred to the intramural sports department early this spring and has occupied his time with that.

Poor weather from the start of the season hampered the frosh team. In spite of the unseasonable coldness and windy conditions, the frosh tracksters were turning in good time in some of the events.

In the Interclass meet the frosh scored 34½ points, placing second to the seniors who won the meet with 65½ points. The frosh showed particular strength in the 220-yard dash, the half-mile, the mile, the pole vault and the broad jump.

Joe Roe and Bill Erickson have been running the half-mile in fast time and have been making a commendable showing in the mile. George Robertson has been giving the Varsity some trouble to keep out in front in the sprints, and has been high jumping about 5 feet 10 inches. Jack Bainton and Bill Disbrow have been concentrating on the broad jump. Myron Johnson is competing in the two-mile run. Winfried Christopher has vaulted over 11 feet with his team-mate, Lewis McDonald.

Some of the best men on the frosh squad have been taking part in spring football. This group includes Arthur Caven and Walter Smith.
INTRAMURAL
The second annual minor sports meet between Grizzlies and Bobcats and the annual "M" club tournament were the high-lights of the 1930-1931 season of Intramurals. Baseball, basketball, golf, tennis and miscellaneous events attracted more than the usual number of participants, but the wealth of excellent material in boxing, wrestling and swimming put the two big events into the lead as far as arousing interest was concerned.

Elimination of contenders for the "M" club tourney began early in February under the supervision of the instructors in the three sports. Large crowds were attracted to the boxing room where Deane Jones and George Haney watched the men whom they had coached for two quarters pummel each other in their efforts to reach the finals. Clyde Banfield, handling the wrestlers, developed some very capable performers from a large squad of novices. Wallace Hannah, fencing instructor, also had a large squad with which to work, allowing him little time for the individual members of the class.

Deane Jones' withdrawal from the ranks of "M" club battlers to become an instructor left the featherweight division open to the winner of the finals. Seven or eight men started in competition for this title, but Freddy Veeder and Francis Malone were out in front when the finalists were decided. The lightweight class was also without a ruler because of an injury to Rip Lewon's thumb, with Scotty Stratton and Chris Nielson the surviving warriors.

The new junior welterweight class furnished the spectators with lots of thrills as the boys tangled for the right to be the first champ of the division. Steensland, Collins. Goodspeed and Leslie were outstanding, with Goodspeed and Leslie proving to be the two top-notchers.

Cubs Coyle, Chuck Davis, Clarence Watson and Jack Toole were the outstanding challengers for Cale Crowley's vacated welter crown. Decisions were close as they were eliminated one after another to leave Toole and Watson... in the finals. Crowley moved up into the middleweight class left open by Haney, and went through to the finals. Stephens was chosen to meet him after two nip-and-tuck battles with Segundo Mario, but Mario's wallops injured Stephens and they were forced to exchange places.

The bantamweight, light-heavy and heavyweight thrones were all occupied by last year's kings during the eliminations by Billy Veeder, Bob Davis and John McKay, respectively. The competition for the right to meet them was keen, with Red Prendergast, Sherman Miller and Emile Peray being the trio who survived to face them in the finals.

Sixteen events were on the program for the finals, which were held March 4. Every number was packed with action. Red Prendergast starting the fireworks by stripping Billy Veeder of his bantamweight robes in four rounds of fast boxing and slugging. Jack Toole and Clarence Watson battled for the welterweight title. Toole winning after three rounds of the most vicious kind of slugging and pounding.

Cale Crowley proved that he was every bit as effective in the middleweight division as he was in the welter last year, putting up an exhibition that earned for him the cup given to the best performer of the evening. Crowley was cool and collected under a rapid fire barrage of blows thrown at him by Segundo Mario, and stepped in at intervals to send punishing blows to the body and head of his larger opponent. Crowley was complete master of the situation at all times, but let Mario stay in until the towel stopped the slaughter.

Chuck Goodspeed won a close bout from Bob Leslie to win the junior welterweight honors, being forced to go an extra round before copping the judges' decision. Francis Malone worked hard against cool, heady Freddy Veeder, but took a long time to warm up, going an extra round to get the featherweight championship. Malone displayed a husky wallop and effective boxing style.

One of the most interesting exhibitions of the evening was the lightweight title battle between Scotty Stratton and Chris Nielson, which also went an extra round. Nielson getting the judges' nods.

Sherman Miller, survivor of the light-heavyweight eliminations, kept up his winning pace in the finals by outhitting, outrushing and outboxing Bob Davis, who had held his title for three years. The bout was close all the way, going four rounds, but Miller was a shade the better at each department.

The heavyweight bout was the final event of the evening, with John McKay successfully defending his title by winning from Emil Pery via the technical kayo route. McKay was the only one of the three champions defending their titles who still retained his crown when the events were over.

Five of the six wrestling matches were decided by falls, three of them coming in less than two and a half minutes of action, while the lightweight event went the limit before Guy Sheridan won from Myron Johnson, who was appearing out of his own weight class.
Augie Vidro appeared in perhaps the most sensational wrestling match of the evening when he flopped Lowell Dailey with a body slam in two minutes and thirty seconds. Norman Mikalson displayed the best wrestling knowledge when he pinned Jake Mola in one minute 12 seconds. Larry Bjorneby was stronger than Ralph Morris, wearing him out to win the special event in six minutes. Ted Cooney threw Bob Bell in two minutes twelve seconds to capture the middelweight honors, keeping on top all the way. Fred Benson won from Gene Fobes in three minutes fifteen seconds.

Dailey was defending his heavyweight honors earned in 1930, being the only old champion to be pushed over.

Howard Nelson appeared twice on the evening’s program, winning the sabers title by defeating Billy Brown, defending champion, and losing to Rags Maxey in the fencing match.

Three days after the “M” club tournament finals were held the State College Bobcats came to Missoula for the second annual clash in minor sports. The Bobcats were defending champions, having defeated the Grizzlies the year before in wrestling and swimming contests at Bozeman. This year boxing was added to the list of sports to be contested. The meet ended in a tie, the Grizzlies making a clean sweep of the boxing events, winning two wrestling matches and pressing the Bobcats closely in the swimming events. Outstanding performers in the ring and on the mat were Eddie Krause, who fought the main event against the Bobcat middleweight, Augie Vidro, who smashed the State College heavyweight wrestler to the mat quickly; and Everett Pepper, Bozeman light-heavyweight wrestler, who holds the Rocky Mountain title in his event. Clyde Banfield appeared against two Bobcats on the evening’s program, winning in his own weight division and going the limit in the 155 pound class.

Only one “M” club champion appeared in the boxing events. Cale Crowley going out of his weight class to beat Petri of the College in every round.
Deane Jones and George Haney, instructors; Eddie Krause, who had assisted in the training of the “M” club battlers; and Buddy Grover, retired University lightweight champion, all returned to action.

Four wrestling matches came first on the card, and when they were over the Bobcats were leading by 20 points. Then George Haney, outweighed 33 pounds by Beef Harrison of the Bobcats, pounded and socked his way to a decision in the heavyweight event.

Buddy Grover was in there in earnest against Dick Egan, Bobcat lightweight, rushing at the first gong, landing lefts and rights that bewildered his foe, dropping him for the count of eight. Egan was game and came back up to finish the round, but when he returned to the fray for the second round another barrage of blows dropped him again and a towel was thrown in.

Myron Johnson, Grizzly 125 pound wrestler, stayed nearly seven minutes with Corky Dyer of the Bobcats, finally losing the fall. Then Clyde Banfield appeared in his first match, tossing Claire Freese of the State College in seven minutes, using a half-Nelson and arm bar to turn the trick. Norman Mikalson, wrestling the Rocky Mountain light-heavyweight champion, Everett Pepper, was thrown in slightly less than three minutes.

Cale Crowley, fighting the same cool, heady battle that had marked him in the “M” club finals, met each rush on the part of Petri with solid lefts and rights, sending him back on his heels time and again. Petri was hammered badly in all three rounds, but continued to come in for more punishment right up to the final bell.

Jake Mola, wrestling in the 165 pound division, dried out several pounds to make the weight and weakened himself considerably, losing to Clarence Freese by a fall. Guy Sheridan was thrown by Thrailkill of the Bobcats in three and a half minutes, giving the State College the lightweight wrestling title.

When Clyde Banfield returned to the mat for his match in the 155 pound division. he had less than half an hour to rest following his 145-pound tussle. He stayed the limit with Brewer of the College, cleverly saving his strength while keeping out of danger of being thrown, but the decision went to Brewer on aggressiveness. Augie Vidro took less than two and a half minutes to picken Hazen of the College up bodily and slam him to the floor to daze him before pinning the winning hold on him.

Before the last two events of the evening the Grizzlies trailed by ten points. Deane Jones, fighting in the featherweight division, outboxed and outsmarted Reed of the Bobcats to catch up five of these. In the first round Reed rushed continually, but failed to land a solid blow. Jones sidestepping them and blocking them with ease. In the second both were more in earnest, though Jones continued to clown without taking the aggressive, contenting himself with outpointing Reed on counter punches. The third was even.

Eddie Krause entered the ring for the main event with five points separating the two teams. A victory meant a tie in the meet, and Krause proceeded to dispel all doubt from the minds of the Grizzly backers. In the first round he let Myers rush, stopping him short with a left hand each time. In the second Myers still rushed but Krause decided not to prolong the match. A left to the body, a right to the stomach and a left to the jaw put Myers down and out, the saving towel fluttering into the ring too late to prevent a knockout. The final result was a 66-66 stalemate.

Swimming

Bob Cooney, handling a record number of swimming aspirants during the early part of the year, developed a squad of tank men that surpassed all former University records and many of the state marks. In the minor sports meet with Bozeman, the only outside activity for the swimmers this year, Cooney, Harold Dean and Oliver Hoye annexed state titles, while several of the other entrants taking second and third places were under the old records.
Henry Fox, State College and Rocky Mountain conference champion in his events, was the fastest performer in the meet, setting new time marks in the 40-yard and 100-yard free style races. At the end of the afternoon the Bobcats led by eight points, 37-29. Dean scored five points in the diving contests. Cooney eight points in the 100-yard breaststroke and 220-yard free style, and Hoye five in the 100-yard backstroke. Babe Ruth tied with Misevic of the College for second in the 40-yard free style. Bob Schroder took third in the 100-yard backstroke and McCarty took second in the 100-yard free style. Turrell was third in the latter event.

Every event resulted in a new state record, the Bobcats garnering four titles and the Grizzlies three. Bob Cooney, who had earned his minor sports letter in Bozeman the year before, captained the squad and coached all the entries. All of the competitors in the dual meet were survivors of preliminary meets between classes.

Results of the Bobcat meet:
- 220-yard free style—Erkilla. College; Cooney, University; Gary, College. Time, 2 minutes 42 seconds.
- 100-yard backstroke—Hoye, University; Misevic, College; Schroeder. University. Time, 1 minute 18.8 seconds.
- 100-yard free style—Fox. College: McCarthy, University; Turrell, University. Time 56 seconds flat, a new state record, beating the time of 57 seconds made at the Rocky Mountain conference meet.

Diving—Dean, University, 83.7 points; Roberts, College, 71.8 points; Gary, College, 69.1 points. Each had the swan, jackknife, back and four optional dives and their efforts brought storms of applause, due to the fine form shown.
- 100-yard breaststroke—Cooney. University; Barry, College; Erkilla, College. Time, 1 minute 18.6 seconds, a new state record.
- 160-yard free style relay—College won in 1 minute 25.8 seconds.

In the competition among the students for individual championships, considerable interest was shown in the free throw tests, the golf tournament and the tennis matches. In the basketball free throw contest, Emmett Buckley won first place after an added round had been tossed to decide a tie with Billy Rohlfss. Buckley was awarded a medal for his 101 accurate flips.

Rubin Lewon won the school tournament to decide an entry in the Northern division tourney at Eugene, Ore., and Dave Fitzgerald, runner-up, was chosen as his team-mate. Fifty-four holes were played in the school tournament, the deciding match being played among Lewon, Fitzgerald, Bob Flint and Morris Wedum. Wedum was a member of the University team last year.

Tennis matches were not played off until late in the spring. Johnny Lewis, 1930 champion, withdrawing from competition and later meeting the winner for the chance to represent the University on the coast.
Interclass Basketball

Class teams engaged in their championship struggles just before the close of the fall quarter, with the seniors emerging as champions with a record of three straight victories. A round robin schedule was followed, each team meeting the other three once apiece. The first game was played on December 8, the seniors beating the freshmen 33-22. Billy Rohlffs of the last year men was high scorer with 13 markers.

In the second game the juniors took a tough struggle from the sophomores, 49-40. Everett Logan and George Carey of the juniors accounting for 30 points between them.

The seniors enjoyed a scoring spree in their tussle with the sophomores, piling up 50 points to the sophs 39. Two members of the Varsity, Johnny Lewis and Billy Rohlffs, got hot under the basket and almost made enough points to win the game. Lewis sank twelve field goals.

The first year team was pushed to the limit in its contest with the juniors, finally winning, 32-31, with several men having a hand in the scoring. Logan and Carey of the juniors were high, while Smith, Freebourne, Erickson and Kastelitz of the frosh each hooped the ball often.

Logan and Carey continued their scoring in the juniors' clash with the seniors, but Lewis, Rohlffs and Stocking of the latter aggregation were "on" and pushed their team far into the lead. The final score was 49-30.

The next game was between the deadly rivals, freshmen and sophomores, and both teams played careful ball. No one man broke loose to pad his scoring record, but the sophs slipped in enough to win by 11 points, 33-22.

Approximately 30 men took part in the games of the Interclass tournament, and considerable interest was shown in the games. For the seniors, Johnny Lewis, Billy Rohlffs, Don Stocking, Jack Doherty, Snick Lockwood, and Chuck Rathert took part in most of the games.
The department of Business Administration produced a basketball team this year that went through all of its Intercollege games undefeated, and earned for itself the cognomen of "The Bombers." Their final game was played against the Law School team, which had for the past two seasons reigned as champion. A victory for the Lawyers would have put them in a tie for first place and would have necessitated a play-off, and during the first half the legal lights tried hard to do the business. In the second half the Bombers caught their stride and came out ahead, 24-15.

Aside from the notoriety gained by the fast breaking Bombers, students of the different departments were indifferent as to which team won, just so they played a good game. The Journalists and Pharmacists had a nip-and-tuck struggle to keep out of the cellar, both of them sharing it much of the time. The Druggists finally won from the Scribes to climb the steps, but the game was protested and the Journalists won the playoff by default, leaving the Pharmacists sole occupants of the basement with five goose eggs in the winning column. The Forestry School team, picked early in the season as champions, finished second to the Bombers with four wins and one loss. The Law School, in third place, had three victories and two defeats. The Arts and Science team, usually composed of substitutes of the Bombers and other squads, was fourth with three losses and two victories.

The usual Bomber lineup was: Chuck Goodspeed and Emmett Carey at guards, Buckley at center, Eigeman and Parmenter at forwards.

The Business Administration Bombers received a pennant for their efforts.
The Casaba tossers from the Bull Pen were victorious in the annual South Hall basketball tournament last fall. The Bull Pen quint won five of its six games to win the title of the men's dormitory. The men composing the championship club were Cale Crowley, Ed Alexander, Wallace Hanna, Clarence Watson, August Vidro, Bob Leslie, Lew Steensland, and Grant Kelleher, manager.

This was the third annual tourney to be held. Four teams composed the league with representatives from the first, second and third floors making up the other squads in addition to the Bull Pen. This year a round robin schedule was followed with each team meeting each other team twice.

The Bull Pen took the first game from the third floor quint, 20-18. In the second game of the evening, the second floor won its only game of the tourney after a close tussle with the first floor, 23-20. The next night, the third floor entered the winning column with a 32-26 victory over the first floor. The Bull Pen continued their winning ways by taking the second floor, 24-15.

The Bull Pen lost its first and only game when the first floor finally got going and won 18-17. This was the first victory for the boys on the ground floor. It was the closest and hardest fought game of the tourney. The second floor defaulted the other game of the evening to the third floor, 2-0.

The first floor got revenge over the second in their return game by winning, 40-32. Th Bull Pen took third floor for the second time, 31-24. First floor also took its second game from the third floor, 34-32, and Bull Pen took its second game from second floor, 30-18. Third floor downed the second, 24-12 in their last game. In the last game, Bull Pen got revenge on the first floor, 36-27. Third and first floors tied with three victories and three defeats apiece.

All athletic activities for women at the University are under the direct supervision of the Women’s Athletic Association. The organization was founded on the campus the fall of 1922 and since then has been particularly active and its growth has been rapid. Its purpose is to promote better sportsmanship and to develop school and class spirit in athletics among the women of the University.

The sports sponsored by the organization are baseball, basketball, swimming, track, tennis, field hockey, archery, hiking, apparatus work, and golf. Managers are appointed for these sports by the executive committee. An “M” sweater may be earned by winning 1000 points in the participation of the above sports and by winning honors in other minor sports.

The association aids with the sponsoring of the play day for high school girls in May and also entertains visitors and delegates during the Interscholastic track and field meet.

Membership in the organization is automatic to all women students in the University by the enrollment in the physical education department. However, voting is limited to those women who have earned at least 150 points towards an “M” sweater.

Mrs. Harriet Graham Wood is the faculty adviser and sponsor of the organization.

Delta Psi Kappa is the national professional fraternity for women majoring in physical education. Mu, the local chapter of the organization, was organized on the Montana campus on May 27, 1920, by a group of physical education majors who wished to promote the interest and welfare of physical education among college women. The national was organized on November 3, 1916, at the Normal College of the American Gymnastic Union at Indianapolis, Indiana.

The object of Delta Psi Kappa is to cultivate the highest interests of physical education among women, and all chapter activities are directed to this end.

The major activities for this year have been a physical education demonstration, which was given in the women's gymnasium, during the winter quarter. On May 9, Delta Psi Kappa aided in the sponsoring of a play day for high school girls from Darby, Hamilton, Corvallis, Victor, Stevensville, Florence-Carlton, Ronan, Alberton, St. Regis, Philipsburg, Drummond and Missoula. This play day was established last year and has as its purpose the establishment of interest in athletics among high school girls.

Membership in the organization is limited to majors and minors in the department of physical education and a few that are interested in athletics.
Until this year the winners of major "M" sweaters had no definite organization. During the fall quarter, however, they banded to form an organization similar to the men's "M" club. At that time they elected the following officers to act for the ensuing year Margaret Randall, president; Una Randall, vice-president and Sally McMurdo, secretary-treasurer. Membership in the club is automatic with the winning of a major "M" sweater.

The club assists in promoting athletics in the physical education department and assisting during Interscholastic track and field meet, and during the play day, which is given for the girls in the high schools in the vicinity of Missoula. Although the club is an honorary it does not make it just a name but continually strives to advance athletics among the women at the University.

Members of the Women's "M" club this year are Mary Wilson, Caroline Griffith, Bertha Cone, Bertha Holden, Sally McMurdo, Una Randall, Margaret Randall, Teddy Reed, and Emmapearl McCormick.

Sweaters are awarded to girls who have won 1000 points in the participation in athletics. Besides this a small "M" monogram is given to girls who have won 600 points and class numerals are given to the members of the all-star teams in major sports.
Basketball

The juniors won the interclass tournament which was played on the round robin plan of elimination this year. The members of the winning junior team were: Margaret Jacobs, manager-captain, Bertha Cone, Una Randall, Margaret Randall, Fae Logan and Vera Anderson.

At the end of the season eight girls were picked for the all-star team. These were: Una Randall, Margaret Randall, Sara Miles, Mildred Renshaw, Juanita Armour, Laura Martin, Mary Castles, and Margaret Jacobs. To be picked on this all-star team the girls must have shown during the season that they possessed the qualities of good sportsmanship and good playing.

At the beginning of the season the Women’s Athletic Association executive committee picked a girl to act as captain-manager for each class. These were: Mary Wilson, seniors; Margaret Jacobs, juniors; Leola Stevens, sophomores; and Marjorie Minnehan, freshmen. Then the teams were chosen by elimination during the practice sessions which were held before the tournament began.

Basketball is the major sport for women during the winter quarter and more interest has been shown in the sport this year than ever before. It aids the girls in becoming familiar with the fundamentals of the game, the knowledge of which is valuable to those who coach girls’ teams in high schools after graduation from the University.

Points are awarded towards an “M” sweater for participation in this sport.
Baseball

Baseball, along with track and archery, is one of the leading sports for women in the University during the spring quarter. Games are arranged between classes and played on the field back of the women's gymnasium. Out of this interclass tournament the sophs emerged victorious with the juniors taking second honors. Competition was keen during the season and good sportsmanship was displayed by all participating in the sport. Those on the sophomore team were: Captain, Alice Ellison; Margaret Jacobs, Bertha Cone, Una Randall, Margaret Randall, Margaret Lease, Ada Naylor, and Catherine Hurst.

At the end of the season an all-star team was picked from the four competing teams. These girls that showed the best baseball ability are: Ellison, Harrison, Jacobs, McCormick, McMurdo, Randall, U. Randall, Peterson and Sorrinson.

Hockey

Hockey is one of the popular competitive sports for the athletic co-eds during the fall quarter. It is a fairly new sport on this campus and has gained much favor among the students. The interclass games are played on the well kept field back of the women’s gymnasium.

The weather was unfavorable for the games this fall and all of them were not played. However, it is hoped that new interest can be stimulated and regular class games be played off on scheduled time next fall.
The freshman class again showed its ability by taking first honors in the University women’s track meet held in May. Among the events included in the meet were: Relay races, dashes, hurdles, broad jump, high jump, discus, javelin, baseball throw, shot put, and basketball throw. Class competition was strong and good form was shown in all the events.

At the close of the meet the all-star team was chosen from all those competing. This team includes: Burkett, Davis, Lewis, Logan, Reed and Woods.

Interest in the sport was developed to a high degree and many old records fell. Theodora Reed broke the 75-yard dash record and the low hurdles record. Burkett broke the former hop-step record and the high jump record. The broad jump mark was lowered by M. Woods and O. Lewis captured a new basketball throw record.

Special points are given toward an “M” sweater to any woman successfully completing the track requirements. Points are also given to women making one of the four class teams. As a spring sport, track is popular among the University women as they may take it for credit. Several of the classes are taught by the physical education majors under the supervision of Mrs. Harriet Graham Wood. The cinder track in back of the women’s gymnasium is kept in condition and the events are run off with official timing.
Archery

Archery is the new sport which has been inaugurated for women at the University this year and it has immediately become one of the most popular. It has been added to the regular physical education classes. Girls may take up the sport to satisfy the physical education requirement and in addition they may earn points toward an "M" sweater and engage in competition both within the school and with outside colleges.

Archery is one of the oldest of sports but this year it is being revived by colleges and clubs all over the country.

This spring an interclass tournament was held, which furnished competition within the school. Outside competition was engaged in by means of a tournament which was sponsored by the United States Archery Association. This meet was of the telegraphic type and engaged in by colleges and universities all over the country. In the meet 32 schools from 19 different states competed. All schools were eligible to compete by filing with the national association. The rounds in this match were shot between May 17 and 24. All of the girls engaging in the sport this spring shot during the qualifying rounds and the eight with the highest scores had their marks entered in the national meet. The eight with the next highest scores were adjudged as the second team.

The archery contests for this school were held on the hockey field back of the women's gymnasium.
Swimming

The freshman women won this year's swimming meet from the sophomores with a score of 51 against 31. Only one record was broken in the meet when Jane Bateman, sophomore, bettered the mark for the underwater event by .9 seconds. The former record was made by Dorothy Kiely in 1928 with the time of 16.7 seconds. The featured events of the meet were: Plunge, 40-yard crawl, 40-yard breast stroke, side form, 20-yard crawl, underwater, 40-yard ide over-arm, 20-yard back crawl, diving and relay races.

The freshman team was captained by Ruth Riedell, other members being: Dorothy Taylor, Mary Corette, Teddie McMahon, Elizabeth Carruthers, Helen Swearingen, Sarah Miles and Kathleen Fitzgerald. Sarah Miles was high point woman of the meet with 16 points, Teddie McMahon coming a close second with 13 points.

Swimming is one of the sports sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association that is continuous throughout the year. Every student must have at least one quarter before graduation from the University. Points for W. A. A. may be won by making one of the swimming teams and additional points are given for passing special tests and stunts.

Telegraphic meets were held with other schools this year and classes for girls interested in life-saving. Open hour in the pool is held every Tuesday at four o'clock for all University women, and special days are set aside for the use of Missoula Girl Reserves. A water carnival was held for the entertainment of visitors during the Interscholastic track meet.
IV ORGANIZATIONS
Associated Women Students of the State University is an organization composed of all the regularly enrolled women students in the University. The primary purpose of the association is the legislation and enforcement of all rules governing the women students on the campus.

At least three important social functions are sponsored by A. W. S. during the year. Co-ed Prom is held every fall quarter and only women students are allowed to attend. Prizes are awarded for the best stunts and costumes of the evening.

During the winter quarter the annual Co-ed formal is given by A. W. S. At this dance the women are hosts to the men and must assume all responsibilities for the evening.

The body is governed by the executive board which is comprised of the officers, chairmen of the standing committees, representatives from each sorority, women’s dormitories, Mortar Board, Tanan, W. A. A. and Central Board. Weekly meetings are held by the board at which the A. W. S. president presides.

Associated Women students was organized in the fall of 1914 as the Women’s League and the present association was formed later. The organization is now affiliated with the National Women’s Self Governing Association.

Central Board is the student governing body of the State University, being composed of all the officers of the Associated Students of the State University. These officials, with the exception of the Student Auditor and the Yell King, are elected annually at the spring election.

Central Board manages all activities which are under the jurisdiction of the Associated Students and controls the expenditures of all student funds. Weekly Tuesday meetings, presided over by the president, are held by the board.
The highest honor that can be awarded to a woman student at the State University is to be selected to become a member of Mortar Board, national honorary senior women's organization.

Selection is made on the basis of promotion, service and loyalty to the interests of the school. The purpose of the society is to train women in scholarship, service and leadership. Those chosen for this honor are introduced to the student body at the Singing on the Steps during Interscholastic week.

The Montana chapter of Mortar Board, Penetralia, is one of the oldest honoraries on the campus. It was founded here in 1904 and in 1927 was granted a charter by the national organization. The Montana chapter is included in the sixth regional district of the national group.

Those who wear the black and gold mortar board of the organization maintain the ideals and traditions of the school and are constantly engaged in service for the University. In many ways this organization is like that of Silent Sentinel for senior men.
Three major productions, several bills of one-act plays, the Little Theater tournament and the production of several student-written plays were the outstanding accomplishments of the Montana Masquers for the year. The group also assisted in presenting "A Midsummer Night's Dream" for the annual May Fete.

During the summer session Lennox Robinson of the Abbey Theater in Dublin was a member of the faculty and produced his play, "The Round Table," here.

Each quarter a three-act play was produced and in the winter quarter a three-act student-written play dealing with college life was given in addition to the major production of the quarter. A student-written one-act dealing with university students was also included in the spring quarter program.

Entries for the Little Theater tournament this year were much heavier than usual with twenty-four plays being entered. Staging and production work for the tourney was handled by the University dramatic group.
Installation of a "30" Service was the outstanding feature of the work of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national honorary journalism fraternity, on the Montana campus this year.

This service was started this year for the purpose of furnishing papers, or source material for papers, to women's clubs or high school teachers throughout the state. Plans have been made for the "30" Service to become a permanent part of the activities of Theta Sigma Phi in the future.

High scholarship standing in journalism and junior or senior rating are necessary for those becoming a member of the fraternity, which was chartered on the Montana campus in 1916.

Other activities of the organization include a portion of the Interscholastic publicity and the publishing of "Campus Rakings" on Aber Day. The custom of holding a Matrix table was also revived this year. The group also co-operates with Sigma Delta Chi and the Press Club in activities of the School of Journalism.
Located in the School of Journalism is Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalism fraternity, the oldest professional fraternity on the campus.

Sigma Delta Chi requires a scholarship average which is above the average of the School of Journalism. To become a pledge of the group, students must signify their intention of following journalistic work after graduation, they must show ability in some field of journalism and be majors in the school.

During the past year members continued their practice of sending out a weekly news letter to about eighty weekly newspapers. This year the news letters have been printed in the new laboratory of the School of Journalism.

Sigma Delta Chi has sponsored the work of the Press Club during the year. With the cooperation of Theta Sigma Phi, women’s international honorary journalism fraternity, it acted as host at a luncheon for members of the Inter-scholastic Editorial association which held its annual meeting during Track Meet week.

Alpha Kappa Psi was founded at New York University as an honorary professional commercial fraternity. To be pledged, students must be majors in the School of Business Administration and show a special interest and adaptability in that course. It was organized at the same time the School of Commerce was started there and became a national fraternity a short time later.

There is a chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi in all universities supporting a School of Business Administration. The Montana chapter which was established in 1927 has since been prominent among honorary professional groups on the campus.

The fraternity sponsored a model stock exchange during the year for the benefit of all members and pledges. One thousand dollars credit was allowed each member with buying and selling on the market being done daily. After the books were closed, Harold Ruth with assets totaling more than three thousand dollars was found to be the final winner.

Tanan-of-Spur became the official name of the sophomore honorary society for women on May 7 when the local organization, which was formed here in 1924, became affiliated with the national organization of Spur.

This group corresponds to that of Bear Paw for the men and only the outstanding members of the class are the ones given this honor. The group assists in upholding the laws and traditions of the school.

The chief work of the Tanans is to aid in caring for visitors on the campus. During Interscholastic week the organization preforms its greatest duty, that of meeting trains and escorting guests to their lodging places. In doing this work the Tanans co-operate with the Bear Paws and handle all the contestants and visitors who come for the meet.

Also during freshman week in the fall the Tanans meet the trains and bring the women to the dormitories and assist the newcomers in registration.
Work rendered during Interscholastic track meet week each May is the most important contribution of Bear Paw, sophomore men's honorary society, to the interests of the school. During the track meet, members of the group meet each train carrying contestants and escort the visitors to their lodging places.

Members of the organization also enforce the traditions of the campus, see that the freshmen wear their green caps, curtail walking on the grass and act as ushers at basketball and football games.

Selection of the members of Bear Paw is made by Silent Sentinel and outstanding service, leadership and scholarship are the qualities needed for membership.

Each year the twenty men of the freshman class who have rendered the most distinguished services for the school are chosen to become members of the group. They are tapped at the first football game each year and act in their capacity of law enforcers during their second year.
O n the Montana campus is the Montana Druids, a local forestry fraternity, which was organized in 1923 for the purpose of providing a common meeting ground for upperclassmen and faculty members. Ralph Fields, then a student, and Professor F. G. Clark founded the organization, drew up a code of ethics, a constitution and formulated a ritual.

Meetings are held fortnightly with students in fraternities or privately acting as hosts. Previously the practice was for faculty members to sponsor them. Following the business sessions topics of interest to members of the profession are discussed.

Each fall and spring quarter initiations are held far back in Pattee canyon at the “sacred grounds of the Druids” where new members are admitted, pledged to perpetuate the profession of forestry and to tighten the bonds between members. The active members with the support of a large alumni body work constantly for the betterment of the School of Forestry and the State University of Montana.
Independent students on the campus became the Associated Non-Fraternity and Non-Sorority students this year following a mass meeting held early in the spring quarter.

This is the first time in the history of the school that the non-affiliated students have organized into a group including both men and women. At the meeting a constitution was adopted and twelve delegates to the governing body were selected, two from each class and four from the school at large.

For its first social event the newly-organized group held a mixer for all non-affiliated students in the women’s gymnasium. On May 16 the organization produced a musical comedy, “Purple Towers,” in the Wilma Theater under the sponsorship of the Disabled American Veterans later in the quarter a banquet was held for the cast and another dance was given for the entire organization.
Traditions Committee

Montana triditions are upheld by the Traditions committee which corresponds to the "Vigilance committees" of other schools. The chairman of this committee is the Yell King whose duty it is to promote student loyalty and take the initiative in carrying out the established traditions of the school. He executes any orders received from the Traditions committee or Central Board and is chosen sometime between the first and fifth of April each year. The rest of the committee is composed of a faculty member and two student members.

According to the constitution the Traditions committee has supervision over such traditions as: Aber day which honors "Daddy" Aber, the faculty member who spent the greater part of his life in beautifying the campus, and Singing on the Steps which is usually held on the Thursday night before a game. Each year the entertainments of Hi-Jinx and Varsity Vodvil are held. May Fete staged each year by A. W. S. ends with the crowning of the May Queen. Twice a year, it is the duty of the Freshman class to paint the "M" on Mount Sentinel.

After every University victory it is the duty of the Freshman class to ring the bell in Main Hall thus letting it known that the Grizzlies have won. Three convocations are held each year. Still other traditions are the Bonfire Rallies, Keep Off the Grass, Say Hello, Rallies, green caps and varsity caps and the Senior Bench. The committee has charge of other traditions which are established from time to time.
CLUBS
South Hall Club

OFFICERS

Arthur Caven - - - - - President
Jack Bainton - - - - Vice-President, East Wing
Walter Smith - - - - Vice-President, West Wing
Donald Davis - - - - Secretary-Treasurer

South Hall is the men’s dormitory on the campus. Foundations for the building were started in 1921 and the hall was officially opened for occupancy in 1923. South Hall Club is composed of all the residents in the dormitory and officers are chosen early in the fall quarter to lead the group for the year.

The hall itself is under the management of students, being one of the few university dormitories throughout the United States which is so governed. Four upperclassmen are selected as proctors for the year, one as medical proctor and a manager and assistant manager are also chosen by the University from the ranks of the older students in the school.

Several social events are held by South Hall Club each year. These include the formal dance in the fall quarter and two novelty dances which are given in the winter and spring quarters. These dances are well attended and prominent members of the faculty act as chaperons. Several banquets are also given during the year, one being in honor of the football team.

During the winter quarter the annual South Hall basketball tournament is held with teams from each of the floors participating in the games. This year the team representing the Bull Pen placed first.

Also in the winter quarter religious forums are held at the hall. Prominent clergymen from the Missoula churches are selected as the principal speakers for the forums.
In 1924 when North Hall was first opened girls of the class of 1927 became its first occupants. Since that time sophomore women have been chosen by the dean of women to lead the freshman girls in their activities. Although North Hall is primarily a dormitory for freshman women some upperclasswomen are taken in when accommodations will permit.

Miss Grace Mountcastle was the first director of the hall. She was succeeded by Mrs. D. A. McLennan who resigned because of ill health in the spring quarter of 1927. Mrs. Theodore Brantley, the present director, then took charge and has continued in the position since that time.

During the fall quarter dinner guests were exchanged with South Hall, thus enabling the men and women of the freshman class to become better acquainted.

Early each fall quarter elections are held to choose officers of the hall to serve during the whole year. Formal dances were held the fall and winter quarters while the spring party was informal. North Hall acted as host several times during the winter quarter to the round of teas held by the dormitories. The last Sunday of the fall quarter it held a Christmas party. Birthday parties were held the fall and spring quarters for all those whose birthdays happened to come sometime during the fall quarter or the winter and spring quarters. Several firesides were held during the year. North Hall presented a stunt at Co-ed Prom.
Corbin Hall Club

OFFICERS

Lucy Charlesworth - - - - - - President
Janet Lucke - - - - - - Vice-President
Marian Sands - - - - - - Secretary
Alice Doull - - - - - - Treasurer

Corbin Hall Club is formed of all the women students who reside in Corbin Hall and the officers are elected every fall quarter to govern the body for the year. Several extra-curricular and social activities are entered in by the club.

Besides the regular officers of president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, the group selects one member to be representative to the Associated Women Students, the governing body of all women students at the University.

Included in the social activities of the group are formal dances, several firesides and teas. One dance was given every quarter and a tea was held once every four weeks. This year a group representing Corbin Hall won first prize for a stunt given at Co-ed Prom, the annual dance given for all women students.

Early in the year it has become a custom to exchange guests between the halls and this year dinner guests were exchanged several times with South Hall, enabling the men and women of the freshman class to become better acquainted.

During the year two birthday parties were given for the residents in the dormitory and just before Christmas a party was held in celebration of the holiday. For the birthday parties the girls are divided into two groups for the observance of the occasion, one party being given for each group.

Corbin Hall is the newest of the dormitories on the campus, being opened for freshman women at the beginning of the winter quarter, January, 1927, but now both freshman and upperclasswomen reside there when accommodations permit. The hall was named in honor of Miss Frances Corbin, formerly a member of the English department.
Organized in the spring of 1919, the Home Economics Club has become one of the strongest professional groups on the campus. The primary purpose of the organization is to encourage greater professional interest in home economics and related subjects. All students majoring or minoring in the department are eligible for membership.

The Home Economics Club held its meetings monthly during the regular school year. At the beginning of the fall quarter a schedule of meetings was mapped out for the year. Programs are arranged which will stimulate a professional spirit and encourage fellowship among the students and faculty of the department. The club has been instrumental in furthering the interests of its members.

During the year the Home Economics Club and the Forestry Club held a joint meeting. Other activities include several teas. Professor Helen Gleason of the Department of Home Economics is sponsor of the club.
Forestry Club

OFFICERS

William Ibenthal - - - - - - President
Raymond Calkins - - - - - - Vice-President
Walter Pool - - - - - - Secretary
Archie Murchie - - - - - - Treasurer

Since the Forestry Club was organized in 1914 it has grown from a membership of about twenty to more than one hundred, becoming one of the strongest clubs on the campus. The object of the organization is to further forestry at the State University and to provide discussions on forestry questions.

Activities of the club include the Foresters' Ball for which the men's gymnasium is almost converted into a forest. Only characters typical of the frontier are allowed to attend. Joint meetings were held with the Home Economics Club and the Press Club. Seniors were honored at the annual field day held near Bonner.
Press Club

OFFICERS

Walter P. Cooney - - - - - - President
Margaret Brayson - - - - - - Vice-President
John Curtis - - - - - - Secretary-Treasurer

A new plan was originated this year in the governing of the Press Club. Two students from each class in the School of Journalism were chosen to act as members of the executive board for the year.

Meetings were held every other week with a prominent member of the faculty acting as speaker. Meetings were in charge of the classes in turn. In the spring quarter Dean Stone Night was held in Greenough Park and a field trip was taken in honor of Professor Housman.

In the fall quarter the annual Press Club banquet was held in the lumberjacks' dining room at Bonner.
Eight years ago the Spanish Club was organized by Professor B. E. Thomas with Elsie Eminger as its first president. Meetings are usually held every other Wednesday at the various fraternity and sorority houses. Early in the spring quarter the club chose Lucille Thomas as secretary-treasurer to take the place of Catherine Nicholson who graduated at the end of the winter quarter.

On March 12, the club presented the Spanish play, "Rosina es Fragil," by Martinez Sierra in cooperation with the Masquers who gave the English version of "Closed Doors," another of his plays. The cast included: Jeanette McGrade, Oliver Silfast, Alice Taylor, Cliff Walker, Stewart Kirton, Tom White, Lucille Thomas.

The organization prepared a special program for the observance of Pan-American day on April 14 which was set aside by President Hoover last year in recognition of the growth and interest in Latin America. The last function of the year is usually a picnic.
Newman Club

OFFICERS

Edward Dussault - - - - - - President
Ted Fitzpatrick - - - - - - Vice-President
Jeanette Rotering - - - - - - Secretary
Howard Hubert - - - - - - Treasurer

In 1915 the local chapter of the Newman Club, organization of Catholic students at the University, was organized on the Montana campus and the club has grown now to include nearly two hundred members.

During the year meetings are held on the second Sunday of each month. The club attends mass in a body and breakfast is served to the members in the basement of St. Anthony's church following the service. At the meetings songs, talks and musical numbers are important features on the short programs.

The club has been a member of the Rocky Mountain Federation of Newman clubs for two years, membership being obtained by the Montana delegate to the convention in Salt Lake City. During this year Professor Brassil Fitzgerald acted in the capacity of faculty advisor to the club.

Closer alliance among Catholic students and better acquaintance between Catholic and non-Catholic students are the primary aims of the organization.
Every student who registers in the School of Pharmacy automatically becomes a member of the Pharmacy Club which is an auxiliary of the Montana State Pharmaceutical association. The object of the club is to create greater interest in pharmacy and to encourage good fellowship and cooperation among the students and faculty of the school.

Its activities include a mixer which was held the fall quarter to acquaint the students with one another and visits to nearby industries which are of interest to pharmacy students. A party was held the winter quarter and a picnic the spring quarter.

This year the club held the first Dean Mollett day which it intends to make an annual function. It honors Dean C. E. Mollett who has spent twenty-four years teaching pharmacy students. The banquet was attended by more than seventy students, alumni and druggists.
Forestry Rifle Club

OFFICERS

Marion McCarty - - - - - President
Evans Hawes - - - - - Secretary-Treasurer
Robert Matsen - - - - - Coach

Organization of the Forestry Rifle Club was accomplished about the middle of the fall quarter with the first practice being held November 14. At that meeting which was held at the Forest Service rifle range in the Chamber of Commerce building, Coach Robert Matsen instructed the members in firing from the prone position. Each man shot 12 rounds with the scores ranging from 55 to 97.

Later on due to a large increase in membership it was found necessary to set aside two nights a week, Tuesday and Friday, for practice. Special instruction was given to beginners on lining of sights and correct position.

High scoring honors among members for the winter quarter were won by John Shields and Evans Hawes, both of whom attained an average of 96½ in the prone and sitting positions. Scoring of other high men on the team was as follows: Gene Fobes, 96; Robert Matsen, 96; Marion McCarty, 90½; Robert Opie, 87.

The Forestry Kaimin is the annual publication of the Forest Club. It is a one hundred page booklet, published in the spring of the year, giving an account of the activities in the School of Forestry throughout the year, as well as containing various articles of an educational nature.

The annual Kaimin was first published in 1915. At that time and until a few years ago, it consisted of one issue during the spring quarter of the Montana Kaimin, student newspaper, which was edited by members of the Forestry Club. Since it has been changed to a yearbook, it has grown to more than twice its original size, circulated throughout the United States.

The style of the book is typical of the lumber camps and the old West. It contains scenic pictures taken in this part of the country, poetry, and feature articles illustrated with pictures. This year’s Kaimin also includes a directory of alumni of the School of Forestry, as well as features and articles on the Forestry Club’s activities.
The Frontier

The Frontier, a magazine of the Northwest, is edited by Professor H. G. Merriam, chairman of the Department of English. It is published quarterly, and contains stories, poems, sketches and feature articles of a regional character.

Edward J. O'Brien, nationally known literary critic, has rated The Frontier high as a literary magazine of the United States. His rating gives The Frontier third in two-star stories, or exceptional stories; fifth in the percentage of excellent stories, fifth in three-star stories, or Roll of Honor stories; and fifth in the number of exceptional stories. During the past few years Mr. O'Brien has included several Frontier stories in his annual book of "Best Short Stories," selected from magazines throughout the United States. Many stories from the Frontier have also been mentioned in Mr. O'Brien's Roll of Honor.

An unusual feature of The Frontier, as well as one of the most important ones in the magazine, is the Historical section, which is devoted to original manuscripts of the Northwest. These articles are usually diaries or journals of pioneers of the West. Many of them are reprinted and exchanged with the historical societies and libraries of the country.

During the past year The Frontier has contained numerous stories, poems and articles by Montana people, as well as students on the University campus. Student work, when judged for The Frontier, is rated solely on its merit and by its comparison to the other contributions to the magazine. For this reason, it is an unusual honor for student work to make The Frontier.

Mr. Merriam is aided in the publication of The Frontier by students and faculty members on the University campus.
The Montana Alumnus

The Montana Alumnus is the official publication of the Alumni Association of the State University of Montana. It is published quarterly, the cost of publication being paid by subscription. Jessie Cambron has been editor during the past year.

The first issue of the Montana Alumnus was published in the spring of 1922. It was edited by William J. Jameson and contained 16 pages of class notes, campus notes and general articles of interest to alumni who were not in touch with the campus. Since that time it has more than doubled in size and has established itself as official publication of the Alumni Association.

One of the most important features of the Alumnus is the "Class Notes" section, which contains news items about the individual members of each class, classified by the years of graduation. Henrietta Wilhelm has been editor of this division during the past year.

Other standard features which are carried in each issue of the Alumnus include announcements to the alumni, announcements to current graduates of the University, athletic news, "University Notes," and a professional directory carrying the professional cards of the alumni, classified by location and profession. New features which were added this year are the "Foreign Letter Bag," "Who's Who Among the Alumni," and an official alumni hotel directory, the last being an advertising medium for the hotels of Montana.
The Montana Masquers, honorary dramatic society of the University, is just completing one of the largest dramatic programs that they have ever attempted. As director of the Masquers, William Angus, is ably serving his fourth year in this capacity. In 1927 he succeeded Carl Glick and commenced his work at the Montana Little Theatre. Mr. Angus is well qualified in the dramatics field, holding two degrees in dramatic art as well as having a world of experience as a director in colleges and preparatory schools.

As usual this year the Montana Masquers presented one major production each quarter. In the fall this group produced a bill of one-act plays, in the winter quarter they presented two bills of one-acts and in the spring quarter one program of one-acts was given in the Little Theatre. Student work is highly encouraged in connection with the Little Theatre by director Angus. All of the one-act programs are student directed and acted. Besides this, two student written plays were produced by the Montana Masquers this year. On February 3 William Negherbon’s three-act tragi-comedy, “The Gods Amuse Themselves,” was presented to a packed house. On the spring one-act bill appeared “Not Uncommon, Either.” by Harold Shaw, University sophomore.

Dramatic activity of the Masquers also included the sponsoring of a series of programs dealing with the theater, the stage, plays and authors. These were given throughout the entire year. On May 13 the fifth-annual Little Theatre tournament for high schools was staged by the Montana Masquers and Mr. Angus. A record number of entries was received in this tournament this year. The final production of this dramatic society will be the outdoor presentation of “A Midsummer Night’s Dream” in conjunction with the A. W. S.
COCK ROBIN

A real murder thriller was the offering of the Masquers as the spring production last year when they presented "Cock Robin" May 2 and 3. This new murder mystery by Phillip Barry and Elmer Rice was just made available for amateur production at the time of the Masquer showing.

The setting of the English grog-shop in which "Cock Robin" was laid was constructed by the Montana Masquers and great care was taken in producing an accurate duplicate. The action takes place during the rehearsal of this old charity show. Consequently the murder of one of the actors is actually committed before an audience of witnesses as well as ten other players on stage.

Smoothness in direction by William Angus was easily discerned in this mystery production. Delos Thorson as George McAuliffe, the man who threw the dagger to kill Cock Robin, handled the lead in a skillful and expert manner. Radcliffe Maxey bore the murdered man's part in expert and convincing fashion. Rowe Morrell and Calvert Simons, two of the actors that were under suspicion, were above reproach in their roles. Marjorie Mumm as "kodak eye," the assistant director, also appeared to good advantage on her first Masquer program. Other players appearing in the production were: Miriam Barnhill, William Gail, Mary Louise Davenport, Arnold Bauska, Melvin Magnuson, Nora Lowry, and Ray Lewis.

JUNO AND THE PAYCOCK

The major production for the fall quarter of the Montana Masquers was a presentation of Sean O'Casey's Irish tragedy, "Juno and the Paycock." On November 21 and 22 this three-act drama played to capacity houses in the Little Theatre. The production was under the direction of W. Angus.

"Juno and the Paycock" is the most noted of this famous Irish author's plays and shows his keen insight of Irish characteristics and the Dublin life. The setting of the play is most drab and depressing to the ordinary American who is unfamiliar with the actual conditions of tenement life. The three acts are presented in the family room of the Boyles. It is a peculiar family headed by the lazy and shiftless Captain Jack Boyle. This role was handled delightfully by William A. Brown. The captain’s one object in life is to escape work. This he accomplishes most of the time which leaves the burden of making a living for the family on the luckless Juno Boyle, played in an excellent manner by Marian Hobbs.

Eddie Astle as Joxer Daly, the side-kick of Captain Boyle’s, proved to be one of the most masterful portrayed characters in the play. Joxer Daly was comedy sanctified as the snipe-smoking, gutter type of an Irishman. From an inexhaustible store of quotations, poems and figures of allegory Daly, the “yes-man” of the Captain’s kept the house in continued uproar.

Probably the most difficult role in the tragedy was handled in a careful but powerful fashion by Albert Erickson when he appeared in the role of Johnny Boyle. It was an extremely hard part for an amateur to handle as it calls for an extraordinary amount of emotional acting in the part of young Boyle who is a traitor to the Irish cause. The consequence is a terrible nightmare for the boy who finally receives the harsh death that he dreads.

Other players appearing in the cast of “Juno and the Paycock” were: Rowe Morrell, as the malicious city lover; Charles Holstrom, Dorothy Rogers, Jane Thelen, Martha Kimball, Michael Kennedy, Melville Rawn, Lee Rheim and Clifton Hemgren.

During the fall quarter the Masquers inaugurated a new exchange movement with the sister institution at Bozeman. On November 25 in the Emerson auditorium the Masquers repeated their major production for a State College audience. As an exchange play the Tormentors, dramatic group of the Montana State College, came to Missoula and presented George Kelly’s “The Show-Off” in the Little Theatre on December 5.

Dramatics during the winter quarter received plenty of attention this year. The winter season in the Little Theatre was opened with a program of one-acts on January 29. The next production was “The Gods Amuse Them-several’ on February 3. This three-act play was student written, acted and directed.

GRANITE

Another tragedy, “Granite,” by Clemence Dane, was produced under the direction of William Angus on February 27 and 28 in the Little Theatre. The play constituted six weeks of intensive rehearsal on a drama which has had only two amateur showings in the United States previous to the Masquers’ presentation.

The setting of “Granite” was undoubtedly the finest piece of work that has appeared on the Little Theatre stage. The play is laid in a twelfth-century castle on the Island of Lundy off the coast of England during the era of Napoleon. The old, stone castle which has been turned into a farmhouse, was reproduced photographically by persistent work on the flats of granite.

A strong cast did stellar work in this moving drama. Ruth Wold, as the sex-starved, hardened woman who has been forced to live on this stone island with stone man for a husband, gripped the audience by her character portrayal. She has had no choice but her husband; finally his half-brother comes for a visit. Starving for love she flings herself at him. In the meantime she has managed to save a convict which has been washed ashore. In repayment for saving his life the nameless man kills her husband and relieves her from that burden.

Leslie Pace as the nameless man, contributed a smooth performance. Not in the least overdrawn this “devil incarnate” carries his wishes by force to a climax. The role of Prosper Morris was handled by Albert Erickson. Peter Meloy as the stone man of a husband, played the part so whole-heartedly that he found instant approval of the audience and the reviewers.

Her second husband, Prosper, finally through the eyes of the nameless man, appears to be paying too much attention to little Penny Holt, their foster daughter, played by Virginia Cooney. In a fit of rage they quarrel and the nameless man once again fulfills his promise of killing the man that dares touch her. He wanted a farm and a woman and he got them both.
Continuance of the cross-examination method of debating proved to be popular with University audiences. This system was introduced last year here and was found to enliven the course of a debate considerably as well as provide excellent opportunities for individual wit and cynicism. Combined with this method of debating is the audience decision to which many schools are resorting.

Both of these features were used in the initial debate of the year on November 4 when the English universities debating team met two Montana debaters in the Missoula County High School auditorium. The Montana team composed of Russell Smith and Edward Alexander was coached by Darrell Parker. Mr. Parker succeeds Hugh Lindsey, both of whom are graduates of Stanford University. The easy, direct conversational style which Mr. Parker has drilled into his debaters have done much to produce winning debate teams at Montana this year.

By a vote of the audience the decision was awarded to the English debaters in the argument on the principle that democracy has been tried and found wanting. B. J. Chehan of the University of Liverpool and D. Hope Ellseton of St. John's College, Oxford university were the two English debaters of the evening. Both were experienced debaters, B. J. Chehan being an active member in the Socialist party in England and an actual reader for the B.A. degree in social science and economics. Mr. Ellseton, a law student, had been exceedingly active in debating societies while at Oxford. The two Montana debaters were also veterans in the forensic art. Russell Smith having previously upheld the Montana side in past contests with Oxford and Australian debate teams. Mr. Alexander was a member of the freshman debating team last year and is now taking an active part in Varsity debating.

Debate teams this year were selected after tryouts which extended over a rather extensive course. Questions that were considered during the tryouts were free trade, the chain stores and the wheat question. Members of the freshman debate squad that were selected: Jake Mola, Livingston; Robert Wickware, Valier; Robert Ryan, Missoula; Harvey Thirloway, Butte; George Boileau, Milltown, and Steve Swanberg of Great Falls. On the women’s debate squad were chosen: Leola Stevens, Kalispell; Phyllis Mills, Whitehall; Rita Walker, Grass Range, and Helen Huxley of Livingston.

Sterling Stapp, Billings; Edward Alexander, Whitehall; Melvin Magnuson, Helena; John Ross, Fromberg; Clyde McCall, Whitehall; Grant Kelleher, Butte, and Frank Benson of White Pine, were selected on the men’s Varsity squad to meet Washington State College, Mount St. Charles and Intermountain Union College.

On March 2 a Montana frosh team composed of Jake Mola and Robert Wickware defeated a Montana State College frosh team in the Little Theatre on the question that nations should adopt a policy of free trade. Sam Eagle and John Bonner represented the State College. Representing the State University on the negative side of the same question in Bozeman that night were Robert Ryan and Harvey Thirloway.

At Billings on March 11 a split team debate was held with the Eastern Normal School. Rita Walker and Helen Huxley were the University debaters and Ruth Mariage and Thelma Hyatt the normal school speakers. The negative debaters, Hyatt and Huxley, won the decision with a normal school girl being judged the best speaker. Previously on March 3 at Missoula, Helen Huxley and Phyllis Mills obtained a decision over a normal school team of Evelyn Adams and Ruth Jones.

The one major men’s varsity debate that occurred on the campus this year was with the Washington State College team on March 17. A Montana team composed of Sterling Stapp and Edward Alexander obtained a 2 to 1 decision over the Pullman debaters on the question: That the intervention of the federal government in the wheat situation through the agricultural marketing act has been a detriment to the farmers.

Under the good coaching of Rev. Jesse W. Bunch, frosh debate coach, Stephen Swanberg and George Boileau scored a debate victory over Intermountain Union College on April 19. The debate was held in Drummond and was conducted on the cross-examination plan. The question concerned the free trade controversy.

"A Million for a Man," an original musical comedy written by Curtis Barnes, University student, was the new 1931 Hi-Jinx production. The new production was given the place of the annual razz show given alternately by men and women in former years.

The change in the character of the show proved to be a decided success. "A Million for a Man" was placed in 1980, when women rule the world and men are apparently extinct. The production included a cast of 110 students, with several choruses and numerous specialty numbers supporting the speaking parts. The six leads were played by Rowe Morrel, Margaret Price, Dick O'Malley, Hazel Mumm, Eddie Krause and Jeanne Cunningham.

The character of the annual Hi-Jinx production was changed from the old razz fest of previous presentations to a musical comedy by Central Board, upon recommendation of the Hi-Jinx committee, composed of members of Silent Sentinel and Mortar Board, men's and women's senior honorary organizations. The success of the show this year proved the desirability of the change, and in the future original manuscripts will be presented as the annual A. S. U. M. production. Prizes will be offered annually for the best manuscripts.

Melville Rawn ............................. Stage Manager

Varsity Vodvil, annual campus vaudeville production sponsored by A. S. U. M., was won this year by Phi Delta Theta and Delta Gamma, the former presenting "Slips Don't Count," and the latter, "Sweets on Parade."

The annual Vodvil program was not given until the spring quarter this year, because of the presentation of Hi-Jinx during the winter term. Fifteen acts tried out in the Little Theatre, from which seven were chosen for the final production. The acts which were selected for the final bill included: Kappa Alpha Theta, "Vegetable Varieties;" Sigma Kappa, "This Ain't No Bull;" Sigma Chi, "A Modernized Jack and the Beanstalk;" non-sorority women, "Blackface Type;" Phi Delta Theta, "Slips Don't Count;" Alpha Phi, "Music Time in Tulip Land;" Delta Gamma, "Sweets on Parade."

Judges for the tryouts were Prof. R. L. Housman of the School of Journalism, Prof. G. D. Shallenberger of the Department of Physics, E. K. Taylor, manager of the Fox-Wilma Theater, Mrs. H. G. Merriam and Mrs. C. F. Deiss. Judges for the finals, held in the Wilma Theatre, April 18, were Mrs. Elizabeth Asendorf of the Department of Economics; C. A. Dool, local business man; Miss Irene Rich, faculty member of the Missoula county high school; Miss Charlotte Russel, librarian of the School of Law, and William Angus, director of the Little Theatre.

INTERSCHOLASTIC
Missoula County High School won the 1930 Interscholastic track and field meet by scoring 32 points. Custer County High School, Miles City, placed second with 24. Arthur Caven, Custer, tied with M. Danzie, Beaverhead, for individual honors, each accounting for 12 scores. Caven placed first in 220-yard low hurdles, setting a new record, second in the 100-yard dash, third in 120-yard high hurdles; and Danzie placed second in 120 high hurdles, first in broad jump, and tied with four others for first in high jump.

Butte and Whitefish waged a desperate battle to tie for third place with 18 points each. A little band of athletes from Belfry surprised their big-town brethren by picking off 13 points in the distance runs and the hurdles; Roe, champion distance runner of the meet, put Anaconda in the scoring with 10 of their 12 points, and Beaverhead's one man track team, Danzie, accumulated a dozen. Another Custer athlete, Peden, garnered 10 points.

Collaborating effectively in the field events for Missoula County High School, Custer, Bell, Sayler, Disbrow, Fallman, Jones and Dishman collected 30 points, with Tweto contributing the other two in a strong mile-run finish. First places were won by the champions in the pole vault, the shot put, and the javelin throw, with a tie for the laurels in the high jump.

Individual point winners for Missoula were: Custer, first in pole vault, breaking the record, fifth in broad jump; Disbrow, tied with four others for first in high jump, third in broad jump; Fallman, first in javelin throw; Bell, first in shot put; Jones, second in shot put; Sayler, second in broad jump; Tweto, fourth in mile run; Dishman tied with two others for fifth in pole vault.

The meet was one of the fastest in the history of the State University, five state records being smashed and another equalled. New records were established in the pole vault, by Custer of Missoula at 12 feet 10 inches; in the broad jump, by Danzie of Beaverhead at 21 feet 9 inches; in the low hurdles by Caven of Custer at 26.2 seconds; in the high hurdles; by Maple of Belfry at 16.2 seconds; and in the 220-yard dash, by Peden of Custer at 22.3 seconds. In the 100-yard dash, Peden equalled the present mark of 10.2 seconds.

Custer of Missoula exceeded the state intercollegiate pole vault record. The Montana intercollegiate record, held by Jake Miller, is 12 feet 8 inches.

Caven, who in 1929 took the 220-yard low hurdles with a record time of 27 seconds, broke his own record, with a time of 26.2, in the third heat of the trials. In the finals of that event, he lost a shoe but managed to again break his own state record with a time of 26 seconds. The record was not allowed because he kicked over one hurdle.

The relay race, closing event of the meet, which does not count in the final rating on the scoreboard, went to Custer county high’s quartet of runners when Caven regained an advantage lost on the third lap to tear home for a fighting finish ahead of O’Malley of Butte. Butte placed second, and other schools in the order in which they placed were Anaconda, Missoula and Gallatin.
Missoula, as the school which had scored the greatest number of points in athletics in the last five meets, was given a silver cup donated by the Missoula Mercantile company; and the Missoula Rotary club was donor of a cup awarded permanently to Missoula as winner of the 1930 meet. Custer received the trophy given by the D. J. Donohue company for the winner in the relay. This cup will be given permanently in 1934 to the school which has the greatest number of relay points in five years. Custer county also received a permanent cup from the Missoula Lions club for winning the relay, and a Kiwanis club cup for breaking or equaling the greatest number of records in the meet.

TENNIS

Robert Grantier and Rudolph Jacobs of Missoula County High School retained their title of state doubles champions in tennis, which they won in the 1929 meet, by defeating Bretherton and Karst of Butte, 6-, 6-8, 9-7.

Jacobs also won the singles championship for the state after defeating Charles Emory of Billings, 6-4, 1-6, 9-7. He defeated Bretherton, 1929 singles champion, in a preliminary match.

GOLF

Rudy Merhar of Butte, completing his last 18 holes in 80, bringing his total for the 36 to 164, easily repeated his 1929 victory by again winning the State Interscholastic golf tournament. Merhar was 15 strokes up on his team mate, George Scarsfield, who finished second. C. Magner of Malta placed third with 184. Purdom, Bozeman, and Word, Helena, placed fourth and fifth respectively.

In 1929 Merhar defeated S. Thompson, another Butte student, with a score of 172, thus bettering the 1928 record set by Richard Eagan, Butte, by 9 strokes.

LITTLE THEATRE TOURNAMENT

Flathead County High School, Kalispell, with a presentation of "Submerged," won the fourth annual one-act play contest. Anaconda High School placed second, producing "The Drums of Oude." Third place in the finals was awarded to Missoula County High School with "Off Nag's Head." and Whitehall, presenting "Box and Cox," was judged fourth.

The gold medal for the best actor was awarded to William Swetland of Flathead county for his work as the coward in "Submerged." The best actress in the tourney was Kathryn Wedgwood of Missoula County High School.

The cast for submerged was: Dunn, the lover, Louis Dodge; Shaw, the dreamer, Darrel Dickey; Brice, the coward, William Swetland; McAndrews, the commander, Curtis Hegg; Gorgson, the bully, Cecil Hansman; Nabb, the cockney, Arnold Brassett. The play was a tragedy, enacted in the forepart of a wrecked and submerged submarine.

A silver cup donated by the Montana Masquers and trip expenses went to Flathead for first place. A prize of $25 was given by the Missoula Women's Club to Anaconda for second place. Silk banners given by the Montana Masquers were presented to all four of the finalists.
"The Arrow" of Flathead County High School, Kalispell, was awarded a silver cup for winning first place in Class A of the 1930 high school newspaper contest. "The Gallatin High News" of Bozeman was only three-fourths of a point behind. The cup was awarded by the Montana Press Association.

DEBATE

Bessie Harrison and Marie Thomas of Lewistown won for Fergus County High School the silver cup for the state championship in debate. Fergus County also won in 1929. Miss Thomas was awarded the gold medal and a year's scholarship at the State University as the best individual debater, and Miss Harrison tied with David Rhea of Bainville for second place.

THE STAMPEDE

"The Stampede" of Havre High School won the first prize, a silver loving cup donated by the Montana Press Association, in Class B of the 1930 newspaper contest. "The Sheepherder" of Big Timber was awarded first place in Class C; "The Sagebrush Saga" of Jordan, first place in Class D. "The Manhattan Community Searchlight" won in a class created for high school papers that are also community papers.
DECLAMATION

Betty Kelleher, Butte, and Richard Lovely of Powell County High School, Deer Lodge, were first prize winners in the Interscholastic declamation contest. Miss Kelleher had for her selection "The Valiant" by Robert Middlemass and Holworthy Hall; and Lovely gave a selection by Marjorie B. Cook.

Others placing in each division were: Second, Betty Hruza, Sweetgrass County; Kenneth Spaulding, Missoula. Third. Ruth Asbridge, Flathead County; Oscar Ball, Custer County. Fourth, Estelle Fletcher, Roundup; Edward Kretzer. Anaconda. Fifth, Mary Sullivan, Charlo; James Goodwin, Butte Central. Gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded.

THE KYOTE

"The Kyote" of Billings High School was awarded first place in the Interscholastic Editorial Association contest for the best yearbook in the state in 1930. The award was a silver cup donated by F. W. Fredell, vice President of the Buckbee-Mears Engraving company of St. Paul.

ESSAY

Roderick Cowles of Gallatin County High School, Bozeman, writing on "Life on an irrigated Montana Farm," won the Interscholastic essay contest conducted by the English department. He was awarded a gold medal, given by the University for the best essay written by a member of the graduating class of the accredited state high schools, and had all of his expenses at the track meet paid.

Other schools entering essays were Bridger, Culbertson, Mildred and Shelby.
1931 INTERSCHOLASTIC

Butte Public High School won the 1931 Interscholastic track meet with 17 1/3 points, and Billings placed second with 16 1/3. Butte also won the relay race. Hamilton of White Sulphur Springs was high point winner, making all of his school's 12 1/2 points.

First four places in the Little Theatre contest went, in order, to Flathead County, Anaconda, Butte and Whitefish Central high schools. Best actress, Helen Peterson, Kalispell; best actor, Edward Kretzer, Anaconda. Newspaper contest cups went to The Konah, Missoula: The Centralite, Girls' Butte Central; Anticline, Baker; and Crazy Mountain Monitor, Clyde Park.
Interscholastic Committee

Interscholastic committee is composed of students from the various departments of the University, and functions in the capacity of governing student participation in connection with the Interscholastic track meet.

Robert Hendon headed the committee in 1931. He worked on the publicity committee the previous year. Each committee is headed by a senior, who is assisted by a junior or a sophomore, who in turn usually heads the committee in his senior year. The members of the Interscholastic committee oversee the decoration of the campus, publicity of the meet and they head the reception committee through the Bear Paws and Tanans who meet all incoming athletes.

The decoration committee supervises the campus decorations, erecting each year the arch over the main entrance, lamps post decorations and directing the placing of flags on the bleachers. Another branch of this committee has general supervision of fraternity and sorority decorations. There is a prize given each year to the most attractively decorated fraternity and sorority houses, won in 1930 by Zeta Chi and Delta Sigma Lambda.

The publicity of Interscholastic was handled through John Curtis and Robert Blakeslee who had charge of the distribution of news concerning the plans and preparations for Interscholastic track meet. The only members of the 1931 committee who had not previously served on it were Bob Blakeslee, John Curtis, Dick Fox and Rita Walker.

Uncle Hud and His Nieces

or

"Why He Stayed So Long at College"

"My nieces," shouted Uncle Hud softly into his double chin while he disentangled his finger from his tatting. "my nieces are my biggest worry." I sighed sympathetically and made a noise like an electric sign, because dear old Uncle was slightly deaf and remarkably dumb.

"The Alpha Chi's with that lyre," wept Uncle bitterly as he turned three backflips off the stepladder. "They worry my heart out the way they go for the 'M' club.

"I weep," and he actually did, "for the Alpha Chi davenport, trying all these years to hold up the 'M' club and all the sisters. The rugs are trampled to bits, their front steps are kicked to splinters and their paint is cracking, the paint on the house. I mean, because they discovered that to get an 'M' man, they had to use 'M' club tactics.

"And the Alpha Phi chapter." Uncle sighed, because the whole chapter had broken his heart at one time or another, one by one. "there's something about the way they hang around your neck that reminds you of an overcoat on a peg. But it's nice! Doggone nice!" screamed Uncle Hud to the collector, then had him thrown out because he hadn't accepted the books when the expressman brought them.

"Five generations hence," he promised the bus driver. "Alpha Phi's will be built like octopi, their davenport will stretch the full length of the house and University avenue will detour through the parlor.

"Don't let me forget," shouted Uncle Hud to the meter reader, "to give the postman a cigar when he comes along. He deserves something for lugging the mail away from the Alpha Xi Delta house each day.” Uncle nodded to the messenger boy, dug into his pocket but failing to find a quarter, gave the boy a hard look instead.

“When I hire a secretary, she’ll be an Alpha Xi,” whispered Uncle at the top of his voice, “because they keep up their correspondence. Every girl has a sweetie in Timbuctoo, Baluchistan and two other places, madly in love with her. They receive two letters a day and answer eight. I feel for my Alpha Xi nieces.

“Delta,” declaimed Uncle, as the train began pulling out. “Delta Delta Delta Delta Delta. Sometimes I become confused thinking of them, but they don’t worry me like the rest do.” Uncle polished his glasses and passed them up for another filling. “Once I had a date with a Tri-Delt, but she made the honor roll and I made the jail, so we couldn’t get along.”

Uncle Hud lowered himself from the trapeze and whispered in my ear. “Without my Delta Gamma outfit, there wouldn’t be a chance for anyone. They are the savours of the race. But for them there would be nothing but confusion and weeping and gnashing of teeth.” Uncle gnashed both of his. “Without them we wouldn’t have a chance. They keep the grade curve within reach of all and keep us happy, contented and amused.

“I’ve never,” moaned Uncle, “become quite as intimate with my Kappa Delta nieces as I wanted to.” He mused a bit about it and a tear crept into his eye, then stole down his wrinkled cheek, hiding behind a whisker now and then. “They have a way of settling their own troubles without bringing them to me. Sometimes I think they are a bunch of dumb-bells, and sometimes I think they’re smart. They’re a shapely looking crowd.

“Somehow,” remarked Uncle Hud, as he polished the lens of his telescope, “somehow, I have a feeling that Missoula high school is going Theta. There’s something about a kite that seems to attract Missoula high graduates. I wouldn’t say that it’s the high flying part of it; more likely it’s the line.” Uncle grinned a bit at remembering bits of Theta line, but frowned when he remembered the hook on the end of it. “In a few years they can paper the house with Missoula high school diplomas.”

Uncle Hud smiled kindly upon the princess and patted her hand. “You,” he confided, “remind me of a bunch of my nieces back home, with your queenly air and regal expression. I always felt inclined to tip my hat to the Kappas, but having no hat, merely offered a toothy grin.” He offered one to the queen and she shouted, “Off with his head!”

“Just like the Kappas, exactly,” murmured Unk as the executioner dragged him away. “But I like them, for all their Vogue reading,” he told the man, so the man let him go, because Uncle gave him a big bill.

“Tut, tut,” remonstrated Uncle when I chided him for giving away such a big bill. “I’ll never miss it. It was a bill Interfraternity Council was going to present to the Sigma Kappas for the pins they collected and didn’t pay for.” Uncle grinned, but remembering that the bartender was watching, quickly sobered. “That’s one bunch of my nieces who will get ahead in the world, if they have to sell their pin collection to do it. They are the most highly developed psychologists in my family. They know just when to stroke a man’s cheek so he’ll feel it clear down to his pin.

“No, little girl, your father ain’t in there.” Uncle patted the little girl on the head. “But I saw nine of your sisters going down the street toward the Old National.” Uncle gave her a nickel, but took the dice, shot a seven and took it back. “No, you can’t go yet. Zeta Chi. You’re a bit too young. Just wait a few more years until your little wagon gets traded in for an automobile. Then you can go.

“They’re a great crowd,” said Uncle to the jockey. “I couldn’t do without them.”

Where Are You Going?

Somebody has said that a capable pilot is not made by fair weather. He is made by storms, gales, hurricanes, tempests, cyclones and by threatenings of havoc, ruin and annihilation. Wonderful training.

Pilot schools are small and graduates scarce. So stamp it in your memory that you have arrived at the place where your thinking has brought you and you are going to the place your thinking will take you.

WHERE THE BUILDING AND LOAN BUSINESS STANDS TODAY

At the end of 1929, the last full year for which records are available, the score stands as follows:

1. 8,000,000 American homes financed through building and loan in the years between 1831-1931.
2. 12,342 building and loan institutions now.
3. 12,111,209 accounts or members now.
4. $8,695,154,220.00 in assets now.

90% of the nearly nine billion dollars of assets is invested in first mortgage loans on homes.

Approximately three million families right now are participating in our home ownership program.

Truly a great record of progress for a movement that was inaugurated just one hundred years ago.

A PIONEER STORE

THE story of thirty-four years of progressive, aggressive, honest merchandising is written in the history of this—one of the very oldest of Butte’s mercantile institutions—and in 1931 a period of shifting ownership and changing organizations, The Symons Store operates under . . .

The same ownership—the same management
The same merchandising policy.

THIS is a Butte store, a home founded and a home conducted institution, a business built upon and existing under sound principles; a substantial, dependable buying place for the people, a reliable fair dealing concern that must continue as this community’s leading store because it is now as it has been in all the years of its career . . .

The store of largest and best stocks at the lowest prices!
