Notes for Albuquerque

Roberta Hill
NOTES FOR ALBUQUERQUE

“There is a screw loose in the public machinery somewhere.”
Schoolcraft on the BIA, 1828

I.
Threads spiral toward a center,
turn on fingers of freezing children.
One boy ran, scared by routine, a glaring sun.
Hiding three days,
they found him blistered.
He fell asleep in Math, stupid.
Call him a fire-eyed coyote,
a berry in the paw of a bear.
“Cut the heat
in Arizona. It’s warm there.”

II.
Beware of wind.
Apache nights dry the morning. Why hatred in Ronan? They watch Red Sky Sun Down make an x. Her knowledge could protect the bees. “We must help the boarding schools, get water from Gila Community, dam it in the mountains.”
No rain in three years. Phoenix thrives.

III.
A man was promoted today. Now an assistant commissioner dreams of junior high and Shakespeare.
“Dark skinned savages with wailing songs.”
Dimpled girls once teased his stutter.
He no longer listens. Children are sick in Santa Rosa. At Salt River, work Math on toilet paper.
IV.

Lose this hurt,
a trestle lost to canyons. Our ground is now legend. Dew smokes along Ska na wis. The circle of meeting trees north of the Lawrence gives way to moss.
Children are sick in Santa Rosa.
We give away to this deepening thunder.
The sand knows lizards and coyotes.
Only owls have homes.