Make no little plans; they have no magic to stir men's blood and probably themselves will not be realized. Make big plans: aim high in hope and work, remembering that a noble, logical diagram once recorded will never die, but long after we are gone will be a living thing, asserting itself with ever-growing insistency. Remember that our sons and grandsons are going to do things that would stagger us.

Many changes have been made at Montana State University (Opus)—University of Montana—during 1964-65. The change of name on July 1 was probably the most notable.

Historical buildings such as Photo-Radio-T. V. Building and Sentinel Office, Cook Hall, and Alumni House were demolished while Miller Hall rose to meet the demands of an expanding university. As students crammmmed for spring quarter finals, construction was already underway for another residence hall on Arthur Avenue. And soon the broken asphalt of the 600 block of University Avenue will be transformed into a mall of grass and monuments, welcoming visitors to UM's campus.

Enrollment projections indicate that UM must anticipate an enrollment of 9,000 students by 1975. To establish a flexible framework for orderly and rational development, the Long Range Campus Plan was prepared to set a policy for the physical development of the campus (see endsheets).

As the report points out, this growth involves much more than just physical planning: “As a university grows in size and maturity, its functions and responsibilities increase likewise. Among the major responsibilities of an institution of higher education is that it be a prime cultural resource of the community and State. Fulfillment of this responsibility requires appropriate facilities and environment. The man who experiences daily association with good architecture, sculpture, landscaping and consciously ordered environment must inevitably become more sensitive to form, order and delight in man-made surroundings, and this awareness will be exerted upon the community which he joins. A university campus should engender this sensitivity, as well as accomplishing its basic educational objectives... University of Montana has become a complex institution, performing a variety of functions including instruction, research, student activities and services, public service programs, and similar activities... as the University’s resources and facilities expand to serve increasing enrollment, it anticipates a correspondingly broadened scope of educational, cultural, scientific and economic service to the community and to the State.”

A view of the over-all plans and purposes of the University of Montana is portrayed on the following pages.
UM PROVIDES STUDENTS WITH YEAR-AROUND PICTURESQUE BEAUTY...

Winter snow caps Old Main.

A refreshing calm surrounds the Liberal Arts Building during summer session.

Foggy mornings mark much of fall quarter.
The Lodge, the center of most student activities, is reflected on the wet pavement.

The rays of an autumn sunset warm the memorial grove by the Alumni House.
Intramural competition on the Cloverbowl attracts many participants and spectators.

A VARIETY OF ACTIVITIES...

UM skiers find themselves near excellent slopes.

The Grizzlies showed much improvement and promise during the 1964-65 season.
Knowles Hall houses nearly 300 upperclass women.

The Music Building is the center of many conferences such as the Annual Summer Music Camp.
The five-story Health Science Building was dedicated during spring quarter.

MODERN FACILITIES...

Construction is already under way on a new 11-story dormitory.
COLORFUL TRADITIONS...
REWARD FOR ACHIEVEMENT...

AND A CHANCE FOR GROWTH

IN MEMORIAM

Walter Ames, professor emeritus of education, was acting Dean of the School of Education on several occasions and was assistant director of several summer sessions.

Mr. McConnell came to the University of Montana in 1954 and was employed as a field assistant at the Lubrecht Experimental Forest.

For the past year President Robert Johns, together with the Montana State Board of Regents, has been planning for the expansion of the University of Montana. According to the long-range development plan, UoM will be able to accommodate 9,000 students in 1975. The plan was officially authorized early in 1964 and is scheduled for completion in 1975. President Johns' hopes to begin construction on a science complex in 1965 were thwarted by the legislature, which failed to allot sufficient funds for the project.

Among President Johns' more enjoyable tasks is greeting new students during Orientation Week.
EXECUTIVE AIDS

Serving as advisors, these three men aid the president, specializing in their respective areas. Through the co-ordination of academics, finances and public relations, the University expands to meet the demands of an ever-growing student body.
This year two new deans have been added to the academic staff, the Dean of Library Service, Earle C. Thompson, and the Dean of the Graduate School, Fred S. Honkala. As heads of their respective fields, the deans manage the academic program of the University.
As Dean of Students, Andrew C. Cogswell heads the complete counseling services offered by the University. His job is a difficult one, since the responsibility for final decisions on student regulations rests on his shoulders.

The network of counseling services offered to women students comes under the auspice of the office of the Dean of Women, Maurine Clow. Personal problems, academic snags, opportunities for broader horizons, and obedience to regulations are handled directly or indirectly through this office.

The services of the dean’s office are rounded out by Anthony Valach, Assistant Dean of Students, who handles the counseling services offered to male students at UM. Nearly every male student on campus feels his influence at one time during his college career.

CENTRAL BOARD

Elected by and responsible to the students of the University of Montana, Central Board establishes policy and guides student affairs. Probably the Board's greatest task is the allocating of $176,000 of student funds to fifteen committees, four publications, and numerous dependent activities. This year, Central Board was plagued by the usual problems of how to bring more and better entertainment to campus, what to do about the lack of attendance at CB meetings, and how to boost student interest in student affairs. After months of debate and investigation, the campus government at last affiliated U of M with the Associated Student Governments of the United States of America (ASGUSA).
ELECTIONS COMMITTEE

Elections Committee is responsible for the accurate and efficient execution of all campaigns and elections, with most of their work concentrated on the last and largest election of the year—the election of the student body officers.

HOMECOMING COMMITTEE

The organization behind Homecoming Weekend, with its queen, parade, football game, entertainment, and the greeting of returning alumni, comes from this small, hard-working committee headed by Kaycee Clausen.

Bottom Row: Cindy Wood, Kaycee Clausen (chairman), Bobbi Hall.
Second Row: Bob Miller, Mike Fisher.
BUDGET AND FINANCE COMMITTEE

Under the direction of Bill Hibbs, Budget and Finance Committee hears and decides upon requests for ASUM funds by various campus organizations.

Debate and Oratory is one of the many organizations which receives funds from Budget and Finance.
Garret, formerly the Venture, was delayed in its inception by the plague common to campus publications, editorial conflict. But with the selection of Editor Kitty Wright, progress began and a single edition appeared during spring quarter. Miss Wright and her staff brightened the literary magazine with color, art, and photographs although they were handicapped by a lack of student contributions.

"M" BOOK COMMITTEE

Under the direction of Ellen Broadus, "M" Book has undergone a complete revision. The official student handbook has been updated and enlarged in an effort to make it more useful to incoming freshmen.
Shelly Thompson and Mrs. C. Schuster discuss plans for Leadership Camp.

LEADERSHIP CAMP
COMMITTEE

Traditionally, each spring quarter, representatives of each living group, heads of student government, and those interested in discussing and hearing views concerning the campus, gather on the shores of Flathead Lake for a three day conference. The camp includes both formal messages of policy and informal discussions among members of the faculty and students.

Ray Cosman directs Publications Board.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

Publications Board’s responsibility lies with the four ASUM publications — the “M” Book, the Kaimin, the Garret, and the Sentinel. This board not only selects the working personnel for these publications but also holds control over them.

Cheerleader Julie Rogers displays agility at a Grizzly game.

TRADITIONS BOARD

Guardians of the traditions at U of M, “T” Board organizes the Singing On the Steps, the pep rallies, and the bi-annual rejuvenating of the “M” and “Hello Walk”. A constant reminder of the diligent work of this membership is the enthusiastic cheerleaders and pom pom girls, all selected by the board.
Chairmen Brett Askelstine and Nancy Taylor co-operated with the various departments and living groups to familiarize parents with U of M and its wide array of activities.

Much of the responsibility for the success of Parents' Day fell on co-chairman Brett Askelstine.

Planning Board draws many of the short and long-term plans which Central Board acts upon. Its success is measured by the number of proposals that it helps to bring into reality.

Each spring quarter, World University Service Committee organizes a week of events which is climaxed by a carnival. Proceeds from this event go to a needy area previously agreed upon by an international committee of which WUS is an affiliate.

Though forced inside because of rain, the World University Service Carnival drew a large crowd.
SPECIAL EVENTS

Working to give the student body a glimpse of nationally-known entertainers, Special Events Committee arranges for campus appearances of entertainers such as Roger Williams and The New Christy Minstrels. This committee is also responsible for the first formal renewal of student friendships through the Registration Dances held at the beginning of each quarter.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE

Along with the Kaimin, Publicity Committee serves as an agency which strives to keep the students well informed. These “poster printers” advertise all ASUM-approved social functions. The success, the attendance, are often dependent upon this small, hard-working faction.

Marsha Korin and Jeanne Matthews (chairman) look for coming events to publicize.
Seated from left to right: Lynn Estey, Arnie Gutfeld (chairman), Dr. Dew, Dr. Brown, Dr. Lory (faculty advisor), Dr. Hoffman, Cathy Brown, Jean Miller, Dr. Gilbert, Dr. Roberts, Dr. Inabnit, Dennis Hostetler, Cathy Wollhowe. Standing: Dr. Wehrenberg.

Working to establish interest between students and national newsmakers, Visiting Lectures Committee searches to find lecturers available for campus appearances. Hopefully their views will broaden student interest in national and international topics. The wide spectrum of qualified speakers this year includes such diverse personages as the archaeologist William Mulloy and Oregon's Governor Mark Hatfield.

Oregon's Governor Mark Hatfield brings the liberal Republican view to campus.
The new Miss UM is congratulated by well-wishing supporters.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

Associated Women Students is composed of all women students at U of M. Represented by a board of delegates from all women's living groups, the women formulate policies by which they govern themselves and initiate programs to acquaint girls with each other and university life. To achieve this end they sponsor such activities as Big-Little Sister Program and the Miss UM contest, an annual event which brings out the beautiful, talented women on campus in open competition for this coveted crown.
ACTIVITIES

COORDINATOR

Though not a committee by himself, Phil Miller, acting as Activities Coordinator, works with many of the ASUM committees to synchronize their planning and to prevent any overlapping of ideas. New this year in the system of student government, the position has proven its value, but needs competent workers, such as Phil, to achieve the aims of the position.

Phil Miller is the newest cog in the ASUM machinery.

AUXILIARY SPORTS BOARD

Allocating the money for the minor sports, this committee supports many of the student activity clubs financially. Though small in number, it controls a large budget, dividing it among many organizations.
Much of the responsibility for the Kaimin’s success fell on the shoulders of Jim Crane, managing editor.

Dan Foley found the job of editor left him little free time.

KAIMIN

Business Manager Emily Melton and her assistant, Karalee Stewart, check over the Kaimin accounts.

The Kaimin reports campus, state, and national news and opinion in an independent tabloid edited by student journalists. Often it proves to be the only contact between the student and the news world.

Like many Kaimin reporters, Todd Brandoff spends the afternoon polishing a story.

Luckii Ludwig and Gary Kimble are just two of the many Kaimin staff members.
A willing counsel, Ed Dugan serves as adviser to the Kaimin.

Sports Editor Bill Walter prepares a story before the Kaimin goes to press.

Nancy Engelbach, associate editor, takes five after a long afternoon.

Walter Bailey, Kaimin photographer, served the paper from January to March.
Editor Mignon Redfield found the yearbook to be time consuming but rewarding.

SENTINEL

The result speaks of the effort of the persons involved. You, the reader, pass the final judgment on the effort of the 1965 Sentinel staff.

Business Manager Marge Clark struggled to keep ahead of correspondence for the yearbook.

Adviser and friend to the staff, Cyrile VanDuser counseled and supported the staff throughout the year.
Among the pictures taken by head photographer John Lumb was the color shot used for this year's cover.

Jim Redmond served as assistant photographer for fall and winter quarters.

Finishing the year as assistant photographer, Ron Normandeau served well and will return next year.

Marcen Jacobs, associate editor, contributed long hours toward the completion of the Sentinel.
Dan Mullen, sports editor, proved to be an industrious, lighthearted member of the staff.

Raenelle Maxwell, the only freshman on the staff, drew the chore of completing the class and academic sections of the Sentinel.

Ron Waterman, associate editor, found the Sentinel provided him with more than a part-time job.

TANAN OF SPUR

President—Sheila Skemp
Advisers—Mrs. Charles Parker
Mrs. Albert Stone

Accompanying the Bearpaws in campus duties, the Spurs add the attractive element to such events as Singing On the Steps, Sadie Hawkins Dance, and ushering at school events. Each member is representative of the spirit, leadership and scholastic qualities hopefully found in all students.

Spurs are amused by the action on the steps.
Bottom Row: Dick Holmquist, John Warren, Pat McLaughlin, Rex Boller, Don James, Bob Fletcher, Fritz Pierce, Jerry Brobst, Rex Hunisman, Bruce Swanson. Second Row: John Randall, Jim Tangen, George Foster, Jeff Hamilton, Chuck Wallace, Bjarne Johnson, Tom Johnson, Mike Frellick, Bill Schwanke. Third Row: Tom Behan, Jim Beery, Jack Martin, Roger Barber, Gene O'Hara, Scott Brown, Dale Harris, Terry Beahan, Duncan Crump, Dennis Minemyer.

Spurs attract voters to freshman elections.

BEARPAWS
President—Richard Holmquist
Advisers—Vedder Gilbert
Nelson Fritz

Sophomore men of the University interested in service often are found concentrated in the Bearpaw organization. The Bearpaws show their interest in improvement of the school, as indicated by their willing work on the M, Hello Walk, and in the many hours spent ushering at sports events.
Silent Sentinel is the senior men's honorary dedicated to service of the school. Chosen on the basis of scholarship and leadership, the members work without publicity to accomplish projects which improve the university and the student body.

Mortar Board

Leadership, scholarship, service are the three key concepts which bring the top senior women together under the banner of Mortar Board, a national women's honorary.

With winter quarter comes the annual WRA swim meet.
WOMEN'S
ASSOCIATION

The Women's Recreation Association appeals to the active young collegiate woman with its program of team and individual sports throughout the year. Swimming and tennis meets result in awards and trophies to the top contestants and living groups.

Spring tennis matches bring out different skills, but still they appeal to the active members of WRA.

Often the spectators are later competitors at WRA swim meets.
During fall quarter, interested freshmen have a chance to join the Grizzly Growlers, a service organization which helps the Spurs and Bearpaws and provides a cheering section for football and basketball games.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

President— Dave Weinschrott
Advisor— Jesse Dove

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship provides an opportunity for those seeking interdenominational fellowship to join together in Bible study, discussion, and workshops.
Newman House Officers: Suzy Schulz, Recording Secretary; Rev. Father George Ferguson, Adviser; Mary Dana, Publicity Chairman; Roberta Hall, Secretary; Jim Schaefer, President; Tom Napton, Vice President.

NEWMAN FOUNDATION

President—Jim Schaefer
Adviser—Rev. Father George Ferguson

Newman Foundation provides a hub for Catholic students on campus. Concern is placed not only on spiritual development, but on social and intellectual growth as well. Among Newman's many activities on campus, the most remembered is the annual Mardi Gras Dance held during winter quarter.

Model of the new Newman House.
ORCHESIS

President—Jo Ann Williams
Adviser—Miss Sondra Horton

A creative art, modern dance aims at the synchronization of body movements to produce a visual interpretation of musical moods.

MU PHI EPISTOLON

President—Sue Wellman
Advisers—Dr. F. Reynolds
Mrs. R. Levenworth

The music sorority, Mu Phi Epsilon, promotes academic scholarship as well as the advancement of musicianship at UoM. The honorary assists with the Montana High School Music Festival and supports projects of international Mu Phi Epsilon.
Joe Almas specifies a point for the opposition.

DEBATE AND ORATORY

President—Joe Almas
Adviser—Dr. Ralph Y. McGinnis

By competing in state, regional, and national tournaments, the forensic association has developed a winning technique. Widely traveled, members of the association have debated in the Southwest and the East. With weekly meetings to improve their style, membership is open to those willing to receive an intellectual challenge before an audience.

Joe Almas and Walter Kirkpatrick stand in back of many of the trophies they have won in debate and oratory.
Phi Alpha Theta is a union of interested students and faculty members in pursuit of historical knowledge through papers and discussion.

President – Kent Price
Adviser – Dr. Hammen

Phi Eta Sigma is the newly-founded men's scholastic honor-ary which promotes scholarship among freshmen men.

The Student Education Association attempts to further prepare students about to enter the education field by indicating goals to strive for.
Theta Sigma Phi is the women’s communications honorary which recognizes outstanding women students in the field and strives to promote opportunities for them. Each spring, Theta Sigma Phi sponsors Matrix Table, honoring four outstanding college women.

Sigma Delta Chi is the men’s journalism honorary which recognizes outstanding achievement in the field of journalism and through discussions and speakers attempts to broaden the interests of its members.
HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

*President — Patsy Morris
Adviser — Mrs. V. Lewis*

The home economics service organization gives its members an opportunity for practical experience in the home economics field through food sales and luncheons.

Bottom Row: Helen Starina, Sue Joy (president), Marcia Allison. Second Row: Marla Madison, Joan McClellan, Kay Markwardt, Judy Carpenter, Mrs. Brisoe.

KAPPA OMICRON PHI

*President — Sue Joy
Adviser — Mrs. E. Milodragorich*

A comparatively new honorary Kappa Omicron Phi, rewards scholastic achievement and seeks to develop interest in home economics.
Phi Chi Theta, the women's business sorority, encourages and rewards high achievement among women interested in a business career.

ACCOUNTING CLUB

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

President — Roy Lanier
Adviser — Fred Henningsen

Teachers, students, and visiting lecturers enjoy the spring Business Banquet.

The business administration honorary, Alpha Kappa Psi, fosters scientific research in the fields of accounting, commerce, and finance and seeks to further educate the public as to the higher ideals possible in business.
A PH A

President—Jerry Short
Adviser—Dr. D. Canham
Dr. Fitzgerald

Advancing pharmacy as a profession, especially through education, the American Pharmaceutical Association meets monthly to hear speakers on current topics.

KAPPA EPSILON

President—Mary Pengelly
Adviser—Mrs. J. Wailes

The women’s pharmaceutical honorary, Kappa Epsilon, seeks to promote academic excellence among women in the pharmacy school.

Soccer, being an international sport, draws its strength from the foreign students of U of M. Participating in games against other college teams, the Soccer Club opens the sport to the interested students willing to compete in this fast moving game.
One of the two ROTC programs on campus is the Air Force Wing which prepares students for service and careers in the Air Force. Since both juniors and seniors serve as officers, the Air Force program quickly gives those enrolled in the four-year program an opportunity to lead.

The Air Force honorary for junior and senior cadets, Arnold Air Society, recognizes those cadets who possess outstanding leadership and scholastic qualities.

The girls of Angel Flight are the unchallenged queens of the Air Force Wing. During winter quarter, they perform marching exhibitions at basketball games; spring quarter puts them on the marching field with the cadets, serving as honor guards during the drills. These girls, chosen each fall quarter, are the pick of the freshman and sophomore classes.

"OH, DAD, POOR DAD,...
Mama's Hung You In The Closet
And I'm Feeling So Sad"

Directed by Douglas Bankson

Returning after a successful summer run, Arthur Kopit's "Oh, Dad. Poor Dad..." again entertained the students during fall quarter. Centered around a peculiar woman (Georgia Tree) and her son (Les Hankinson), the play presents their exaggerated and distorted attitudes toward marriage, children, and sex.

For bringing to life such a mass of personalities, praise goes to all members of the cast.

The sets were created by Leo Kerz, noted scene designer and visiting professor at U of M during summer quarter.

Madame Rosepettle (Georgia Tree) dances with Commodore Rose-above (Larry James) after dining.
MY FAIR LADY
Directed by Firman H. Brown

The Cockneys (Doug Manning, Michael Daley, Gary Guthrie, and Bill Stephens) warm their hands over a smudge pot while Eliza Doolittle (Sue Noreen) sings.
Reincarnated upon the stage of U of M's University Theater were the characters of Eliza Doolittle and Henry Higgins, excellently portrayed by Sue Noreen and David Hunt. The play, a universal favorite, once again exhibited its ability to absorb the audience in such a way that it soon found itself observing life in nineteenth century London.

The highly skilled actors put on a three hour production fully worthy of the play's origin, a New York Broadway theater. Praise should go not only to the highly captivating actors, but also to the crew, who put in long hours and hard work so necessary for the accomplishment of such a feat. The crew deserves praise for the London settings.

The audience showed their appreciation for the spectacular, professional entertainment by filling the theater with their applause.

Working on the set are Dick James, Larry James, Sandy James, and Glenn Gauer.

Henry Higgins (David Hunt) and Colonel Pickering (Bill Dobson) are exuberant over Eliza's (Sue Noreen) mastering of the proper English tongue.
On her knees before Queen Elizabeth (Kathy Cody), the Dark Lady (Trina Ambrose) pleads for William’s (Ted Ulmer) life.

Shakespeare (Ted Ulmer) argues with the Warder (Glenn Gauer).

"THE DARK LADY OF THE SONNETS"

The Masquer productions, “The Dark Lady of the Sonnets” by George Bernard Shaw and “Miss Julie” by August Strindberg, are directed by advanced drama students for fulfillment of graduation requirements.

In “The Dark Lady of the Sonnets,” directed by Don Thomson, the author’s appeal for a national theater is evident through his use of characters portraying William Shakespeare (Ted Ulmer) and Queen Elizabeth (Kathy Cody). The genius, William Shake-
KRISTIN (Connie Cody), JEAN (Noel Young), AND JULIE (Patsy Maxson) DISCUSS THEIR RELATIONSHIP.

JULIE (Patsy Maxson) CLAPS THE HAND OF HER NEW FOUND LOVE, JEAN (Noel Young).

"MISS JULIE"

Speare, is portrayed as an ordinary, uninspired man whose drama dialogue is plagiarized from the conversations of ordinary people.

"Miss Julie", directed by Georgia Tree, is set in late 19th century Sweden. Strindberg presents Miss Julie (Patsy Maxon) as a confused young woman who can't accustom herself to society's norms. This play deals with the influence of heredity and environment on an individual's character.

The peasants (Barbara Trott and Bruce Buls) are gleeful after an evening of dancing.
Fall quarter sees numerous cultural events.

Faculty and student vocal and instrumental recitals offer exciting and challenging experience in the world of music and art.

The annual Christmas Convocation, directed by Don Carey gives students a thrilling reading of Handel's Messiah, performed by combined University singing groups and the U of M Symphonette. The Convocation not only brought the Christmas message to the students, but also served as a welcome break from fall quarter exams.

Nationally famous art exhibits as well as faculty and student displays are available to the students. The displays, sponsored by the art department, are exhibits of unusual creativity.

Drama offers many opportunities for students. All are encouraged to take part in the tryouts for the Masquer production, Macbeth.

One of the highlights of the Yuletide season is the Christmas Convocation.
Macbeth gets underway with tryouts.

Mr. Dewiss views student creations at art show. The winning exhibits are: "Little Lady" (on wall) by John Rhodes; "G-Pot" (on stand) by Leonard Stach; "1510 Pleasant Street" (in front) by Jim Stevenson.
Widow Bess (Kathleen Cody) consoles Jack (Mike Rafferty) after selling Bossy, their cow.

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK

"Jack and the Beanstalk" begins the Drama Department's series of plays aimed at entertaining youngsters of the Missoula area. Jack is played by Mike Rafferty, guest star from Sentinel High School.

Certain problems arise in appealing to a younger audience. For one, the actors must help the youngsters assume a role in the story. Participation generates and maintains the childrens' interest. Also, the play's appearance must be kept simple. The dramatists admirably overcome both difficulties. The result is a successful production that will go on tour.

Jack talks with Man in the Moon (Michael Daley) on his return from a visit to the Giant.
Acts from two dynamic plays constituted the Montana Masquers Winter Quarter Workshop Series. Tennessee Williams' "Suddenly Last Summer" tells of a domineering mother (Barbara Jo Whitney) who wishes to protect the image of her deceased son at any cost. Catherine (Patsy Maxson) reveals the truth of the son's death in an emotional performance that brings the play to a dramatic climax.

Catherine pleads with Mrs. Holly (Sue Noreen) and George Holly (Michael Daley) to believe her story.
“Look Back in Anger” shows how the pressures of a triangle of young people can lead to an outburst of suppressed emotions. Without really meaning to do so, Jimmy Porter (Gary Anderson) drives his wife (Barbara Trott) to the brink of insanity by his biting comments about their relationship. Doug Manning portrays the family “friend” who, while keeping the marriage in balance, also disrupts the harmony.

Cliff comforts his best friend’s wife, Alison.

“LOOK BACK IN ANGER”
The colorful sets and gay costumes brighten the University Theater.

"DIE FLEDERMAUS"

Johann Strauss' comic opera, "Die Fledermaus", is presented at UM by the Canadian Opera Company. In the delightful performance the action revolves around a revenge joke perpetrated by a doctor against a wealthy Austrian baron. Taking liberties with the libretto, Ruth and Thomas Martin bring the opera into a modern mood.

The Canadian troupe received a well-earned standing ovation as the curtains closed.

As the curtain time draws near, a crowd gathers.
After hours of preparation, a 35-member cast presents Shakespeare's most obsessive play, "Macbeth". Director Douglas Bankson and his cast make use of several modern techniques in an effort to make this 350-year-old play meaningful in a modern world. The stage setting is unchanging with movement of lights rather than scenery. Through a forceful delivery as Macbeth, Jim Baker conveys to the audience the tangled plight of a man trapped between his loyalty and his ambition. Amidst witches and apparitions, Macbeth is destroyed in a nightmare of his own creation. His unchecked will drives him to murder and finally to his own destruction. Macbeth comes to the tragic realization that life "is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing". With neither grace nor hope, Macbeth meets death as a hollow shell of a man who might be any of us.

Lady Macbeth prods her husband in his struggle for power.
Backstage Sue Norcen trims Jim Baker's hair in preparation for the show.

Douglas Bankson and the cast succeed in making Shakespeare's tragedy meaningful.
STUDENT ART
Some of the greatest talent on campus is missed by the majority of students. Hours of tedious work go into the painting and sculptures in the fine arts department.
ART DISPLAYS

Few students ever see the art displays in the halls of the Fine Arts Building after the work is done.
Among the cultural displays available to UM students spring quarter was an evening of modern dance performed by the members of Orchesis. Miss Sondra Horton (right) and her dance group opened their program with an interpretation of Marcello’s Courante and danced on through characteristic folk dances of Mexico, Yugoslavia, and the Philippines to a jazz collage of eleven dances to bring the evening to a close.
A clown who must make the audience laugh although his heart is breaking is the central character in Ruggerio Leoncavallo's melodramatic opera, "Pagliacci".

The UM Opera Workshop and the Montana Masquers combined their talents in presenting "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" under the direction of Firman H. Brown and John Lester.

Tonio, the hunchback, is aware of Niedda's unfaithfulness to her husband.

The jealous clown, Canio, has stabbed his unfaithful wife and is about to take the life of her lover.
Members of Montana Masquers and the Opera Workshop are shown during a scene in "Cavalleria Rusticana".

After Turiddo admits his guilt to Alfio, he bids his mother farewell.

CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA

The one-act Italian opera "Cavalleria Rusticana" is a tragic love story written by Pietro Mascagni.

The lead and several parts in the two operas were performed by different singers each night to give cast members an opportunity to sing a number of parts.
The Children’s Theater again makes a hit with Mark Twain’s “The Adventures of Tom Sawyer.” With Daniel Witt directing, Les Hankinson (Tom Sawyer) and Ted Ulmer (Huck Finn) lead the cast through adventure. This, the second Masquer production for children, was highly successful and will insure the continuation of Children’s Theater next year.
Duncan Crump heads the rest home's medical staff.

REST HOME

The doctor presents daily lectures to his elderly patients.
For their outstanding performances in "Rest Home", two actresses received Masquers awards. For her portrayal of Mrs. Pratt, Georgia Tree was selected as best actress. Best supporting actress was Mary Jane Williams who played Nurse Helga Helmgrim.

The play which earned Masquer honors for these actresses was a story of a rest home staff's efforts to have a centenarian among their patients in the hope that this might improve the home's reputation.

The production was written and directed by associate professor of drama, Douglas Bankson.
FOOTBALL

Warren Hill runs against Montana State College.
The Grizzlies posted a three-win, six-loss record over the 1964 season, and finished third in the Big Sky Athletic Conference with one win and two losses in league play.

In his first season as head coach, Hugh Davidson brought the Grizzly attack to life by replacing Montana's plodding single wing with a pro-style, split-end and flanker offense built around the running of all-conference halfback Paul Connelly and the passing of quarterback Bob Benzley.

The Grizzly defense, led by all-conference linebacker Wayne Harrington and co-captain Jerry Luchau, battled stubbornly against Montana's deeper opponents, only to tire during the late stages of games, after spending the better part of most Saturday afternoons on the field.

The Montana freshmen team played strong football in 1964, winning two games, tying one, and losing one. The Cubs were blessed with a potent offense, headed by a wonderfully quick halfback, Willie Jones. Quarterback Jim Searles threw well to Greg Hanson and Dewey Allen. A rugged line showed it could play both offense and defense.

Cub victories came at the expense of Montana State College, 20-6, and Northern Montana College, 42-7. The Frosh tied the University of Idaho's freshmen 16-16 on a pair of last-minute pass completions by Searles, and dropped a tough one to Idaho State University's freshmen, 23-20, on a 97-yard drive by ISU late in the fourth quarter.

Connelly, in his first year with the Grizzlies, was second in the Big Sky in yards gained rushing, with 595. Harrington was a standout as a linebacker, and shared the all-conference center slot with MSC's Terry Albrecht.

Wade Hughes flashed through a pack of Bobcats.
The Grizzlies had their best season in four years, winning 11 and losing 15. Individual players showed great promise, but the Silvertips never seemed to reach their potential as a unit.

Though they finished last in the Big Sky Conference, the Grizzlies defeated the league's two top teams, Weber State and Gonzaga, in one-point contests before thrilled Montana supporters in the Fieldhouse.

Transfer Ed Samelton and old hand Gary Meggelin led the Grizzlies this year. Samelton, a forward, was the team's top scorer, averaging 18.4 points per game. He received the C. R. Dragstedt award as the Grizzlies' Most Valuable Player, and was selected to the second team of the BSC's all-conference squad. Meggelin, a senior guard, ranked second in scoring, and his defensive skill won him the John F. Earheart award as Best Defensive Player. Guard Wade Hughes displayed much talent as a ball handler and play maker. Both Hughes and Meggelin received honorable mention in the All-BSC selections. Center Tom Schilke developed into a capable big man under both baskets as the season progressed, and his teammates voted him the squad's most improved player.

Gary Meggelin receives congratulations for being named Best Defensive Player.
Wade Hughes and the University of B.C.'s Bob Barazoul are in full flight as they battle for the ball.
Ed Samelton fights his way from among three UBC defenders.

The high-scoring Cubs averaged close to 85 points per game while winning eight and losing five contests. The forwards led the Cubs’ well-balanced attack: Greg Hanson hit 17.5 points per game and Tim Pfahler contributed 16.2. Norm Clark, an exciting player who saw action as a guard and a forward, was third in scoring with an average of 14.7 and led the team in another important department, snagging 13.2 rebounds per game.

When it comes time to travel, a college basketball team must endure radical changes in its environment, both before and during games. Here guard Wade Hughes accedes to the demands made on traveling players. Sound asleep on the plane to Ogden, and then intense under the Weber State basket a few hours later, Hughes shows that an athlete on the road must rest when he can, and still play as hard as ever.
An afternoon workout in the enemy’s gym, locker room strategy and courtside tactics over the din of strange cheers and unknown songs—all these are different. But the game is the same. The action is still hot and blurred, and the bench, as ever, is tense, attentive.
WRESTLING

The UM wrestlers fought their way to a record of four wins, six losses, and one tie. Paced by conference champions Dick Southern and Dick Treat, the Grizzlies finished third in the Big Sky meet.

The swimming story for 1965 is one of mostly inexperienced personnel attempting to compete against schools with larger-scale swimming programs. Fred Stetson's crew trained hard to prepare for Big Sky and independent meets, and made creditable showings.

Team members Ed Maguire and Lee MacDonald performed well by any standards. MacDonald scored 324.75 points in one-meter diving and 308 points in three-meter diving at the Big Sky meet here to take the conference diving championship. Maguire, the team captain, set a new conference and pool record by swimming the 500-yard freestyle in a time of 5:42.9. He also finished third in both the 100- and 200-yard freestyle events.
Lee MacDonald displays the form that made him Big Sky diving champ.

The UM ski team placed first in the Big Sky meet at Bozeman in the slalom, and second in the downhill competition. Grizzly skiers also competed at a conference meet at Ogden, sponsored by Weber State College, and at the Triple-I meet at Rossland, British Columbia.

BOWLING

Over the two year period ending in the spring of 1965, the UM bowlers won 20 of 22 matches. Among their victims during that time were the University of Utah, Brigham Young University, Idaho State University, Weber State College, and Utah State University and Montana State College; the latter schools are the only ones to defeat the Silvertip keglers since the beginning of their remarkable record.

The 1965 track and field season was a difficult one in the Northwest. The Montana Grizzlies were forced to cancel a meet with Weber State College in Missoula because of poor weather. A week later the weather at Pocatello, Idaho, was bad enough to cause a triangular meet between Idaho State, Weber, and the Grizzlies to be called off. The Silvertips lost to MSC in the rain at Bozeman, but bounced back to defeat a strong Idaho squad 74-71 on Dornblaster Field. The Montana track men wound up the year with a second-place finish at the Big Sky meet, scoring 106 points to Idaho State University's 131. The results of the BSC meet follow: Idaho State, 131; Montana, 106; Idaho, 96; Montana State, 54; Weber State, 54.

Cross Country

The Montana cross country team finished fifth in the conference meet. Fred Friesz added some lustre to a mediocre team performance by gaining third place in a field of dozens.

The Grizzlies had a chance to perform for campus fans when they defeated Weber State College here in a dual meet.

Star distance man Doug Brown, an All-America selection for his cross country running in 1964, could not compete last year because of a foot ailment.

The Grizzly baseball team combined tight fielding, timely hitting, and usually good pitching to produce a record of 16 wins and 11 losses. This was the best season for a Montana baseball squad since the 1956 team won 10 and lost 6 games. The Grizzlies placed fifth in the Big Sky Conference with 4 wins and eight losses in league play.

First baseman Frank Spear was selected to the all-conference first team. Pitcher Larry Oddy made the second team, while scrappy second baseman Dewey Allen and centerfielder Bob Vick received honorable mention. Vick led the Grizzlies in hitting with a .323 average. Allen paced the Tips in runs scored with 27, an average of one per game.

Don Waller was the first golfer in UM history to be invited to the National Collegiate Athletic Association golf championships. At the 1965 meet in Knoxville, Tennessee, Waller finished 66th in a field of over 200. He also played on the West team, which defeated the East squad.
The men's tennis team had a poor record of one win and seven losses. The future looks brighter, though, as Coach Brian Sharkey expects his top four players to return for the 1966 season.

John Alexander had the best record among the Grizzlies, winning 5 and losing 3.

The Silvertips' last-place finish in the Big Sky Conference was made easier to take by the performance of Mike Emerson in the singles competition. Emerson advanced to the finals of the meet before losing, and so finished second in his division.
The women's tennis team had little chance to show its ability in 1965. Two scheduled matches were cancelled by opposing teams. The ladies did demonstrate supremacy over the Gonzaga University women's team, defeating them 7-0 at Spokane. In the northwest District Competition at Everett, Washington, Jan Hoon was the consolation championship in the singles class, dropping only her first match. Kay deMers and Joni Schmiitner advanced to the semi-finals before being eliminated from doubles play.

Milwaukee to Missoula
To A Great Many Friends

Naseby Rhinehart is a part of Montana athletics. A native of Milwaukee, he played end on the city champion high school football teams there in 1928 and 1929. He starred for Grizzly football, basketball, and track teams from 1932 to 1935, winning three varsity letters in each sport. And he has been trainer for Montana squads ever since he graduated from UM. Naseby is also an instructor in the care and prevention of athletic injuries for the Department of Health and Physical Education.

His merit has not gone unnoticed over the years. He received Honorable Mention All-America recognition for his end play with the Grizzlies, and is in the UM Football Hall of Fame. Nase was awarded the Grizzly Cup in his senior year for outstanding sports participation, scholastic achievement, and loyalty to the University.

In 1956, on Naseby Rhinehart Night, some 300 former Grizzly athletes assembled in the Fieldhouse to honor him with gifts and speeches. He was nominated for the 1959 Sports Illustrated Silver Anniversary All-America football team. The next year, the Roy T. Rocene Sportsman of the Year Award went to the Montana trainer.

1964-65 was Naseby's thirtieth year as trainer at UM. During his time here, Nase has become the friend of coaches, players, and students. Of the many compliments that have been paid him, an excerpt from a telegram sent on the occasion of Rhinehart Night by former athletic director and head football coach Doug Fessenden is representative:

"His influence as a friend, confidant, and adviser has meant a great deal to Montana athletes for many years. He is certainly one of the fine gentlemen of college athletics."

He certainly is.

The University of Montana boasts a well-rounded intramural sports program. Students whose ability is eclipsed by their enthusiasm find the organized leagues welcome outlets for their excess energy.

Living groups and organizations enter teams in competition that sometimes becomes rather spirited, especially in contact sports. For those who forget that participation is the important thing, a corps of referees is recruited from the student body.

Games are well attended and usually worth watching. The action is rapid, if inexpert, and the better teams exhibit a precision that can come only as the result of long hours of practice together.
As the seasons pass, the size and shape of the ball changes, but interest remains high.

Basketball fans strain forward in the Men's Gym to see the shifting action below them.

A base runner scores in a joyous leap; a girl breaks into a grin at the baseball efforts of someone she knows.

Intramurals have something for everyone: those who like to play, and those who enjoy just watching.
The fraternity, Phi Delta Theta, won the 1964-65 Intramural Sports Championship. The Phi Delts won titles in basketball, swimming, volleyball, table tennis, horse shoes, track and baseball. Phi Delta tied with runner-up Sigma Nu for the football crown, with third-place Sigma Alpha Epsilon for the bowling championship, and with fourth-place Sigma Phi Epsilon for pool supremacy.

Sigma Nu reigned alone in golf and wrestling, and Sigma Chi took skiing honors. Theta Chi won the tennis championship.
Bill Rice was selected the outstanding U of M senior athlete for 1964-65. The six-foot, five-inch Rice, whose home is in Chadron, Nebraska, has won four letters in track and three in basketball.

Rice holds the state record of 46 feet, 6½ inches, in the triple-jump, and school record in the high jump with a 6 feet, 7¾ inch mark.

MISS UM PAGEANT

To the music of "Stranger in Paradise," twenty-six University of Montana coeds filed on to the University Theater stage. So began an evening of competition for U of M's most coveted crown. A theme of "Scheherazade" was the background for talent and beauty competition. Variety was added to beauty by Master of Ceremonies, Dan Witt, the Jubileers, Joyce Stecher, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lester, parents of the 1961 Miss MSU.

A happy Miss UM is applauded by fellow contestants.
The pageant was climaxed by the coronation of the 1965 Miss U of M, Carol Boetcher, by outgoing queen, Bonnie Beals. Miss Boetcher's attendants were: Jan Conley, first runner-up; Patcee Bradford, second runner-up; and Janita Smith, winner of the talent award.
Beds that convert into couches, spacious bookshelves above the beds, a sunken lounge, typing and music rooms are all incorporated as parts of UM’s newest men’s dormitory, Miller Hall. Now retired, Burley Miller has long been associated with the University and the history department.

Powers, UM journalism graduate who is a columnist and editorial writer for the Spokesman-Review. Also, four UM coeds were honored as outstanding women in their classes. Jan Comeaux, Faye Bourret, Mary Sullivan, and Sharron Lee were selected on the basis of scholarship and service to the University.

CHARTER DAY

The 72-year history of friction between MSC and UM must end if higher education in Montana is to advance, according to Leon Johnson, president of Montana State College. Mr. Johnson, speaking at ceremonies marking the 72nd anniversary of UM, said duplication and financial problems have existed between the two institutions since they were chartered in the 1893 legislature.

Politics, jazz, folk singing, ballads were available to students through concerts and lectures. “Doc” Severisen, assistant orchestra conductor for the “Tonight Show,” conducted a workshop and two concerts. Senator Lee Metcalf visited campus, and folk singers and balladeers such as Jacob Niles and the Christy Minstrels performed.

After presenting a flag to the Law School, Senator Lee Metcalf addresses an assemblage in the Music Recital Hall.
Every seat in the Music Recital Hall was filled, students sat in the aisles and beneath the stage and still more came. Finally, folding chairs were crowded on the stage until there was barely room for the slight, white-haired gentleman to make his way to the microphones. It was crowded, uncomfortable, and hot, yet the audience seemed to forget its discomfort as the 73-year-old balladeer, Jacob Niles, sang and played the music that has brought him fame for over 50 years. During the concert, Niles plucked one of the 30 dulcimers which he has tooled himself to accompany ballads such as "I Wonder As I Wander" and "Black Is the Color of My True Love's Hair," both of which he composed.
During winter quarter, members of the Paul Winter's Jazz Sextet displayed the concert jazz ability that has won them acclaim in 25 countries. The sextet proved the ability of jazz as a medium of cultural exchange during a six-month tour of Latin America for the State Department in 1962. As a result of the success of that tour, the group became the first jazz ensemble ever to play in the White House. The sextet was sponsored at UM by the Student Union Cultural Committee.

After a concert in the University Theater, the Paul Winter's Jazz Sextet visited with students at a reception in the Lodge.

The Christy Minstrels drew a large crowd at the UM Field House.
The Christy Minstrels, originating from a group started by Edward P. Christy in 1842, were engaged for an evening's entertainment at UM. This new version of the Christy Minstrels got its start in 1961 when Randy Sparks expanded his trio. Since that time, the group has attained widespread fame, with its biggest stepping stone being a performance for world dignitaries at a presidential dinner. Its popularity has spread through Europe and in the near future the Minstrels will make a State Department sponsored tour of the USSR.

The Grizzly Rodeo Club was host of a rodeo which featured students from ten other colleges in men’s, women’s and novice events. Brigham Young University easily captured first place in the men’s events while the women of Montana State College had little trouble controlling their division.

Chosen queen of UM’s seventh annual Intercollegiate Rodeo was Jill Webster, a Missoula freshman in history, who acquired her title in riding, personality, and beauty competition. Announcing the events was Don Harrington of Butte with Bill Lawrence and Marty Backstrom as judges. Official timers were Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Backstrom.

The Charlie Brown campaign drew much attention but few votes.

ELECTIONS

The Charlie Brown campaign, which included a hootenanny on the steps of Main Hall, was a protest against apathy and inefficiency in student government.

Speeches, pictures, posters, and hootenannies were all part of the ASUM election which resulted in the selection of John Ross for the campus's prize political post. In an election that was marked by light voting, the returns were close in many races.

BLOOD DRIVE

The University of Montana emerged the victor in the bloodiest of all battles between Missoula and arch rival Bozeman. UM received the traveling trophy for donating the most blood during the semi-annual Red Cross Blood Drive.

LEADERSHIP

CAMP

The planned expansion of the University of Montana graduate school and its probable effects were the topics of speeches and question-answer periods during Leadership Camp on Flathead Lake. Students representing all campus organizations and living groups participated in the three-day study and relaxation retreat.

Although an ability to swim is no longer required for graduation, it is recommended for Leadership Camp.
SPRING IS SPRUNG...
Yes, spring arrived at UM with all of her usual traditions as well as a few new attractions.

Sunbathers were out at the first sight of blue sky, but the weather was very uncooperative; once again students were called upon to display their skill at avoiding sprinklers and found that the surest way was to walk on the grass, avoiding the sidewalks on all possible occasions; the maintenance department sprayed and raked and clipped and cut in an effort to retain the fast-changing campus's traditional beauty.

But unlike other springs, this one brought to UM skateboards and boomerangs. Also, spring brought to the Student Health Service students with breaks and sprains who found they could not master such skills.

GRADUATION—1965

Dr. Frank Abbott, UM academic vice president, visits with parents at a reception prior to the commencement dinner at which he delivered an address.
As has been done for the last 40 years, seniors assembled at Main Hall on Friday morning and marched in a group to the University Theater for the awards convocation, better known as “Senior Swing Out.” So began the busiest week-end of a senior’s college career—graduation.

Saturday afternoon, Dornblaser Field was the sight of military ceremonies in which thirty-five ROTC cadets, including nine distinguished military graduates, were commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army and Air Force.

That evening, a reception in the Lodge for the seniors, their parents, and members of the faculty was followed by a commencement dinner.

Later in the evening, seniors attended their final Singing On the Steps where the Robert Sibby Award was presented to the outstanding senior man, Dale Schwanke. Senior women were honored by their underclass coeds in the AWS Lantern Parade after the SOS.

Finally, at 2 p.m. on June 6, commencement ceremonies began in the Field House. The 1965 class was the first to be graduated on Sunday; it was the last class to receive diplomas bearing the “MSU” title.

FACULTY INDEX
From The Editor’s Desk:

Throughout the year, as the 1965 Sentinel staff has worked together to compile this book, one we hope you will enjoy in twenty years as well as today, I have kept the following quote in my desk to glance at when the going got tough. And now before you place this yearbook on the shelf to collect dust, let me share these words with you:

“If I were to try to read, much less answer, all the attacks made on me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the very best I know how—the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won’t amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference.

Abraham Lincoln
Make no little plans; they have no magic to stir men's blood and probably themselves will not be realized. Make big plans: aim high in hope and work, remembering that a noble, logical diagram once recorded will never die, but long after we are gone will be a living thing, asserting itself with ever-growing insistency. Remember that our sons and grandsons are going to do things that would stagger us.
